MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR MINISTER WHO DIED WHILE ATTENDING CONFERENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 4.—After a brief devotional service this morning opening the session of the New England southern conference, announcement was made of the sudden death Thursday night of Rev. L. B. Codding, of Cochesett, Mass., a retired minister attending the conference. He died at the hospital after being stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage at the home of Rev. Charles S. Spaulding.

In view of the fact that it was considered inconvenient to the family to have the funeral services here, it was voted to make the order of the day at 10:30 this morning a memorial service to Mr. Codding.

Rev. Edward E. Wells, superintendent of the Providence district, presented his report.

The names of the retired ministers were called and the privilege of speaking was accorded to any of these present who cared to do so. The following are the names as approved and continued: J. B. Ackley, O. Acquarone, J. B. Aldrich, E. J. Ayres, F. C. Baker, E. C. Bass, James Biram, R. E. Bisbee, F. L. Brooks, A. M. Bruce, J. H. Buckey, J. F. Cooper, W. H. Dunnack, R. D. Dyson, G. A. Grant, A. E. Hall, W. E. Kugler, W. A. Luce, John Pearce, H. D. Robinson, W. J. Smith, F. H. Spear, D. C. Thatcher, Thomas Tyrie, W. I. Ward, J. A. Wood, W. D. Woodward.

Mrs. Robert Bitgood, of New London, spoke for the Woman's Home Missionary society and Miss Hannah A. Solomon, superintendent of the Providence Deaconess home, spoke representing the work of that home.

Memorial Service

At 10:30, the order of the day was taken up and a memorial service for the Rev. Mr. Codding was held. Rev. W. I. Ward, chairman of the committee on memoirs, officiated. The hymn, "There Is a Land of Pure Delight," was sung. Mr. Ward read appropriate Scripture selections and delivered a brief eulogy. The hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was sung and Mr. Ward offered prayer.

Place For Next Conference

The question, Where shall the next conference be held? was taken up and there being no invitation presented, the matter was referred to the district superintendents. Rev. W. I. Ward was chosen as trustee of Boston university for three years and Rev. R. L. Roberts and Rev. E. E. Wells trustees of East Greenwich academy. Mrs. Kate M. Cooper, who has served as pastor at Nantucket the past nine years and who is critically ill with the probability that she will never be able to do any more work, was referred to and the conditions explained whereupon a public subscription was taken for her assistance.

The Laymen's association met at 10 o'clock. H. L. Chipman, of Sandwich, Mass., as president, opened the meeting and Edward M. Wheeler of Providence was chosen as secretary pro tem. The meeting adjourned till 2 p. m. and the laymen met in joint session with the ministers at 11:30.

Bishop Leete spoke on the "Indwelling Spirit." His address was of the same fervent and earnest quality which characterizes his addresses.

A picture of the conference was taken as the people assembled in front of the church at 1 p. m., the camera being operated by a local photographer. The dinners and suppers are being served in the Second Congregational church by the ladies of the Methodist church.

Missionary Anniversaries

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society held its anniversary at 2 p. m. Miss Clemintina Butler, returned missionary from Mexico, was the speaker. The Woman's Home Missionary society held its anniversary at 3 p. m. Mrs. Jonathan Cartmill was the speaker. Mrs. Cartmill is the wife of the Rev. Jonatham Cartmill of the New England conference and a sister of Rev. Edson Leach of the same conference.

Baby Daughter Baptized

At the close of the afternoon service, Isabel Ruth, infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Pennepacker, of Niantic, Conn., was presented by her parents for baptism and Rev. Dr. G. E. Spaulding, pastor of the New London church, officiated, using the impressive ritual of the church.

Had Connecticut Pastorates

Rev. Lewis B. Codding, whose death occurred at Lawrence Memorial hospital during the night, was one of the older members of the conference, which he joined in 1883. His appointments have included the following: Orleans, Mass., Osterville and Centerville, Mass., North Easton, Mass., Providence, Harris avenue; Waterville, Maine, Pascoag, R. I., Thompsonville, Conn., Mystic and Noank, North Grosvenordale, Woonsocket, R. I., Bridgewater, Mass., Brockton, Mass., Pearl street, and Cochesett, Mass. Since 1926, he has been retired. He was seemingly in good health when he came to conference. Wednesday night he suffered a slight shock but on Thursday it was hoped he would rally, but this was a vain hope.

Banquet In Evening

The educational banquet was held at 6 in the evening in the Mohican hotel ballroom with Rev. L. C. Harris of New Bedford, Mass., as toastmaster, and Rev. A. T. Schuimaier, headmaster, of East Greenwich academy, as the first speaker. He predicted good prospects for the school.

Dr. H. H. Meyer, the new dean of Boston university school of religious education, was the next speaker, his subject being "Religion and Education in the Modern World."

Rev. Dr. F. W. Adams, recent pastor of Trinity church, Springfield, and now professor-elect in Boston university school of theology, was the final speaker and his subject was "The Expanding Boston University."

At 8 o'clock, the U. S. Coast guard band, H. O. Jenks, bandmaster, gave a concert for a half hour at the Methodist church and at 8:30, occurred the anniversary of the board of hospitals and homes and deaconess work. Dr. Robert L. Roberts presided. Miss B. Marion Hope, superintedent of the Fall River Deaconess home, spoke of the deaconess work of this conference as centered in the homes at Providence, Pawtucket and Fall River. Dr. Albert Mann, professor at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Illinois, and president of the board of hospitals, homes, etc., was the principal speaker.

Conference Notes

Rev. F. L. Streeter, of East Braintree, Mass., was excused to return to his home on account of a matter in his parish. Mr. Streeter will be remembered in Norwich as the last pastor assigned to the former Sachem street church previous to the merger in 1895, which produced Trinity church.

Among the ministers who are seeking retirement this year are Rev. Charles Smith, whose wife recently passed away in the Uncasville parsonage and who has served that charge eight years; Rev. W. T. Carter, pastor for the past three years at Chatham, Mass.; and Rev. Jerome Greer, pastor at Gales Ferry, the past three years.

Rev. Oscar J. Aldrich is to move from South street, Brockton, and it is probable now that he will be appointed to First church, Pawtucket, R. I., which church, it is understood, has invited him. Mr. Aldrich served the church at Stafford Springs, 1916 to '21.

It appears that Bishop Leete is not in favor of any changes in the apostles' creed or in the Lord's prayer. This came out in a reference to people in this age who occasionally break out with some change which they desire. Said the bishop: "These are among the few things left which all Christians can have in common. A little tinkering with these things and they will leave nothing which we can say together."

Breed Theatre

The family meant well. But all its good intentions didn't keep it from almost wrecking the romance of beautiful daughter Louise and Dick Grant rising young banker.

That is the gist of the situation which confronts the principals in "Harmony At Home," all talking saga of American home life produced by Fox Movietone and based upon the successful stage play by Harry Delf, "The Family Upstairs."

Directed by Hamilton McFadden, brilliant young recruit to motion pictures from the New York theatre, "Harmony At Home," which opens tomorrow night at the Breed theatre, constitutes a vivid portrayal of life.

Louise Haller is played by winsome Marguerite Churchill, while Dick Grant finds perfect characterization in the performance of Rex Bell. CITIZENS COMMITTEE TO CO-OPERATE IN HANDLING NATIONAL TEN MILE RUN

With Mayor Lee Roy Robbins appointed honorary chairman and First Selectman William S. Murray, as general chairman, the following general committee and officers on the national 10-mile run, which will be staged here on May 30 will work in cooperation with the Duwell Athletic club members in making this national sporting event outstanding in the annals of Norwich: Patrick F. Sweeney, treasurer; James Pedace, secretary; William J. Fitzgerald, Herbert M. Lerou, Charles W. Cassidy, Lawrence E. Millea, James P. Sheridan, Daniel Polsky, Charles Colt, Henry E. Congdon, Joseph Pysick, Frank [illegible] Green, Rudolph Henschel, Harold T. Robinson, Weston C. Pullen, John H. Wilson, Earl Mathewson, Joseph C. Worth, Frederick J. Ortman, Eben Learned, Jr., Dr. Charles Solomon, Edward G. McKay and Edmund W. Perkins.

This committee met Friday afternoon in the chamber of commerce rooms with President Frank R. Murdy of the chamber presiding. At the conclusion of explaining to those in attendance that the purpose of the meeting was to organize a general committee which would work with the Duwell's in putting over the coming event, President Murdy advised the meeting was open for general discussion and Mr. Pedace of the Duwell Athletic club would answer any questions relative to the preparation and handling of an event of the proportions of the national run. After a general discussion the officers named were elected, who together with other local men would constitute the general committee. The functions of the general committee will be to devise ways and means whereby the matters of finance, advertising, tickets, etc., will be handled, thereby enabling the Duwell membership to give all the necessary time to the actual staging of the run. The meeting authorized General Chairman Murray to appoint the necessary committees to carry out the several phases of the duties assigned to the general committee.

With success in this matter, this event will be carried on under circumstances that will lend itself to record running and will make possible a brilliant and colorful spectacle for the large crowds of spectators who will want to witness Connecticut's leading sporting event of the season.

SAYS JESUS LOOKED FOR THE GOOD IN MEN

The fifth of the noon Lenten series of services was held Friday at the Y. M. C. A., and as usual the men attending were intensely interested. C. Edward Smith presided. The hymns used were "How Firm a Foundation" and "He Leadeth Me." Rev. G. F. Bailey offered the prayer. Louis Mell officiated at the piano.

The topic of the talk was "Jesus and the Soldiers," and in his unique way, Dr. Danforth held the closest attention of his audience, as he spoke in part as follows:

Today we come to what the Master said about a soldier. In a pile of stones which mark where Capernaum once stood is one stone on which is a carving of a branch of a vine with a cluster of grapes. It was over the door of a synagogue long ago. A Roman soldier had built that house of prayer to show his love for the nation and his gratitude for what they had taught him about God. This man sent to Christ to ask Him to heal a member of his household, and he asked him to say only the word and the gracious act of healing would be accomplished. Of him the Christ said he had seen no such faith, no, not in Israel.

Another soldier said of him on Calvary that he was the Son of God. And later Saint Peter had a vision which bade him go to the home of another Roman captain. God had gone into that home already, why should not the apostle go? And when the great apostle of the Gentiles was a prisoner, both on ship and ashore, he was the recipient of many acts of kindness at the hands of Roman soldiers.

Lately we have been having the brutality and worst of the military life served up to us in literature and drama. And there was enough of that, too, in the time of Christ. But we do not find Him taking men at their worst, but at their best. That was because He, himself, was the best of all, and it was the good in men for which He was ever looking, and finding it. Our own sense of justice and the good in all of us will lead us to do the same thing.

Instead of always denouncing the evil and investigating the bad we shall turn to the discovery of good and appreciation of excellence. This is not only charity, it is also justice, and part of the great work of Christ in the world and in us. It is not blindness, but vision. One sees what is there, but one sees it all. Some are always looking for spots and stains; and others for the finger prints of God. Satan was the accuser; Christ the advocate. One denounces; the other defends. Thank God that we have such a defender!

NEWTON CENTER PASTOR CLOSES SERMON SERIES

Rev. Charles N. Arbuckle, D. D., of Newton Center, Mass., brought to a close Friday evening at the Central Baptist church, his week's series of addresses under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. and the churches of Norwich. Herbert B. Cary, president of the Y. M. C. A., was the leader of the service in which Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey and Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., participated.

Rev. Dr. Arbuckle preached on the topic, The Forgiveness of God and the Forgiveness of Sin. He based his sermon on the parable of the prodigal son. There would have been no parable, if the young man had not said I have sinned, declared Rev. Dr. Arbuckle. There can be no forgiveness if there is no admission of sin. The prodigal son came home because he came to himself. He came to a great spiritual self. It is a terrible thing to sin but it is a tragedy to deny it. One may not worry about one's sins but someone is worrying about them. Sin has to be worried about.

Forgiveness is not being let off from the penalty of sin. The things we do leave their marks. There were some penalties the prodigal son had to suffer. Forgiveness is something bigger and better than being let off from the penalty. Forgiveness is concerned with the future, it means re-instatement. You can't forgive a person until he wants forgiveness. It takes two to bring about forgiveness, the giver and the receiver.

STOP CONSTIPATION AT THE START

You May Pay If You Don't

When you realize that about 90% of all sickness begins with constipation, you won't want to take chances. If you have the symptoms — bad breath, coated tongue, always tired —put a stop to them now!

But do it the natural way. Not with pills and drugs, which give but temporary relief and must be taken in increasing doses. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—an appetizing deliciously flavored cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the system clean of wastes and impurities. Its action is natural; the roughage carries with it the poisons which clog your system.

In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research shows that nearly all this iron goes into the blood, making it give the rich glow of healthy color.

You'll like ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Physicians recommend it. And we guarantee it to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily — with every meal, in recurring cases.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PROHIBITION TO HAVE RIGHT OF WAY IN SENATE THIS WEEK

Drys Are Eager to Vote On Senator Blaine's Resolution Proposing Repeal of the 18th Amendment—Defeat of the Measure Is Conceded—Leaders Are Hopeful of Voting to Transfer Enforcement From the Treasury to the Justice Department—Senator Brookhart, Dry, Will Open Discussion of Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—(AP)—Prohibition gets its long awaited consideration in the dry-dominated senate this week and leaders were hopeful today of getting action on the house measure to transfer enforcement from the treasury to the justice department.

Attorney General Mitchell goes before the senate judiciary committee tomorrow to give his views on the Norris resolution providing for a senate inquiry of dry enforcement. Committee members were ready to ask Mr. Mitchell also about his plans for enforcement if the transfer bill becomes law.

Ready to give prohibition the right of way in the senate, Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader, was busy today trying to arrange to get the transfer bill out of the judiciary committee. However, Chairman Norris of the committee said the sub-committee considering the bill had not made a report and he was not hopeful of committee action on it tomorrow.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, a republican dry, is prepared to open the wet and dry discussion in the senate with a reply to the speech of Senator Tydings of Maryland, democratic wet, who cited a mass of statistics in his contention that the prohibition law had failed to prohibit.

Senate drys also have given notice that they are willing to vote on the resolution of Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, proposing repeal of the 18th amendment, but the Wisconsin senator's resolution is still before the judiciary committee, too. He has said, however, he will bring it up in the senate. No chance whatever is conceded this resolution.

Preliminary to the appearance of Attorney General Mitchell, the department of justice made public today a table comparing the number of prohibition prosecutions in the federal courts during the last six months of 1929 with those during the same period in 1928. It showed a decrease.

In the last six months of 1929 when the Jones law providing increased penalties was in full effect, 26,811 prohibition cases were instituted by the government, compared with 27,575 for the same period in 1928 before the Jones law became operative.

Despite the decrease in prosecutions, there was a slight increase in convictions and pleas of guilty. The total of fines was $3,379,448 for the 1929 period compared with $3,222,146 for 1928. The convictions and pleas of guilty for 1929 were 24,213 against 23,683 for 1928.

The department offered no comment on the statistics which showed little difference in the amount of fines under the operation of the Jones law. The southern and northern districts of New York showed the greatest decreases in the number of prohibition cases last year over 1928. However, the western district of New York showed one of the greatest increases.

In the New York southern district there were 4,205 cases instituted in the 1928 period compared with 1,650 in 1929; in northern New York there were 1,328 compared with 452 the following year; in western New York there were 513 cases in 1928 and 1,161 in 1929.

The eastern district of Michigan, including the city of Detroit, reported the largest amount of fines for the last six months of 1929, a total of $478,550. This is a greater amount than the combined totals of the fines in the four New York districts, amounting to $375,757.

Over in the house, the judiciary committee expects to reach a decision on Wednesday on the Hoover law enforcement commission's legislative program. Only one of these bills, providing for absentee service on speakeasoes in injunction proceedings has been approved.

Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, in a statement today, asserted that the bill to authorize state officers to seize automobiles transporting liquor in violation of the dry law would place 70,000 "irresponsible state officers in service of the federal government, including governors, state treasurers and all other law officers."

"If they committed murder in the performance," LaGuardia said, "it would be up to the federal district attorney to defend them. The proposal of the law enforcement commission should never be enacted, and I don't believe it will."

Congressional leaders believe there is prospect for final enactment of only one of the prohibition bills—that providing for transfer of the enforcement from the treasury to the justice department.

STATEMENT ABOUT THE DEATH OF BASIL MILES

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—Mrs. Wells Root of Paris, Boston and Washington, who is wintering here, said tonight that she had made a statement to department of justice agents concerning the death of Basil Miles, diplomat and former husband of Mrs. H. H. Rogers, which is under investigation of capital police.

Mrs. Root said she long had been a friend of Mrs. Rogers, wife of the Standard Oil millionaire, and that before the death of Miles she was in Washington.

"In fact," Mrs. Root said, "when Mr. Miles died in 1928, Mrs. Rogers, then Mrs. Miles, and I were the only persons in the hospital room."

The woman said the story of James Hicks, Negro valet to Mr. Miles, that he was in the room and that Miles was given a "highball" shortly before his sudden death was incorrect.

"I have stated to the agent of the department of justice, a Mr. Emmet Daly, I believe, that the story widely printed that Mr. Miles was given a highball a few moments before he 'mysteriously' died in the Washington hospital two years ago is preposterous," she declared.

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—Capt. Frank M. Hawks completed his transcontinental flight in a glider towed by an airplane at 4.16 p. m. today. The noted aviator cut loose from the airplane and glided to earth on the parade ground at Van Cortlandt park in the Bronx.

The holder of the transcontinental speed record completed tha feat, which was without parellel in aviation, with a beautiful landing. He cut the tow rope at an altitude of about 4,500 feet, circled the field several times and settled gently to earth, while photographers and a huge crowd gathered about the glider.

Hawks sat smiling in a glass-enclosed cockpit while the photographers made pictures. He then left the glider to be congratulated by a reception committee while the crowd cheered.

On his flight today from Bufalo, N. Y., he was delayed by rainy weather. He stopped en route at Albany, N. Y., for the purpose of refueling the tow plane.

A short time later the aerial tugboat that had towed the glider "Eaglet" all the way from the Pacific coast, landed at Newark, N. J., airport. There its pilot, J. D. "Duke" Jernigan, Jr., also received an ovation.

Hawks' long tour started last Sunday at San Diego, Calif. He made many stops en route.

His landing here was almost an hour behind the announced schedule. The result was that several planes of an aerial escort which had planned to meet him were not in the air. Planes carrying army officers and department of commerce inspectors had returned to Roosevelt and Mitchel fields a short time before after a vain search of the air.

Three Men Wounded In Hold-Up Attempt

A Detective, a Drug Clerk and One of the Bandits Were Shot In Brooklyn Drug Store.

NEW YORK, April 6.—(AP)—A detective, a drug clerk, an alleged holdup man and a "man who knew too much," were wounded early today as the result of an unsuccessful attempt by six men armed with revolvers and sawed-off shotguns to hold up a Brooklyn drug store.

The five other holdup men escaped with the aid of an automobile after a running gun battle through the lower East Side in which two carloads of policemen vainly tried to capture them.

The shooting started when Detective Paul Higgins walked into Harry Cohen's drug store and found the clerk, Israel Finkle, 30, and a patron lined up against a wall by the holdup men. In the battle which followed Higgins was shot in the leg and thigh, Finkle in the stomach and Frand Diana, 25, an ex-convict alleged to have been a member of the bandit gang was wounded in the head.

Two hours later Charles Fava, 35, a bartender, was shot with a sawed off shotgun in a hallway in lower Manhattan. Police said that the five holdup men tried to kill him after they had vainly urged him to go into hiding. They feared, detectives said, that he would "squeal" if police got him.

Doctors said that the conditions of Diana, Finkle and Fava were critical. The detective's wound was not serious. Diana and Fava were charged with assault and robbery.

Later, after questioning Fava at the hospital, police said he admitted hiring the automobile used in the attempted holdup.

Three hours after Fava was found shot two detectives saw a sedan bearing five men traveling through the lower East Side. They started to follow in a police car, whereupon a shotgun was thurst through the rear window of the sedan and a running battle began.

Another police car joined the chase and patrolmen on foot fired on the machine as it sped past. Finally the five men leaped from their car.

The shooting occurred, police said, after Amanda Borghi jumped from the speaker's platform and dashed through the crowd of 1,500, shouting in Italian, "Stop the police."

Detective Thomas Lillienthal ran after Borghi. The crowd interfered with the detective, knocked him down, and one man hit him with a blackjack. Lillienthal drew a gun and fired once. The bullet apparently glanced across the chest of Salvatore Velluci, 31, of Brooklyn, and struck an unidentified man in the abdomen. The latter man died in the hospital.

Velluci's wound was superficial and the detective was treated for minor injuries.

MADE FULL CONFESSION OF MURDER OF N. E. ANDERSON

Henry O. Lorenz of Hartford Told of the Slaying of Hartford Mechanic—Motive For the Murder Was Anderson's Attempt to Collect a $300 Loan—The Slayer Now Is In Custody of Immigration Authorities At Niagara—Will Be Brought to Hartford Today.

TARTFORD, April 6.—(AP)—Henry O. Lorenz, 25, of this city, today made a complete confession of the murder of Nils E. Anderson, 28 years old mechanic, to County Detective Edward J. Hickey in Niagara Falls, N. Y., State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn announced tonight.

Lorenz, who was arrested in Windsor, Ont., late Saturday, after being traced through a telegram he sent ot a friend here, was brought back over the American line by Connecticut officers and held in the custody of immigration authorities at Niagara until tomorrow, when he will be brought on to Hartford.

Lorenz, according to the information received by Mr. Alcorn, confessed that the motive involved Anderson's attempt to collect a $300 loan and that he made an appointment with Anderson last Monday night, ostensibly to repay the money. He induced Anderson to accompany him in his automobile to the town of Wethersfield, south of here, where he said another man had agreed to let him have the money. There he stopped in front of a house and pretended to go inside, coming out a little later and telling Anderson he would give him the money when they got back to Hartford.

After driving for 250 feet along arden street, however, according to Lorenz's confession, he stopped the car, pretending that he heard a rattle in the rumble seat. Both got out and while they were at the rear of the machine, Lorenz said, he fired a bullet into the back of Anderson's head. This shot passed out through the forehead and shattered the rear glas and became imbedded in the car, where it was found Friday by Niagara Falls police after Lorenz had abandoned the machine there.

Lorenz then said that he put Anderson's body into the rumble seat and drove on but found that the slain man's head prortuded so he jammed the body down into the rear compartment and closed the cover. He then used his own overcoat to mop up the blood and continued to the river bank, where he left the body. He was unable to explain how two reeds came to be found in the form of an inverted cross in Anderson's nostrils and officials were of the opinion that the entrance of these was accidental, possibly caused when the body was dragged across the field where it wa sdiscovered.

Lorenzo said he went home and changed his clothes and then went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. August J. Benson, of West Hartford, where Anderson was expected to appear with the $300 to give Mrs. Benson, his sister, for payment on a mortgage note. Lorenz had been friendly with the family for two years and paid court to the 18 year old daughter, Miss Elisabeth Benson.

MR. AND MRS. A. H. FOOTE MARRIED FORTY-NINE YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, April 6.—A happy family dinner party was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harrison Foote on Amston avenue in recognition of the 49th anniversary of their marriage. During the day, a large number of local and out-of-town friends and relatives called to offer congratulations. Among the dinner guests was their eldest son, Frank Foote of New Haven, and his fiancee, Miss Dorothy Lowe, of Ansonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Foote are among the town's best-known residents. Mrs. Foote was born in Andover, Nov. 26, 1861, the daughter of Ferdinand and Emma Payson. When she was eight years old her parents moved to Willimantic and a few years later to Turnerville, Conn. Her education was received in the Willimantic and Hebron schools.

Mr. Foote was born Jan. 1, 1858, in the Foote homestead on the Amston road, the son of Albert and Mary Chase Foote. He attended Unionville district schools. The greater part of his life has been spent as a farmer, he being a life-long resident of Colchester, still residing in the house in which he was born. Mr. Foote has filled a number of town offices in past years. He was Colchester's representative to the state legislature in 1931, is now a member of the town board of assessors and has served on the board for five different terms in past years. FIRE NEAR SCOTT HILL CHECKED WITH DIFFICULTY

A large tract of brush and timberland in the Scott Hill section was burned over Friday afternoon and evening. The blaze was discovered by the Storrs college observatory watchman about 2 p. m., and District Warden John M. Riley of Colchester hurried to the hill and was assisted in directing operations by District Warden Lathrop of Bozrah, Deputy Wardens Bishop and Lathrop of Bozrah, District Warden Lathrop of Montville, Deputy Beetham of Norwich, Deputy William T. Curry of Lebanon and Deputies C. A. and C. F. Kramer of Colchester. A force of over 40 volunteers worked frantically to conquer the fast-spreading flames. When help arrived the Kinney barn, opposite the old Scott Hill meeting house, was a mass of blazing ruins. The strong wind was fast carrying the fire eastward through the dry grass toward the Sam Perkins house and the Peter Krep place. The men succeeded in checking the blaze in the dooryards of both places, thus saving the two houses. In the meantime, the blaze was working southward toward Gardner lake and was finally checked, after a hard fight. The Yantic pumper with volunteers from Yantic and Fitchville, was run up to the fire but could not be used, due to insufficient supply of water. Hand forest fire pumps were used to good advantage. Due to the heavy winds, a force of volunteers patrolled the section until the early hours of Saturday, to make sure of no fresh outbreak. Saturday afternoon, some burning stumps caused the fire to break out anew and Warden Riley of Colchester dispatched Deputy Warden C. F. Kramer with a gang of men to dispose of these. Three men patrolled the section all Saturday night to make sure of no fresh outbreaks. The blaze, which is understood to have started near the old Peter Lappie place, not far from the old Scott Hill meeting house, burned over a tract of brush and timberland about two miles long and a mile wide. Warden Riley states that it was the most destructive forest fire in this vicinity for many years. He has not yet made a definite check-up as to the large amount of damage done.

A fire which started near Babcock's pond in the Westchester section, Thursday evening, swept northward toward Kate Corners, burning over about a hundred acres of brush and timberland. Fire Warden John Newton Phelps of the Westchester district, assisted by Deputy Warden Elmer H. Foote of Colchester, had about a dozen volunteers at work throughout the evening checking the spdeading flames.

About 10:30 a. m., Saturday, a call was received by District Warden Riley from the Storrs lookout station, giving notice of a forest fire in the vicinity of Williams' pond. Deputy Warden Foote in turn got in touch with the district warden in Lebanon. District Wardens Hoxie and Curry of Lebanon soon arrived with the state pumper. A large force of volunteers from Hebron, Lebanon and Colchester was hard at work throughout the afternoon and at 5 p. m. the fire had been extinguished.

At 5 p. m., Saturday, Deputy Warden Dean, with men, reported to the northern part of town to fight a fire in the town woods. After a two-hour fight the flames were conquered, only minor damage being done. In the meantime a call was received by District Warden Riley for a forest fire near the south end of Hayward pond, but as this was in the town of Salem, Warden Riley notified the Salem authorities.

Another brush fire, started in spite of high winds and carelessly tended, burned over a large area in the Pine street section, Tuesday afternoon. The fire started in the rear of what is known as the Amasa Hunt place, now owned by Mr. Ambrose and spread rapidly, fanned by the gale. The fire warden sent out calls for help, the fire call of 10 rings being given on the town telephone lines. Owing to the fact that a brook ran on one side of the fire and the road some little distance on the other side, it was possible to control the fire in these two directions and sufficient help after several hours' struggle subdued the fire after considerable brushland was burned over, the blaze being kept from the thick woods of that vicinity. At one time it was feared that some of the buildings on Pine street were in danger. Miss Dorothy Tenney spent the week end with Sarah Mathews in Willington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver at Manchester.

Andre Schenker, instructor in history at Storrs college was speaker and Joseph Cleiloca soloist, Sunday, April 6, at Coventry.

As far as can be learned, Rhea Bray, motorcycle officer of Hutchinson, Kan., is the only policeman who ever chased himself as a bandit. He had stopped a car late at night and had quizzed the occupants. A pedestrian concluded it was a holdup and telephoned the police. As fast as the officers called in they were sent on the bandit chase. Finally Bray returned to the station and the desk sergeant ordered him into the manhunt. Police raced up and down the streets. Eventually they compared notes and saw a great light.

DANIELSON

OFFICERS FROM LOCAL BARRACKS IN ROCKVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 6.—Five state officers from the Danielson barracks were in Rockville Saturday night to assist officers from the Hartford barracks in conducting liquor raids at a number of places in that vicinity. The local officers were engaged in a concentrated effort to clean up Rockville, where evidence of illegal liquor selling has been under investigation for some time. Danielson state officers had returned here for duty today.

Being "good" in a dangerous way to his ten-year-old brother, by allowing him to operate the automobile, H. Arnold Chappell of Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested Saturday afternoon by State Officer George Martin. Chappell was immediately taken to court and fined $1 and costs by Judge W. Fenner Woodward. This arrest directs attention to the fact that numbers of boys have been observed driving cars hereabouts recently, contrary to law, on account of their tender years. And in most cases such violations were in cars believed to be uninsured, meaning anything that might happen to them and to other cars with which they might be in collision would mean no chance of collecting damages.

Mrs. Mary Weaver Ream Arrested

Mary Weaver Ream, divorced wife of Louis Ream, son of the late Thompson multi-millionaire, Nelson B. Ream, will make a court appearance in Pomfret for operating a motor vehicle without a license. Prior to her marriage, a few years ago, she was a resident of the town of Brooklyn. She was ordered into court when accosted in Pomfret by a state officer whose attention was attracted to her by the manner in which she was operating her car, without regard to others using the highway.

Real estate: 7-room cottage house, electricity, city water, barn, 3-car garage, plot of land, fruit trees, hennery, 10 minutes from postoffice; price attractive. For quick sale, see J. C. Witter, 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn.—adv.

Whether or not the town of Killingly should buy trucks for use on town road work continued over the week end to be a matter of debate. The proposal was as seriously opposed as it was enthusiastically advocated. Those who believe the town can save money by owning and operating its own trucks do not include numbers of men who have owned trucks and know about the cost of upkeep and operation, especially trucks that are in use only part time. It is anticipated that the matter will be decided at a coming special town meeting.

Lack of sufficient and normal amount of rain during the past fortnight has set up a dangerous situation, as to fires, throughout the surrounding country side. Fields are as dry as tinder and brooks are running at levels that one is accustomed to associate with the mid-summer season. There was promise of rain tonight.

At the week end a proposal was heard that a committee of business men be asked to give their time to a canvass of the smaller silk industries of New Jersey with a view to having some of them locate in this town, where some small factories are available for use. The attractiveness relative to change of location lies in the fact that this territory is free of labor troubles, the bane of many New Jersey silk centers, and that the overhead is much less here than in the area mentioned.

The monthly report covering the professional activities of Miss Miriam Hoomhower, nurse for the Civic federation, shows that during March she made 130 nursing visits and eight advisory visits. Medical patients numbered 20, surgical patients two. Social service visits numbered 23. There were three tuberculosis patients. Eight new cases developed during the month, and during the same period eight patients were discharged from care. The number of free patients numbered 14, while 11 patients paid something toward the care they received. There were 15 patients under care at the end of March, during which period two of those who had been given attention died. Relief given during the month included presentation of 43 garments, four pairs of shoes, two hats, magazines, old linen and clothing. Donors were Mrs. E. T. Tillinghast, Mrs. Joseph Gaylord, Mrs. A. P. Burns, Mrs. John McFarland and Del Pesco.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Henry Gilbert will have the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church at her home on Broad street for a meeting.

Danielson was ringed about at the week end by grass and brush fires that swept over many acres of land in territory within a few miles of this place. While much land was burned over, there were no reports today of any of these fires doing damage of a serious nature.

It is understood that a petition is to be filed with the borough asking that sidewalks be built through School street, in the central section of Danielson, under the arrangement that the borough makes with property owners in constructing such walks.

Horace E. Melvin, resident here a number of years ago, now of Plymouth, Mass., was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

Members of Killingly grange will observe the founding of the organization when they meet Monday evening. Walter G. Bruce, lecturer, will be in charge of the program. All past masters of Killingly grange are expected to attend this meeting. After the formal business of the evening is concluded, a dance orchestra is to play.

Something that was due in the natural course of events has happened: business is better. Saturday was a good day for the average firm doing business here. Months have elapsed since there has been such a general agreement as to this.

Mrs. Louis Hilton and daughter, Grace, have gone to Boston, to remain for several weeks.

Borough police made no arrests over the week end. There were numbers of things they checked up, but nothing calling for the jailing of anyone.

This day many people of the Methodist Episcopal church of Danielson were at New London, it being Conference Sunday, incident to the meeting of the Southern New England conference of the denomination in that place.

Suckers are running large and numerously in the Quinebaug river, and whether you like this sort of fish or not it is a matter of interest that in homes where things are not so good, as to money income, a big, clean sucker is welcomed these days as a gift of spring cutting down the cost of the food account.

With that persistence that wins commendation in numbers of fields, they're still peddling an exotic brand of religious literature about town, especially on Sundays. Court cases have grown out of this activity, people solicited object to it. But it remains, to be added to the list of nuisances.

Peter Berris, graduate of Killingly high school last spring and more recently a student at the University of Pittsburgh, is at home here after contracting an illness.

Large house, garages, valuable outbuildings, close to the central part of Danielson's business section, for sale. Apply at 35 Academy street, Danielson.—adv.

Guilford Griggs, 96, a native of Hampton, died today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCoy in the western part of the town of Brooklyn. The body was brought to L. E. Kennedy's funeral home here.

This being the last full week before the opening of the fishing season, many fishing licenses are expected to be issued at the office of Town Clerk Frank T. Preston.

Local business concerns are appreciative of the fact that telegrams may now be telephoned from here on week days to the Western Union office in Putnam evenings, the office of the company there remaining open up to 10 p. m.

Miss Marie E. Pelletier of New Bedford is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

The United States senate now has before it a bill including an item providing for the erection of a federal postoffice building in Danielson, where such a structure is badly needed on account of the increase in business.

Next Sunday Palm Sunday will be observed in the churches of Danielson and in some instances there will be a distribution of palms, significant of Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

Rev. C. C. Rowlison, pastor of the Brooklyn Congregational church, is to be the speaker next Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Men's club of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Malcolm Hopkins has gone to Oakland Beach to remain throughout the coming summer season.

No such specimens are known in Italy and four of the birds shot have been stuffed and sent to the town's museum.

PUTNAM

BYRON HOWARD SAVES HALL BOY FROM DROWNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 6—The quick and heroic action of Byron Howard, service station proprietor on Bates avenue, Saturday in leaping into a channel of water eight feet deep at the outlet of Prentice pond, and dragging five year old Walter Hall to safety saved the boy from a seemingly certain death by drowning.

Walter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Durham Hall of 18 Boiles street. The boy was at play with older boys on Bates avenue, Saturday morning. The older group had just launched a raft and were about to sail out into the pond on its maiden voyage. They forbade Walter from boarding the craft because of his extreme youth. The youth walked to the bridge over the outlet of the pond and began hurling stones into the water. Miscalculating his nearness to the edge of the bridge, Walter in throwing one stone, lost his balance and fell headlong into the swift running stream.

The screams of the boys on the raft attracted the attention of Mr. Howard, who at first believed the youngsters to be crying in folly. Their cries caused him to investigate and when looking over the guarded bridge he saw the boy about to sink for the third time. Hesitating no longer he dived into the pool and brought the lifeless boy to shore. Howard worked over the child for several minutes before bringing him back to life.

Had it not been for Mr. Howard's timely act the boy doubtlessly would have been drowned. Since his heroic feat, Mr. Howard has been complimented by the parents of the child who were indeed grateful to him, and others who are of the opinion that he should be accorded an official recognition.

THREE FIRES MAKE BUSY WEEK END FOR FIREMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 6—Two alarms for fire today made up a busy week end slate for the members of the Putnam fire department. A fire alarm shortly after noon today from box 25 was for a blaze in a large barn on Mechanics street owned by Elmer E. Munroe of Danielson. The barn caught from a grass fire which went out of control. The dry and well seasoned shingles of the ancient structure took fire quickly and before the arrival of the firemen the garage and a number of houses built around it appeared doomed. However with the aid of two streams of water, firemen of the pumper and Eagle hose companies managed to extinguish the flames while confining them to the barn.

Houses owned by Byron Howard and Arthur Loomis were threatened when sparks ignited shingles on the roofs of the dwellings. Property owners armed with garden hose and cans of water combatted the fire on their property effectively.

The first alarm of the day was for a brush and grass fire in the Manhansett section of the city where an open lot was burned over, without incurring property damage. A third alarm was for a brush fire on Bates avenue, caused by burning embers escaping from the blazing barn on the Munroe property earlier in the afternoon. The flames gained such a headway that the firemen were forced to lay a hose line to bring the fire under control and prevent property destruction. Deputy Chief Alphonse Dumas directed the work of the fire-fighters in the absence of Chief R. E. Thurston.

News items appearing in this column recently concerning Putnam estimable residents who have attained an age over ninety years, have been incentive for the unfolding of the fact that another venerable old lady, Mrs. Jason Greene, who resides on the Putnam-Pomfret road just west of the Putnam town line, has taken her place among Putnam's steadily growing list of "nineties." Mrs. Greene will have attained her 91st birthday in June. She is perhaps the most active of the older citizens whose names have appeared in this column.

She delights in attending to the affairs of her home, arises early each morning and goes about her regular duties, which attention she is able to devote because of her excellent health. Mrs. Greene, who is in possession of all her faculties, is more active than many persons who are considerably younger. She reads without the aid of glasses and is a constant reader of The Bulletin, which she says enables her to keep abreast with the trend of time in the outside world.

Late Saturday evening a fire broke out in a barn in the rear of her home. The blaze at first appeared to be of a disastrous nature, but after surveying the situation and seeing the efficient work of a band of volunteer fire-fighters, Mrs. Greene rested comfortably, confident that the flames would be checked before any property loss could be caused. The fire was caused by sparks from a pile of burning rubbish. Flames spread to the barn, charring the interior part of the wooden structure, but were extinguished before they had attained serious proportions.

Charles A. Ryan, of South Main street, and Edmund Keane of Daniels street were Norwich visitors Sunday.

Significant of the fact that an early spring is at hand is the abundance of May-flower blossoms which are being gathered in the section hereabouts by nature lovers.

There are several Putnam people who have sustained losses by a series of breaks made at summer cottages bordering on the shores of Alexander's lake in Dayville, State Officer John T. Murphy, of Danielson barracks, said today. Officer Murphy asserted that much of the stolen loot had been recovered following the arrest of two Ballouville youths in connection with the robberies.

A number of Pomfret and Putnam people were in Norwich today, attending masses at St. Mary's Memorial church where Rev. George J. Donahue, former pastor of Holy Trinity at Pomfret, is pastor.

There have been no arrests as yet in connection with the recent series of petty robberies at local stores, Captain A. J. Dubreuil of the police department said today. The police however, are continuing the investigation of the breaks.

Motorists were warned Saturday by police of parking in double rows along Main street, which constitutes a violation of the recently enacted code of parking ordinances.

The fashion and style show held Saturday at the state armory on Harris street, under the direction of the Windham County Farmers association and the Putnam chamber of commerce, with the cooperation of the local merchants, was adjudged a complete success by the committee in charge of the affair. All of the spring decrees of fashion in both men's and ladies' lines were exhibited at the show. Live models were used to exhibit a number of the new women's creations which was a feature that attracted attention throughout the large drill shed. Miss Ellen Van Cleef of Storrs college, spoke interestingly at the afternoon and evening showings, her subject being "Clothing." There were numerous other features which proved to be of interest to the large crowds attending. Dancing was enjoyed in the evening.

JEWETT CITY

BROWNING PEACH ORCHARDS GIVEN SPRING SPRAYING

Dr. F. D. Browning has begun the work of spraying his hundreds of peach trees, in the four big orchards, at his home near Pachaug. Saturday forenoon was the first day for two weeks, when the air was sufficiently still to allow going about this regular spring job. The big power sprayer discharges a great cloud of disinfectant in the form of a mist, which is deflected by any appreciable movement of even the lightest wind. Arba Browning who was superintending the work called to mind the times when such a process was practically unknown. Now, he says, sound, flawless fruit is grown only when systematic spraying is carried out to rid the orchards of insect pests.

There was an attendance of about 150 at the meeting of Pachaug grange, Thursday evening, Neighbors' night. The program was furnished by Brooklyn, Killingly and Plainfield granges, as follows: Selections, quartet from Killingly grange, Mrs. Downs, Mrs. Keech, Miss Kelley and Mrs. Bradford; recitation, Patrick Henry's Speech, George Ingalls of Brooklyn grange; accordion solo, Raymond Roode, Plainfield grange; violin solo, Bro. Elbra Baker, Brooklyn grange; talk, Turning the Cow Inside Out, Worthy Lecturer Walter Bruce, of Killingly grange; accordion solo, Raymond Roode, Plainfield grange; a paper on Music, Mrs. Susie Dodge, Plainfield grange; Rev. Charles A. Downs, chaplain of Conn. State grange, spoke as did also Worthy Master Haynes of Killingly grange. Visitors were present from nine granges, Killingly, Brooklyn, Plainfield, Norwich, Lisbon, Mystic, Preston City, Meriden and Coventry.

The next meeting, of Pachaug grange will be Rally night, April 17. Applications are being received for initiation in June.

Mrs. G. H. Prior is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colesworthy of Worcester. Miss Ellen Prior a student at Brown, is spending a part of her vacation in the Massachusetts city.

SAN FRANCISCO'S GLORIES VARIED AND UNUSUAL

Writing his letters from the Hotel Roosevelt, San Francisco, date of March 18, Mr. Ross Says:

It will be next to impossible in describing San Francisco to do the city justice. If I use language that is extreme it will be because I am in California. The change of temperature is more between night and day than between winter and summer. Winter temperature is 50.8—June, July and August 56. The same weight of clothing is worn all the year round. Owing to this even climate it is one of the most healthful cities in the world.

Looking up Market street from the ferries, about four miles distant can be seen the Twin Peaks. There is a tunnel through them a little over two miles long, which opens upon fine residences, some palatial. The Twin Peaks are 900 feet above the ocean

In the Ferry building, on the second floor, is a relief map of the state of California. The map is 600 feet long and is on a scale of 6 inches to the mile. I think this map cost about $100,000.

To the south of the Ferry building is a long cruved waterfront. The docks along this front are visited by ships from every land. This is one of America's greatest ports.

Looking up Montgomery street, about a mile away you will see Telegraph hill; at the top of the hill is a small park from which is a fine view of the city and bay. In the fifties this hill was the lookout for ships coming in with news from home—and now we hear from home by airmail.

To the southwest of the foot of the hill is Chinatown. I understand there are about 20 square blocks. In this largest settlement of Chinese outside of China, are about 15,000 Chinese. On the northwestern base of Telegraph hill is the north beach, or Latin quarter. In this section several languages are spoken and very little English. In one of the offices I was in today I heard a language I never heard before. I asked one of the clerks what it was. He did not know, but he thought the men came from the Latin quarter.

Beyond the Latin quarter is Fishermen's wharf. Nearly all the boats of the Italian fishermen are painted blue, and at sundown as they come in through the Golden Gate is a sight to be remembered.

The Golden Gate is a channel opening into the Pacific ocean and is about five miles long and from one to three miles wide. The depth will float any and all vessels; in fact, I understand it is several hundred feet deep. This deep channel leads into the bay, one of the "finest and greatest land-locked harbors in the world"

Around the corner of Golden Gate is the famous Cliff House, with the Seal Rocks before it, and Sutro Heights, in the rear.

Near the latter and overlooking the Pacific is the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. This edifice is a true copy of the palace in Paris and is a gift of a patriotic citizen in honor of the San Franciscans who fell in the World war.

Also back of the Cliff House is the former home of a Comstock (mine) millionaire, who has left his estate open to the public. From this estate can be seen long reaches of the ocean and in the near foreground may be seen Golden Gate park.

This park is about four miles long, containing a little over 1,000 acres—and contains (this will interest "Mayor" Jodoin) nine baseball diamonds, a bowling green, a dozen tennis courts, a children's playground, a 30-acre stadium with a trotting (call attention of the Hon. Lionel Boucher) speedway 60 feet wide, a football and track stadium, etc., etc. I think San Francisco has more than 3,500 acres of parks within the city limits.

As to the hotels of this city—I can see from the window at which I am writing a dozen or fifteen hotels. There are between 1,200 and 1,300 hotels in the city. San Francisco stands second to New York in being able to care for a great crowds of visitors without crowding. Some of these hotels are world known and have as wide a fame as the Savoy of London.

"America's most impressive group of public buildings is seen in San Francisco's civic center"? The great Exposition auditorium seating 12,000, is perhaps the most impressive. The public library and the state buildings of California are here. The city hall, the dome of which rises 300 feet, is a magnificent building both outside and in; the cost I think was $4,000,000.

OUR MUD ROADS

No matter how much the residents of Connecticut may have htought that they were the only ones that had to put up with muddy country roads, they have it on hte evidence of the New York Herald Tribune that they are not alone, for it says: "Turnpikes and boulevards, highways and parkways, street and avenues—they are the hard trails of soft, modern America. For hardier men, who live off the state roads, there is still that soft, treacherous, challenging length of ruts at varying elevations which the road in front of the house has always been. Many of them don't like it."

This seems to disclose a common condition and a common feeling. New York doesn't like its muddy, rutty roads any better than Connecticut does, and being a bigger state there are probably more who are disturbed by the soggy, sloppy, spring highways. The Herald Tribune thinks that "To motorists who seldom drive over anything but a smooth gray pavement such roads seem a thing of the past, as far away as wood stoves and butter crocks, but cities and main highways do not, after all, cover very much land. Long after the state road has grown tired and stopped, the old dirt road goes right on into the mountains and across the swamps, helping itself out in boggy places with 'corduroy,' winding bewteen collapsing walls nad vine-grown snake fences, conducting hte R. F. D. to lovely letter boxes at the ends of lanes and the country doctor to feather beds, becoming finally a wood road or a road into the sugar bush or up into the old pasture."

This is a picture that is all too well known. The Herald Tribune calls them the independent, muddy, abyssmally-rutted ways of the early American tradition and insists that they are just the same today, "thousands of miles of them, too. They are still chock full of puddles and thank-you-ma'ams, and they require no signs about speeding."

Not all the country roads end up in the pasture. There are many of them which connect villages, offer the most direct route to large centers and would get much more use if they were in decent condition. They represent important avenues if only given attention. Because they seem to be about as they were in early American days doesn't mean that they should continue to remain that way. They have been ignored long enough. It is only fair that they should get a greater share of attention than has been showered on them in the past. From the plaint of the Herald Tribune it would appear that improvement with a capital I was called for in New York state. There is no question about it in Connecticut. We are not proud of it and there is no need of waiting till New York acts.

VETERANS' HOSPITALS

In time Connecticut is going to have a federal hospital for the care of disabled World war veterans. It will be an institution intended to meet the requirements in southern New England and to which veterans from Connecticut, Rhode Island and part of Massachusetts may be sent. Already it is contended, before it is constructed, that it will not meet requirements for this territory and that another should be located in southeastern Massachusetts or Rhode Island.

This is a situation which will have to be determined by a thorough survey of the requirements. If more institutions are needed for this part of the country it is to be expected that they will be provided.

Such an appeal is not the only one that is before congress. In other parts of the country there are demands for similar hospitals and, as might be expected, there are determined wire-pulling efforts in order to get them located where it is claimed they would be most advantageous. There is, however, more involved than the mere benefit from a location in a particular place.

In connection with the efforts that are being made to secure the necessary legislation for the establishment of more hospitals, it is pointed out that under the existing laws all veterans are entitled to government hospital care and treatment, provided there is room in the hospitals. In other words, it is first come, first served. The fellow who is there need not worry about being taken care of but the fellow who is on the outside looking in and in need of treatment is doubly unfortunate.

With legislation provided for certain hospitals it is urged that, even with the completion of those voted near the close of last year, the provisions will be inadequate, since it is estimated that the gain each month in the mentally sick alone reaches a total of 600. There can be no question but what the country has its duty to perform for the veterans and that it should not waste time in talkfests and sidestepping. It is desired and expected that the full facts will be obtained as to the ability of existing and voted equipment to take care of the requirements, to take note of the waiting list and give heed to the increase that can be expected over and above the number of discharges during the course of a year. Legislation to take care of what is regarded as necessary in meeting the obligations to the veterans has been in the works for a considerable time. It has gotten consideration from the vraious angles, or at least enough time time has elapsed since it was taken under consideration to permit it, and it is only proper that it should be brought out of retirement and put to a vote.

CONGRESSIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

According to a statement which has been issued by President Hoover as the result of estimates made by the treasury department, there will be a smull surplus at the end of this and the succeeding fiscal year. That is, he gives that assurance provided congress does its part in keeping within bounds. It is an outlook that can be greatly changed if congress takes the bit in its teeth and runs wild. Much depends upon the kind of economy which is practiced on capitol hill and the heed that is given to the funds which are, or will be, availbale for use.

It was not long ago that the president considered it advisable to issue a warning against lavish outlays. He directed attention to the fact that congress had been called upon for, or had bills before it requiring if voted, huge outlays. He didn't pretend that all of these would probably get favorable consideration. He simply indicated what the expenditures would amount to if all the bills were voted and with it he urged the importance of sound action when it came to taking action.

It was only what was to be expected from the head of the government. It was information which was by no means generally known, although sound treatment of appropriation bills is to be desired at all times. On his previous statement he lacked the knowledge of what the revenue returns for the first quarter of the year were going to be. That information is now available and gave him a chance to set forth that the loss in tax payments which had been anticipated for the first quarter has failed to develop. This furnishes a basis for estimating "a very moderate surplus" for this fiscal year and a $47,000,000 surplus for the next fiscal year. That is a pleasing outlook, but he accompanies it with what seems to be a necessary warning that the next year's surplus will be dependent upon congressional action. It will not take much to wipe out that promised surplus if excessive appropriations are indulged in.

The president hasn't attempted to tell congress what bills it should pass and what it should kill. He doesn't say where the outlays must be made, but he does say that congress has already spent $30,000,000 of that promised $47,000,000 surplus and that in itself raises the danger signal that the end is approaching. It is advice which cannot be ignored without considering the consequences. He has set forth the situation in the way that is commendable. He doesn't want a deficit. The country doesn't want a deficit. Having been told what will prevent it, the responsibility rests upon congress to meet it.

THE WAR IS OVER

It might be argued that the interest that is being displayed by the steamship companies for a reduction or an elimination of the passport fee is indirectly intended to operate to their advantage, and the steamship companies would doubtless admit that it would have its favorable influence upon those thinking of going abroad, but it is to be remembered that those planning to visit Europe must face not only a passport fee of $10 but there are also visa charges which mean the removal of much money from the pockets of the traveler for which there is no adequate return.

In connection with this tax placed upon the travelers, attention is being directed to the fact that it is one of those war measures which has not been removed. If there were passports required before the war, they were obtainable for a small fee, about a dollar, but they were boosted during the war and they haven't been dropped. With the conditions following the war there is no reason now to discourage travel across the big pond. Even if the steamship companies didn't want to get more business, and that is by no means the sole ground for the plea for lowering the fee, the pocketbook of the traveler might well get some consideration.

In some instances this government has been able to secure substantial reductions in the visa fees and there are countries which have abolished them, but along with the efforts that are being made in that direction there might as well be consideration given to putting the passport charges back where they formerly were. There is an opportunity for concerted action in this direction by the various nations concerned, but this government isn't obliged to delay its decision concerning passport charges just because other countries have not acted. That is a matter which involves the subjects of this country.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: April without the showers would be like pie without the cheese.

We have our safe and sane Fourth, but Philadelphia has proved that fireworks are not safe or sane.

Now that everybody has gotten his car out after the winter layup, it is time to start the detour season.

Now that baseball is being played and the big leagues will soon be in action, isn't April going to lend its help?

Those who have met the census taker and gotten it over with ought to have known there was nothing to worry about.

If, as claimed, there are 2,000,000 motorists coming to New England this summer, we may as well get ready to give them a proper welcome.

Those who admit that any action taken by the senate on unemployment can have no beneficial results at this time certainly know the present senate.

PICTURES

Mary was only 17, but she had the soul of an artist. At least she thought she did. Mary loved to paint and she spent the time other girls spend before their mirrors in practicing celor combinations upon her little canvases. When Mary had attained the age of 17 and her mother had asked what she most wanted for a birthday present, Mary had said, "A studio, please." So a corner of the attic was cleared of trunks, the skylight window was washed and Mary bought a smock.

Thereafter she spent many happy hours laboring over her studies. "A Blue Bowl and a Bunch of Grapes" was the title of one masterpiece. "The Mallard's Flight" was another. For subjects Mary fitted up an old ledge with objects about which her imagination produced form. "The Blue Bowl" was in reality a green pickle jar, but for Mary it assumed all the attributes which her needs demanded. The bunch of grapes was garnered from a discarded spring hat and the mallard Mary fashioned out of the feathers remaining after her mother finished cleaning a chicken for dinner.

Of course Mary went to art school and it was there she first got the idea of trying to market her works. Her teachers praised her. Her fellow classmates surrounded her with magical conversations.

New York, art moderne, portraiture, interiors were some of the open sesames to grandeur about which Mary heard and took cognizance. She, too, would have a career.

After the names of several prominent agencies had been discussed before her, Mary decided upon one to which she would consent to sell some of her paintings. This firm specialized in art for magazine advertisements. Mary heard they paid well.

"Mr. Cummings?" said the girl in the outer office, eying Mary and her portfolio critically, "I'm afraid—" Just then Mr. Cummings opened his office door and saw Mary. "Send the lady in," he said to the girl with the critical eyes. Tremulously Mary entered.

Mr. Cummings looked over Mary's works appraisingly. He looked over Mary, too.

"Come again Wednesday," he said. That night, her thoughts too many for sleep, Mary lay dreaming wide-awake, of a studio in New York and objects to paint around which her imagination would not have to conjure color, shape and style.

Next Wednesday Mary went again to see Mr. Cummings, armed with other drawings, her eyes alight, her cheeks vivid with little pets of flame. How appreciative, kind and complimentary Mr. Cummings was! He told Mary a career would be hers, if she wanted it. And he asked her to come again on Saturday.

Mary went again on Saturday, after intervening hours of heaven. How eagerly she looked forward to her sessions with Edgar Cummings! Each time she took other drawings in her portfolio and each time she looked into Mr. Cummings' kind eyes she could read there the interest he was feeling. Finally she decided the time had come to exhibit her masterpiece, "The Mallard's Flight." Mr. Cummings smiled at Mary as she came in. He took her portfolio and opened it, drawing out the prized picture. He looked at it in silence, which to Mary meant more than words. Then he offered to show her one of his. "If you would like to see it, Mary," he said. She told him how eagerly she wanted to see it, and he brought it out. A big canvas, covered with gold cloth. Mary stood expectantly in the center of the big room and Edgar Cummings, placing the picture upon the table, lifted its golden curtain.

"Oh!" gasped Mary.

"Do you like it?"

It was Mary, done in oils by some one who had studied her so closely as to catch the dreamy beauty of her violet eyes and the sweet hopefulness of her.

"How dear of you to make it," said Mary, smiling up to him.

"If you don't object," he said, "it will be the cover for our spring issue, Mary, dear," he said, as she sighed happily, "you are so beautiful—you have a real career before you."

"Yes," urged Mary, her violet eyes alight.

"But I'd so much rather have you give it up. I so want you to marry me, Mary. Look, I'd make us a house like this," and he sketched lines across a sheet of white paper.

"And I could have my studio up here," said Mary, indicating the space beneath the front eaves. "Why, I wouldn't have to give up my art. I still could make pictures for you!"

"You are a picture for me," said Edgar Cummings, and as he drew her to him the "Mallard's Flight" slipped off the table, all unnoticed, to the floor.—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6—Rumors of new football peace negotiations to restore the colorful army-navy classic got a-going early this year. Just what they were or who was doing the negotiating did not appear.

Very positive statements that a post-season meeting between West Point and Annapolis this year was to be expected were in circulation in March, however, so hope of football fans generally that some way of side stepping the player eligibility monkey wrench blossomed about the time the Japanese cherry trees around the tidal basin in Washington were getting ready to do their stuff.

Army-Navy Man

Suspicion naturally pointed to Secretary Pat Hurley of the war department and Acting Secretary Ernest Jahncke of the navy as the supposed negotiators.

And that serves to recall that Mr. Hurley is peculiarly well fitted to attempt this great peace making task. He's all army on his own side, but all navy on his wife's. Mrs. Hurley was Miss Ruth Wilson, daughter of Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, a former superintendent at Annapolis. The youngest of the three Hurley children is named Wilson Hurley in honor, no doubt, of his seadog grand daddy.

Surely this family army-navy reapprochement should be possible of reflection in the smoothing out of the row between the service schools.

There was a good deal of talk when President Hoover took office that he would intervene to get the army-navy game going again. That did not develop.

And when you stop to think of it, there might have been some difficulty for the most distinguished son of the Stanford red in finding that army lack of a three year eligibility rule made it very hard to beat West Point at football, as navy contentions implied. Stanford doesn't appear to have had any trouble doing that little thing.

Good Job

A colleague of the Bystander's has found a job he thinks would suit him. Just opposite the senate press gallery loom the two and a half dozen seats reserved for diplomatic visitors. That is almost invariably a blank file, even when every other gallery seat is taken. About the only occupant is the doorkeeper. He would like to be doorkeeper.

YOUR HEALTH

Home Ventilation

By Josephine Walter, M. D., New York
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Every family should judge its home on the following points:

Lack Of Ventilation

This means allowing the exhalations of the human body and other products of vegetable and animal decomposition to remain in a room at the same time that ingress of fresh air to the room is limited.

Effects Of Lack Of Ventilation

Absorption of the unventilated exhalations of the healthy human body is detrimental to health, sometimes fatal to life. Its injuries effect is in direct proportion to the amount absorbed, to the length of time one is exposed to these exhalations, and to their degree of concentration. This injury to health can be fully avoided by proper ventilation, i. e., allowing free discharge of the air from the room, and free admission into the room of sunlight and fresh air. The effects of lack of ventilation on the individual vary greatly in their development and character and are due to absorption of the different impurities given off from the animal body through respiration and transpiration. The local and general effects may be summarized as follows: Pallor, anemia, poor blood; headaches, drowsiness; dizziness, listlessness, inability to concentrate attention for a length of time on work, specially as the day advances; disturbed sleep, even sleeplessness; loss of appetite, distaste for food, impaired digestion; depression of spirits, irritation of eyes; tendency to nasal and bronchial catarrh; slow convalescence from sickness; and retarded mental and physical development of the child.

Object Of Ventilation

It is obvious that the object of ventilation must be to reduce the impurities and to increase oxygen in the indoor air to such a degree that its continued inhalations will not be detrimental, but beneficial to the inmate. This demands proper ventilation; the exposure of the vitiated, impure indoor air to the pure, oxygen-laden outdoor air, and this is to be secured, first, by the free discharge of the vitiated air through properly placed outlets connected with the external air, and second, by frequent admission into the rooms of this pure air through properly placed inlets.

Best Means Of Ventilation At Command Of Everyone

The use of windows, doors, etc., as outlets and inlets for ventilating a room is very simple. Every room should be flushed with fresh air daily, at least twice; more frequently if it is constantly occupied, by opening one window from below, the other from above. If there is only one window in the room then this window should be opened above and below. A slowly entering current of air may be cold but it is not a draught. A draught is created when air is drawn across the space by an opposite suction force. At night there need be no fear or objection to the air entering, even if it is damp or cold. A window should always be kept open from above several inches, depending on the outside temperature and number of people in the room. A sufficient number of bed coverings, warm, but not too heavy, should be used to keep the body warm. A hot water bag for the feet, if necessary, is a comfortable, harmless source of warmth to the body. The cold outdoor air breathed in by the sleeper is not only conducive to deep respiration which carries the oxygen to the tissues, thus increasing oxidation and body warmth, but is also conducive to sound sleep, which allows one to awaken in the morning happy, refreshed, strong and ready for the day's work.

"The Glory of Renunciation"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "No one taketh it way from me, but I lay it down of myself" (John 10:18).

Read: ' Corinthians 8:8-13.

MEDITATION: The glory of renunciation lies in the fact that it is one's own act. No man can demand it of us. Paul said: "If meat make my brother to offend I will eat no meat while the world endureth." That was his own free choice. His brother could not rightfully demand that sacrifice. The surrender of privilege was one that Paul freely made. How proudly Jesus uttered the words of our memory verse: 'No man taketh my life from me. I give it!' In freely making sacrifices for others we discover that this seems to be the way that leads to ur own joy and welfare. Gallahad announced a profound law of life when, as he sat down in Merlin's chair, he said: "If I lose myself I find myself."

PRAYER: "Suffer me not by any lawless act of mine to befoul any innocent life or add to the difficulty of any erring one that struggles honestly against sin. Grant me a steadfast scorn for pleasure brought by human degradation. Grant that I may look all men in the face with the eyes of a brother."—Walter Rauschenbusch.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mr. and Mrs. Quack Remain

In other folks' affairs don't pry;
It never pays, so never try.
—Mrs. Quack.

Peter Rabbit managed to get around to the Smiling Pool at least once every night. Usually he got there just as the Black Shadows came creeping out from the Purple Hills across the Green Meadows. Mr. and Mrs. Quack the Mallard Ducks and their friends who had stopped off at the Smiling Pool on their way North, had been there a week now. You see, they were getting good living, for Farmer Brown's Boy was putting out corn for them. Every day he brought down corn. There is nothing that the Quacks like better than nice, plump, yellow corn.

One evening Peter noticed that there was a great deal of uneasiness among the Quacks. They swam about this way and that way for no particular reason. They continually stretched their heads up and now and then raised themselves from the water and flapped their wings. The only ones who did not appear uneasy were Mr. and Mrs. Quack. They seemed to be keeping somewhat by themselves. Finally they swam over near where Peter was sitting.

"What is the matter with those Ducks?" Peter inquired.

Mrs. Quack pretended to be surprised. "I don't see anything the matter with those Ducks," said she. "They look all right to me. In fact, they look better than they did when they arrived. They have been having good living ever since they reached the Smiling Pool."

"Are they afraid of something?" demanded Peter.

"If they are, I don't know it," said Mrs. Quack. "I don't see anything around here to be afraid of."

"Then what makes all those Ducks so uneasy?" Peter inquired. "You certainly can't say that they're not uneasy."

"Oh," replied Mrs. Quack, "they are simply getting anxious to move along."

"You mean to move on North?" asked Peter.

Mrs. Quack nodded. "That's it," said she. "They've been talking about it for the last day or two. They like it here and, of course, they like this nice corn we have been having, but they are anxious to get up to their nesting grounds."

"Oh," replied Mrs. Quack, "they are simply getting anxious to move along

"Aren't you just as anxious as they are?" inquired Peter.

Mrs. Quack looked at Mr. Quack and they shook their heads. "No," said she. "No, we are not particularly anxious to start along. In fact, Mr. Quack and I have talked it over and we have decided to stay a while longer. You see, we have made that journey so many times that sometimes we rather dread it. There are constant dangers all the way. Sometimes it isn't easy to get enough to eat. So we have decided to stay here a while."

"Do you mean that you are going to stay and nest here?" inquired Peter.

"I didn't say that, did I?" retorted Mrs. Quack. "I said we had decided to stay a while. What we may do later I don't know."

"Well," replied Peter, "I think that shows good sense. Any one who knows when he is well off shows good sense."

"Then what are you doing over here?" inquired Mrs. Quack slyly. "It isn't nearly as safe over here as it is in the dear Old Briar-patch.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Example for Foreigners

Editor: It was refreshing to read "A Naturalized Citizen's" appreciation of America. He is 100 per cent American—an example for foreigners who find America good enough for money-making, but not to keep her laws. He also puts to shame American born who are disloyal—such as the Connecticut mayor recently exposed, and his kind.

To prove the farce The Literary Digest advertisements through the "straw vote" on prohibition are let me say that as many as five cards were signed by one party to his satisfaction and others. What is to hinder? Many have not received cards, many honest, intelligent citizens will never be given the chance by that straw vote to show where they stand. Why cannot such cards for voting be printed elsewhere and distributed? There's money! Let me quote, "The charge that world-wide liquor, wine and beer interests (world-wide, mind you!) have formed a gigantic corruption power to break down the constitution and laws of the United States and to do it with money," was made in Boston Jan. 18 by Horace Taft, according to the Herald-Tribune (N. Y.) Mr. Taft quoted M. de Mun of France, president of the International League of the Adversaries of Prohibition, as saying: "We have a hundred million people behind us and untold millions of dollars which we will spend in a merciless fight to destroy prohibition in the United States." Get that—"in the United States."

The United States has friends of prohibition abroad as well as here and we have the God of heaven and earth fighting with us—"They that be with us are more than they that be with them."

CHILD TRAINING

Curtsies And Thank-Yous

Helen Goode Bragg

"And whatever you do," Harriet said vehemently, "don't insist on the poor infant saying his thank-yous in public!"

"Why?" Janet questioned, puzzled. "What do you mean?"

The conversation over the teacups had been in a humorous and derisive vein; a frank discussion by the three friends concerning their friends' lack of perspective in training their children. Harriet, who had given the advice, had been married longer than Janet, but had no children, so, as she drolly observed, she was particularly qualified to give advice. Janet's year-old son was the "infant" in question.

"Why, Harriet, don't you believe in the social amenities for children?" Kathryn Baring demanded in her best school-teacher attitude, followed by a quick smile and a questioning wink.

"Of course, I do," Harriet said defensively, "and what's more, I think it is adorable for a three-year-old to lisp a thank-you if I give her something. But if she doesn't happen to remember to say it, I think it's awful for the mother to inevitably demand, 'What do you say, darling?' and then add, 'You can't have it, you know, darling, until you say thank you!' I'm not contending that children shouldn't be taught their thank-yous and if-you-pleases. They should. But they needn't be exacted before people, to fret the child, and embarrass the donor—frightfully bad taste on the mother's part, as well as an awful bore to the listener. All it ever means is that the mother has satisfied her own ego by demonstrating that she knows the social graces if her child doesn't!"

"But—" Janet interrupted, "—a child remembers it better—"

"Oh, yes, I know that argument, too," Harriet agreed, "that it impresses the child more to be reminded before people. But don't you honestly think it is a badly overworked theory?"

"Yes," Kathryn said feelingly, and she took up the cudgels where Harriet had left off. "I've thought the same way about my little girls' curtsies." Kathryn Baring had the only private school in town and there was no denying that her pupils, most of them, had delightful manners. "Some of the children I meet on the street drop their curtsies when they greet me, in a most natural and cunning way. But there are a few who, either because of shyness or stubbornness, fail to do it. Then their mothers speak up sharply, 'There! Clarice! (or Betty or Patty or Jane) don't you see Miss Baring? Why don't you curtsy?' Then I'm embarrassed for the child and provoked with the mother. That kind of parent must be an awful trial to a child," Kathryn said with a laugh that was half a sigh.

"Let's have more tea," Harriet suggested. "This discussion reminds me of what little David, next door, said one night. His father had bought him an electric train for his fourth birthday, and while the child was a little young to understand the intricacies of operating it, his father and my husband enjoyed the train immensely. They were sitting on the floor enthralled by it one night, literally shooing David away. Finally the youngster reached for the whole train of cars and lifted them bodily and possessively off the track.

"'Don't do that!' my husband said. 'Here, let's do it this way . . . . . so . . . . . . there, what do you say?'

"David's abstract answer was a mechanically intoned, 'Thank you,' as being the expected rejoinder to 'What do you say?'

"It was so unexpected and docile that the big boys went into shouts of laughter, and David succeeded in playing, uninterruptedly, with his train."

"Well, there is a lot to think of, isn't there?" the infants mother sighed. "No more tea, thanks. I will have another cookie, though, they're awfully good." Then with new enthusiasm she asked. "How do you make these, Harriet? By a regular shortbread foundation?"

CAUSE FOR REJOICING!

EXCUSE our enthusiasm, but we see good cause for rejoicing as the Music Defense League nears the 2,000,000 membership mark after a few short weeks of effort.

And, if that doesn't prove that the American public wants Living Orchestras and Organists in the Theatre, what would?

There is nothing EXclusive about this swiftly-growing society. It's INclusive—inclusive of the intelligent citizenry of the New World. And that covers a lot of people, cynics to the contrary notwithstanding. It should, by the way, include YOU.

To become a member in good standing of the Music Defense League one needs only the discriminating taste to know that the art of music is worthy of preservation, and the good sense to want one's money's worth. There are no dues, no obligations.

Throughout the world friends of music are alive to the cultural menace of Canned Music in Theatres. Even the governments of England, France, Spain and Italy are considering measures to prevent this artistic debasement.

American music lovers have chosen the popular and democratic course—that of registering public demand through the Music Defense League.

What if theatrical interests are momentarily deaf to all considerations save profits gained through false economy? They will heed the voice of the public when that voice attains a sufficiently compelling volume. For the public must be served.

If you value the cultural influence of music . . . if you feel that the price you pay for theatrical entertainment entitles you to real music rendered by living musicians in the theatre, sign the coupon below and mail it.

UNITED LENTEN SERVICE BY CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

The union lenten series of services of the United and Park Congregational churches, which were deferred last Sunday evening to allow the congregations of the two churches to hear Rev. Dr. Arbuckle of Newton Center, Mass., were continued Sunday evening at the Sunday school rooms of the United church. The preacher at this service was Rev. Dr. Theodore M. Shipherd of Park church, who spoke upon the topic, The Knowledge of Jesus and Its Limits, basing his interesting sermon upon a text in the eleventh chapter of St. Matthew. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, the pastor, and Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of the Norwich Town Congregational church participated in the service.

Our Protestant congregations believe it well to worship God, said the preacher, but it is a colorless one, many congregations being like a lump of lead. They come to church with a thousand things on their mind, only a few with a throbbing and spiritual interest like Jesus. He classed our worship as a picayune thing, declaring that our prayers are tucked in a mind that has many things on it. Our Master's belief in a personal God was tremendous alongside that with which you and I are acquainted. We talk of social service; we are gracious and generous. This was a by-product in the experience of Jesus. Jesus' supreme passion was that God's mind might be His mind and His will might be God's will. The aim in the life of Christ was that He might possess Himself of the life and mind of His father. His emphasis upon his dependence, submission and communion was the very life breath of His relationship.

The next service will be held at Park Congregational church next Sunday evening, when Rev. Mr. Abbott will be the preacher.

Following the reading of selections of Scripture from proverbs, which relates the story of the good woman, the minister spoke a few words in appreciation of such an exemplary Christian character as Mrs. Kendall had proven herself to be, and told of the beneficial influence of such lives upon the everyday duties of the community.

In her church work, and fraternal affiliations, he said, steadfastness of purpose was an oustanding characteristic. The pack arrived back in the city about 6 o'clock, having covered about eight miles. The United Church Cubs have had three meetings before this, in which the cub oath, laws, and sign have been learned, games have been played and help has been given on the tests which every cub has to pass in order to become a Wolf Cub.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION IN ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

The forty hours' devotion, which began in St. Patrick's church following the high mass at 10:30 Sunday, proved a revelation to the large congregation in attendance. It is safe to say that nobody, outside the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, and his assistant priests, realized the numerical strength of the junior portion of the parish, until the annual procession was held, preceding the progress of the Sacred Host. The superb training, discipline and initiative of the Sisters of Mercy who teach in the school and Sunday school was demonstrated in the entirely new way in which the procession was carried out. Instead of entering the upper church from the basement chapel as in former years, the children, representing a half dozen nationalities, appeared in the sanctuary from each vestry on either side of the main altar. A number of junior girls acted as guides, there were tiny boy pages in suits of black velvet, a guard of honor of a score of wee boys in suits of white and wearing shoulder sashes of Monsignor red, then the girls, in white frocks and carrying arm sprays of annunciation lilies, graded from juniors to mere babies in white, with white hair bows and wreaths of smilax, the smallest strewing blossoms in the path of the Host. The altar boys carried lighted candles, and were preceded by the cross-bearer, candle-bearers and there were two boys who were censer-bearers. Every step was measured and the long procession moved with military exactness, although not an instructor was in sight. The beauty and precision of the spectacle made a profound impression on the congregation, which numbered many from other churches in the city.

The Host was borne by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, who sang the high mass. He was accompanied by Rev. John J. Reilly. The canopy over the Sacred Host was borne by Alexander Kilroy, Andrew W. Deneff, Leonard Sunthelmer and Herbert Smith.

Special music had been arranged by the organist, Henry J. Lafontaine, the mass in honor of the sacred heart being finely sung. The soloists were Mrs. Bernard C. Coyle, Miss Blanche LaPre, Miss Eulalie Allard, Horace F. Corning, Roderick F. Sullivan and Henry J. LaFontaine. The choral numbers went with a great sweep of harmony and the solos were finished and effective. The members of the well trained volunteer choir are: Sopranos, Mrs. B. C. Coyle, Mrs. J. B. Caron, Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. Dominic Bailey, Miss Sadie A. Driscoll, Miss Josephine Sabourin, Miss Blanche LaPre; altos, Miss Eulalie Allaire, Mrs. Leonard Desmond, Miss Mary O'Neil, Misses Mary Lynch, Catherine Coleman, Mildred Combies, Helen O'Brien; tenors, R. F. Sullivan, W. F. LaFontaine, L. Grover, J. Williams, R. Cote, Nicholas Tarrant, M. J. Sheridan, John Murphy; basses, H. F. Corning, William Shannon, John Kelly, A. Kirker, J. W. Tingley, H. J. LaFontaine.

The day was Passion Sunday, the beginning of the passion, or suffering of the Saviour preceding His crucifixion. Although statues and crucifixes were shrouded in penitential violet, the main altar had been adorned with beautiful white and pink carnations by the members of the Altar society, because of the special devotion of the day. Tall palms and ferns were in the sanctuary. The preacher was Rev. Father Reilly, who read the gospel for Passion Sunday, John 8.46-59, taking as his text a phrase from that gospel, "They took up stones therefore to cast at Him but Jesus hid Himself." With characteristic eloquence the preacher developed the thought that having stones cast at Him had been the lot of Christ from the moment the first cry of the Divine Infant sounded at Bethlehem until the Redeemer expired on Calvary. The same stones are being cast at Him in these latter days—in Mexico, in China, in Russia; but most repellant and discouraging of all stones are the stony hearts of the indifferent and the sinful among those whom He died to save. Yet, even stones can be made to melt through the agency of heat—and the intense love of Christ for the world is akin to that consuming fire in the heart of Vesuvius which the traveler watches, as with conquering force it gradually melts the flintiest rock which in time sinks into its molten mass. Father Reilly's hearers were urged to receive their Lord during this special manifestation of the forty hours with willing and eager hearts, hearts freed from sin, in an effort to atone, in a measure, for the stones of coldness and indifference and derision and unbelief which are cast at Him now, as under the conditions narrated in the day's gospel.

The service closed with the recitation of the litany of the saints, the choir singing "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name." Confessions were heard Sunday between the hours of 4 and 5:30, 7 and 8. Today (Monday) the hours will be 4 to 6, 7 to 9 and there will be visiting priests speaking numerous languages and dialects, for the accommodation of the people of the many nationalities making up this parish of over 4,000 souls. Masses this (Monday) and Tuesday morning will be at 5:30, 7 and 8. There was no lenten service Sunday evening, as the devotion was in progress, parishioners visiting the church at all hours.

RECALLS INSPIRING PRESENCE OF FRAU COSIMA WAGNER

The memory of a rarely inspiring presence was recalled last week to Charles J. Dyer of 39 Sachem street in the death at Bayreuth of Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of Richard Wagner, the master composer of the golden age of music.

Mr. Dyer met Frau Cosima first in 1893 at the home of her oldest daughter, Daniela, the Villa Cargnacco, on Lake Garda, a property that was confiscated by Italy and is now the home of D'Annuncio. Since meeting her so long ago, the friendship has always continued very pleasantly as long as she was able to write and he has many letters from her. She was really the means of his studying the German lieder with Stockhausen in Frankfort and with Frau Joachim, with whom he made his debut. When the proposition for giving Parsifal in New York arose, something which

FRAU COSIMA WAGNER

Frau Cosima vigorously opposed, she wrote to him to see if his influence were not enough to forestall the production there.

He was always welcome at her home in Bayreuth, where he visited many times, and she was always greatly interested in what musical work he had done. Cultured, speaking excellent English, gracious and graceful, her voice was charming, she was a wonderful hostess and in every sense the grand dame. She had a personality that was inspiring and impelling and one always felt when talking that she was just what Wagner said about her, "his inspiration." It was her happy fortune to be the greatest inspirer of the greatest musical genius of the latter times.

When Mr. Dyer was in Bayreuth about two years ago he visited at her home, where he was welcomed by her son and daughters, although he was not able to see Frau Cosima, then 90 years old and too feeble to see anyone but the members of her own family.

GARAGE WAS BURNED IN BIG BRUSH FIRE

A three car garage was destroyed, a large hen coop badly damaged and a half dozen houses were endangered by a grass and brush fire off the Salem turnpike, East Great Plain, Saturday afternoon. At 3:04 o'clock the fire department received a telephone call asking for help in extinguishing the grass fire which burned a large area of land. As the Yantic fire department was out on a call for another brush fire, Squad A was despatched to the scene by Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan who also answered the call. The fire was in the neighborhood of the Russian cemetery, off the Salem turnpike, and when the firemen arrived they found the large garage practically destroyed and the hen coop on fire. The garage and coop are owned by Mrs. Oramel J. Brockway. An inch and a half hose line was used in extinguishing the flaming garage and coop. The brush fire had spread rapidly in all direction and the flames were surrounding a half dozen residences in the neighborhood. Fast work with brooms and pump cans saved the houses.

At 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon Squad A went out on a telephone call for a grass fire on land off Spruce street. As the fire was way beyond the city limits the squad wagon returned to the central station.

What is recorded as a false alarm came in at 6:37 o'clock Saturday evening from box 114, the private box at the Industrial building, Falls avenue. Arriving at the box the firemen inquired the whereabouts of the fire.

"There it is, over there," said a small boy, Alfred Cohen, pointing in an easterly direction. Sure enough there was a fire, but it was somewhere beyond Hinckley hill, a couple or more miles from Fall avenue.

The Cohen boy, it developed, was one of many boys who last fall were shown how to pull in an alarm from a box. In addition to receiving instruction on how to send in a box alarm, the small boy was told that on discovering a fire he should pull in the nearest fire box. He saw the fire in the distance, beyond Hinckley hill, and, following out, as he thought, the instructions given him, pulled in the nearest box, which happened to be the box at the Industrial building.

About 20 minutes later the fire department received a telephone call for help in subdoing the brush fire off Hinckley hill, which caused the Cohen boy to pull box 114. Squad A and Deputy Chief Brennan went out on that call and although the blaze was beyond the city line they fought it with pump cans and brooms. A fire warden and a gang of men were also on the scene, fighting the fire with brooms and pump cans.

Sunday there were two telephone calls. At 10:13 o'clock Engine No. 5, Squad A and Deputy Chief Brennan responded to a call for a brush fire off Spring street extension. Two hours later the fire boke out again and the same companies went to the scene a second time.

CODRWOOD BURNED ON GRAHAM'S NEWENT PLOT

About 30 cords of cut wood were destroyed Saturday afternoon in a fire that swept through a small patch of land owned by James Graham of Lisbon located on the Newent highway just below Ames cemetery. The cordwood had only been recently cut and piled up. Mr. Graham with a number of boys was burning over a field adjacent to the wood lot. The blaze jumped a wall and got out of their control, burned the wood and at one time threatened a large henhouse owned by Charles Smith.

For Burial in Bristol

Miss Mary Mullins passed away in this city Sunday afternoon after a lingering illness. Arrangements were taken in charge by Mortician T. J. Shahan and the body was sent to Bristol for burial.

CLAIMED TO BE WORLD'S LARGEST BREAKFAST

NEW YORK, April 6.— (AP)—What was claimed to be the world's largest breakfast was consumed today at the Hotel Astor by 5,500 police members of the Holy Name society after receiving holy communion at St. Patrick's cathedral.

The management of the hotel said the gathering was the largest to be served at any function ever held in a hotel. The food consumed consisted of 2,600 grapefruit, 22,600 eggs, 30,000 rolls, 11,000 chicken legs, 125 pounds of green peppers, 1,000 pounds of butter, 1,000 quarts of cream, 550 pounds of coffee, 1,200 pounds of sausage, 650 quarts of milk, 750 pounds of sugar, 225 pounds of tomatoes and 200 pounds of mushrooms.

Much merriment ensued when the Rev. Joseph A. McCaffrey, spiritual director of the society, introduced the police commissioner as "the Rev. Grover A. Whalen." Mr. Whalen remarked he had been called everything in the past year except reverend.

A new mystery fighting airplane said to be capable of diving with full power from 10,000 feet to let loose a 1,000-pound aerial bomb and attaining a speed estimated at between 350 and 400 miles an hour has been delivered to the naval air station, Anacostia, D. C., for tests.

GIBBS' HOMER IN TENTH WINS OPENING GAME FOR THE ACADEMY

Capt. Chubby Gibbs' home run in the tenth inning, a long, hard liner that bounded over the center-field fence won the opening game of the season for the Academy Saturday at the campus over the Richmond Radiators of the Industrial league. The score was 5 to 4.

Lucier Fans 10 Straight

Gibbs was the first batter in the inning and hit the second ball pitched a wicked smash to center that went over Gaudette's head, took one hop a few feet in front of the fence and landed in Joseph Perkins road. It came off Lefty Lucier, who up to that time had been invincible. In fact, he was untouchable, having fanned ten batters to face him previously with only two fouls.

The game was forced into extra inning when Steffy Cimikoski lifted one of Weisgraber's offerings over the fence with two on base and none out in the ninth.

A large opening day crowd of over 1,000 saw the Wildcats make a good impression against opposition that for the most part is of the semi-pro variety. There are few pitchers the equal of either Kotch or Lucier in high school ball and it was pointed out that they have probably had their stiffest test this year. At least they will play few better games.

There were only five errors committed and in the hitting column the Dusty leaguers outhit the Red and White 10 to 7.

Three Wildcat Pitchers

Coach Brigham used three pitchers, starting with Chuck Lavarge a husky young right-hander who was hit rather freely but received good fielding support. He was on the mound in two innings. Boots Greene worked the next four in fine fashion, striking out five men and allowing three hits, two of which were rather scratchy. Butay Weisgraber, last year's mainstay, finished in good shape, allowing three hits in four innings and fanning three. Kotch worked the first four innings for the Ironmen and let the Wildcats have five hits while Lucier, allowing but two hits, started a strikeout string with the last batter in the sixth and finished it with the last out in the ninth.

Along with the pitching the Academy infield also looked very good, but the outfield remains a question mark. All but Weisgraber, who played in left for a while, seemed inexperienced and the coach will devote plenty of time within the next few days in putting together a strong outer trio.

Richmonds Open Scoring

The Richmonds started off as if they meant business when Cimikoski singled through the box and Kampf followed with a drive to left that Berghinzo misjudged and it went for a double. Cimmy tried to score on the play but was thrown out, Berghinzo to Reardon to Fontaine, Kampf continuing on to third. Gaudette hit to Gibbs and Kampf was caught at home. In the second inning the Ironmen did score. Leo Jarvis, leading off, was passed. George Jarvis singled into left, sending his brother to second. Burke hit to the box and Leo was forced at third. Tombari popped to Gibbs but Kotch singled to left and George Jarvis scored. Kotch, however, was caught trying to make second.

The Academy evened it up in their half. Berghinzo doubled past first, went to third while Breen rolled to Burke and scored when Crowell, batting for Lavarge, singled to left field.

The Wildcats scored two more in the third on a pass to Gibbs, a steal, Fontaine's single to center, Fontaine continuing to second on the throw-in, and Crowell's second hit, a single, that bounded over Cimikoski's head at short. The Academy scored again in the fourth when Reardon singled, stole second and continued all the way around when Gaudette in retrieving Tombari's heave into center-field, threw to third and Kampf allowed the ball to get by him and go into the bleachers.

Then Came the Ninth

This was all the scoring until the ninth. Tombari was hit and Lucier got a hit into left after which Cimikoski poked one that hit the top of the fence near the fire-escapes and Dickerman in making a desperate grab for the ball, tapped it over. Weisgraber then bore down and got the side easily for the next two innings, striking out three of them. And then Chubby came along.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

The umpires were Hank Morin and Bill McKnight, the latter filling in in place of Johnny Murphy. As each Academy player made his first appearance he was introduced to the crowd by our genial friend, Hank.

There were a few nice fielding plays, especially that stop and throw in deep short by Cimmy in the fourth robbing Breen of a hit. Incidentally, Breen made a good impression in his first game at the third sack.

The bleachers were pretty well filled, which with those standing both inside and outside of the grounds made a large crowd for the opener. The Third Base Gang was there in force.

Les Crowell and Speed Reardon, each with two out of two, now officially lead the N. F. A. batters.

The day was beautiful, the best on the occasion of the opening in some years.

HORNSBY WILL ARRIVE IN CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, April 6— (AP) —Rogers Hornsby, chief of the Chicago Cubs' band of cripples, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning for an examination of his ailing right heel.

The Rajah left Los Angeles Friday night on rather short notice, but not without taking time to say that nothing like a sore heel could keep him out of the National league champions' lineup for even a part of the season.

Manager Joe McCarthy and President William L. Veeck, however, were not inclined to take chances, and a thorough examination arranged. The heel was operated on early in the winter for the removal of a bony growth. Hornsby took it easy during the early part of the training season on Catalina Islands and the heel appeared to be well.

However, when he attempted to bear down in exhibition games, it became extremely sore. He tried walking on his toes, to favor the heel with the result that his whole right leg became lame. He withdrew from action last Wednesday, and after a day of rest was sent to Chicago. He insisted that he would rejoin the team at Kansas City Tuesday.

Woody English, shortstop, is the only regular infielder who has not some ailment. Captain Charlie Grimm yesterday discovered he has a fractured rib, which will require a week of rest, while Lester Bell's throwing arm has been almost useless.

YANKEES BREAK LOOSE IN SIXTH TO SWAMP DALLAS

DALLAS, Texas, April 6—(AP)—The New York Yankees broke loose in the sixth inning of today's exhibition game to score five runs and defeat the Dallas Steers of the Texas league, 12 to 7. The victory gave the Yanks a clean sweep in the two game series here.

George Pipgras pitched the entire game for the Yankees and was in danger only in the seventh inning although he allowed a dozen hits. Lou Gehrig hit a home run in the second inning while Babe Ruth got a double and a single in two times at bat.

Score by innings:

Ruth wrenched a muscle in his right leg rounding second base in the sixth inning and was forced to retire. The injury was rather painful and is expected to keep him out of action for about a week.

JIMMY QUINN STARTS QUEST FOR NATIONAL TITLE TODAY

Jimmy Quinn, former feathweight amateur champion of Connecticut, will be the only Connecticut boy to enter the national A. A. U. boxing tournament which starts at Boston today. Quinn, who has been boxing in and around Providence during the past winter, is in better shape than two years ago when he represented Connecticut in the title contests.

In fact, Quinn is rated as the best featherweight in New England, having met the best boys in this section of the country during the past few months and Jimmy has gotten decisions over them all. Quinn is the logical choice to take the title in his class. What the other sections of the country will produce is a question but if they come any better than Jimmy Quinn they are exceptionally good.

Quinn left for Boston Sunday and will take it easy today and be in his best fighting trim when he goes on in the first trials this evening.

WHITE SOX WINS CLOSE GAME FROM LITTLE ROCK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 6—(AP)—Hard hitting in the early innings today gave the Chicago White Sox a 10 to 9 victory over Little Rock in the final of their three game series.

Ernie Smith was sent to shortstop in place of Bill Hunnefield and celebrated with three hits, including a home run, his first time at bat. Ted Blankenship and Cecil Pat Caraway pitched for the Sox and gave up 13 hits. Score:

STOUT BLANKS PIRATES AND HOUSTON WINS, 5 TO 0

HOUSTON, Texas, April 6—(AP)—The right hand slants of Allyn Stout today subdued the Pittsburgh Pirates who were whitewashed 5 to 0 by Houston of the Texas league in the final game of a four game exhibition series in which the two split even.

Score:

Houston, Texas) .040 001 000—5 8 1

Only One Dodger Below .300

MACON, Ga., April 6—(AP)—The Brooklyn Robins were idle today so they put a few pencils to work and got some encouraging results. They figured out the batting averages for the spring training games and found only Glenn Wright below the .300 mark among the regulars. And from this they drew the conclusion that they will show the National league something about slugging.

Wally Gilbert has a mark of .426 and Al Lopez a .444 average.

What the poor fish in the stream at the presidential Virginia camp talk about.

First Fish: Well I see that the president is due to arrive tomorrow for a day's fishing.

Second Fish: Yes, and I suppose that means that some of us poor suckers have got to make the supreme sacrifice, so that the president can have his picture taken holding us up.

First Fish: You know there's nothing like catching a good string of us fish to make a high official forget the cares of his office. And then he has his constituency to look after. If he didn't catch any of us the folks back home would say, "What good is a man who can't catch fish?" Humans are funny that way.

Second Fish: Yes, I know, but it's kind of tough on us. But I suppose if some of us didn't help out by getting caught they'd dump a lot of those high-hat hatchery fish in here. If there's anything I hate it's a hatchery fish. They don't know anything and still they high hat us. I wonder if humans are that way?

First Fish: Still, I don't know but what it would be a good thing if they did put some hatchery fish in here. As you say they're dumb and they'd swallow that presidential bait like nobody's business just to get their pictures in the paper. And it would save us natives a lotta worry.

Second Fish: Well, that might be true, but just the same I'd rather do as we've been doing, drawing lots to see who makes the sacrifice. I think it's better to keep out these foreigners. Besides the president don't keep any of us under ten inches and that saves the children. Now if them hatchery fish get in here they're liable to set a bad example for the children by gobbling up the bait.

First Fish: Well, we gotta get busy and prepare for tomorrow, the president will be out here early. Get the gang together and we'll have the drawing to see who gets caught tomorrow. It'll give those who lose a chance to settle up their affairs.

Second Fish: All right, but how many get tickets today? Last time 15 of us made up the ticket but we better make it less this week or the public will get suspicious that something's wrong. Guess we better make it 11 this time. You know it wouldn't look well if the president caught 15 of us each time he went out. People would say that he was holding the fish over from week to week.

First Fish: All right, we'll make it 11. Come on, gang, all ready for the drawing.

Second Fish: Well, can you beat that, my number the first one outa the can. Well, I hope the president has some good newsreel men with him tomorrow 'cause that picture of Johnny Trout last week was terrible. Not a speckle showed.

First Fish: Tough luck, old pal, but remember you always got a chance of flopping outa the basket back into the brook. If we let him catch us we've done our part and it's up to him to keep us if he can.

Second Fish: Well, so long, folks, I gotta tell the wife the sad news. I'll be seeing you in the pictures.

ATHLETICS WIN SHORT GAME FROM NEWARK

NEWARK, N. J., April 6—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Newark Bears, of the International league, 5 to 3 here this afternoon, in a contest that was called in the sixth inning on account of rain.

Dibrell Williams, rookie infielder from the Southern association, clouted a home run off Al Mamaux with two men on the bags in the fourth inning to give the Athletics their winning margin.

Glenn Liebhardt, another youngster, pitched for the A's and kept nine Newark hits fairly well scattered. Andy Cohen, former Giant infielder, led the Bears at bat with a double and a triple. The score:

Philadelphia (A) .... 010 400—5 9 0
Newark (Int) .... 100 101—3 9 0

Liebhardt and Schang; Mamaux, Fischer, and Munn.

SHYMA CLUB GETS J. B. MARTIN FIELD FOR OPEN AIR BOXING

Open air boxing is assured the fans of eastern Connecticut through the efforts of the Shyma club of Taftville. The club completed arrangements with the J. B. Martin Co. to use Martin field for the outdoor season. The field will make an ideal place for the open air shows, being easily accessible and having plenty of room for the parking of automobiles.

It is planned to provide seating arrangements for a crowd of between 1500 and 1800 fans in the ball park with seats that will afford a good view of the ring from any place in the arena. Work will start this week in the making of bleachers for the arena and they will be completed by the time of the first open air bouts the latter part of May.

The arrangement planned is to have bleachers extending from each side of the present grand stand toward first and third bases and then other bleachers across the diamond completely enclosing the place. The ring will be set up near home plate with several rows of ringside seats arranged about it.

Dressing rooms, ticket office and storeroom will be built beneath the bleachers. When the bleachers are not used for the bouts they will be moved back along the first and third base lines and will be used by the J. B. Martin baseball team for their Sunday games.

Thus, two sports, baseball and boxing will be benefited by the Shyma club's using the field for open air boxing. Bleachers have long been needed at the Martin field for baseball and the baseball fans will greatly appreciate them.

Plans for the opening card are already being made and several prospective bouts are under consideration for the opening outdoor card, Matchmaker Flynn intends to bring on only nationally known boys for the main bout and with a strong supporting card will give the fans one of the best shows seen in the state in some time. With the enlarged seating capacity it wil be possible for the promoters to secure higher priced boys for their cards than they have been able to do with the limited arrangements at Parish hall. But even with the large seating arrangements it will be hard to get any better bouts than the public has seen right up at Taftville during the past winter.

NOT DEFENDERS OF A. A. U. BOXING TITLES THIS YEAR

BOSTON, April 6—(AP)—The three day battle for the national A. A. U. amateur boxing championships, will open here tomorrow night, and for the first time in many years there will not be a single titleholder returning to defend his honors.

Seven of the eight 1929 champions have either turned professional or retired and the other, Martin Levandowski, of Grand Rapids, Mich., winner of last year's 175 pounds title, is reported to be unavailable because of an injured hand.

There are among this year's 97 entries, however, two of last year's defeated finalists, Augie Curtis, 112 pounder from San Francisco, and Mose Butch, Pittsburgh, 118 pounder, as well as Clarence Doyle, the San Francisco heavyweight, who was defeated in one of last year's semi-final bouts.

This year's tournament has a program built on safe and sane lines. In former years the entry list, clogged with incompetents, was so large that 30 hours of boxing were necessary to arrive at the semi-finals stage. This year's entries were carefully selected and each of the teams were limited to a boxer in each of the eight classes. As a result the trial bouts, spread over two nights, will probably be completed in 12 hours.

CUBS SLAUGHTER BALL TO BEAT HOLLYWOOD

LOS ANGELES, April 6—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today exploded 25 hits, for a 20 to 5 victory over the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast league.

Other home runs were fashioned by Cuyler, who also got three singles, Tolson, Carlson and Hack Wilson. Carlson pitched four innings without being scored upon, and was succeeded by Guy Bush, who was bumped for seven hits and all the Hollywood runs.

Score by innings:

Chicago (NL) . 562 300 400—20 25 3
Hollywood (PL) 000 010 201— 5 12 1

BASKETBALL COACHES HOLD MEETING HERE TODAY

A meeting of the basketball coaches of the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic conference will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Academy to lay plans for the next season.

As it is expected that nearly all schools will be represented in the race next year for the first time since the loop was formed, some interest is attached to today's confab. This meeting is a hold-over from the annual spring meeting, when the business scheduled could not be concluded.

Pelicans Beat Indians In 9th

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 6—(AP)—The New Orleans Pelicans took advantage of weakness displayed by the Cleveland Indians of the American league in the ninth inning of their game here this afternoon, and defeated the major league team 8 to 7.

Belve Bean, Pelican hurler, plainly puzzled the Indians and except for an inning of bad errors, New Orleans completely outclassed the Indians. Bean had been farmed out to New Orleans by Cleveland only a couple of days ago. He held his former teammates to seven hits in seven innings.

THREE CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES TONIGHT AT Y

A triple basketball bill will be presented the Church league fans tonight at the Y when the Phi Delta Nu of the United Congregational church plays the Trinity Methodist quintet. The second game finds the Central Baptist taking on a much improved Jewett City team, and in the third game, the Baltic Methodists will take on the Brothers of Joseph in what will probably be the best game of the evening.

The Methodists, who are now in third place, are favored to win from the Deltas in the opener at 7:30. In the second game the Centrals are favored to nose out the Stronghearts, while the third game is just about a toss up. The second game will start about 8:25 and the third about 9:15. ACADEMY TO PLAY FIRE TEAM THIS WEEK

The Academy has two games this week as the team starts off in earnest on its 1930 schedule. They are both at the campus.

Wednesday the redoubtable Norwich Fire department aggregation, composed of some of the best pinochle and checker players in the city, will be led out to face the bats of the Wildcats and Saturday it is the Alumni team that forms the opposition. Both games are drawing much interest, though in contrasting lights.

The firemen have been planning for this game since last November, when it was arranged and there is not a man-jack of them that does not think they are well able to put it onto the schoolboys. Most of the team is recruited from the ranks with a few outside players thrown in to fill the weak spots. Manager Tracy will put his boys through one of their last workouts this morning at 9:30 at the campus. The full lineup will be announced Tuesday morning.

The Alumni team this year is expected to be the strongest in some time as several of the recent graduates are available for action, including Hal Cummings, Eddie Hamil, Anso Tombari, Red Fagan, etc.

ACTIVE WEEK END AT NORWICH GOLF CLUB

The course at the Norwich Golf club had the appearance of midsummer during the week end, many taking advantage of the fine weather to play the course for the first time. The course itself is fast rounding into shape, the fairways starting to show green and the greens being rather fast for so early in the season. Greenskeeper William Skelly is being kept busy with fixing up the course. The swamp condition under the fifth tee has been cleared up by putting in a cement pipe for the brook and then adding to this a stone drain. The bridge across the brook from the eleventh green to the twelfth tee has been repaired.

The fairways have been rolled as have the greens which are in excellent shape, especially the third which is sheltered by the pine woods. From the number playing over the week end the indications are that there will be much activity at the club this season. Massie B. Miller, pro at the club, has assumed his duties for the season.

State Church League Encounter

Games are being played all over the state to determine the best church team. The Gammas, with their present high sanding, are sure of their second league championship here, and have drawn the winner of the Hartford Church league as their first opponents. It has just been learned that this team is the Hartford Central Baptist church. No fixed plans have been made, but Thursday of this week at the local Y will probably be the scene of the first encounter while the second will probably be at Hartford on Saturday. The game on Thursday will probably be at about 8:30. The preliminary, at about 8:45, will find two rivals opposing each other when the Baltic Methodist team of the local league will attempt to pin a fourth 21 to 20 defeat on the Phi Delta Nu of the United Congregational church. Due to a misunderstanding the Baltic team lost a forfeit in the church league last Monday and are determined to show the Deltas that their three other wins by one point are not at all favored by "Lady Luck."

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM OF TOURNAMENTS ARRANGED FOR NORWICH GOLF CLUB

The tournament committee of the Norwich Golf club has planned an active season for the membership with four major tournaments, besides a tournament every week end. The four major attractions will be the annual invitation tourney July 17-20th, the Memorial Day tourney at which time the club championship will be played, the Fourth of July tourney and the Labor Day event.

With the Norwich inn opening on Memorial day it is expected that there will be much more golf playing at the club this year than in previous years. Already entries for the invitation tournament are being received and a record field is being anticipated. The week end tournaments are attracting considerable attention as this season there will be a variety instead of the straight medal play as in years previous. The tournament play opens on April 26th with a kickers' handicap tournament. The club expects to play plenty of baseball this summer and a schedule is now being arranged.

BURLAP-KNIGHT BOUT DANIELSON FEATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 6.— Danielson and the rest of eastern Connecticut will get its first taste of heavyweight boxing in many, many months on Tuesday night at the town hall. Topping a card of five six-round bouts will be the go between Big Boy Burlap of Westerly and Rocky Knight of Boston. Burlap will weigh around 215 while Knight will come in at about 200 pounds.

Burlap has a wonderful record, doing most of his fighting in Boston, but has not shown around these parts since turning pro. Among some of the heavyweights he has met are Big Boy Rawson, Hambone Kelley, and only the other night he beat Joe Vincha, at Boston, heavyweight protege of Jack Sharkey. A win over a man such as Rocky Knight will mean a lot to him. Rocky Knight has been meeting the leading heavyweights in the world. He is recognized as the colored heavyweight champion of Great Britain. He has done plenty of fighting around Montreal, where at one time he was rated as the best prospect in the heavyweight class, in the Canadian territory. The fans will have an opportunity to see some heavy socking, when these two big fellows meet.

The semi-final, also of six rounds, at 136 pounds, will find Ero Peterson of Worcester, and Wild Man Firpo of Providence exchanging punches. These two boys have been going great guns lately, and both have remarkable records. Peterson has lost only one decision out of 32 bouts, since turning pro. He is meeting a tough boy in Firpo. Firpo has been winning constantly in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. This bout will be between a boxer and a slugger, and that promises a fight.

Other bouts on the card include a six-rounder between Al Koziol of Norwich and Alex Touraine of New Haven; a six rounder between Rene Peloquin of Danielson and Julius Lurkey of Worcester; a six rounder between Cowboy Mickey Flynn of Norwich and Benny Novak of New London, and a four rounder between Al Brouillard of Danielson and Mush Moriarty of Norwich.

The Flynn-Novak bout should attract many fans as Flynn is an old-time boxer who has been in the training camps of Dempsey and Tunney and other noted boxers. He has fought several of the best boys in the game, among them being Carl Tremaine whom he held to a draw in ten rounds. Flynn is fast and punches straight and hard and is in the pink of condition.

Hoovers To Seek Mountain Calm Far Ahead Of White House Custom

CRIGLERSVILLE, Va., April 6—(AP)—With the first buds coming out on the trees and the Rapidan river breaking through the winter's ice, President Hoover and his family will seek their camp in the Blue Ridge mountains.

In selecting early April for the first of his outings the President is doing an unusual thing. May or June is when most white house outings have begun in the past. But the entire Hoover family is united in love of roaming and "gypsying."

In the Blue Ridge mountains where the blue haze hangs over the long slopes and automobile tracks are scarce in the red dirt roads, the Hoovers find that quiet and nearness to nature which they all like. Problems of state fade away in the peace of distant ranges outlined against the sky and in the murmur of the pines and hemlocks.

Since their student days in California the president and Mrs. Hoover have enjoyed hiking. They can do this in the hilly rough country around the Rapidan camp to their hearts' content.

They often tramp several miles over stony rails, pausing now and then to sense the complete, peaceful stillness or to adhere some bit of scenery.

Mr. Hoover is resourceful and independent. A few years ago she motored from California to Washington, accompanied by a Filipino chauffeur and her father. She did much of the driving herself.

She is also an expert rider. She often takes long canters accompanied by an aide or one of the marines who guard the president's camp. She does not shirk at jumps or steep inclines and when the horse has safely covered some tricky bit of ground she pats him and talks to him.

The Hoover boys share their parents' love for the open. Herbert, the older son, spent most of his time while on an early spring visit to the white house, at the fishing camp of Laurence Richey, one of the president's secretaries.

Here, attired in old clothes and with a few men friends for company, the young radio engineer tramped and fished. In the evening he sat by the fire where pipe smoke curled.

When Allan, the younger son, comes down from Harvard for a week end the united instinct of the family is to get into a white house car and head for the country.

U. S. SCHOOLS IMPRESS TEACHERS FROM BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 6—(AP)—Eight Brazilian teachers who spent several months in the United States studying American educational methods under the auspices of the Carnegie foundation have returned here much impressed with elementary instruction in the states visited.

It is likely that many of the methods studied will be used in the schools here.

Since their return the teachers have been interviewed by nearly every newspaper in the capital and in this way American schools and methods have come in for a great deal of publicity.

Manual training and the absolute equality of rich and poor children in the schools studied were two of the important impressions brought back here.

Women Seek Police Jobs

ANGORA, Turkey, April 6—(AP)—Many women are employed by the Turkish republic in its secret service. Women are now demanding that they be allowed to enter the civil police corps.

BRITISH GIRL, 23, ENTERS LONDON BUILDING TRADE

LONDON, April 6—(AP)—Margaret Mercer, a 23-year-old blonde is the latest addition to the ranks of the building trade in London.

Margaret has just passed her final examinations at the London County School of Building at Brixton, where she was one of two women students among 1,300 men.

"Women seem to have more or less free access to everything except building," she said. "Everybody has said that my ambition to be a builder, as my father and grandfather before me, was a peculiar ambition, but I simply can't see it."

She admits that there are a few snags in feminine pursuit of the practical work of the trade—bricklaying, painting, and plumbing. So she is content to remain in the executive and directive end of the work.

PRINTED SILKS FULL OF DOTS AND SPOTS

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—Nothing equals the polka dot and coin spot for popularity in printed fabrics.

Spring style markers, first, second and third class, use the spot pattern in all possible forms and color combinations.

There are new printed chiffons, gray on white ground among the best, with spots the size of saucers spaced at regular intervals.

Interlocking circles are also new and much favored.

FIRST SPRING HATS HAVE NARROW BRIMS

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—It is a wise woman who knows at this stage of the season what width her summer hat brim should be.

Many wide brims and some ultra wide brims are shown here and many more are talked about for midsummer.

But so far the straw hats actually worn have either no brim at all or narrow brims which are lifted off the face at front and side.

LONDON DEB PARTIES DODGE GATE CRASHER

LONDON, April 6—(AP)—Debutante parties in London this year probably will be on a smaller and more intimate scale than in the past, to avoid the evil of gate-crashing which has distressed society for several seasons.

The tremendous balls, with hundreds of invited guests, will give way to smaller parties where the guests can dance in ease and make sure they are meeting no social "outcast."

Astronomy Motif

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—Sun, moon and stars printed on white shantung furnish the pattern for a suit of beach pajamas in the prevailing carnival spirit.

The wide trousers are plain white shantung with applique of the astronomical signs around the ankles.

There is a hip-length coat of the print with wide sash which can be tied around the waist or used as scarf or coat belt.

Spangles on Net

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—Jackets and finger length theater coats of beaded net are the solution of the problem of mid-summer wraps offered by a dressmaker of first order.

Wide mesh net trimmed with sequins is also used for short evening coats. They match the dress in color.

Smart Dinner Bag

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—One of the new hand bags on the market is black antelope or suede trimmed with silver lace stretched over silvered leather.

It is meant to be carried with a lace dinner or theater ensemble.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Change the positions of furniture in the room occasionally an the rug will wear more evenly.

Use stewed dried apricots and prunes for shortcake until the strawberry season arrives.

To keep moths out of rugs that are to be stored, sprinkle them with cayenne pepper and roll up in paper.

When planting small flower or vegetable seeds mix about five times their bulk in fine sand with them.

To make a delicious orange drink, place a slice of tart orange, peel and all, in a cup and fill the cup with hot tea.

Paper labels can be removed very easily from bottles or jars if the face of the labels are wet thoroughly with water and then heated near a flame or stove.

When necessary to keep sandwiches fresh for several hours, place them in an earthern receptacle, cover, and then place this receptacle in a vessel of cold water.

Two or three large clam-shells boiled in a teakettle occasionally will prevent deposits gathering on the inside of the kettle.

Cold sliced cereal rolled in flour, dipped in a beaten egg, then in bread crumbs, and browned in hot bacon fat, makes a delicious breakfast dish.

If you wish to get the full flavor of coffee it should be finely ground and measured in a standard measuring spoon. Ust two level teaspoons to each cup of water.

If you like the flavor of tomato in your Welsh rarebit, instead of adding tomato juice serve sliced tomatoes on toast over which the rarebit has been poured.

Raisins can be stoned in half the time if they are soaked in hot water for a short time, and dates, citron, etc., will cut more easily if thoroughly heated.

IRON SAUCEPANS

Clean iron saucepans with hot soda water and a stiff brush. If you wipe them out first with newspaper, they are not such a chore to wash

LENTEN DISH.

Eggs, stirred in ramkins and topped by a little spinach and plenty of white sauce, are a delicious means of avoiding meat for lunch during Lent.

YELLOW DINNER.

A very pretty yellow dinner plate can be made of yams and apples grilled together, buttered carrots, mashed squash and an omelet roll.

FOR THOSE VANISHING UTENSILS

What to do with the small household accessories that clutter up the kitchen or disappear when you need them the most has always been a perplexing problem. Paring knives, strainers, cake turners and can openers are a few of the pieces that are frequently mislaid.

A small enameled cabinet made especially for such odds and ends is one of the newest aids to housekeeping efficiency. Simply designed and sturdily constructed, it is practical, good looking and easy to care for. A soapy cloth rubbed over the inner and outer surfaces every day will keep the cabinet free of finger prints and other disfiguring marks.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Red lids often ar caused by using the eyes in a poor light.

Dark rings and circles under the eyes are matters calling for medical correction unless due to lack of sleep or anixety.

Make-up must harmonize with the light under which it is to be worn, if it is to impart charm to feminine profiles.

If the lower lip is too full, rouge it lightly. To reduce the size of a large mouth do not carry the lipstick to the extreme edge of the lips and tone down at the corners so that it blends into the natural color.

Train the nails into shape by the daily use of the orange stick. Wind a little piece of absorbent cotton around the end and dip it into olive oil or a cuticle cream. Work the cuticle away from the nail. Each time you wash the hands push the cuticle back.

EYE REST.

An eye rest should be practiced by everybody several times a day. Go to the window and look out toward the horizon for a minute or two. When working, the light should come directly over the left shoulder.

HOMEMADE SHAMPOO.

You can make an excellent shampoo with a small cake of pure mild soap. Shave the soap and reduce it to liquid form. Add a little of the liquid to your head and rub the be quite warm. Rub some of the soap liquid on yuor head and rub the scalp and hair thoroughly with your hands, or you may use a small brush. Wash in a second water, then rinse in at least two warm rinsings.

WINDOW SASHES.

You should oil your window sashes with linseed oil afte a winter of dry heat. To keep them in perfect condition they should be oiled each month.

SHABBY UMBRELLA.

If your umbrella looks a bit shabby, open it and wash it with a brush dipped in ammonia water. Rinse under the shower. Open to dry.

TIME BUDGET.

Many women who work and run an apartment, too, find it saves time to run on an exact schedule, stacking the breakfast dishes until dinner time, marketing for the week's staples on Saturday and other similar things.

TO REMOVE WHITE MARKS.

To remove white marks caused by hot dishes on your dining room table, rub vigorously with warm camphorated oil. Spirits of camphor may be used instead, but requires careful handling. If you use spirits, heat, moisten a rag and rub spots very lightly. When the color has been restored, rub on a light coat of wax, let dry and polish. If you have waxed your table frequently, however, you will have no white marks. The wax builds up a protective covering which heat will not penetrate.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Reds come with an orangy tone or are very clear and vivid, and the next popular color for novelty is blue, from baby to navy.

Peach-Pinks—Vionnet ping, seen so often in combination with brown last season, is replaced for spring by peach pinks.

In the color group green is high. There are numerous shades—variously becoming to many types—for all day long and evening.

Spring coats grow more princess by the day. These are for the more formal wear. Swagger coats are still full, raglan and belted.

Camels hair and other sports coats have gone princess this spring. They are belted, often in suede, and their necklines are soft and lady-like.

Some sleeves are neatly chopped off just above the elbows, some register demure puffs and others attempt a trying three-quarter length surprisingly becoming results.

Grosgrain ribbon comes into its own this spring. It trims hats, binds them, edges scarfs, pipes frocks, makes belts and flowers for party gowns.

TULLE RUFFLES

A Norman Hartnell party frock for spring, in light green, has a low flounce made of tulle ruffles that run zig-zag up and down an accordion-pleated deep flounce of the green tulle.

LACE BOWKNOT

A pink and white dotted Swiss dress for afternoons has a clever lace bowknot trim, made by inserting real Alencon in the yoke, the puff sleeves and across the waistline of the princess frock.

NEW SUIT HAS SLEEVZ CAPES

Whether or not the trend toward capes would influence suit designs has been a question of decided spring interest. The answer seems to be in the affirmative for several of the outstanding suits seen so far are sponsoring either the epaulet cape or the longer sleeve cape. This is such a youthful style and it is just feminine enough to be important in this era of femininity!

CHIC SUIT

A little Paris suit has its skirt with unpressed pleats made of blue and white men's suiting and a short, belted packet of plain blue wool crepe.

OPALINE PINK

Patou's new opaline pink has swept the fashion world. Already lingerie touches on navy blue and black flat crepe frocks show it, black hats have touches of black and pink ribbon and slippers, gloves and lingerie affect it.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

To mend a hole in a silk or worsted garment, unravel a thread or two from the seam.

Be careful not to stretch the collar when sewing it to the blouse, or the garment will not set well about the neck.

Thread often becomes twisted when sewing or embroidering. To avoid this roll the needle toward you occasionally as you sew.

To save time in darning or mending, try basting under the hole a piece of mosquito netting. Then darn in and cut through the meshes of the netting.

When a glove splits or tears, mend it with silk in exactly the same shade. Buttonhole all around the tear closely; make a second row of buttonhole stitches in the first row, and continue thus until the space is filled in. This will form a durable darn that will not be unsightly.

DRESS ELBOWS

With the new long, tight sleeves, elbows come through silk dresses quite easily. Examine your sleeves carefully. If such a catastrophe is imminent, sew a band of silk inside, around the sleeve, by blind stitches, catching it firmly at the seam.

STUDIO EFFECTS

The jazzy paper covers of new books make an effective border for a studio room. Paper the border with them, then shellac it.

LAMP SHADES

Nothing changes a room more than new lamp shades. If the fag end of the winter finds the living room not so alluring as it should be, a lively looking shade may do wonders.

EARLY AMERICAN

A bedspread to cover the early American maple four-poster is made of red and white toile de Jouey, piped with green.

PERFUMED PILLOWS POPULAR

Perfumed pillows and scented furniture polish are becoming popular in London. Good violet scent is held indispensable for some cases of nerves, the costly attar of roses and thyme are believed to have a tonic effect and lavender, verbena and sandalwood to dispel that "tired" feeling.

STAINS IN FLOOR

To remove stains from light colored floors, rub the discolored wood with a cloth dipped in a solution of oxalic acid and water. An adequate solution is four ounces of acid to a quart of hot water. After the discoloration has been removed, wash the spot with vinegar. This will prevent the acid from continuing its work after the surface has been polished.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Young girls from the seafaring stock of the shores of Japan are said to be the best pearl divers in the world.

Miss Gertrude Miller, constable in Lima, O., has made more than 500 arrests. She weighs around 100 pounds.

Mrs. Ethel Peterson, one of the few women seed experts in the world, is employed by the United States government.

Madame Kameneva, aged 28, is chief of police of the central district of Rostov, Russia, and has 3,000 men under her command.

Miss Katherine Duffy, of Irish descent, is the Chilean vice consul in New York city and secretary and treasurer of the Chilean consulate.

Queen Natalie of Serbia, said to be at one time the most beautiful woman in Europe, is a nun of the cloister Notre Dame de Sion, in Paris.

A new divorce record was believed established in Helena, Ark., recently when Judge A. L. Hitchins granted 33 divorces and refused none in one day's court.

TINY PERFUME FLASKS

Tiny perfume flasks to carry in one's purse are useful, and decorative as well, when they are made of pastel tinted enamels. The stoppers are finished with perfume droppers.

APRIL SHOWER HAT PROTECTION

Sudden April showers have no terror for the girl who is prepared with a tam made of thin black rubber, which is guaranteed to fit over any hat and thus protect it from the elements

RECIPES

Fruit Cup: Cut canned pineapple into small cubes, add an equal quantity of grapefruit pulp and place in small glass cups. Pour 2 tablespoons of maple syrup over each serving, sprinkle with chopped nut meats and chill near the ice.

Prunes in Blankets: These are decorative as well as very tasty when served as a garnish to duck, goose, chicken or turkey. Wash and soak some large meaty prunes, then steam them until tender and pit them. Roll a pecan meat in each prune and wrap the prunes in wafer-thin strips of bacon. Fasten with a toothpick, then broil until the bacon is crisp.

Corner Cupboard Decorates Dining Room

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

For the early American home the character of the woodwork and paneling detail is especially significant in its simplicity of design and its balanced proportions.

Fine examples of the originality and exquisite proportions are to be found in many museums or in early American homes.

In many of the old American homes in New England, cupboards, staircases and rich paneling attest to the feeling for flat surfaces, essentially modern in line and balanced in proportion; they may be readily adapted to the homes of modern design to reflect the early colonial theme.

In the accompanying sketch, a corner of the dining room of early American inspiration is shown decorated with corner cupboards. The walls are finished with one of the new delightful plaid papers in a pale beige with deep tan and brown stripes. This is in harmony with the ivory painted woodwork, mantel and cupboards.

The illustration shows one of the cupboards, designed after one in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. The fact that simplicity is the keynote of this model makes this a practical design for the carpenter to copy, or it may be purchased from any manufacturer who carries a full line of interior fittings in period designs.

In this design, the wall space above the cupboard is continued and so gives the effect that the cupboard is an integral part of the room. The cupboard is rectangular in shape with an inner frame in an oval design that discloses four open shelves and a counter shelf, with a closed section at the bottom.

The restrained handling of the woodwork is characteristic of this period with a simple molding that matches the sub-base and the mantel. The lettuce green lining of the cupboard contrasts in striking fashion with the ivory of the woodwork and is a splendid foil for the old pewter, glass or old china that one may wish to display on the open shelves.

The floor treatment is noteworthy, and is consistent with the period of the decoration. The wide planking and pegging, characteristic of the real colonial home is faithfully reproduced in this modern linoleum, in a deep shade of brown.

Print Frock And Plain Coat Paris Favorites For Summer

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—An old idea reaches new heights in spring ensembles of plain and print materials.

Ensembles for sunny weather are typical of the newest and best in Paris style when they combine a plain colored long coat lined with printed silk and a onepiece dress of the same print.

The plain and print costume is the summer town ensemble stressed in most of the big collections here. There are many variations of the theme.

The general trend is toward straight-line coats with narrow collars or cape-collars worn over print dresses of bright, small design, preferably flower paterned.

Some of the midsummer plain and print ensembles have cape-collared sleeveless coats over print dresses with bishop sleeves gathered into a tight cuff. Blue, white, red, black, brown and green are the basic colors for the ensembles with contrasting bright colors worked into the prints.

Hats of plain dark color, preferably of finely woven shiny straw, are the Parisian woman's choice for wear with the ensemble of plain coat and printed dress.

Moderate brims are favored by Parisian women, many of them simple turn-down models with large satin bows in back. Occasionally the hats are lined with the same print as the dress.

Crepe de chine flowers of dress print are strongly revived for spring. So are printed crepe de chine handbags which match the frock.

HOBBLE SKIRTS IN NEAR FUTURE

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—There are whispers, faint and elusive, that hobble skirts are a possibility of the near future at some style houses.

With 20 houses capable of launching a style upheaval turning out between them more than 15,000 serious efforts a year, you can find almost anything you look for in couturiers' salons.

It's when ideas begin to overlap and become tendencies, either at one powerful dress house or several dress houses, that the professional stylists sit up and write cables about it.

One of the trend the stylists are watching very suspiciously just now is the tendency of evening dresses to have many tiers, graduating toward the feet.

When the tiers diminished toward the waist nobody wrote much about it.

But since peplums accustomed the eye to a certain softness and fullness around the hips, hemlines have begun to shrink. Tulle tiered skirts have gone frankly tight at the ankles in a few isolated cases. They recall the pre-war pagoda dresses which led to hobbles, which led to slit skirts from which short skirts eventually evolved.

Without doubt, having led women to long evening skirts by way of picture frocks with ultra full skirts Paris is now working to suppress some of the fullness.

Use of soft materials which fall into long slender lines is leading toward long, slender lines without fullness, many a style expert thinks. The slit skirt is already resorted to in the long tight foundations over which voluminous filmy chiffon and tulle and draped.

Pessimists tell us it is only a matter of time until the drapery is removed and the long, tight skirt is reinstated.

CLUB WOMEN WILL EDIT ISSUE OF DENVER POST

DENVER, April 6—(AP)—An entire edition of the Denver Post on April 8 or 9 will be prepared by the members of the General Federation of Women's clubs which holds its biennial convention here June 5 to 14.

"Ads," editorials and news will be gathered and assembled by the women. They will be given free rein in their choice of news to be presented.

If they choose to leave out murders and scandals the presses will whir without them. Three hundred Denver women are now busy getting "ads" for the womens' edition.

The proceeds for the day will go to the local entertainment fund for the 8,000 or 9,000 women expected to attend the convention.

Less Lipstick For Germans

BERLIN, April 6—(AP)—With the growing objection of Germany's male element to the once so popular lipstick, France is about to have the source of a large revenue curtailed. From France alone 12 hundrerweight of lipsticks valued at 7,500,000 marks were imported into Germany last year.

Smart Spring Cuffs

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—The dainty triangles of lingerie knotted around the wrist which give the fresh spring touch to many new models can be easily made by cutting a pocket handkerchief cornerwise.

The triangle is worn with the point upward and the ends wrapped around and knotted atop the wrist.

Fell Mrs. Hoover's Maples

WATERLOO, Iowa, April 6—(AP)—Large soft maple trees under which Mrs. Hoover played have been felled here. They surrounded the house where Lou Henry, now the president's wife, lived with her parents nearly a half century ago.

Rouge Banned In Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 6—(AP)—American teachers at the Constantinople College for Women, along with all Turkish teachers in Turkish schools, have to sign statements issued by the ministry of education, swearing that they will not use rouge. Powder is still allowed.

Women Invade Primaries

CHICAGO, April 6—(AP)—Twenty-one women have entered the present Illinois primary race, twice the number two years ago.

It must have been good tobacco that Sydney Porter, of New Barking, England, smoked during his lifetime. He left an estate of $4,000, all of which he freely bequeathed to his wife "with the exception of one pipe, pouch of tobacco and a box of matches, which I wish to be buried with me."

Wives Of Congressmen Sparkle As Entertainers At Own Affairs

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Liza roll dem bones! Come on now, all you chillun! Git on boahd!

The scene is not "down on the levee," but in the staid halls of the Congressional club, whose membership, composed of wives of senators and representatives, can furnish enough theatrical talent to put on a whole show.

Mrs David Kinchloe, wife of the representative from Kentucky, is at the piano. She laughs, she sways, she sings and whistles. Every number "goes over big." She has that rare gift of the actress—personality.

She was once on a Chautauqua platform and now contributes generously to the entertainments given by the club during the winter social season. Dressed in black suit and high hat she makes a fine interlocutor in a blackface minstrel skit presented by wives and daughters of congressmen.

Petite and blonde, Mrs. David Hopkins, wife of the representative from St. Joseph, Mo., is another headliner.

She is known as the "littlest member" of the Congressional club, and is a singer. Mrs. Carl R. Chindblom, wife of the representative from Chicago, and an accomplished pianist, often appears on club programs.

Mrs. Porter H. Dale, wife of the senator from Vermont, is president of the club, and Mrs. C. William Ramseyer, wife of the representative from Iowa, vice president.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Truth Pays

Mother had kissed Teddy good night and was about to leave the room when he called her back. "Mother, I want to tell you something. I did something, something naughty. You know the window in Mrs. Miller's garage that got broken the other day? Well, there was a whole bunch of us that did it and I was one of them. I threw stones too. You know she's always so mean to us kids and chases us away, so we thought we'd get even with her. Anyway, I thought I'd tell you."

"Teddy, I'm sorry you did it, but I'm glad you've made a clean breast of it, and I'm very proud that you had the courage to tell me the truth. We'll go see Mrs. Miller tomorrow morning and pay our share of the damage, and in the afternoon I'll take you to a show."

"You see," his mother later explained, "I wanted Teddy to learn that it pays to be truthful."

But does it in fact always thus obviously pay to be truthful? No child can be long out of the nursery before he learns that on the contrary truth telling frequently brings immediately painful results. If we permit ourselves to bribe or to give any reward other than our approval we must sooner or later face the situation which arises when our child learns that it does not necessarily pay to tell the truth. Surely we do not wish to discourage his wish to be truthful by this discovery that it does not always pay in terms of material reward.

A child will learn to be really truthful only gradually and through living among people who are essentially honest, and in an environment which does not penalize truthfulness

Hoovers To Seek Mountain Calm Far Ahead Of White House Custom

CRIGLERSVILLE, Va., April 6—(AP)——With the first buds coming out on the trees and the Rapidan river breaking through the winter's ice, President Hoover and his family will seek their camp in the Blue Ridge mountains.

In selecting early April for the first of his outings the President is doing an unusual thing. May or June is when most white house outings have begun in the past. But the entire Hoover family is united in love of roaming and "gypsying."

In the Blue Ridge mountains where the blue haze hangs over the long slopes and automobile tracks are scarce in the red dirt roads, the Hoovers find that quiet and nearness to nature which they all like. Problems of state fade away in the peace of distant ranges outlined against the sky and in the murmur of the pines and hemlocks.

Since their student days in California the president and Mrs. Hoover have enjoyed hiking. They can do this in the hilly rough country around the Rapidan camp to their hearts' content.

They often tramp several miles over stony rails, pausing now and then to sense the complete, peaceful stillness or to adhere some bit of scenery.

Mr. Hoover is resourceful and independent. A few years ago she motored from California to Washington, accompanied by a Filipino chauffeur and her father. She did much of the driving herself.

She is also an expert rider. She often takes long canters accompanied by an aide or one of the marines who guard the president's camp. She does not shirk at jumps or steep inclines and when the horse has safely covered some tricky bit of ground she pats him and talks to him.

The Hoover boys share their parents' love for the open. Herbert, the older son, spent most of his time while on an early spring visit to the white house, at the fishing camp of Laurence Richey, one of the president's secretaries.

Here, attired in old clothes and with a few men friends for company, the young radio engineer tramped and fished. In the evening he sat by the fire where pipe smoke curled.

When Allan, the younger son, comes down from Harvard for a week end the united instinct of the family is to get into a white house car and head for the country.

U. S. SCHOOLS IMPRESS TEACHERS FROM BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 6—(AP)—Eight Brazilian teachers who spent several months in the United States studying American educational methods under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation have returned here much impressed with elementary instruction in the states visited.

It is likely that many of the methods studied will be used in the schools here.

Since their return the teachers have been interviewed by nearly every newspaper in the capital and in this way American schools and methods have come in for a great deal of publicity.

Manual training and the absolute equality of rich and poor children in the schools studied were two of the important impressions brought back here.

Women Seek Police Jobs

ANGORA, Turkey, April 6—(AP)—Many women are employed by the Turkish republic in its secret service. Women are now demanding that they be allowed to enter the civil police crops.

BRITISH GIRL, 23, ENTERS LONDON BUILDING TRADE

LONDON, April 6—(AP)—Margaret Mercer, a 23-year-old blonde is the latest addition to the ranks of the building trade in London.

Margaret has just passed her final examinations at the London County School of Building at Brixton, where she was one of two women students among 1,300 men.

"Women seem to have more or less free access to everything except building," she said. "Everybody has said that my ambition to be a builder, as my father and grandfather before me, was a peculiar ambition, but I simply can't see it."

She admits that there are a few snags in feminine pursuit of the practical work of the trade—bricklaying, painting, and plumbing. So she is content to remain in the executive and directive end of the work.

PRINTED SILKS FULL OF DOTS AND SPOTS

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—Nothing equals the polka dot and coin spot for popularity in printed fabrics.

Spring style markers, first, second and third class, use the spot pattern in all possible forms and color combinations.

There are new printed chiffons, gray on white ground among the best, with spots the size of saucers spaced at regular intervals.

Interlocking circles are also new and much favored.

FIRST SPRING HATS HAVE NARROW BRIMS

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—It is a wise woman who knows at this stage of the season what width her summer hat brim should be.

Many wide brims and some ultra wide brims are shown here and many more are talked about for midsummer.

But so far the straw hats actually worn have either no brim at all or narrow brims which are lifted off the face at front and side.

LONDON DEB PARTIES DODGE GATE CRASHER

LONDON, April 6—(AP)—Debutante parties in London this year probably will be on a smaller and more intimate scale than in the past, to avoid the evil of gate-crashing which has distressed society for several seasons.

The tremendous balls, with hundreds of invited guests, will give way to smaller parties where the guests can dance in ease and make sure they are meeting no social "outcast."

Astronomy Motif

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—Sun, moon and stars printed on white shantung furnish the pattern for a suit of beach pajamas in the prevailing carnival spirit.

The wide trousers are plain white shantung with applique of the astronomical signs around the ankles.

There is a hip-length coat of the print with wide sash which can be tied around the waist or used as scarf or ost belt.

Spangles on Net

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—Jackets and finger length theater coats of beaded net are the solution of the problem of mid-summer wraps offered by a dressmaker of first order.

Wide mesh net trimmed with sequins is also used for short evening coats. They match the dress in color.

Smart Dinner Bag

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—One of the new hand bags on the market is black antelope or suede trimmed with silver lace stretched over silvered leather.

It is meant to be carried with a lace dinner or theater ensemble.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Change the positions of furniture in the room occasionally an dthe rug will wear more evenly.

Use stewed dried apricots and prunes for shortcake until the strawberry season arrives.

To keep moths out of rugs that are to be stored, sprinkle them with cayenne pepper and roll up in paper.

When planting small flower or vegetable seeds mix about five times their bulk in fine sand with them.

To make a delicious orange drink, place a slice of tart orange, peel and all, in a cup and fill the cup with hot tea.

Paper labels can be removed very easily from bottles or jars if the face of the labels are wet thoroughly with water and then heated near a flame or stove.

When necessary to keep sandwiches fresh for several hours, place them in an earthern receptacle, cover, and then place this receptacle in a vessel of cold water.

Two or three large clam-shells boiled in a teakettle occasionally will prevent deposits gathering on the inside of the kettle.

Cold sliced cereal rolled in flour, dipped in a beaten egg, then in bread crumbs, and browned in hot bacon fat, makes a delicious breakfast dish.

If you wish to get the full flavor of coffee it should be finely ground and measured in a standard measuring spoon. Ust two level teaspoons to each cup of water.

If you like the flavor of tomato in your Welsh rarebit, instead of adding tomato juice serve sliced tomatoes on toast over which the rarebit has been poured.

Raisins can be stoned in half the time if they are soaked in hot water for a short time, and dates, citron, etc., will cut more easily if thoroughly heated.

IRON SAUCEPANS

Clean iron saucepans with hot soda water and a stiff brush. If you wipe them out first with newspaper, they are not such a chore to wash

LENTEN DISH.

Eggs, stirred in ramkins and topped by a little spinach and plenty of white sauce, are a delicious means of avoiding meat for lunch during Lent.

YELLOW DINNER.

A very pretty yellow dinner plate can be made of yams and apples grilled together, buttered carrots, mashed squash and an omelet roll.

FOR THOSE VANISHING UTENSILS

What to do with the small household accessories that clutter up the kitchen or disappear when you need them the most has always been a perplexing problem. Paring knives, strainers, cake turners and can openers are a few of the pieces that are frequently mislaid.

A small enameled cabinet made especially for such odds and ends is one of the newest aids to housekeeping efficiency. Simply designed and sturdily constructed, it is practical, good looking and easy to care for. A soapy cloth rubbed over the inner and outer surfaces every day will keep the cabinet free of finger prints and other disfiguring marks.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Red lids often ar caused by using the eyes in a poor light.

Dark rings and circles under the eyes are matters calling for medical correction unless due to lack of sleep or anixety.

Make-up must harmonize with the light under which it is to be worn, if it is to impart charm to feminine profiles.

If the lower lip is too full, rouge it lightly. To reduce the size of a large mouth do not carry the lipstick to the extreme edge of the lips and tone down at the corners so that it blends into the natural color.

Train the nails into shape by the daily use of the orange stick. Wind a little piece of absorbent cotton around the end and dip it into olive oil or a cuticle cream. Work the cuticle away from the nail. Each time you wash the hands push the cuticle back.

EYE REST.

An eye rest should be practiced by everybody several times a day. Go to the window and look out toward the horizon for a minute or two. When working, the light should come directly over the left shoulder.

HOMEMADE SHAMPOO.

You can make an excellent shampoo with a small cake of pure mild soap. Shave the soap and reduce it to liquid form. Add a little of the liquid to your head and rub the be quite warm. Rub some of the soap liquid on yuor head and rub the scalp and hair thoroughly with your hands, or you may use a small brush. Wash in a second water, then rinse in at least two warm rinsings.

WINDOW SASHES.

You should oil your window sashes with linseed oil afte a winter of dry heat. To keep them in perfect condition they should be oiled each month.

SHABBY UMBRELLA.

If your umbrella looks a bit shabby, open it and wash it with a brush dipped in ammonia water. Rinse under the shower. Open to dry.

TIME BUDGET.

Many women who work and run an apartment, too, find it saves time to run on an exact schedule, stacking the breakfast dishes until dinner time, marketing for the week's staples on Saturday and other similar things.

TO REMOVE WHITE MARKS.

To remove white marks caused by hot dishes on your dining room table, rub vigorously with warm camphorated oil. Spirits of camphor may be used instead, but requires careful handling. If you use spirits, heat, moisten a rag and rub spots very lightly When the color has been restored, rub on a light coat of wax, let dry and polish. If you have waxed your table frequently, however, you will have no white marks. The wax builds up a protective covering which heat will not penetrate.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Reds come with an orangy tone or are very clear and vivid, and the next popular color for novelty is blue, from baby to navy.

Peach-Pinks—Vionnet ping, seen so often in combination with brown last season, is replaced for spring by peach pinks.

In the color group green is high. There are numerous shades—variously becoming to many types—for all day long and evening.

Spring coats grow more princess by the day. These are for the more formal wear. Swagger coats are still full, raglan and belted.

Camels hair and other sports coats have gone princess this spring. They are belted, often in suede, and their necklines are soft and lady-like.

Some sleeves are neatly chopped off just above the elbows, some register demure puffs and others attempt a trying three-quarter length surprisingly becoming results.

Grosgrain ribbon comes into its own this spring. It trims hats, binds them, edges scarfs, pipes frocks, makes belts and flowers for party gowns.

TULLE RUFFLES

A Norman Hartnell party frock for spring, in light green, has a low flounce made of tulle ruffles that run zig-zag up and down an accordion-pleated deep flounce of the green tulle.

LACE BOWKNOT

A pink and white dotted Swiss dress for afternoons has a clever lace bowknot trim, made by inserting real Alencon in the yoke, the puff sleeves and across the waistline of the princess frock.

NEW SUIT HAS SLEEVE CAPES

Whether or not the trend toward capes would influence suit designs has been a question of decided spring interest. The answer seems to be in the affirmative for several of the outstanding suits seen so far are sponsoring either the epaulet cape or the longer sleeve cape. This is such a youthful style and it is just feminine enough to be important in this era of femininity!

CHIC SUIT

A little Paris suit has its skirt with unpressed pleats made of blue and white men's suiting and a short, belted packet of plain blue wool crepe.

OPALINE PINK

Patou's new opaline pink has swept the fashion world. Already lingerie touches on navy blue and black flat crepe frocks show it, black hats have touches of black and pink ribbon and slippers, gloves and lingerie affect it.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

To mend a hole in a silk or worsted garment, unravel a thread or two from the seam.

Be careful not to stretch the collar when sewing it to the blouse, or the garment will not set well about the neck.

Thread often becomes twisted when sewing or embroidering. To avoid this roll the needle toward you occasionally as you sew.

To save time in darning or mending, try basting under the hole a piece of mosquito netting. Then darn in and cut through the meshes of the netting.

When a glove splits or tears, mend it with silk in exactly the same shade. Buttonhole all around the tear closely; make a second row of buttonhole stitches in the first row, and continue thus until the space is filled in. This will form a durable darn that will not be unsightly.

DRESS ELBOWS

With the new long, tight sleeves, elbows come through silk dresses quite easily. Examine your sleeves carefully. If such a catastrophe is imminent, sew a band of silk inside, around the sleeve, by blind stitches, catching it firmly at the seam.

STUDIO EFFECTS

The jazzy paper covers of new books make an effective border for a studio room. Paper the border with them, then shellac it.

LAMP SHADES

Nothing changes a room more than new lamp shades. If the fag end of the winter finds the living room not so alluring as it should be, a lively looking shade may do wonders.

EARLY AMERICAN

A bedspread to cover the early American maple four-poster is made of red and white toile de Jouey, piped with green.

PERFUMED PILLOWS POPULAR

Perfumed pillows and scented furniture polish are becoming popular in London. Good violet scent is held indispensable for some cases of nerves, the costly attar of roses and thyme are believed to have a tonic effect and lavender, verbena and sandalwood to dispel that "tired" feeling.

STAINS IN FLOOR

To remove stains from light colored floors, rub the discolored wood with a cloth dipped in a solution of oxalic acid and water. An adequate solution is four ounces of acid to a quart of hot water. After the discoloration has been removed, wash the spot with vinegar. This will prevent the acid from continuing its work after the surface has been polished.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Young girls from the seafaring stock of the shores of Japan are said to be the best pearl divers in the world.

Miss Gertrude Miller, constable in Lima, O., has made more than 500 arrests. She weighs around 100 pounds.

Mrs. Ethel Peterson, one of the few women seed experts in the world, is employed by the United States government.

Madame Kameneva, aged 28, is chief of police of the central district of Rostov, Russia, and has 3,000 men under her command.

Miss Katherine Duffy, of Irish descent, is the Chilean vice consul in New York city and secretary and treasurer of the Chilean consulate.

Queen Natalie of Serbia, said to be at one time the most beautiful woman in Europe, is a nun of the cloister Notre Dame de Sion, in Paris.

A new divorce record was believed established in Helena, Ark., recently when Judge A. L. Hitchins granted 33 divorces and refused none in one day's court.

TINY PERFUME FLASKS

Tiny perfume flasks to carry in one's purse are useful, and decorative as well, when they are made of pastel tinted enamels. The stoppers are finished with perfume droppers.

APRIL SHOWER HAT PROTECTION

Sudden April showers have no terror for the girl who is prepared with a tam made of thin black rubber, which is guaranteed to fit over any hat and thus protect it from the elements

RECIPES

Fruit Cup: Cut canned pineapple into small cubes, add an equal quantity of grapefruit pulp and place in small glass cups. Pour 2 tablespoons of maple syrup over each serving, sprinkle with chopped nut meats and chill near the ice.

Prunes in Blankets: These are decorative as well as very tasty when served as a garnish to duck, goose, chicken or turkey. Wash and soak some large meaty prunes, then steam them until tender and pit them. Roll a pecan meat in each prune and wrap the prunes in wafer-thin strips of bacon. Fasten with a toothpick, then broil until the bacon is crisp.

Corner Cupboard Decorates Dining Room

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

For the early American home the character of the woodwork and paneling detail is especially significant in its simplicity of design and its balanced proportions.

Fine examples of the originality and exquisite proportions are to be found in many museums or in early American homes.

In many of the old American homes in New England, cupboards, staircases and rich paneling attest to the feeling for flat surfaces, essentially modern in line and balanced in proportion; they may be readily adapted to the homes of modern design to reflect the early colonial theme.

In the accompanying sketch, a corner of the dining room of early American inspiration is shown decorated with corner cupboards. The walls are finished with one of the new delightful plaid papers in a pale beige with deep tan and brown stripes. This is in harmony with the ivory painted woodwork, mantel and cupboards.

The illustration shows one of the cupboards, designed after one in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. The fact that simplicity is the keynote of this model makes this a practical design for the carpenter to copy, or it may be purchased from any manufacturer who carries a full line of interior fittings in period designs.

In this design, the wall space above the cupboard is continued and so gives the effect that the cupboard is an integral part of the room. The cupboard is rectangular in shape with an inner frame in an oval design that discloses four open shelves and a counter shelf, with a closed section at the bottom.

The restrained handling of the woodwork is characteristic of this period with a simple molding that matches the sub-base and the mantel. The lettuce green lining of the cupboard contrasts in striking fashion with the ivory of the woodwork and is a splendid foil for the old pewter, glass or old china that one may wish to display on the open shelves.

The floor treatment is noteworthy, and is consistent with the period of the decoration. The wide planking and pegging, characteristic of the real colonial home is faithfully reproduced in this modern linoleum, in a deep shade of brown.

Print Frock And Plain Coat Paris Favorites For Summer

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—An old idea reaches new heights in spring ensembles of plain and print materials.

Ensembles for sunny weather are typical of the newest and best in Paris style when they combine a plain colored long coat lined with printed silk and a onepiece dress of the same print.

The plain and print costume is the summer town ensemble stressed in most of the big collections here. There are many variations of the theme.

The general trend is toward straight-line coats with narrow collars or cape-collars worn over print dresses of bright, small design, preferably flower paterned.

Some of the midsummer plain and print ensembles have cape-collared sleeveless coats over print dresses with bishop sleeves gathered into a tight cuff. Blue, white, red, black, brown and green are the basic colors for the ensembles with contrasting bright colors worked into the prints.

Hats of plain dark color, preferably of finely woven shiny straw, are the Parisian woman's choice for wear with the ensemble of plain coat and printed dress.

Moderate brims are favored by Parisian women, many of them simple turn-down models with large satin bows in back. Occasionally the hats are lined with the same print as the dress.

Crepe de chine flowers of dress print are strongly revived for spring. So are printed crepe de chine handbags which match the frock.

HOBBLE SKIRTS IN NEAR FUTURE

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—There are whispers, faint and elusive, that hobble skirts are a possibility of the near future at some style houses.

With 20 houses capable of launching a style upheaval turning out between them more than 15,000 serious efforts a year, you can find almost anything you look for in couturiers' salons.

It's when ideas begin to overlap and become tendencies, either at one powerful dress house or several dress houses, that the professional stylists sit up and write cables about it.

One of the trend the stylists are watching very suspiciously just now is the tendency of evening dresses to have many tiers, graduating toward the feet.

When the tiers diminished toward the waist nobody wrote much about it.

But since peplums accustomed the eye to a certain softness and fullness around the hips, hemlines have begun to shrink. Tulle tiered skirts have gone frankly tight at the ankles in a few isolated cases. They recall the pre-war pagoda dresses which led to hobbles, which led to slit skirts from which short skirts eventually evolved.

Without doubt, having led women to long evening skirts by way of picture frocks with ultra full skirts Paris is now working to suppress some of the fullness.

Use of soft materials which fall into long slender lines is leading toward long, slender lines without fullness, many a style expert thinks. The slit skirt is already resorted to in the long tight foundations over which voluminous filmy chiffon and tulle and draped.

Pessimists tell us it is only a matter of time until the drapery is removed and the long, tight skirt is reinstated.

CLUB WOMEN WILL EDIT ISSUE OF DENVER POST

DENVER, April 6—(AP)—An entire edition of the Denver Post on April 8 or 9 will be prepared by the members of the General Federation of Women's clubs which holds its biennial convention here June 5 to 14.

"Ads," editorials and news will be gathered and assembled by the women. They will be given free rein in their choice of news to be presented.

If they choose to leave out murders and scandals the presses will whir without them. Three hundred Denver women are now busy getting "ads" for the womens' edition.

The proceeds for the day will go to the local entertainment fund for the 8,000 or 9,000 women expected to attend the convention.

Less Lipstick For Germans

BERLIN, April 6—(AP)—With the growing objection of Germany's male element to the once so popular lipstick, France is about to have the source of a large revenue curtailed. From France alone 12 hundrerweight of lipsticks valued at 7,500,000 marks were imported into Germany last year.

Smart Spring Cuffs

PARIS, April 6—(AP)—The dainty triangles of lingerie knotted around the wrist which give the fresh spring touch to many new models can be easily made by cutting a pocket handkerchief cornerwise.

The triangle is worn with the point upward and the ends wrapped around and knotted atop the wrist.

Fell Mrs. Hoover's Maples

WATERLOO, Iowa, April 6—(AP)—Large soft maple trees under which Mrs. Hoover played have been felled here. They surrounded the house where Lou Henry, now the president's wife, lived with her parents nearly a half century ago.

Rouge Banned In Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 6—(AP)—American teachers at the Constantinople College for Women, along with all Turkish teachers in Turkish schools, have to sign statements issued by the ministry of education, swearing that they will not use rouge. Powder is still allowed.

Women Invade Primaries

CHICAGO, April 6—(AP)—Twenty-one women have entered the present Illinois primary race, twice the number two years ago.

It must have been good tobacco that Sydney Porter, of New Barking, England, smoked during his lifetime. He left an estate of $4,000, all of which he freely bequeathed to his wife "with the exception of one pipe, pouch of tobacco and a box of matches, which I wish to be buried with me."

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Truth Pays

Mother had kissed Teddy good night and was about to leave the room when he called her back. "Mother, I want to tell you something. I did something, something naughty. You know the window in Mrs. Miller's garage that got broken the other day? Well, there was a whole bunch of us that did it and I was one of them. I threw stones too. You know she's always so mean to us kids and chases us away, so we thought we'd get even with her. Anyway, I thought I'd tell you."

"Teddy, I'm sorry you did it, but I'm glad you've made a clean breast of it, and I'm very proud that you had the courage to tell me the truth. We'll go see Mrs. Miller tomorrow morning and pay our share of the damage, and in the afternoon I'll take you to a show.

"You see," his mother later explained, "I wanted Teddy to learn that it pays to be truthful."

But does it in fact always thus obviously pay to be truthful? No child can be long out of the nursery before he learns that on the contrary truth telling frequently brings immediately painful results. If we permit ourselves to bribe or to give any reward other than our approval we must sooner or later face the situation which arises when our child learns that it does not necessarily pay to tell the truth. Surely we do not wish to discourage his wish to be truthful by this discovery that it does not always pay in terms of material reward.

A child will learn to be really truthful only gradually and through living among people who are essentially honest and in an environment which does not penalize truthfulness

Wives Of Congressmen Sparkle As Entertainers At Own Affairs

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Liza roll dem bones! Come on now, all you chillun! Git on boahd!

The scene is not "down on the levee," but in the staid halls of the Congressional club, whose membership, composed of wives of senators and representatives, can furnish enough theatrical talent to put on a whole show.

Mrs David Kinchloe, wife of the representative from Kentucky, is at the piano. She laughs, she sways, she sings and whistles. Every number "goes over big." She has that rare gift of the actress—personality.

She was once on a Chautauqua platform and now contributes generously to the entertainments given by the club during the winter social season. Dressed in black suit and high hat she makes a fine interlocutor in a blackface minstrel skit presented by wives and daughters of congressmen

Petite and blonde, Mrs. David Hopkins, wife of the representative from St. Joseph, Mo., is another headliner.

She is known as the "littlest member" of the Congressional club, and is a singer. Mrs. Carl R. Chindblom, wife of the representative from Chicago, and an accomplished pianist, often appears on club programs.

Mrs. Porter H. Dale, wife of the senator from Vermont, is president of the club, and Mrs. C. William Ramseyer, wife of the representative from Iowa, vice president.

GRADUAL RECOVERY WAS NOTED IN THE BUSINESS WORLD LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, April 6—(AP)—Industrial and business reports during the past week, the first week of the spring quarter, were generally more cheerful than at any time since early February. Expansion of operations was marked by conservatism and caution, but with the idea that recovery must be gradual now generally accepted, the gains of the week did much to improve business sentiment.

Gains in wholesale and retail trade, while visible, have been slight. Manufacturing activity, however, showed substantial acceleration, particularly in steel, automobiles, textiles and shoes. With Easter coming several weeks later this year than last, the retail trade situation has remained somewhat vague. Fairly normal beginnings of the pre-Easter buying, however, have appeared.

Steel mill operations were stepped up about 3 per cent during the past week, and are now reported averaging above 78 per cent with the approach of spring weather, more satisfactory reports of automobile sales are appearing, and increased takings of steel by automobile manufacturers has helped the steel situation.

Freight car loadings, as reported for the week ended March 22, showed a slight reduction from the previous week, nevertheless the movement of general merchandise, as measured by loadings of miscellaneous freight alone, gained a little.

Government reports for the first two months of the year indicated gasoline consumption 15 per cent greater than for the like period of last year. Crude production appears to be well in hand.

The copper situation also appears to be improving, the industry has been somewhat depressed of late owing to the waiting attitude of buyers, who doubt the ability of large producers to maintain the 18 cent a pound level. Consumption, both foreign and domestic, gained somewhat last week.

Both wool and cotton were firmer, and the wheat market displayed considerable buoyancy in reflection of reports of crop damage.

SEX QUESTION COMES UP IN CENSUS ENUMERATION

In 1920 there were 104 men to every 100 women in the United States. Whether this ratio has risen or fallen will be one of the most important facts to be determined by the 1930 census, according to Dr. Joseph A. Hill, acting director of the census, who has pointed out that the relative number of males to females is one of the most fundamental factors to be considered in any analysis of society.

The sex question has always had an important place among the list of questions asked by the enumerators at each decennial census of the United States, Dr. Hill said. Even in the first very simple census taken in 1790, when only four questions were on the census schedule, one of them concerned the sex of the white persons enumerated. The sex of Negroes was not considered important enough to be recorded until the census of 1840, when members of the colored race were registered according to sex for the first time by the census bureau.

Males Always More Numerous.

As far back as the records go, there have always been more males than females in the United States. In 1790, the sex ratio for the white population was 103.8 to 100, the early frontier days of our history called for men more strongly than for women.

The continued excess of males in the United States is accounted for mainly by immigration, since males immigrate in larger numbers than females. This explains the fact that the excess of males reached its maximum in 1910, at the end of a decade of the heaviest immigration this country had ever known. The sex ratio then went to 106 to 100. In 1920 it had dropped to 104 to 100, due largely to the restricted immigration during the war, and to the number of American men who remained in Flanders Fields.

In the European countries from which our immigrants came there is, as one would expect, a deficiency of males. The present deficiency in European countries, however, is not solely the result of emigration. It reflects also the depletion of males through the World war, in which eight million or more soldiers were killed or fatally wounded. As a consequence the number of males per 100 females fell from 93.7 to 91.2 in England, from 97.4 to 91.0 in Germany, and from 96.6 to 90.6 in France.

More Women In New England.

Within the United States the sex ratio shows a wide range of variation in different sections and localities. It is high on the Pacific coast, where there are, or were in 1920, 114 males to 100 females. In New England, on the other hand, there is a slight deficiency of males—98.5 males to 100 females. The variations are doubtless largely accounted for by the migration of people from one part of the country to another. In the westward migration that has been going on within the United States, as well as in the immigration from Europe, there is a majority of males.

The state having the largest excess of males in 1920 was Nevada, 148 males to 100 females, Wyoming ranking next with a ratio of 131 to 100.

Variations In Cities

There is a wide range of variation also in the sex ratio for different cities. Taking the cities that had a population of over 100,000 in 1920, the excess of males was greatest in Akron, Ohio, 140 males to 100 females; while the most marked deficiency of males was in Washington, D. C., where there were only 87 males to 100 of the opposite sex. The proportion of males in the population of any community is affected in some degree by the nature of the principal industries. It is noteworthy that in Detroit the number of males per 100 females increased from 107 in 1910 to 119 in 1920. This no doubt reflects the increasing employment of men in the manufacture of automobiles.

It is of interest to inquire what the ratio of males to females is or would be if not affected by immigration. It is a statistically established fact that the number of male births is slightly greater than the number of female. But for some reason, which biologists apparently have not yet fathomed, the female infant is more tenacious of life than her baby brother, who consequently does not maintain the numerical superiority which he had at the outset. By the time the rising generation reaches maturity the two sexes are very nearly equal in numbers.

The information obtained through the census as to the number of males and females in the population is indispensable in the calculation of life tables, in the determination of mortality rates, and in studying the incident of disease. It is knowledge that is needed in business, in legislation and in other connections

ORDINATION OF DEACONS IS HELD AT NEW ENGLAND SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 6.—The ordination service at the New England southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was held this afternoon at 3:30. In his address Bishop Frederick C. Leete spoke from the text I Corinthians, 12:31, "Covet earnestly the best gifts. Among these gifts he named three which he named as wisdom, industry, and love, and concerning each he spoke a few words showing something of its respective value.

The bishop then proceeded to ordain as deacons the following: Harvey Mowsley, Urban E. Willis, Sydney Adams, Kenneth B. Holmes, Edmund A. Miller, Chester W. Ham, C. H. Shackelford and Ellery J. Beal. Assisted by other elders, Bishop Leete ordained as elders the following: John W. Annas, Jr., Hartzell E. Buckner, Arnold F. Waring, Jasper H. Cox and L. P. McLennan.

Love Feast Held

At 8 in the morning the love feast was held with Rev. J. Homer Slutz in charge. The clergymen assisting in the service included the three district superintendents, Revs. M. E. Genter, E. E. Wells and E. E. Story, together with the pastor, Rev. C. E. Spaulding and Rev. Elmer Page, the assistant pastor of the local church.

Bishop Leete based his excellent message on the words found in John 8:12, "I am the light of the world."

Saturday Meetings

The conference session Saturday morning was mostly given to the consideration of the different candidates in the classes who are in the courses of study.

Bishop Leete announced that he had heard a rumor that some of the young men were hesitant about signing satisfactory answers to the two questions which are required to be answered in writing. He said that there could be no alternative if these young men care to enter our ministry, as that is the law of the church. The two questions in brief are these: (1) Are you in debt so as to embarrass you in the work of the ministry? (2) Will you wholly abstain from the use of tobacco? Said the bishop: If you want to be in debt or if you want to use tobacco, there will be no hard feelings on our part if you go where these things are allowed.

Action was taken as follows: Approved for first year—Paul L. Brooks, John A. Douglas, William E. Gillett, Ernest P. Goulder, Cyril B. Hartman, Harvey Mowsley, Arnold F. Waring, Gordon F. Wells; admitted on trial, C. Homer Ginn, Urban E. Willis, Sydney Adams, Kenneth B. Holmes, Edmund A. Miller, Jasper Cox, Chester W. Ham; graduated: H. E. Buckner, Roy L. Whiting; advanced to fourth year: James E. Greer, John F. Oliveira.

One of the great moments in the duration of a conference is usually the bishop's address to the class entering the full membership of the conference and this was no exception. The class included the following: R. J. Martin, J. Wesley Annas, Jr., and Peter Palches. The bishop's address was upon "The Guidance of the Holy Spirit." It was practical, helpful and inspiring and made a deep impression. Following the address the usual disciplinary questions were asked and answered satisfactorily and the candidates welcomed to the full membership.

The reception to the ministers' wives, daughters, and deaconesses, was held in the church parlor at 3 in the afternoon.

The automobile drive at 4 o'clock was enjoyed by a large group of the ministers and others. The chief point of interest was the Submarine base, where a large number were able to go aboard the submarines and were shown many courtesies by the officers and men who gave up their Saturday afternoon half-holiday for this purpose. The S-4, which was sunk off Provincetown and later raised again about three years ago, was one of the boats visited.

The Epworth league banquet at the Mohican hotel at 6 o'clock was so largely attended that the large ball room assigned for this function could not accommodate all and another of the spacious rooms in the hotel was used to accommodate the overflow. Room was made, however, for the latter to go in and listen to the after-dinner addresses by the removal of the tables at that time. Rev. James V. Claypool, conference president, was toastmaster and Rev. John E. Montgomery of Newport, Vt., was the speaker.

The joint recital given by Miss Roberta Bitgood, organist, and by Justin Lawrie, tenor, Saturday evening, was a fine revelation of the powers of both these talented artists.

Conference Notes

E. C. Prettyman, newly-elected secretary of the Connecticut Anti-Saloon league, thrilled the audience in a brief speech Saturday morning when he declared that "We are in a winning fight," and gave brief facts to prove it that it would be hard to refute.

The committee on the seat of the general conference for 1932, including A. D. Parker, C. E. Spaulding and W. H. Bath, reported in favor of concurrence with the New Jersey conference in inviting the general conference of 1932 to meet in Atlantic City, and the conference voted its approval with a hearty unanimity.

The new officers of the Ministers' Wives' association are as follows: President, Mrs. S. T. Lippincott, Central Falls, R. I.; vice-presidents, the wives of the three district superintendents, Mrs. E. E. Wells, Mrs. E. E. Story, Mrs. M. E. Genter; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. George Smith Brown, Mapleville, R. I.

BOY SCOUTS FIGHT FOREST FIRE SUCCESSFULLY

The Boy Scout Patrol Leaders' hike to sandy desert, at Trading Cove, on Saturday, culminated in a hard fight with a forest fire which took approximately two hours to control. The burned area about a half mile south of Dr. Donohue's property was over a mile in circumference. The scouts divided their party in half and forced the fire into a wedge shape by working in from both sides using axes and fir trees. Hands and faces were scorched by the heat, but the boys stuck at their task until they finally met at the point of the V-shaped flames and the fire was put out.

The scouts observed the smoke at 5 o'clock, just as they were making preparations to return home after an arduous day of scout activities. Putting it to vote they decided unanimously to hike to the scene of the fire and offer their assistance. When they reached the spot they found the fire being swept along with a brisk wind and only two men fighting it. They immediately set to with a dozen axes and fir trees cutting and beating at the flames. At first they were quite successful but as they forced the fire into a wedge shape it seemed to travel faster and faster. It was a thrilling moment when the two parties came together and the scouts realized they had won.

The patrol leaders left scout headquarters at 9 a. m. sharp for the sandy desert. Three patrols, the Panthers, the Beavers, and Flying Eagles went ahead and made an ambush at the entrance gate to the desert, while the patrol known as the snakes was given a skull as contraband to smuggle through the lines. The snakes failed when in the rush Patrol Leader Walter Goring, who substituted the skull for his mess kit, was caught and the substitution discovered.

Arriving at the desert each patrol elected to do some project; those chosen were: Building a six-foot high model bridge out of white birches, building a 20-foot signalling tower, building a campers' lean to, and laying a 25 minute tracking trail. These projects occupied the attention of the scouts until noon, when fortunately a truck hauling sand offered to take all the cut birches into the armory where they will later be used in the coming scout jamboree.

For dinner the scouts cooked vegetables and meat and bread. Different kinds of fires were made and the meal generally was declared to be quite good. Following dinner the scouts hiked to the river where a rock throwing contest was held and a discussion on "Leaving a camping hike site as clean as you found it." Many helpful suggestions were made by the leaders on how to accomplish this difficult task. The tracking trail proved to have been well laid and the treasure, a pie, was not discovered until after a long search. With the arrival of Scoutmaster Walter Weidman, games were played of Who's Afraid of Me? Capture the Fortress Flag, etc. Scoutmaster Howard Ludlow also joined the group and entertained the boys with a number of games which became instantly popular. At 4.30 p. m. the scouts had a weiner and marshmallow roast and were packing up to come home when the fire was discovered.

Scoutleaders in charge of the hike were Art Collins, John Sellman, who were joined by Walter Weidman and Howard Ludlow. Patrol leaders enrolled in the course were: Walter Gording, Charles White, Earl Johnson, Harold Budzek, Ben Bedett, Daniel Downing, William McDonald, Walter Chapman, J. Mahoney, John Schwartain, Harry Turner, James Dennis, James Chester, Charles Romaouski, Elvin Schlein, of the Panther patrol, Howard Taber, Ralph Sinay, George Lichenstein, James Coughlin, William Hinchliffe, Arthur Driscoll, John Laudone, Raymond Hotchkiss, James Pina, of the Beaver patrol; Westley Sholes, John Cox, Gordon Johnson, Jerome McGie, Russell Yerrington, Joseph Maruzo, William Galligan, Herbert Chapman, James Armstrong, John Riley of the Flying Eagles patrol.

According to the local scout headquarters all leaders who helped fight the fire who pass the requirements for forest guide will receive a badge from the fire warden at the next court of honor. At the suggestion of the leaders, probably either in May or June, a mobilization will be made of all scouts to prepare them to be in readiness for an emergency such such arise. Axes for fighting the fires were furnished by the Connecticut Light & Power Co.

RHODE ISLAND REDS LEADING AT STORRS

The hens in the Storrs egg laying contest continued to pile up almost amazing totals. They are now beginning the fifth month of the project. They have started April with a bang, a batting average of .766, the highest weekly yield of the year.

This production of nearly 77 per cent in the twenty-second week means a total of 5,363 eggs that augments the previous week's production by 109 eggs and is 548 eggs more than for the corresponding week last year.

Pine Hill Poultry Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Weston, Mass., that headed the list last week is again the vanguard with a total of 67 eggs, only three short of a perfect score. George B. Treadwell's pen of he same breed from Spencer, Mass., managed to elude the Rocks, Leghorns and other Reds with which it tied last week and came through second best for the week with a tally of 64 eggs.

For third and fourth place there is a mix-up of eight pens of which five are tied for third place. Leslie A. Allen's pen of Australorps from Pittsford, eVrmont, W. Otis Day's pen of Reds from Westford, Mass., and three pens of Barred Rocks entered by Lewis Farms of Davisville, R. I., R. C. Cobb's of Littleton, Mass., and James Dryden of Modesto, Cal., all tied with 63 eggs each. Two pens of Reds owned by F. H. Sampson of Springfield, Mass., and Scott Poultry Farm at Groton, Mass., tied with Spring Brook Poultry Farm's pen of Rocks from South Wethersfield, Conn., with 62 eggs each.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—The Locusts, West Cornwall, 1216; Fisher P. Farm, Ayton, On., Canada, 1029.

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb Littleton, Mass., 1157; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 1156; Spring Brook P. Farm, So. Wethersfield, Conn., 1123.

GOVERNMENT GUIDED TRIP FOR GOLD STAR MOTHERS

R. O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, has received from national headquarters, details of the gold star mothers' voyage to France, which is scheduled to start May 7th. Under the direction of the war department plans are being rapidly completed for the pilgrimage to Europe of American Gold Star mothers and widows of World war veterans buried overseas. The movement which was sponsored by The American Legion will get underway on May 7 when the S. S. America will sail for France carrying widows and mothers from the state of Nebraska. The priority of states was determined recently in a drawing made by Mrs. Herbert Hoover. The Legion departments which will immediately follow Nebraska are Florida, Delaware, Kentucky, Ohio, Arkansas, Iowa, Montana, Porto Rico and Oklahoma.

The plans have been worked out by the war department in such minute detail that each Gold Star mother or widow will be able to tell in advance, almost to the hour, how and where her time will be spent on the entire trip. All arrangements have been made by the government and about the only thing those making the trip will have to do is to provide themselves with passports, and this procedure has been made as simple as possible. Transportation and expense money from their respective homes to New York will be sent in advance and on arrival they will be met by army officers and escorted to first class hotels where reservations have been made.

The stay in New York will be from 4 to 48 hours. At the proper time they will be escorted to the steamship on which passage has been arranged and quartered in cabin class accommodations. The ocean voyage will last about eight days and when the ships dock at Cherbourg, France, each party will be met by officers especially detailed for the purpose and taken in a special train to Paris where first class hotel quarters have been reserved.

The first day in Paris will be devoted to resting. On the second day the women of each party will place a wreath on the tomb of the French unknown soldier and attend a reception in which the French war mothers, government officials and prominent civilians will participate. On the third morning the groups going to the different cemeteries will leave Paris, travelling in motor buses, and proceed to the cemeteries where they will remain for about seven days. Twenty-five women will be assigned to each bus and an army officer will have charge of the bus.

The itineraries to and from the cemeteries and the daily itineraries while at the cemeteries have been varied so as to take in points of historical interest as well as some parts of the battlefields where American troops were engaged. Upon return to Paris each party will remain for about five days and during this time an opportunity will be given to see the points of historical interest in Paris and vicinity. The entire duration of the stay in Europe will be fourteen days. Except in the case of illness, or other unavoidable cause, it will not be possible for any woman taking the trip to remain in Europe for a longer period than fourteen days nor to leave the party with which she is traveling unless she is prepared to pay all of her expenses after leaving the party.

POETRY

His High Places

O trembling saints, faint-hearted yet pursuing,
'Mid mad world-noise of base, discordant strings;
Let not the things thine eyes of sense are viewing
Obscure thy vision of eternal things.
Look up to Jesus; trust ye in His care;
Mount His high places; walk ye with Him there.

He is thy strength, the God of thy salvation;
'Gainst thee the gates of hell shall not prevail.
His truth shall spread from nation unto nation;
He has declared: His promise cannot fail.
Look up to Jesus; trust ye in His care;
Mount His high places; walk ye with Him there.

Lo! o'er the world begin His kingdom in!
Rise up with Him to bring its fulness in!
Sure as His throne, His cause shall be victorious;
His truth and love in righteousness shall win.
Look up to Jesus: trust ye in His care;
Mount His high places; walk ye with Him there.

—Edgar C. Mason, in Presbyterian Advance.

To April

Sweet April eyes, that Swim with tears awhile
Then as the clouds clear from your brow,
Your eyes do smile.

We love your tenderness,
Your tears that fall
Unto the earth's soft waiting breast,
To sup them all.

Your breath that warms
How fair your smiles,
On tender budding things
Along the miles.

—Eva Howe, in the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Daughter—"He says he thinks I'm the nicest girl in town. Shall I ask him to call?"

Mother—"No, dear; let him keep on thinking so."—Exchange.

Collegiate Joe—Bill's car hasn't got as much vibration as mine.

Collegiate Sam—Heavens, no! You can read the wisecracks on his without stopping the engine.—Pathfinder.

While in Switzerland a traveler was about to make an ascent, when he thought he might as well institute some inquiries about the guide who was to accompany him.

"Is he a thoroughly skilled climber?" he asked his hotel keeper.

"I should say so," was the reply. "He has lost two parties of tourists down the mountainside, and each time has come off without as much as a scratch himself."—Montreal Star.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Howard Company, New Haven.

The name of this company was originally The E. A. Chatfield company, organized in 1889 under a special charter and in 1893 was consolidated with The New Haven Fire Brick company with H. M. Howard as proprietor. The name was changed in 1903 to The Howard company.

While the company has been actively engaged in the wholesale and retail mason supply business, as well as dealers in coal and automobiles, it has given special attention to the manufacture of fire brick in any grade and shape desired, originally carried on by The New Haven Fire Brick company. The company has always endeavored to keep abreast of the times and at present is using a modern auto-brik machine in the manufacture of this product.

For a period of 40 years the company has supplied high grade refractories to foundries, ammunition factories, and manufacturers of brass, nickel and iron products throughout the state of Connecticut and southern Massachusetts.

It has both water and rail facilities, maintains a fleet of auto trucks and is in a position to give its customers the best of service at all times.

Its growth has been steady, the original capital being $25,000 and the present capital $321,000. This expansion has been due largely to the untiring efforts of its president, H. M. Howard, Sr.

The present officers are: H. M. Howard, Sr., president; E. E. Howard, treasurer; H. M. Howard, Jr., assistant treasurer; U. S. Clark, secretary; R. C. Howard, assistant secretary; A. D. Howard, superintendent.

Palace Theater

"Party Girl," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Marie Provost, which is being shown at the Palace theater today and tomorrow, brings to the motion picture patrons of Norwich something entirely new in movie plots. This story which has been hailed by the critics of the land as the most daring of disclosures, deals with an almost unknown phase of night life in large cities. Here for the first time is the amazing truth about the professional party girl and the role she plays in the business as well as the social lives of many men who are the leaders of industry.

Hired by large business firms to enchant and cajole the well known "Tired Business Man" it is the duty of these beautiful girls to convince the "T. B. M." in the settlement of the proposition at hand in favor of the corporation by which they are employed. The devices and schemes by which these clever young women accomplish their tasks is realistically shown in the startling picture "Party Girl."

The story deals with Jay Rountree, young son of a manufacturer who is firmly opposed to party girls, and his unfortunate experience with one who is in financial distress and out for personal gain. It depicts the disruption of his happy love affair and the grief of his father and sweetheart whose lives are almost wrecked by this plotting woman. Only after much sorrow and pain have been endured is the situation relieved and the foolish boy finds that he has been taught the lesson of his life.

There is much to be enjoyed in the picture and it is enlivened greatly by the excellent music which is provided by the famous Biltmore orchestra for the singing and dancing. No one should miss this fine all-talking picture and everyone should hear the new song hits, "Oh, How I Adore You" and "Farewell."

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week the Palace will present an excellent double-feature bill including "Free and Easy," a comedy sensation starring Buster Keaton and "The Locked Door," featuring Rod LaRocque and Barbara Stanwyck.

Breed Theater

With a deluge of musicals, mystery stories, love dramas and the like, "Harmony At Home," all talking Fox Movietone production directed by Hamilton McFadden, which opened at the Breed theater last night for a four days' engagement is something to welcome with open arms.

In fact, it comes upon the entertainment horizon as a refreshing breeze on a warm summer day.

"Harmony At Home," adapted from the successful stage play, "The Family Upstairs," written by Harry Delf, is a document on the screen as human as life itself.

The central figures in the story are Joe Heller, played by William Collier, Sr., beloved stage star. Collier is the presumable head of a family consisting of a wife, played by Elizabeth Patterson, the older daughter, played by Marguerite Churchill, the only son, played by Charles Eaton and the irrepressible and mischievous younger daughter, played by Charlotte Henry.

"Harmony At Home" is a well balanced comedy, offering a human story, ably directed and acted. It's something you'll enjoy—you and all the family.

Tonight is "Personal Night," at the Breed. Every lady will receive free a piece of vanityware. In addition every lady attending tonight's performance will have a chance to take home an extra set.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Like veritable bees around the clover blossoms did delighted crowds flock to the Broadway, Saturday and yesterday, at the opening of Nancy Carroll's latest tit-bit, "Honey," a delectable bit of humor, music and drama, rightly billed as "sweeter than Sweetie." The little red-headed "sweetheart of the screen" has the niftiest hit of her career in "Honey," and for once does not have to carry the entire burden on her slim shoulders, for in support she has her old flame Stanley Smith, as much in love with her as ever, droll "Skeets" Gallagher as an amorous butler, Lillian Roth as a flaming society lass with a flair for petting, Harry Green as a thirsty detective! ZaSu Pitts, moaning and wailing her way through life, little Mitzi Green, that imp of "the Marriage Playground," and haughty Jobyna Howland as a society dame.

NANCY CARROLL

With such a cast and the thoroughly noval and speedy story, "Honey," which was filmed from Alice Duer Miller's best-seller, "Come Out of the Kitchen," flashes through laughs and tears, love songs and blue songs to a "honey" of a climax. The many musical hits are real hits, and are being whistled all over town. A novel feature is an invasion of a Negro "hallelujah meetin'", when little Mitzi and Lillian Roth lead the singing, and work the worshippers into a frenzy. The surrounding program offers a wide variety with Frances Williams and Her Yacht Club Boys in "Deep C Melodies," George Fawcett and his famous mongrel dog in "The One-Man Re-Union." Taylor Holmes & Co., in a comedy wow, "He Loved the Ladies," and the latest Paramount Sound news. At the matinees today and tomorrow, the ladies will receive an autographed photo of Nancy Carroll, and tomorrow evening Alexander's gigantic "Honey" confection will be awarded to some patron from the stage.

TWO WESTERLY YOUNG WOMEN IN JAIL AT NEW LONDON AS CLEVER CROOKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 6—Iona Jones, 21 and married and Ethel Chipperfield, 16, both of Westerly had their rather lengthy practice of shoplifting in New London and negotiating worthless checks cut short, Friday night, when they were arrested after having stolen two dresses and tendered a worthless check in payment for two other garments. At first the girls stoutly denied their guilt, but finally broke down and confessed. They were in the police court Saturday and were bound over to the next term of the superior court. In default of a surety on their respective bonds of $1,000, the girls were committed to jail.

Iona and Ethel came to New London Dec. 12, last, and went to the Bulkeley store, Bank street, where they purchased a dress. The Chipperfield girl tendered a check on the Washington Trust company, for $15 in payment of the dress and received $6 in return. The following day the girls returned to New London and Edith purchased a pair of shoes at the store of Frank Prottas, Bank street. She again tendered a worthless check for $16, receiving $10 in cash. Feb. 24, the girls went to the Hudson Silk company, Main street, and purchased two coats, the aggregate value of which was $41.45. Payment was again made by check and this like all the others, proved worthless. Last Friday afternoon, Iona and Edith again visited New London, on the same mission of obtaining apparel and money by theft and fraud. They went to the Blair store, State street and selected a dress, but when payment was attempted by check, it was refused. However, the girls succeeded in stealing a dress while they inspected the stock of apparel. They then went to the store of Rockwell & Co., State street, where they selected two dresses the price of which was $31. A check was given in payment for the garments and the salesman was instructed to forward the dresses to a Westerly address. Before the girls departed they stole a third dress. After the girls left the store, the salesman became suspicious that the check was worthless and by telephoning to Westerly it was ascertained that the paper was spurious. The police here were notified and Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh were given a description of the girls. Officers on duty in the business section were instructed to maintain a lookout for the pair of female crooks. Patrolman Dennis Murphy was on duty on Main street and observed the girls at the corner of Church street, awaiting the arrival of a bus that would convey them to Westerly. The girls were arrested and taken to police headquarters. There they denied the charge of stealing dresses and passing worthless checks, but when they were confronted by the salesmen who received the worthless paper they confessed. Among the effects of the girls was found three additional checks, which they had filled out for the purpose of negotiating. All of the checks were counter checks of the issue of the Washington Trust company and were taken from one of the public desks in the bank.

Harold Baldwin, Medford, Mass., and Mrs. Gertrude Woodstock Sidoly, a lodger at 26 Prospect street, were in court on a charge of lascivious carriage. During the night, Mrs. Sidoly's husband came here from Bridgeport for the purpose of checking up on his wife's conduct and went to police headquarters to obtain assistance. Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith accompanied Sidoly to the Prospect street house and when the officer and husband entered the room of Mrs. Sidoly, they found the woman and Baldwin there, scantily attired.

After Bruce had retired, Feehan went to the former's room and stole $360 from Bruce's trousers. After a stay of several days in the Massachusetts city, Feehan went to Providence and from that city went to New York. When his money was nearly exhausted, Feehan returned to Hartford. MORRISON IN ST. LOUIS LOOKS OVER LINDY'S GIFTS

The whole world heard about Col. Lindy when he made New York-to-Paris in the Spirit of St. Louis and sent joy and gladness all over this North America. He was given lots of things from every city and state and had nowhere to put them for his room, 40x30, could not hold them. So a place in Forest park was given to him, having a large stone building.

Hearing so much about it, Stretch Morrison thought he would look the presents over while in the city known as "The Land of the Show Houses," so taking a walk went to the building to see what the Hero Lindbergh got from all the different places. Reaching the room, which was crowded, I never was so surprised in my life to see the gifts—everything from a battleship to a glass pipe, or an Indian wigwam. I saw where Middletown, Conn., gave a 300-piece silver set. From Hartford they sent tobacco leafs and most all the cities in the Nutmeg state sent something. There were clothes for every day in the year, also a board of watches, all real ones, of white gold. There are over 1000 pieces and it took four hours to see them. It's something a fellow will never forget the next 50 years to come. While looking around, I came across a Noank fellow named Hulbert Ellis, known in the whaling city of New London as Amburn Ellis. He was a hero at the Bulkeley high school and asked me how things was in the Fishing Village. He shook my hand as if it was a handle on a pump. I had a Norwich Bulletin with me, so he looked that over, from page to page and saw on the sporting page where the Wildcats' baseball team has taken their suits out of the moth balls and are practicing for the Tigers' team of New London—the orange and black, while N. F. A. white and red. They are the oldest high school rivals in the United States.

Amburn Ellis said, "Do you know, Stretch, that the Wildcats baseball players are real fighters and never give up if the score is large as 25? They have the spirit that won many battles. Do you remember the game in New London when the Orange and Black team had a 7-run lead? It was the eighth inning and Johnny Greene got hit plenty, but left the box with a smile. Coach Brigham sent a Western Union messenger to the bull pen in left field for Lefty Lloyd Jarvis who had the sub ball down good. He took an Alex walk like in the 1926 world series spiting out the T. B. germ, and with two men on bases, and what have you? and I was up to bat—two men gone, still the fighting Norwich team far in the rear. But that small man could pitch, and I kissed the air on three strikes that set the Norwich fans in an uproar. It was Norwich's turn with the willow and Frank Locke was going good had the bats like golf sticks trying to make the 19th hole. So a little fellow who was at third base came up to the plate, "Do or die for dear old N. F. A., hard to pitch to he got a free ticket to first base and the next two helped the cause along." Mr. Locke found he had only a glove and a prayer and when the smoke of battle left Morgan field, nine runs across the plate was another victory of the Red and White over the Orange and Black.

Amburn Ellis said, "I have played against many high school teams, but N. F. A. was the best and gamest fighters! They would never give up and I hope they will have a good baseball team; but I would like to see the Orange and Black win another championship against the Rose of New England city. Remember this college young man, who, with his long arms, picked up a fumble at a football game between these old rivals and rushed over the goal line and tied the score.

Ellis was all smiles to see a fellow so far from home. He is getting along well in St. Louis college—is trying out for the baseball team. In center field many are trying out for the position; but I will win out! "Those western fellows sure can play baseball and are hard to beat. We will have a crack team and will make any college go to the end to win. Our pitcher is all ready to go to the big league when he receives his sheepskin. A southpaw he has got a St. Louis twist that's hard to hit. Talking for a few hours about Noank and Mayor John Ashly, it seemed as if Ellis was right in Noank again. We left each other and hoped to meet again." He said, "Come up to the college and I will be glad to show you around any time. It sure seemed good to meet a fellow from your old home town, far out in the west."

WESTERLY

BRUSH AND GRASS FIRES DAMAGE PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 6.—Fire Chief George E. Egger, Assistant Engineers Robert Bonner and Columbus Pasetti, with Seagraves motor pumper and men, speeded to the High street section of Westerly shortly before noon Sunday when the large open lot at the rear of the residence of Dr. Thomas E. Robinson was burned over to check the fire hazard. The pumper was taken to the rear of the residence of F. Newman Tuckerman in readiness for an emergency.

A destructive brush and grass fire called out all the apparatus of Westerly. The call for the firemen was turned in by Wilfred D. Utter of Beach street when the flames swept over the Lanphear farm, the Foster farm and the rear portion of the property of Mr. Utter. The fire started near the Lanphear place on the river bank and was well under way when Mr. Utter telephoned to Chief Egger. An alarm was also sounded from Box 47 through the Automatic Telephone company office. Chief Egger realized that the fire was much more serious than first believed and he sent in a second alarm, calling out another truck and several men.

The shingles of Mrs. Lucy Foster's bungalow were ignited and several fence posts caught fire. The contents of the booster tank on the pumper were used to extinguish these fires. Shrubbery on the Foster property was damaged. The flames found their way through a wall in the rear of Mr. Utter's land and swept across the back of his property, through a stretch of pine seedlings which were planted about a year ago. Over 50 of these little trees were destroyed.

The Westerly firemen were assisted by about 30 volunteers from houses in the neighborhood and from automobiles.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS IN ERECTING NEW BUILDINGS FOR COUNTY HOME

Work is progressing rapidly at the present time on the new county home buildings on the site on Laurel Hill road, according to Chandler and Palmer, architects on the work, and the contractor has been taking advantage of the weather to keep the progress up to schedule. The foundations are all in and in the main building on the first floor the concrete floors have all been poured with the exception of one small area.

In this project the county commissioners consider that they are building a temporary home and not a permanent home for the children, as they recognize that the ideal arrangement for taking care of these unfortunate boys and girls is in placing them in private homes under proper supervision.

The buildings which are being erected consist of three. One is the schoolhouse consisting of four rooms, two of them being arranged so that they can be used for an assembly hall. The schoolhouse has all the modern equipment and arrangements of an up to date schoolhouse. This building is connected with the main structure by an enclosed passageway. The other smaller building is known as "the cottage." This building has two floors. On the main floor there is a dining room, kitchen, large living room and playroom for the children. On the second floor there are four rooms and two baths. All the children who enter the home remain in this cottage for three weeks for observation for any sickness or infections which they may have before being transferred to the other building to mingle with the other children. The main building has accommodations for about 50 boys and 50 girls. The boys' department is on the north side of the building and the girls' department on the south side with a congregate dining room in between and a kitchen in the rear of the dining room on the first floor. The main executive offices are also on the first floor, as well as a living room and toilet accommodations. There is a large playroom in one wing for the boys, together with a reading room and a small play room on the south side for the girls. Large sunporches are being built also on each of these wings on the main floor and the second floor. Upstairs there are two dormitories on the boys' side separated by a matron's room, one of these dormitories is to be used for older boys. There is a similar arrangement for the girls. In addition to this there is a crib room for the younger children and two or three rooms for special cases for the boys and girls. The sunporches on the second floor are to be used for outside sleeping porches. Complete toilet equipment is furnished for the boys and girls. The main rooms for the staff are in the center of the building, with additional rooms in the rear wing.

FAMOUS CLIPPER SHIP WAS BUILT IN MYSTIC

The New Haven road has named its cars on the new de luxe train after famous clipper ships. An automobile company named its fastest model after one of these old ships and advertised that it was the fastest ship that ever sailed the seas without power, writes B. H. Hewitt of Mystic in a Hartford paper. Yet in Mystic, in 1856, he says, was built the Andrew Jackson at the yard of Irons & Grinnell. She was owned by J. H. Brower & Co. of New York and commanded by Capt. Jack Williams of Mystic. She was 223 feet long and registered 1,679 tons. She was heavily sparred and carried double topsails, skysails and royal studding sails. Her figure head was a life-size statue of General Jackson himself.

One hundred and ten days was considered good time for the trip around Cape Horn from New York or Boston to San Francisco, yet the Flying Cloud and the Andrew Jackson were successful in making the passage in a few hours less than 90 days. Upon the arrival of the Andrew Jackson in San Francisco on her record trip in 1860, Captain Williams was presented a commodore's pennant and on his return to New York the owners presented him valuable chronometer watch bearing the following inscription: "Presented to Capt. J. E. Williams of the clipper ship Andrew Jackson for the shortest passage to San Francisco. Time 89 days, 4 hours, 1860."

FORMER MYSTIC MAN SENTENCED IN HARTFORD

Charged with obtaining money under false pretenses on two counts, Mason Gray, 47, once of Mystic, was sentenced to jail for 60 days by Judge Nathan A. Schatz, in police court at Hartford Friday. Gray represented himself as an advertising solicitor for labor organizations. When those interviewed by Gray failed to be interested in his advertising scheme, he intimated that the concern would be listed as "unsympathetic to labor." This "sales argument" usually brought results.

Gray received more than $100 from Hartford concerns and is wanted in other cities. He was re-arrested Friday after completing a 35-day sentence following his conviction in New Britain. His wife and child are making their home in Providence. Relatives of Gray have offered to make restitution to the companies defrauded with a view to lightening Gray's punishment.

ASSUMES HIS PULPIT AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

In a sermon beautifully delivered and punctuated with his usual eloquency, Rev. George J. Donahue, for the past five years pastor of Holy Trinity church at Pomfret and recently appointed successor to the late Rev William A. Keefe, assumed his pulpit Sunday as pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church.

Crowds swarmed into the beautiful edifice at the hour of every mass and at the 9 o'clock mass, the congregation was so large that it became necessary to place improvised pews in the aisles. Father Donahue celebrated the 9 o'clock mass and preached his introductory sermon at every service.

In his sermon Father Donahue told his parishioners that he anticipates finding joy and happiness in laboring among the people of Greeneville and Norwich. He characterized his new parish as a monument, perpetuating the memory of the late Father Keefe and in commenting on the wonderful work of his predecessor said, "I am here at St. Mary's not to succeed Father Keefe, but simply to keep my feet in his foot-steps."

Father Donahue spoke in terms of high praise of Rev. Arthur B. Sullivan curate at St. Mary's, and urged that the parishioners of the church exert every effort to make the young clergyman's life in Norwich, one of happiness and contentment.

The special musical service rendered by the choirs at all the masses was most impressive.

Father Donahue's sermon follows in part: "If I were not a Catholic I think I would be superstitious this morning. Some years ago, my maiden appearance in Norwich, I preached for the observance of Saint Patrick's day. The feast that year fell on Passion Sunday and passion you know, means suffering. Again today, my first appearance here in St. Mary's church is on Passion Sunday. I wonder if the day is prophetic of pain or sorrow that is to cloud my work or shadow my presence in your midst? I know what the mystics would say of such a coincidence. They would remind me that love is a passion and that any work that is brought into the shadow that broods on Calvary's hill is very near to Christ. However, I am not a mystic, nor superstitious, but just happily confident that with your cooperation and God's grace, I will easily achieve the work I have been sent to do. For what I say here, or better, from what I will attempt, you will see me for yourselves and my ideals will be obvious, even to the blind. I have no tact and the only prudence I practice is the prudence of Cardinal Newman, 'The best prudence is to have no fear'.

While material things will pre-occupy me, still spiritual things alone will be stressed here. While things seem complete much remains to be done. The part that remains for me will remain hidden, but will nevertheless be very real. In cathedral days bishops and kings threw their rings and pectoral crosses into the mortar at corner-stone layings! I hope some of that enthusiasm will be found here for it will be very necessary."

Dr. Gadle found Chief Taft suffering from a severe nervous attack which it is expected will confine him to his home for some time. Chief Taft has been working exceptionally hard the past few weeks and the pressure proved too much of a strain. Former Chief Howard L. Stanton, who was conferring with Chief Taft at the time he was taken ill, assisted Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, Saturday. Deputy Chief Brennan is in charge of the department during Chief Taft's illness.

Presented Travel Gift

The Sunshine class of the Versailles Methodist church held their business meeting at the home of Mrs. Walmsley. An overnight bag was presented to Mrs. Henry Bepker, who is leaving this week for an extensive trip to California. All wished her a pleasant and enjoyable journey. Sandwiches, cake, tea and coffee were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lord, a daughter of the hostess, who recently came from England. Games were then played.

Time to Preserve Eggs

Three dozen for a dollar! Eggs selling at such a price should tell their own story of economy. However, the state department of agriculture believes the thrifty housewife will be interested in knowing how she can take advantage of such an opportunity. The answer is—preserve eggs now while they are cheap for use in cooking purposes later in the year when they will become much higher in price.

Gathered eggs are lower in price right now than they have been at any time since 1926.

Fresh eggs, properly preserved, may be kept for twelve months in excellent condition.

GOV. TRUMBULL'S VISION OF VAST FUTURE OF AVIATION

Addressing Philadelphia Electrical Association Luncheon, Gov. Trumbull Predicted That Within the Next Five Years Liners With a Speed of 500 Miles An Hour Would Hop Off For Paris, London and Berlin With 500 Passengers—Asserted All Mail Will Be Transported By Air.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7—(AP)—Grounded temporarily by a rain storm, Governor John H. Trumbull, Connecticut's flying executive, came to Philadelphia by rail today to paint a roseate future for aviation.

Speaking at the Philadelphia Electrical association luncheon, the governor declared that within the next five years air liners with a speed of 500 miles an hour would hop off for Paris, London and Berlin with 500 passengers.

"What aviation needs now," Governor Trumbull said, "is safety and modern terminals. A modern airplane, with a careful, well-trained pilot, flying under good weather conditions, is safer transportation than a trip by motor on our public highways.

"Proper air terminals, not just flying fields, are essential to the development of air transportation. Cities that do not provide such facilities will be as out of date as the towns that did not secure railroad service in the days when railways were being built across the country.

"Another thing we need badly is proper identification of towns and cities in air routes. I have flown for hours in New England, where we have plenty of towns, without knowing where I was because the municipalities were not marked.

"I can see a day not more than five years hence when we will transport all our mail by air, when we will not have mere cross-country aerial routes, but lines across the seas, to South America, and when 500 passengers will embark in well appointed air liners for European ports, cutting the earth down to one-sixth its present size so far as travel goes.

"We will then be able to hop off for Europe with radio to solve weather conditions, defeating the fog hazard, and fly over lines as well established as present trans-Atlantic steamship systems."

LIFE SENTENCE FOR TWO BRUTAL SLAYINGS

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 7.—(AP)—Three deaths, including the brutal slayings of a boy and a girl, were listed as solved by police tonight as Andy Mann, 48-year-old Negro, after a confession today pleaded guilty in court to one of the killings and was sentenced to a life term in the state prison.

Mann returned here Sunday from Iowa, was indicted today, pleaded guilty and immediately sentenced by Judge Hugo O. Hanft.

He was sentenced for the murder of Earl Tague, 16-year-old son of a tailor, who was attacked and slain Friday night in the Negro's shack. The body's nude and mutilated body was thrown beside a railroad embankment where it was found the following day.

Taken from a freight train at Dubuque, Iowa, Mann readily admitted killing the Tague boy and then startled police by confessing he had assaulted and strangled Dorothy Aune, 12-year-old Minneapolis school girl, last August. He also said he had set fire to a house in which a 65-year-old Negro, Robert Howard, was burned to death here March 30. He disclaimed any intention of killing Howard, however.

The Tague and the Aune slayings were strikingly similar. Each body was mutilated and found abandoned near railroad tracks. That of Dorothy was wrapped in sacks and bound with wire and rope, while that of the Tague boy bore marks indicating he had been similarly tied. Both had been strangled by gags jammed deep into the throat.

SON OF LATE "TIN PLATE KING" IS GOING TO WORK

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., April 7.—(AP)—William B. Leeds, Jr., son of the late "Tin Plate King," and former husband of the Princess Xenia, of Russia, is going to work.

An announcement today said Leeds would be president of an airplane sales company now being organized which would have headquarters here, and which, in connection with its sales rooms, would operate a tea room, a barber shop, valet service and other conveniences.

With Leeds in the venture, which is to start April 15, are two widely known pilots, Edward Connerton and William Lawless. The company will replace the present Curtiss-Wright sales branch here, which will move to Curtiss-Wright field at Valley Stream.

MOCK AIR WARFARE OVER NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

MATHER FIELD, Sacramento, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Simulating warfare, the United States army air corps today attacked Crissy field, San Francisco's military airport, with nearly a hundred planes, and in theory beat off a defensive air force and blew the field full of holes.

The exercise opened the second week of the most ambitious maneuvers ever attempted by the corps, which has assembled 152 military planes here from half a dozen fields in various parts of the country. The maneuvers will end April 24 after an assumed "enemy" will have been bombed, flayed with machine guns, and gassed into submission in central California.

182 BILL WERE PASSED IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—In the busiest day of the session, the two branches of congress today acted on 182 bills dealing with subjects as widely diversified as appropriating $30,000,000 for constructing forest roads, erecting a memorial to William Jennings Bryan and paying off a Civil war debt.

In a burst of activity, the senate disposed of 126 bills from its tariff-jammed calendar, passing the measures at a rate of almost one a minute.

In more leisurely fashion the house acted upon 56 measures, passing 32 of them and either objecting to or passing over without prejudice 24 others.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR STRICKEN WITH PNEUMONIA

NEW BRITAIN, April 7.—(AP)—George A. Quigley, republican candidate for mayor, was stricken with pneumonia and admitted to the New Britain hospital tonight, the eve of the city election.

While his condition was reported as serious, Quigley was expected to recover.

PNEUMONIA PROVED FATAL TO PAUL DANA

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—Paul Dana, son of the celebrated Charles A. Dana and editor-in-chief of the New York Sun from 1896 to 1903, died today of pneumonia. He was 77 years old.

As the son of one of America's greatest journalists, who also was editor and part owner of the Sun, the younger Dana had been reared in the atmosphere of journalistic tradition.

After his retirement Dana devoted himself to sports, cultured pursuits and amateur photography.

Dana's wife, the former Mary D. Butler of New York, to whom he was married on Nov. 11, 1884, died in 1922. Sheehan said that Fox would remain as a director in both corporations. Sheehan himself, having been arrayed with Fox's opponents in the recent litigation, will remain as vice-president and general manager.

BOLLING FIELD HANGAR WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—Two airplanes were wheeled to safety today while fire destroyed a hangar at Bolling field.

The fire started in the parachute hut. Mechanics broke locks from the doors to roll the two planes out of the reach of the flames.

Major H. C. Davison, commandant at the army airfield, said 25 parachutes were destroyed. He estimated the loss, including the chutes and the twisted hangar at $30,000.

A west wind helped firemen prevent spread of the flames to adjoining hangars.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, April 7—(AP)—Dissatisfaction in scattered sections of the house of commons over the trend of Anglo-French security discussions in connection with the naval conference tonight, resulted in a move to debate the whole question openly, and Prime Minister MacDonald was able to check it only by taking the floor himself and pledging full information to party leaders any time they sought it.

PROGRESS OF CONFEREES ON TARIFF REVISION BILL

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—Two major victories were claimed by the house conferees on the tariff bill today as they forced the senate group to agree to higher duties on pig iron and pottery.

The house committee, however, concurred in the senate reduction in duties on certain sizes of plate glass.

Reaching the third of the 15 rate schedules, embracing metals and all metal articles, the conferees eliminated the 75 cents a ton duty on pig iron placed in the bill by the senate coalition of democrats and republican independents and restore the existing and house rate of $1.12 1-2.

The 75 cent levy was the rate in existing law until raised 50 per cent a few years ago by presidential proclamation under the flexible provision.

The house group also won an additional levy of 10 cents a dozen pieces on decorated pottery, making the rate 10 cents a dozen and 50 per cent as against a senate bill duty of 55 per cent and the present rate of 50 per cent.

GANDHI TO PERSONALLY COLLECT SALT TODAY

BOMBAY, India, April 7—(AP)—Three of Mahatma Gandhi's chief lieutenants in his civil disobedience campaign against the Indian government, and many local leaders and volunteers in different Indian districts were under arrest tonight as the aftermath to the Mahatma's overt violation of the salt monopoly on Dandi Beach yesterday.

The nationalist leader himself remained at liberty, and, in spite of a scuffle that took place between his followers and the police near Dandi today, announced that he would come in person tomorrow to collect salt with the volunteers.

Rumors in Bombay gave the impression that Mr. Gandhi's arrest was imminent, and that he might be taken into custody when he goes to Aat tomorrow.

BRIDGEPORT, April 7—(AP)—Alexander Magyar, Magt. Elmer Eordogh and Franz Prattinger, who are touring the east in preparation for a non-stop flight from Detroit to Budapest, Hungary, this summer in the "Justice of Hungary," Lockhart plane being built by the Detroit Aircraft company, arrived in Bridgeport this afternoon after being delayed from making the flight Sunday by stormy weather.

The three men, along with William Beel, American pilot who is accompanying Magyar on the various trips, left Bridgeport for Newark, N. J., at five o'clock following a reception at the home of Cornelius Carangdi, head of the local committee which was planning a large reception Sunday.

TO CHANGE WAVE LENGTHS OF BOADCASTING STATIONS

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—The Federal radio commission announced today that the wave lengths of seventeen "cleared channel" broadcasting stations will be changed on May 1 to improve reception.

The wave lengths of nine limited time and daylight operating stations will also be changed. The changes which were proposed February 5 were approved today by a commission vote of 3 to 2.

The shift, the commission said, is for the purpose of providing wider geographical separation between stations, thus reducing cross talk and other forms of interference.

RASKOB ATTACKED IN SENATE BY SIMMONS

WASHINGTON, April 7—(AP)—An attack upon John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, for contributing funds to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was made in the senate today by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, who is up for re-election this year.

Simmons refused to support the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

He said today that North Carolina democrats "repudiate" the action of Raskob "in contributing to the funds to be used to elect wet republicans over dry democrats while he still holds the titular position of national chairman of our party."

BRISTOL BOY FATALLY INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

BRISTOL, April 7.—(AP)—Arthur Briere, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Amedee J. Briere of this city, was struck and fatally injured tonight by an automobile. He died of a fractured skull while en route to the Bristol hospital.

Elderly Man Found Indiscretions Costly

Nathan L. Amster, 60, Testifies In Extortion Trial of Actress Olga Eide Edwards.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—Nathan L. Amster, 60-year-old traction magnate, father of two grown sons, described to a jury, composed in part of elderly men, in general sessions court today how he paid thousands of dollars over a period of 11 years to Olga Eide Edwards, attractive young actress, who says that her 6-year-old son, Lee, is his child.

On Amster's complaint Miss Edwards is being tried on an extortion charge, and he told the jury that from time to time through those 11 years he paid her large sums of money, at first in a spirit of philanthropy and later to protect his wife and family from scandal.

Finally, he said, her demands became so exorbitant and her visits to his offices here and in Boston, where he declared she called him names and threatened to "tell it to the reporters," so frequent that he could stand it no longer. So then, he testified, he took the matter up with the district attorney's office.

Amster testified that in 1923, before Lee, now in the care of the Children's society, was born, Miss Edwards told him that she wanted a son, and that she was going to select the father.

"I want the child to be mine alone," Amster said Miss Edwards told him. "No one else shall have an interest in him but me."

Lee was born in Europe, Amster said, and subsequent to the baby's birth he said he received from Miss Edwards the following cable:

"I am going to send Lee to you either by mail or express. He is a nice little chap."

In outlining the state's case to the jury before Amster went on the stand, Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Gibbs made the statement that Lee's father was "a man named Young."

After Miss Edwards had created a scene and had threatened to shoot him, Amster testified, he established in February, 1927, a $100,000 trust fund for the child, and Miss Edwards signed an agreement purporting to release him from any further obligations.

She failed to live up to the agreement, however, he said, and last August demanded $900, which he said he gave her. In the same month, he said, she demanded $1,000 more.

"When I refused," he said, "she called me nasty names and threatened to tell her story to reporters."

PRIMARY ELECTION TO BE HELD IN ILLINOIS TODAY

CHICAGO, April 7—(AP)—The political fate of Senator Charles S. Deneen and Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, was given into the hands of Illinois voters tonight.

At the nation's first major primary election of 1930, the Illinois electorate tomorrow will choose the republican and democratic candidates for United States senator, congress, state treasurer and a miscellany of state and county offices. Submerging the rest in popular interest, was the bitter contest between the senior senator and the congresswoman.

Former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who has not deemed it necessary to utter a single campaign address, is virtually assured, his supporters said, of the democratic nomination and has pledged that if nominated, his opponent will face a campaign on the prohibition issue. He opposed the dry act while in congress.

BOSTON MAN DIED FROM OVERDOSE OF NARCOTICS

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 7.—(AP)—A man who registered as G. F. Gordon, Boston, Mass., at a hotel here Sunday, died today in a hospital from an overdose of narcotics.

Later Gordon was found wandering about the hotel in a dazed condition and was removed to a hospital.

LAUNCH SMASHED JUST ABOVE NIAGARA FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 7—(AP)—The wreckage of a 30 foot cabin cruiser, painted white with green stripes and apparently without any name, drifted down the Niagara river today and was smashed to pieces just above the falls.

Observers from the shore said the cruiser's cabin tower had apparently been shot away, and they could not see anyone on board.

Mellon And Glass Pay Tributes To Harding

His Death Pronounced a Misfortune [illegible] the Financial Interest[illegible] U. S.

WAS[illegible], April 7.—(AP)—The death [illegible] today of William P. G. Ha[illegible]vernor of the Boston Fed[illegible] bank, brought expressions [illegible]or his passing and praise for [illegible]rk in life from two men most [illegible]ar with the manner in which he performed the duties as head of [illegible] Federal Reserve board during the trying days after the World war.

Senator Glass of Virginia, who was secretary of the treasury and worked with Harding in the crisis that immediately followed the World war, and Secretary Mellon, who later took up the duties of directing the nation's financial affairs, joined in praising the ability and judgment shown by Harding.

Mr. Mellon recalled his years of association with Governor Harding, and said:

"I have valued his friendship and have had the greatest regard for his ability and for the extent of his information and the solemn judgment which have made him such an important factor in the work of the system, both during the war and in the difficult period of reconstruction which followed. His death was a great loss to the federal reserve system and to the country."

Senator Glass said, "His administration of the affairs of the federal reserve system while he was governor of the board was characterized by exceptional discernment, rare courage and great ability.

"It was a distinct misfortune to the system and to the financial and commercial interests of the United States that he was not renominated by President Harding. x x x

"Both the Boston bank and the federal reserve system itself have suffered a distinct loss in the death of this notable man, who developed from the status of a country banker into that of a great financial administration."

MURDERER LORENZ ON HIS WAY BACK TO HARTFORD

HARTFORD, April 7.—(AP)—Guarded by the three Connecticut officers who followed him in his flight to Canada, where he was captured, Henry O. Lorenz, confessed slayer of Nils E. Anderson, was on his way back to Hartford tonight and will arrive here early tomorrow.

Arraigned before immigration authorities at Niagara Falls, N. Y., where he had been detained since being returned from Windsor, Ont., Sunday, Lorenz waived extradition and said he was willing to return and face the charges against him. It was late in the day before the formalities with the federal authorities were completed and County Detective Edward J. Hickey, State Police Sergeant Paul Lavin and Detective Charles J. Keefe could leave with their prisoner.

Upon arrival here, it is expected that no time will be lost in arraigning Lorenz before the Wethersfield court, which will hold him for the grand jury.

ALBANY POLITICAL LEADER MUST SERVE THREE MONTHS

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—Daniel J. O'Connell, Albany political leader, today lost in the U. S. circuit court of appeals in his battle to escape a three months' jail sentence for contempt of court growing out of the federal grand jury investigation into the late Albany baseball pool.

The court affirmed the sentence imposed last August 1, by a federal judge. O'Connell's only recourse now is an appeal to the United States supreme court.

DAMAGE BY WIND AND RAIN ALONG MAINE COAST

PORTLAND, Me., April 7.—(AP)—A 40-mile gale which drenched most of the state with heavy rain before it passed onward today, swept away small bridges, flooded highways, and lashed seas to towering heights along the coast.

Shipping was endangered in Portland harbor and maritime activities were halted.

OBITUARY

William P. G. Harding

BOSTON, April 7—(AP)—William P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, since January 1922, died today at the Algonquin club, where he had made his home. Death, due to heart trouble, followed a long illness. He formerly served as president of the Federal Reserve board.

Harding was born in Greene county, Ala., sixty-six years ago, and following cremation Wednesday afternoon at Forest Hills cemetery, his ashes will be taken to Birmingham, Ala.

Harding was appointed to the Federal Reserve board at its formation in 1914 by President Wilson. In 1916, he became governor of the board. He successfully fought to keep the board out of politics.

In 1918 and 1919 he served as managing director of the war finance corporation.

Harding was the youngest full graduate in the history of the University of Alabama, when he was graduated from that institution in 1881. He began his banking career at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

SCIENTIST FINDS BUG IN BEER THAT MAY REPLACE WORKMEN AND MACHINES

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7—(AP)—Discovery of a beer bacillus that brews oil was announced to the American Chemical society here today.

This bug, named Bacillus Delbrueckia, obtained from brewer's malt, replaces powerful crushing machinery in extracting oil from flinty, dried cocoanuts.

The new brew contains nothing alcoholic. It produces pure oil. It is described as opening a new industry, that will substitute bacteria for workmen and machines, to make vegetable oils and fats at low cost. It was announced by Dr. John Woods Beckman of Oakland, Cal.

The dried cocoanut, he said, imprisons its 64 per cent of oil in tiny cells made of nut-hard sugars and proteins. These cells crush with difficulty.

Bacillus Delbrueckia mixed with the nuts works a six-day week. On a figurative Monday it starts on the sugars, changing them into a liquid, lactic acid. Next the Bacillus produces an enzyme, a powerful chemical which carries on the job by changing the hard proteins into amino, another kind of acid.

Meanwhile, the free oil floats to the surface of the mixture and by "Saturday night" the job is all done. The bacteria draw no pay and find their meals in the less valuable parts of the cocoanut.

SENATE REPUBLICAN DRYS CLASH OVER ENFORCEMENT

Senator Brookhart Accused Secretary Mellon With Conducting a Campaign Against the Dry Law—Senator Fess Defended Mellon As a "Sincere Law Enforcement Officer"—Brookhart Referred to Raskob and Mellon As "The Amos and Andy of the Present Situation."

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—Senate republican drys clashed today over the proposed senate investigation of prohibition enforcement and over two law enforcement chiefs—Secretary Mellon and Attorney General Mitchell.

Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, accused Secretary Mellon in the senate with conducting a campaign against the dry law. He gave notice he would demand a record vote on the resolution of Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, another dry, for a senate inquiry into enforcement.

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, in reply defended Mr. Mellon as a "sincere law enforcement officer" and pleaded that the drys unite for the "testing hour" of prohibition. He opposed the inquiry as harmful to enforcement.

Attorney General Mitchell appeared before the senate judiciary committee earlier in the day and frowned upon the proposed inquiry. He pictured an improvement during the last year in administration of the law.

After hearing the attorney general before his committee, Senator Norris contended he had seen no improvement in enforcement and reiterated his belief that politics was playing a part in it. The committee took no action, however, and the whole prohibition situation is still in its hands, so far as the senate is concerned. The committee will not meet again until next Monday.

Senator Brookhart contended that Mr. Mellon was conducting a campaign against prohibition through W. W. Atterbury, republican national committeeman for Pennsylvania, and through th Union League club of New York, to which he said the secretary belonged.

He cited the fact that Mr. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, was a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He recalled that the Union League club had adopted a resolution urging repeal of the 18th amendment.

Senator Fess characterized this argument as "unfair." The Ohio dry said he had no sympathy with Mr. Atterbury for "going out of his way" as a republican national committeeman to work with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, but he said Atterbury could not be tied up with Mr. Mellon in this. Likewise, he said, Mr. Mellon could not be held responsible for every resolution adopted by the clubs to which he belonged.

Senator Brookhart also attacked Chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee, for his $65,000 contributions to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He said Raskob was a "Wall street republican who was detailed by Wall street to run the democratic party."

He inquired whether Mr. Raskob would support the dry Senator Walsh of Montana for reelection in his capacity as democratic chairman, or would support a wet republican against Senator Walsh in his capacity as director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

At the secret session of the judiciary committee, Attorney General Mitchell urged enactment of the pending bills to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department and legislation to relieve federal prison conditions.

While he could see no good in the proposed senate inquiry of prohibition the attorney general emphasized that this was a question entirely up to the senate.

Chairman Norris asked Mr. Mitchell about the charges of politics in enforcement made by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases, but he declined to comment. He excused himself on the ground that these charges related to a period prior to his administration.

Senator Norris conceded after the session that he had little hope for a favorable report on his resolution of inquiry and was undecided whether to press it before the senate should the committee reject it.

Obviously enjoying the outbreak in the senate between the drys, Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, a wet, spurred them on. He wanted to know of Senator Brookhart if he did not want to punish the man who drinks. Senator Brookhart said he thought those who purchase liquor under the present law were guilty of a violation. He said he thought anyone who drinks is a "fool" but added "there are lots of fools."

"It's like punishing a man for committing suicide," said Brookhart. "There is no use to punish them after they are dead."

Senator Fess said he shared with Senator Brookhart his concern for enforcement of the prohibition law and he lauded his efforts to improve it.

"I have always quite understood," continued the Ohioan, "that Secretary Mellon is not what one would term a propagandist for the prohibition law. I don't even know if he believes in the law; but I do know he believes in enforcement of the law. There is no basis even of suspicion that he is winking at violations. On the other hand, I know that he is much concerned over enforcement."

Senator Brookhart referred to Raskob as "the Amos and Andy of the present situation."

Brookhart said Mellon was responsible for checking the diversion of industrial alcohol into bootleg channels but that he had failed to provide this check.

"Five days after Commissioner Doran announces that there is no illegal alcohol diversion," he asserted, "186 people are indicted in Chicago for the very same thing."

Declaring not a single prohibition agent was on duty on the Canadian border from the Thousand Islands to Vermont, the Iowan said it also was the duty of the treasury head to prevent the smuggling of liquor from Canada.

"But instead of doing this," he continued, "his Union League club and the republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania (W. W. Atterbury) have joined up with Raskob in a campaign against prohibition."

Another complaint was that "Mr. Mellon's collector, Campbell, admits he went over the Mexican border to drink liquor and to bring back Mexicans against the law to work on his own ranch."

"Yet Campbell remains in the service as Mr. Mellon's official," Brookhart said.

The financier said his interests own or control 260,000 shares.

WOULD PROBE EXPENSES OF SENATORIAL CANDIDATES

WASHINGTON, April 7.—(AP)—Drastic procedure was initiated today by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, in the senate to hasten consideration of his resolution proposing a special committee of investigation into the campaign expenditures of the senatorial candidates.

The Nebraskan moved for the discharge of the elections committee from further consideration of the resolution and gave notice he would ask a vote on that motion tomorrow. He explained later he had received complaints on campaign expenditures from Illinois, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, and other states where senatorial contests are being waged.

Indignant over the Norris motion to discharge his committee from consideration of the resolution, Chairman Shortridge of the elections committee said later it was "unnecessary." He said he had deferred consideration of it during the tariff and Muscle Shoals debates with the consent of the Nebraskan.

NORWICH MEN TO SPEAK ON ZONING AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 7.—The next membership meeting of the chamber of commerce to be held with a supper next Thursday evening at 6:15 o'clock with Attorney William H. Shields, Jr., and First Selectman William S. Murray of Norwich as speakers on Zoning, is expected to draw a large audience. Many replies to cards sent out by the chamber have already been received by Secretary John J. O'Rourke, these being in the nature of reservations for the supper which will be served by Hallocks, Inc.

The two Norwich speakers are experts on zoning, having had actual experience in the work in Norwich. Probably the first zoning of a city was in New York in 1916. Nearly 100 municipalities throughout the country, including several large cities, are zoned. Extracts of interest prepared by the United States department of commerce during the time that President Hoover was secretary of commerce are given as a basic explanation of the purposes of zoning: To lessen congestion in the streets; to secure safety from fire, panic and other dangers; to promote health and general welfare; to provide adequate light and air; to prevent the overcrowding of land; to avoid undue concentration of population; to facilitate the adequate provision of transportation, water, sewage, schools, parks, and other public requirements.

"For the purpose of promoting health, safety, morals or the general welfare of the community, the legislative body of cities and incorporated villages is hereby empowered to regulate and restrict the height, number of stories, size of buildings and other structures, the percentage of lots that may be occupied, the size of highways, courts and other open spaces, the density of population, the location and use of buildings, structures and land for trade, industry, residence or other purposes."

Boards of appeals are set up. A zoning ordinance is administered under the police power. Among Connecticut cities already having zoning commissions are: Bridgeport, Bristol, Darien, East Hartford, Enfield, Fairfield, Greenwich, Hamden, Hartford, Meriden, Middletown, Naugatuck, New Britain, New Haven, New London, Norwich, Stamford and Stratford.

The defendant gave notice of an appeal to the next term of the Windham county superior court. Silverstein some time ago sold four cows to Carter, the deal being carried out without difficulty. Later, three more cows were sold and the note of $100 was tendered in part payment. When it became due the defendant refused to settle, stating that the transaction was not entirely as represented.

TAXPAYERS CLARIFY POSITION ON LOCAL TAX RATE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 7.—The Taxpayers Protective association of Windham clarified its position on the matter of a tax rate at a meeting held in the town hall tonight in a statement through its president, Dr. George E. Wilcox, that the association played no part whatsoever in that particular town problem.

An explanation of the position of the taxpayers' organization was thought necessary in view of the fact that the selectmen added a clause asking for a vote on an additional tax rate through the warning for a special town meeting next Wednesday night. The remaining three clauses of the warning relate to a petition of the association asking for an audit of the town books, the naming of the certified public accountant to do the work and an appropriation of $10,000 or part thereof for same.

President Wilcox addressing an audience of over 300 association members tonight, charged that the first clause appeared to have been placed there by the selectmen with the specific purpose of unloading the burden of an additional tax rate onto the association. Contradicting rumors that an audit of the town books would cost from $25,000 to $30,000, Dr. Wilcox said that estimates submitted by accountants placed the cost at from $7,500 to $10,000 to go through the books over a ten-year period.

The president said that the association was not interested in levying a tax rate unless and until it knew exactly what the town's financial situation was and that such knowledge could not be gained except through an audit. With the proper figures before it the association would be ready to pay the necessary tax to cover expenses and pay the amounts on the indebtedness, according to the president.

Stating that the business men were in favor of an audit of the books, President Wilcox said that there was no malice on the part of himself or the association against any town official or officials and that he would be more than pleased to see the officials "come out with their hands clean" after an audit. Stating that there were rumors current that the opposition to an audit made up of friends of the town clerk planned to pack the town hall and thereby deprive at least part of the association members an opportunity to gain entrance into the small hall, Dr. Wilcox asked that all demand a right to vote on the matter.

The momentous question appeared to be the reason for not including notes issued on the town in the annual report. Several other speakers were heard, including Eugene Randall, who advocated a complete turnover in the school board; Frederick H. Turner, A. L. Gelinas who advocated standing by the eight mill tax until an audit had been done and Joseph Paulhus, who said that the blame was not so much on town officials, past and present, but on the tax payers who failed to attend meetings in the past.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Jacobs Manufacturing Company, Hartford.

The Jacobs Manufacturing company is not as well known to the general public as possibly a great many other companies whose products are more commonly used by the average individual. The company produces a drill chuck—a device for holding drills, taps, or other tools doing the work, on drilling machines, lathes and woodworking machinery, and makes approximately 90 per cent of all the world's drill chucks. In fact, Jacobs Chucks are as well known to shop men in distant places like Africa, India and China as they are in our own leading industrial centers. This chuck was invented and designed in 1902 by one of Connecticut's inventive minds—Arthur I. Jacobs—whose many contributions to bookbinding machinery and optical devices are still being used.

Much of the growth of this company may be attributed to its economic policy during the years 1914-20—a period of generally increasing prices—when it steadfastly maintained lower prices and refused to take advantage of "all the traffic would bear." Lower prices automatically increased demand and use, permitted production economies and higher quality, and quantity production resulted in still lower costs which were in turn passed along to consumers in the way of reduced prices. This circle is the underlying cause of much of the prosperity which the company enjoys today.

The present officers are: Louis E. Stoner, president; Hubert H. Toppin, secretary and treasurer; George J. Stoner, assistant secretary; Frank J. Drago, assistant treasurer.

"How can anyone have 'B.O.' and not know it?" you ask. Very simply. We all perspire. Pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily even in cool weather. We become so used to this ever-present odor that we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do!

DANIELSON

WARDEN'S REPORT SHOWS DEBT OF BOROUGH INCREASED $2,872.98

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 7—An increase in the borough debt, due to extraordinary expenses during the past financial year, is the subject of comment by Warden Harry E. Back in his annual report, made available today.

The warden says: It is not so pleasant to report an increase in the borough debt as it is to tell of a decrease. This year's account, however, shows the debt has increased $2,872.98. The increase is all the more impressive because the budget for the year provided for a "reduction of borough debt" by $1,500. Really, then, the total budget was exceeded by $4,372.98.

"This result is easily accounted for, because many unusual and unexpected expenses were forced upon this municipality. The large ones were as follows: New hose for the fire department, $280; painting fire station, $331.50; repairs to auto fire truck, $158.05; net cost of sidewalk construction, $2,019.41; repairs at the library, $1,691.42; new flagpole and repairing bandstand at Davis park, $189.39; repairs at the library, $1,691.42; legal expenses, chiefly incurred in collecting back taxes, $438.50.

"It will be seen that these larger items of unexpected expenses amount to $5,058.27, and the increase in the indebtedness would have been heavier had not a substantial sum of interest ($1300) on bequests been used on the library. It is indeed deplorable that delinquent taxpayers should put the borough to a legal expense of over $300 to enforce payment of taxes when such delinquents know perfectly well that the taxes must eventually be paid.

"As unusual expenses (with the exception of sidewalk construction) are not expected the coming year, a 7 mill tax is recommended. The sidewalk expenses, when the construction is completed, should be cared for by long term notes or a small bond issue.

"In connection with sidewalk construction, it should be mentioned that the gross cost under Mr. Pike's management was 20 1-2 cents per square foot, while the lowest bid from contractors was 25 cents per square foot.

"The court of burgesses was unfortunate in losing the services of Warden Richard D. Banigan and Burgess Pierre Boulaine about October 1. Frederic O. Armington and A. Van Woodworth were chosen to complete the court."

Increased Library Patronage

Patronage of Danielson's public library continued to be highly encouraging during the past year, as is indicated by the fact that books issued for use outside the library numbered 27,174, an increase of 167 over the previous year. This was unexpected, Librarian Harry E. Back says in his annual report—unexpected because after the phenomenal gains of 3414 in 1927, and 2418 in 1928, it was not thought that the high record of 1928 could be maintained, but it not only has been equalled but exceeded.

The East Killingly branch of the library has been discontinued for the present. For many years Mrs. Lydia A. Bartlett maintained this branch, giving of her time and effort without recompense. Her labors are gratefully acknowledged by library officials.

During the past year substantial repairs were made to the library building. This work was largely done on the roof, gutters and cornices, which were in bad condition. The library was constructed 30 years ago, and these are the first considerable and expensive repairs that have been made. During the year the masonry has been painted and repaired and the interior renovated. The interior of the library is more sanitary and clean that it has been in many years. It is the determination of the directors to keep it so.

The executive force, composed of Miss Hortense E. Griffiths and Miss Amelia B. Hutchins, has been retained.

Tuesday night will be Past Lecturers' night in Brooklyn grange, and Mrs. Susie G. Williams, secretary of Quinebaug Pomona grange, is to preside. It is anticipated that a number of past lecturers will be in attendance. Going on spring schedule, the meeting will not be called until 8 o'clock, instead of 7:30, as during the winter season.

Assawaga Co. Increases Hours

Good news comes out of Dayville, where the big plant of the Assawaga Woolen company has gone on a schedule of 50 hours a week after running irregularly for many months. The 50 hours will be made in a five days' run each week. The Assawaga company's industry is one of the most valuable in the town of Killingly and has been Dayville's mainstay for many years. It is the company of which the late Angus Park of Hanover was the head for so many years. When operating to capacity about 350 persons are employed. The mill long has been noted for the splendid quality of its products—fine woolens.

There appears to be very general approval of the suggestion of some unnamed person with a sense of fitness of things that the new route being built through the towns of Pomfret, Brooklyn and Canterbury and to connect eventually at Lisbon with a present state highway route into Norwich be named The General Israel Putnam highway. The suggestion has been submitted to Highway Commissioner John Macdonald. The highway runs directly past the old Putnam farm and past the General Putnam monument and Mortlake Manor inn, in Brooklyn, where the famous patriot was a familiar figure in his day. Not far away from one section of this new highway is the Wolf Den, scene of the general's exploit with the wolf.

Norman Ross of Broad street punctured his foot with a nail protruding from a board that lay partly concealed in the grass, the wound being a painful one.

After a week's suspension of operations the Quinebaug mill resumed running this morning.

Directresses of the Ladies' Benevolent, society of the Westfield Congregational church for April are Mrs. Tayntor, Mrs. Prentiss, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Charless Chase, Mrs. Jacobs, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Houghton and Mrs. Bartlett.

The warning for the annual borough meeting issued today contains only routine matters for the electors to pass upon—the annual reports, election of officers, the budget and the provisions for financing. The prospective tax rate is 7 mills.

Next Sunday—Palm Sunday—at the evening service at the Westfield Congregational church there will be communion and reception of new members. A number of young people will become members of the church by confession of faith and others will join by letter. Mrs. Harold B. Atwood, soprano, and the Girls' choir will sing.

Miles of trunk line highways have been oiled in territory in this vicinity. The work was done with the usual throughness and also with promptness, as to covering the oil and then honing the highways. The roads are now in the best condition since the beginning of the cold weather season.

The first car, insofar as is generally known, with a built-in radio receiving set has arrived in town and is in the hands of a dealer. The set is said to function perfectly as the car travels along the highway. The operating control is on the instrument board of the car.

Leo Comtois, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anastase Comtois of Water street, died this morning at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. He had been a surgical patient. The body was brought here in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. The young man was a native of Taftville.

A. A. Bouneville, proprietor of two drug stores here, was reported as ill today with pneumonia at his home on Broad street.

Danielson was deluged with rain late last night and during the early hours of this morning, the storm driving in out of the southeast.

Mrs. Eric V. Johnson remains as a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

There was an admission service when the Girls' Friendly society met this evening at the parish house of St. Alban's church, in addition to the usual program of procedure at meetings.

Rev. F. C. Williams of Willimantic will be the preacher next Thursday evening at the regular weekly Lenten service at St. Alban's church.

Local people who left here about 10 o'clock on a recent morning to get a train out of Providence for New York found themselves some five and a half hours later at Plainfield, on a train re-routed because of a wreck near New London, via Willimantic and Middletown to New Haven.

Census-takers are continuing with their work in various sections of the town of Killingly and are now well along with the operation of listing the inhabitants of the town.

Rev. Albert Abbott will preach at the union Lenten service to be held next Thursday evening under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches at the Baptist church.

Superintendent W. E. Parker announced tonight that Alfred Zambrano, of Cranston, R. I., has been selected as leader of the Killingly high school band to replace A. H. Messenger, of Springfield, who has been the leader of the band since it was formed about a year ago. Mr. Messenger has an opportunity to be leader of a school band at Monson, Mass., only a few miles from Springfield.

Mr. Zambrano is a graduate of the Conservatory of Music of Naples, Italy and for the past 15 years has been doing band work in Providence and vicinity. He is the leader of the Cranston high school band. He will conduct his first rehearsal here on Wednesday.

PUTNAM

NEW OWNERS START OPERATIONS AT RHEA PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 7.—Manufacturing operations at the plant of the Putnam Spinners, Inc., got under way this morning in a small way for the first time since the new concern, which is the successor to the defunct National Rhea company, was organized a month ago. N. Stuart Campbell, former treasurer of the National Rhea company and a leading stockholder of the new corporation, has been elected president, while Frank Swan of Providence, who is a large shareholder of the concern, was elected treasurer at a meeting of the board of directors held last week.

While activities at the plant are in no way booming at the present, Supt. Leonard H. Mellor said this morning that the prospect for an immediate revival of manufacturing in large proportions is bright, although it is difficult at this time to set a definite date for complete reopening of the local plant, which, when running on a full-time working schedule, provides employment for more than 150 workers.

George Beecher, Springfield man arrested several weeks ago by officers of the state police barracks at Danielson, was before Judge M. H. Geissler in city court this morning and entered a plea of guilty to charges of breach of peace and intoxication. He paid a fine of $1 on each count besides actual costs of court. Beecher was represented by Attorney Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic, who was retained after Beecher had been arrested on charges of carrying concealed weapons. This charge was not mentioned in the warrant this morning, which is believed to have been cause for his admittance of his guilt of the two minor charges. Beecher was a victim of a gas shell fired at him by a state trooper during a raid at an establishment on Killingly avenue, where it was alleged that Beecher resisted arrest and attempted to draw an automatic revolver on the police officer, who was forced to discharge the shell in defense of himself.

Calvin C. Stanley, state supervising agent in charge of rural schools in the towns of Pomfret, Woodstock and Union, will be the speaker at a meeting of the teachers' club of the Putnam schools. His subject will be on the work of Dr. Rugg in the social studies.

WIND STORM DOES DAMAGE TO TELEPHONES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 7.—Winds which at times gained a velocity of more than 40 miles an hour, swept over this section of the county Sunday evening accompanied by April showers that netted a goodly precipitation and served to eliminate the dryness which for days has put Windham forests in danger of destruction by fire. While the two elements served to accomplish much good, when coupled, they managed to do havoc to lines of the Putnam district of the Southern New England Telephone company, the majority of damage being created on circuits in the Danielson and Moosup exchanges. The town of Canterbury was practically isolated this morning from communication with the outside world when it was discovered that a large tree in the town had been blown over by winds, disabling 32 lines serving 150 stations. Relief crews were rushed to that section of the county at an early hour and by noon today most of the damage had been repaired. Considerable damage was caused to telephone circuits in Moosup and Danielson, where it was also reported that electric light power feeding systems suffered ill effects from the storm.

Manager E. Leslie Beebe of the Putnam district said this morning that a survey found little damage having been done to circuits within the territory served by the Putnam exchange. The storm of Sunday evening was one of the worst of Nature's punishing demonstrations experienced since early winter.

Volume one, number one of the "Life Scout," a monthly periodical devoted to the setting forth the activities of Scouting as practiced by the boys of Troop 1, has been published by the press club of the local post of Salvation Army, sponsors of the troop. The publication is composed of four pages with a considerable amount of complimentary advertising of local merchants displayed among its news items.

Donald Child, student at Vermont university, is spending the Easter recess with his mother, Mrs. Marcia Child, of South Main street.

Richard MacCauley of Lowell, Mass., is spending a few days at his home on Church street.

Deputy Chief Alphonse Dumas of the fire department was called upon to do some quick thinking Sunday afternoon when two alarms of fire were registered at the Central station in Union square within ten minutes of each other. The first alarm was a general bell from Box 25 on Mechanics street for a fire at the Munroe barn. Shortly after the three companies had reached the scene, a general alarm from Box 112 at the gas works on Arch street was recorded.

Leaving the Mechanics street fire, Chief Dumas hurried to the Manhansett section where a brisk brush fire was sweeping over the old ball ground in that section. The deputy chief enlisted the services of a band of volunteers who worked desperately to check the flames which were being fanned by a sharp south wind. The fire was extinguished without property damage, as was told in this morning's Bulletin. Chief Dumas then returned to Mechanics street to resume the work of directing the firemen in saving the neighborhood from destruction and later in fighting a brush fire on Bates hill which was kindled by sparks from the barn blaze. It certainly calls for quick thinking and efficiency when two general alarms for fire are registered in Putnam within a few minutes of each other, and Chief Dumas is to be complimented for his presence of mind in adequately discharging the situation.

Izzy Weiss, well known to local baseball fans because of his twirling ability, is to be given a tryout with the Providence Grays this week. JEWETT CITY

LOOKING FOR A DOG, WARDEN FINDS HOME BREW

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 7.— William R. Palmer, dog warden for the town of Griswold, in response to a report that two unregistered dogs were being harbored at the home of Nellie Walenda, went there Monday forenoon to get them, and to serve due process of law. Mrs. Walenda produced one dog, strenuously denying that she owned any other.

During the afternoon, the warden, doubting the truth of her story, went with Officer Henry Veigard to Mrs. Walenda's home, where they entered unannounced in the search for the other dog. Proceeding upstairs and upon opening a door to one of the second floor rooms, four men were surprised, seated arund a table, playing cards, with plenty of evidence that Mr. Volstead's law was not being strictly complied with. The liquor seizures which followed the unexpected discovery, amounted to 46 bottles of home brew and a half pint of "block and fall."

Mrs. Walenda was locked up at the police station, awaiting bail of $1,000. The four men will appear as witnesses in the Griswold town court at the trial Tuesday morning. Mrs. Walenda told the officer a few choice stories to explain away the presence of a number of coins on the table, claiming that the home brew, which was taken to the police station, was made for a little private Easter party. During a raid here, following the operations of the spotters from Bridgeport last winter, Mrs. Walenda was arrested and was bound over to the court of common pleas by Judge John T. Barry. At that time a quantity of alleged splits had been purchased by the operators. In court, in Norwich, as this evidence failed to burn when a match was applied, the accused was discharged. During the excitement incident to the unscheduled liquor raid, Officer Palmer, browsed around a bit on his own account and nailed the other dog which was being kept illegally.

An Efficient Train Conductor

This distinction enjoyed by "Johnny" Downey was firmly established some years ago, while he was assigned to the Washington-Boston Colonial express. As his train pulled into the Pennsylvania R.R. New York city station, at which point he was to leave it, after bringing the train from Boston, as the train conductor, he was informed of the serious illness of the dining car steward, a New Haven R. R. Co. employe, necessitating the immediate removal of the steward to a New York hospital, thus leaving the through dining car without a steward. The quick witted train conductor laid aside his train cap and proceeded to the dining car, where he at once took up the duties of the sick steward, "carrying on" into Washington, D. C., the train terminal. At the proper time scheduled for the dining car to leave Washington, on the return trip to New York and Boston, Johnny was on the dining car in the role of a New Haven R. R. Co. steward and successfully handled the patrons on the trip with due decorum and courtesy.

On reaching the P. R. R. terminal, at New York city Johnny Downey again put on his train cap and took the train into Boston, as the New Haven R. R. Co. train conductor, just as he was supposed to do on his regular train schedule.

Monday forenoon a large and interested gallery, supervisory officials and all, saw No. 1, the first big 90-foot, 26-ton steel girder swung into place across the east bridge span. State engineers and the engineer for the construction company were looking on when the Pennsylvania steel gang dropped the great truss into place without a hitch from the tip of the big 116-foot derrick boom. As soon as the 75-foot gap was bridged by this single stringer, T. E. Carroll, the steel construction boss, walked across on its upturned edge from abutment to pier No. 1, 25 feet above the river.

These bridge girders are not of equal length as are the distances between the piers, nor do they lap on top of the piers, but are joined on the cantilever principal in midstream.

Strip

Cadillac and La Salle

–If You Will

STRIP Cadillac and La Salle of their prestige, their social position, their rank in the forefront of the world's fine things—

Strip them of their sheer elegance and beauty—go further, strip them of all that gives them character in refinement of detail, of embellishment and decoration—

Strip from the Cadillac and La Salle chassis their magnificent Fisher and Fleetwood bodies, eliminating with these bodies also the invaluable protective feature—non-shatterable Security-Plate Glass. Then take from their engines their lynx-like agility, their hushed mightiness.

Leave them only the usual engine qualities—substitute the usual transmission for the quick, quiet and clashless Syncro-Mesh gear-shift—some lesser four-wheel brakes for the Cadillac-La Salle positive, powerful safety-mechanical system—the usual steering for Cadillac's harmonized finger-touch control—the usual motor car body for all the extra luxury and the individual beauty of the Fisher and Fleetwood creations. And you will still have a superior car—

Superior in that the architecture is Cadillac's and because the making of these cars is in the hands of an organization of skilled fine-car specialists of 30 years' standing.

Superior because General Motors affiliations make possible economies which are passed on to our owners in the form of the lowest prices in the industry for anything comparable in a motor car.

BUT compare Cadillac and La Salle, as they really are, with any other car and compare the prices.

If your purpose be to find the finest in a motor car and the most in value, you will come to the happy conclusion that you have found it in the Cadillac V-type Eight, the La Salle V-type Eight, or the Cadillac V-16.

La Salle prices, $2385 to $3995; Cadillac V-type Eight prices, $3295 to $5145; Cadillac V-16 prices, $5350 to $9700. Special coach work up to $15,000. All prices f. o. b. Detroit

The G. M. A. C. Deferred Payment Plan is available to all Cadillac or La Salle purchasers

Easter Opening, April 12th to 19th

There is no more appropriate time than the week preceding Easter to present formally the Cadillac-La Salle line. From the La Salle and Cadillac V-type Eights to the custom Cadillac V-16, these models offer a range in variety and choice not obtainable in the combined products of all other makers. This Easter Showing has been arranged to provide every opportunity for you to examine and study these cars, and will include, in addition to the eight-cylinder Cadillacs and La Salles, such sixteen-cylinder Cadillacs as purchasers will permit the dealer to retain. The Showing extends from April 12th to 19th. An inspection of these cars will prove invaluable in the right selection of your car.

NEW ENGLAND ATTRACTIONS

In connection with the effort to advertise New England, the desire is to set forth the many attractions of this part of the country that the vacationists may be brought to consider the spending of as much time as possible motoring through the New England States and enjoying its beauties. There is something to interest everyone all the way from Cos Cob to Passamaquoddy and from Newport to Derby Line.

New England has its fixed attractions and they vary in charm very little from year to year, except as improvements are made. There are always certain special events which draw many into this part of the country and this year special interest is bound to be manifested in the ter-centennial celebration at Boston and adjacent towns. Here is an event of unusual character and one that will extend over such a period of time that it will permit millions of people to enjoy features of it at some time during the summer. Already it is being anticipated that hordes of people will flock to that state in addition to those who are always drawn into this unusual vacation land.

New England has a great variety of attractions. The important thing is to get those who are seeking such to become acquainted with them. Each year under normal conditions the six states are catering to large numbers. They are finding that the tourist business is worth cultivating. They have experienced the benefits of advertising and they know that those who come into this section any summer will become enthusiastic backers of its beaches, rivers, lakes, mountains, roads and delightful country. Those who come here to participate in special occasions, anniversary celebrations and the like, will carry away with them far more than souvenirs. There will be the impressions of the historical places, the fascination with the attraction or attractions which have a special appeal and the admiration for the natural beauty as well as the facilities for reaching all parts of the region.

New England will make plans for entertaining large numbers this summer. It has been doing more and more in this direction each year and it has found that more and more are appreciating the merits of this part of the country, most of which have long existed but have been kept under a bushel.

THE COSTLY SPARK

A few days ago a quantity of gas accumulated in the conduits in New York city streets from a leaky gas main and being ignited by a spark from some unknown cause blew up the streets in a noisy and destructive manner. It was referred to as a costly spark and the reference was a proper one.

But that is not the only costly spark that has been getting attention from the destruction caused in recent days. Fire-fighters have been unusually busy this spring, extinguishing grass and brush fires which not only threatened much property but which have actually destroyed many buildings and valuable wood, standing and cut. These fires have been costly and in most instances needless.

April has had its share of wind this spring. It seems to have received much which belonged to March and those who have been endeavoring to get rid of a lot of refuse and burn over grass and brush land have found it next to impossible to keep such fires within control. Then there have also been those fires which were started by careless persons who paid no attention to what they did and left the fighting of the fire to others who were called or responded in order to afford protection to the endangered property.

That the spark, a bit of a firebrand, a burning match, can be costly is demonstrated every year at this time, and the worst of it is that it very frequently involves the property of others than those who are directly responsible. There are those fires which have to be placed in the unpreventable list, but the great majority of them are not necessary. Investigations show that they can be prevented. They would not occur if proper thought was given to the consequences before the fires were started. They would not be started if better judgment were used and more consideration were given to conditions and the handicap under which individuals work when trying to combat fires when tinder-like material in quantities covers the ground and flames are sure to be spread in all directions by a strong wind.

The costly spark prevails in too many instances and it is not solely in the conduits of New York city that it can raise havoc with other people's property.

WHEN IMMIGRATION SLUMPS

While there can be no alarm over the fact that there has been a falling off in immigration, in view of the opposition that is manifested from time to time against it, there is, nevertheless, a certain concern as to the reason for it.

According to the figures of the immigration bureau, a number of the countries from which this country might expect to secure some of its best timber for new citizens have come far from furnishing their quota. For instance, Great Britain and northern Ireland are not up to their quota by 27,863. There are 5,520 under the number that Germany can send. Poland isn't up to the mark by 1,555. Italy lacks 1,453 of coming up to its limit and Sweden hasn't furnished its quota by 742. There remain almost three months in which these gaps may be filled in, but it has been the experience in the past that quotas were filled up long before the close of the year, so that the impression is gained that the immigration for the present year, ending with June, will not come up to the mark.

Aside from how we may feel about it, there is a quandary as to the reason for it. There are spots in Europe where conditions are much better than they were. There are others where they are none too good, being such, in fact, as to be conducive to taking a chance elsewhere.

On the other hand, it is possible that the tales which have been told about unemployment in this country have had their effect upon keeping home those who have been thinking of coming here. Unemployment hasn't served to encourage immigration, but it has been of such short duration that one is inclined to think that quite as wild tales have been told about it abroad as were spread in Russia concerning the recent demonstration by the reds which has been interpreted, for the effect it would have, as being a revolution in this country.

A check on immigration is, however, nothing to worry about. It is just what the situation needed and it is all the better that it was controlled from outside. No such step had been urged in this country, but had it been it would have been subjected to an interpretation that would have magnified the unemployment situation far beyond what it was. A slump in immigration is one of the things to cause no worry this year.

CROSS COUNTRY GLIDING

It has been demonstrated that it can be done. A glider has been towed across the country by a flying machine. There were some moments when Captain Hawks might have wished he was elsewhere, but he came through safely and the stunt is certain to bring the glider into the public eye as never before. When Colonel Lindbergh turned his attention for the time being to the motorless plane it meant publicity of an enviable character. That test period was watched with keen interest because it was recognized that a master hand was in charge and it was apparent that he attached more than passing attention to this type of aircraft.

The glider had been in existence for a long time before then. The glider is, in fact, older than the airplane, but it has failed to get the attention that the latter has. It will never put the airplane out of business, but it has been shown that it can be employed as an auxiliary and it is not improbable that it will be brought into greater use in the years to come.

A feature of the glider which cannot fail to halt attention is the claim that it is safer than driving a motor vehicle. This will be subjected to study, but it seems quite evident that it may easily be the stepping stone to actual flying and even for the fliers it will offer a diversion that will be free from the deafening racket which comes from the airplane motor.

Captain Hawks has been an exponent of flying for a long time. He has gained an enviable reputation for his cross country flights. Under the circumstances, it was only natural that he should seek further honors with the glider and there cannot fail to be a feeling of general satisfaction that he has succeeded in doing something in this direction that no one else has accomplished. He has maintained a well-earned reputation.

GET RID OF IT

If there is uncertainty as to what the house will do with Muscle Shoals, it is not surprising. This measure has gone through congress once, only to get a veto from President Coolidge. The senate has adopted it again by much the same vote that it did originally and now it is claimed that the vote on this bill is expressive, not of the attitude toward government ownership and operation, but of the ranting that has been done about the power trust.

What the house will do with the bill and what the president will do if it is adopted by both and presented to him are questions that are certain to be argued in various ways. If the bill is put through and approved it will mean putting the government into business against private capital. It will be against the ideas which the president has made known and it is believed it will be against the judgment that ought to prevail in view of the experience that has been had with just such government enterprises. We have already experimented enough in that direction without plunging in again. We have spent enough on that enterprise without putting any more money into the proposition. We can turn its operation over to private capital, get as good a return as possible on the investment, and get the matter decided.

There is need of getting Muscle Shoals off the slate. It is time it was employed for all that it is worth and it is unfortunate that it has been delayed as long as it has, but there has been a lot of misrepresentation in regard to the private interests which are engaged in the development of power. Just because the cry of power trust is raised comes far from carrying conviction that the government cannot lease Muscle Shoals to advantage. The government has had such experience with railroad operation, ship ownership and operation, that it should be unwilling to entertain any thought of plunging into the further development and operation of Muscle Shoals.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, April 7—At the suggestion of Colonel John Q. Tilson, republican floor leader, the Washington Birthday program was this year made of entirely new material, out on a new pattern. It included an outline of what the great celebration of Washington's 200th birth anniversary would so far as the commission appointed by the president could forecast. Tilson is a member of that commission, so is the Hon. William Tyler Page, clerk of the house and composer of the American's Creed. The program meets the cordial approval of Col. Tilson.

Mr. Page, at Col. Tilson's request, took for his topic a tentative program of how the event could best be made to cover an anniversary year, instead of merely a day.

Mr. Page suggested that the celebration begin February 22nd, 1932 and that each month should be marked by some specific observation.

Beginning with Washington's birthday, he advised that it be observed with far greater splendor than ever before and that a world-wide broadcast should be sent out by radio that all the world might take note.

Mr. Page urges a world-wide broadcast of the most notable of the celebrations that day.

Mr. Page suggests for March 4th, which is known as "President's day" all descendants of Washington should be asked to join in celebrations; that there be parades and outstanding social events all over the country; that Easter be observed by the clergy and people of all religious faith, and that the fact that Washington was a devout churchman and church attendant be emphasized.

May 30th, as "Heroes day," should receive special commemorative services at the hands of all patriotic organizations, not only as the customary tribute to the dead heroes of all wars, but that they should be made to include specific tributes to Washington as our first commanding officer of the army of the United States.

On July 4th an "old fashioned" celebration should take place, with fire works, decorations, parades and everything to attract patriotic enthusiasms be put in the foreground, the day quickly following Flag day, on June 14th, which should be made a key-note day of patriotism, as it was under Washington that the Stars and Stripes became our national emblem.

For August Mr. Page suggests a pilgrimage to Washington and other sections of the country closely allied with the home and exploits of Washington.

Mr. Page suggests that for September, Labor day might take on Washington's great work as an engineer and his work for education, as the specific topic. He suggests that great universities make special note of it, and arrange programs to fit the occasion.

October bring Columbus and Roosevelt days, and they should be arranged to have programs which make Washington the special feature Washington's part in the patriotic history of the country.

For Thanksgiving in November, Mr. Page suggests a celebration that will mark "the glorification of the American home and the old fashioned ideals of America in the midst of a new age."

The latter being especially significant, in view of the often seen movements to shunt the American home life to a side track, in order to make room for what is sometimes called "progress."

Mr. Page believes each community should make its own plans, conforming as closely as possible to the elaborate schedule of the national celebration, as framed by the national commission appointed several years ago by President Coolidge. "Let each group choose its own chairman and map out its own program," said Mr. Page, making Washington, the needs of the nation, and what it has stood for and will continue to stand for anend its great accomplishments the main feature."

Mrs. Margo Cousens Chewning, the young daughter of Senator Cousens who recently eloped, with a young bank clerk in order to avoid the fuss and feathers of society, has actually blossomed out into society since her marriage. The coming out ball arranged for her by Senator and Mrs. Cousens took place right on the dot, but it was their married daughter, instead of a debutante, whom they presented at the great ball which celebrated the event, for which invitations had long been issued.

Mrs. Chewning is a skilled horsewoman, and has just won a silver cup as a prize at the Riding & Hunt Club horse show. That was what was known as a family class, and Mrs. Chewning rode with her sister, Betty Cousens, as running mate. Later, Mrs. Chewning entered for six of the seven remaining entries.

Senator Cousens is an independent in politics, though under republican colors, he is an independent in thought and so many times a millionaire that it would take more than fingers and toes to count them.

He had never met his new son-in-law until after the elopement, but is said to look with favor on the marriage, expressing admiration of the "spunk" shown by his debutante daughter, in picking the man of her choice. Chewning comes from an old southern family, and his wedding gift to the young bride was jewelry of splendid history value and family heirlooms.

The dignified and distinguished statesman, the Hon. Elihu Root, who celebrated his 85th birthday very recently, has not only had many honors showered upon him, but a typical nick-name was bestowed on him, as the story runs.

This was back in the days when Mr. Root was a boy in New York, and attending the private school conducted by Miss Green. It was a name that fitted both his splendid scholarship and the profession of his distinguished father. He was called "Cube" Root, because his father was an eminent professor of mathematics, and because young Root also taught arithmetic to help out his finances during the somewhat lean days of his youth. In those days Clemenceau was a near neighbor of young "Cube Root," and like Root, was teaching French while he studied.

It is said that both Root and Clemenceau often talked over those old days, and in view of the events that followed in the World war, regretted they had not been closer friends in the days when they depended on "teaching on the side" to carry them through.

Howard L. Cox, of Tulare, Cal., has discovered a phenomenon of nature in a locust tree in the Tulare City park. Growing out of the tree is an almond sapling. The short apparently was started by an almond being tossed into the crotch of the tree and the seed later taking root. The sapling is about eight feet above the ground.

IT WAS FATE

Smartly adorned in her very newest up-to-the-minute ensemble, Barbara swung buoyantly down the drive toward town. The October day was exhilarating, gay with sunshine, in the air a faint, tangy fragrance.

"Glorious!" thought Barbara. "Much too glorious to stay indoors. Today I'm all in the mood for loafing. Tomorrow I'll make up for it. Today is —today!"

It was at one of the world's busiest corners, right in the middle of the street, that out of the blur of faces about her one suddenly loomed clear, startling and was gone. A lean, bronzed face, laughing gray eyes above a slightly aquiline nose. Behind and around her the milling crowd carried her relentlessly to the farther curb. So Gregg Browne was in the city. She knew that for years he had been living in the east.

Back in high-school years Gregg had been the dashing football hero of her youthful dreams. To him she had been merely one of the class. Blithely indifferent, he had never made her any of the easy, pretty speeches he made to other girls.

It was rather a heartsick time then, but now she was able to smile at the picture of herself in those days —a plain, scrawny little thing, wretchedly nondescript, utterly unenticing. She glanced into the nearest show window, and smiled again, this time at the charming, chic reflection it gave back. Splendid remuneration from her work, contact with the social world and travel all brought an assurance and sparkle to her more alluring than mere beauty.

She wondered about Gregg. As she entered her door the telephone was ringing. She felt, what was it, a little thrill? But it was only Nella Davis.

"Hooray, Barb! Such luck! At last Jims' father has sold this old relic. We have to vacate in ten days, but before packing up I'm going to give a luncheon."

"Perfectly lovely, Nella. But—" She hesitated, plunged. "Why not have an evening party instead, a sort of class reunion? That wonderful old house, with it's immense rooms, is just hankering to have some good old hilarious rompings in it for the last time."

"The very thing, Barb! Lots more fun than a girls' luncheon and not nearly the work. Where will I get the addresses?"

"Call up Billy Knowles," suggested Barbara innocently. "He will be able to help you, I know." Billy was Gregg's cousin and had been class president.

Most of the guests had arrived at the party when Barbara exquisite in a frock of pale gold chiffon and creamy lace, sauntered in. Outwardly calm, inwardly thumping, she extended a casual hand in greeting to Gregg Browne. Quite aware of the way he blinked and stared, she tingled to the tips of her toes at the eloquent admiration that shone in his eyes.

"Surely not Barbara Allen!" he said, apparently finding it necessary to continue holding her hand. At last Barbara moved on to greet the others, finally seating herself demurely upon a settee built for two. Ten seconds later the vacant space beside her was occupied by Gregg.

In the general excitement of the evening, no one seemed unduly astonished that wherever Barbara was there Gregg was, nor that he was her partner for everything, nor even that they were discovered sitting together in the stair seat at a turn in the wide old stairway.

But completely thunderstruck were those of the guests who were present at the luncheon given by Barbara two weeks later to announce her engagement.

"I never heard anything so deliciously romantic!" exclaimed Nella Davis. "They meet, gaze into each other's eyes, and presto—they're engaged! Isn't it too marvelous?"

"It was fate," solemnly pronounced one of the other guests. "Wasn't it Barbara?" Barbara lowered her lashes over capering twinkles.

"It must have been," she agreed just as solemnly.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 7—Quite aside from its legendary glory as the scene of that poetical thriller, "Barbara Frietchie," the town of Frederick, "green walled by the hills of Maryland," enjoys another unique honor.

It is the county seat of the national heart of a new infant industry. But whether that industry should be classed as agricultural, manufacturing, or perhaps marine, it would be hard to say.

According to Senator Goldsborough and the tariff commission, the product of the industry is "fish, live, of the genus Carassius" That means goldfish. Not the kind so termed in the army when put up in cans for rations; but the decorative kind that frisk about in ponds and bowls for the edification of all beholders.

And Frederick county, Maryland, it seems, has the largest "goldfish farm" in the world. It's a 1,500-acre plant containing all manner of ponds including one 11 acres in area. And its only business is raising and marketing goldfish. A system of express motor trucks daily delivers tanks full of these festively-hued creatures to the Baltimore market.

Japanese Contrast

What a contrast to the rival method of goldfish production and transportation followed in Japan, the only competitor of the goldfish industry. Raising asorted varieties of these ornamental fish for the American and European markets is a family affair across the Pacific. Transportation is, or was, when the Bystander worked at the old mail dock in San Francisco years ago, also something of a private venture by the Chinese and Japanese sailors on trans-Pacific liners.

The fish were brought over in tubs in the crew's quarters and were cared for by the individual sailors engaged in the trade. Then they were sold on the dock at San Francisco. The traffic had nothing to do with the steamship companies.

Tariff

What Senator Goldsborough wanted was a duty of 6 cents per fish, or not less than 66 and 2-3 per cent advalorem, against the Japanese fish. He had learned from the tariff commission that more than 300,000 were imported in 1929. He had learned also that the goldfish industry in the United States represents an investment of $1,000,000 and employs some 500 workers.

But he could not find out anything whatever about the comparative costs of production of goldfish in Japan and the United States.

The result was that the American goldfish industry was not favored with the desired protection, and the Japanese variety of live parlor ornaments still can enter this country free and unrestricted.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Let Us Smile

I just want to ask the readers of The Bulletin a question, and I am going to leave the answer severely to them. We know that anything we like would become monotonous if we continued with it without change, and it would lose its savor and its charm. There must be a variation, a something different—a getting away from the regular beaten path. There is no question that variety is the spice of life. If we like a certain dish we wouldn't want it every day for if continued we would finally turn away from it and look for something just different. Something in the line of a dessert.

'Tis an axiom that an apple a day will keep the doctor away and to parapharse that we can add a laugh a day will keep the blues away. A funny story well told is worth more than a doctor's visit. Anything to relieve the monotony. Many astute business men realize the importance of the changes. Some of the cigar manufacturers in Key West have a man who has a good voice to read to their workers, for it keeps them keyed up to a certain speed. Others have placed a piano into the making up room. The pianist's cue is to play fast music and they work fast and the production is increased. All this preface is necessary to what I want to lead up to.

Consider the great fun makers in the American league, Nick Altrock and the late Germany Schaeffer. Altrock was paired off with Al Schacht and their stuff was only inducted into the game to create a laugh and to keep the players up to a certain efficiency necessary to put pep into them.

I wonder if some of you fans who follow baseball remember Charlie Faust who was with the Giants, not as a player, but with an ambition to be a big league player. The players carried him along and he was the butt of all kinds of jokes. He did not receive a salary from the Giants but paid his own expenses. The regulars told him he was good. And McGraw let him go with the team around the circuit because it kept the players in a good mood. They indulged in all kinds of horse play, and he was told that to become a real player he had to do everything in order to be able to play. When on their jumps, going from New York to St. Louis in the sleepers, he was to stand on the rear end of the train and wave a red lantern back and forth all night so another train would not sneak up on them and damage the car. Also he must eat a quart of raw oysters at every meal for one week in order to bulid himself up to the physique of a regular. There are many happenings among the great and near great that create a smile. At the time the lake in Central park was finished the board of aldermen of New York held a meeting and one of the aldermen suggested they buy a dozen gondolas and place them on the lake to give the place a Venetian effect. Another member made an amendment that they only purchase two, a male and a female, and let nature take its course. There is never a kick in a printed story that is found in a story told. You can get a smile anywhere and even a story told often falls flat out in front. That has been proven for us in England. They close the music halls on Saturday nights because the people laugh in church on Sunday.

Some tell a story, while others only recite them. There is a laugh in everything, in the flowers, in the sunshine, in all outdoors. Now, the spring is with us, and the grass and the Christmas jewelry is turning green, and all nature is smiling. So why shouldn't we? Yes, we can see something anywhere that brings a smile. In a restaurant the waiter brings in a plate of soup; the diner calls his attention to the fact his thumb is in the soup. He says: "That's all right, it isn't hot."

A man and wife are dining. She gets a soft boiled egg, drops it with a little scream and says: "Oh, dear, I have dropped an egg. What shall I do?" Hubby says: "Make a noise like an old hen."

A waiter, solicitous about how a customer is enjoying his dinner, asks: "How did you find the meat, sir?" He replied, "Oh, I just moved that little piece of potato one side, and there it was."

Anywhere and everywhere we find something to keep us smiling and this helps us to forget all our everyday worries for when we get home at night and relax, get our shoes off, put on an old pair of slippers, get out a pipe, sit by the stove, read and wiggle our toes, and laugh at some absurd story, isn't that solid comfort?

Don't you recall that rollicking old song "With a pipe in his mouth, makes every man free, no king in his palace was happy as he."

Just here I think of the Swede who joined the calvary and was mounted on a mule. A fly was bothering the mule and he took his hind leg to brush the fly off and getting his foot caught in the stirrup, the Swede looked down and said: "If you bain going to get up in the saddle I bain going to get down." Let's pack our troubles away and smile, for laugh and the world laughs with you, snore and you sleep alone. Signing off here. Station "Anywhere."

Suggested Change For Schools

Mr. Editor: It appears to be true that our grammar school pupils are not as well prepared to enter the Academy after completing eight grades of training as they were when they remained in grammar school through nine grades. In numerous ways this truth seems to be emphasized—and often by persons who are competent to judge on the question; both teachers and observers. Then, if we really and truly desire our children to gain first-class elementary schooling, why do we not have the obliterated ninth grade restored? And, if needed, could we not also have restored the tenth grade? Would not this arrangement relieve the congestion promised at the Academy?

And then could there not be a redistribution of grammar school pupils, thus relieving congestion alleged at Greeneville, at Broad street and at Broadway schools?

Importance Of The Periodic Examination Of The Urine

By W. E. Lower, M. D., Cleveland
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The importance of the periodic physical examination is being increasingly appreciated. More and more people are going to their physicians at regular intervals in order that their general physical condition may be checked thoroughly. There still remain, however, too many who wait for some significant symptom to develop, or who allow themselves to be alarmed by something which they believe indicates a dangerous condition, but which in reality is of little moment.

An essential part of the general physical examination is the analysis of the urine. Perhaps there is no other part of the examination which possesses equal diagnostic significance, for an abnormality of this excretion usually indicates a serious disorder, yet one which often may be completely cured if discovered early enough.

The urine is, in effect, the great filtrate of the whole body system. By its examination, therefore, the condition of many functions of the organism may be determined—whether the food taken in is being properly digested and waste products eliminated; whether the liver is performing its work in the proper manner; whether the blood is being overloaded with sugar or urea or some other poisonous product; whether the kidneys are being overworked and are breaking down.

If one is not convinced that a general physical examination is necessary, an analysis of the urine will be sufficient in many cases to determine whether further study is required.

Too many people depend upon their own judgment in determing the condition of the urine. Some believe that the urine is normal unless it leaves a sediment in its container or is distinctly cloudy in appearance Absolutely clear urine with normal odor and of normal color may still contain sufficient sugar to suggest the presence of diabetes. A sediment may mean nothing or it may mean that the urine is loaded with bacteria. Cloudiness may be insignificant or it may indicate that a very small amount of blood is being excreted, the source of which must be found. The urine may have an acid reaction and be within the range of normal acidity, or the acidity may be so high as to cause a constant irritation within the bladder.

The determination, therefore, as to whether all the qualities of the urine are within normal bounds or whether some disorder is present which demands attention must be left first to the laboratory technician who determines the condition of the urine and then to the physician who interprets these findings

At least a semiannual examination of the urine and a proper follow-up in each case, if indicated, may save the individual from such serious conditions as diabetes, Bright's disease or other affections of the kidneys, and from many general disorders of the body metabolism.

"The Wisdom of Duty"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Bear ye one another's burdens" (Galatians 6:2).

Read: Romans 15:1-9.

MEDITATION: Many people do not like the word duty. A friends remarked recently: "I hate the word duty. I have heard it all my life. I wish I might never hear it again." "Duty" meant to him a line of conduct demanded by somebody else—a load laid upon him from outside, without his consent. Duty is not something that others require of us. It is something that we require of ourselves. It is a line of conduct that we must pursue toward others if we are going to arrive at ourselves. It is the road to that sense of inner satisfaction that is, perhaps, to a normal person the best indication that he is realizing his true relation to his fellow men. Regarded in this way duty is not irksome bondage but the road to life.

PRAYER: "As neglected duties come now to mind, help us to go back and faithfully discharge them, lest we stand at last condemned before Thee, and lose beyond recall the joy of having done Thy will upon earth, to make heaven about us. Amen."—W. E. Orchard.

Peter's Great Disappointment

Disappointments, big or small,
Come, you'll find, to one and all.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit had arrived early at the Smiling Pool. The Black Shadows had only just started from the Purple Hills behind which jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was going to bed. There wasn't so much as a ripple on the surface of the Smiling Pool. Peeper the Hyla and his relatives, and Stickytoes the Tree Toad and his relatives had started their evening concert. As Peter sat there, he saw the brown head of Jerry Muskrat as Jerry swam across the Smiling Pool, and two lines of silver seemed to follow him. But, though Peter looked and looked, he couldn't see one of the Quacks.

Peter was greatly disappointed. You see, he had left sure of finding Mr. and Mrs. Quack anyway. He knew that the rest of the flock might have moved on ,but he was sure that Mr. and Mrs. Quack would not have left the Smiling Pool, for they had said they were going to stay a while. By and by Jerry Muskrat swam over near Peter. "Hello, Jerry!" said Peter.

"Hello, your own self!" replied Jerry. "It seems to me you've been spending a lot of time around the Smiling Pool lately."

"Oh," replied Peter, "I like to come over here and see what is going on. By the way, what has become of all those Ducks that were here?"

"They've gone," replied Jerry.

"So I judged," replied Peter dryly. "When did they go and where did they go and why did they go?"

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute, Peter!" exclaimed Jerry Muskrat. Don't ask me questions that are none of my business. I don't know why they went, nor where they went; and, what is more, I don't care. I can tell you when they went. It was the first thing this morning."

"And haven't they come back once during the day?" inquired Peter.

"No," replied Jerry, "and I don't think they will come back for a long time. They started off as if they were going somewhere a long way from here. For my part, I'm glad they've gone. There wasn't any peace in the Smiling Pool while they were here."

"Did Mr. and Mrs. Quack go with them?" Peter persisted.

"How should I know?" replied Jerry rather crossly. "I don't keep watch of my neighbors to see what they do. Mr. and Mrs. Quack came with them and I presume they went with them. I know of no reason why they wouldn't go with them."

"I do," replied Peter.

"What is it?" inquired Jerry.

"It is because they had decided to stay a while. Mrs. Quack told me so," replied Peter. "She said that the others were getting ready to go, but that she and Mr. Quack would stay a while."

"Well, they must have changed their minds," declared Jerry, "for I haven't seen them all day. Come on in and have a swim."

"No, thank you," replied Peter. "My feet are wet now and that's enough for me."

Jerry swam away and Peter sat there wondering what could have caused Mr. and Mrs. Quack to change their minds, and feeling greatly disappointed. You see, he dearly loves to gossip with Mrs. Quack.

OBITUARY

John Miner Gallup

After a long illness, John Miner Gallup of Hartford, a native of Groton, and for 38 years organist and choir director of the South church in Hartford, died Sunday afternoon at his home. He was an accomplished musician and an outstanding accompanist. For over 45 years Mr. Gallup was a dealer in musical instruments in Hartford, during the last 15 years of which Merritt A. Alfred was associated with him in the business.

Mr. Gallup was the son of Nelson and Emmalie (Miner) Gallup, descendents of Colonial and Revolutionary forbears. He had resided in Hartford since he was a youth. Surviving is his widow, Alice E. Gallup.

For a number of years Mr. Gallup was business manager and was in charge of the activities of the Hosmer Hall Choral union of Hartford, one of the finest mixed choruses in the history of that city.

Mr. Gallup took especial pride in his long service with the South church. His first position as organist was with the old First Methodist church in Asylum street, Hartford.

Mr. Gallup served with the South church for 38 years, during the entire time under Dr. Edwin Pond Parker, pastor of thec hurch for a half century. Among the things which he treasured was a volume of Dickens, in which Dr. Parker had written an inscription on the occasion of his completion of 25 years as choir master. A loving cup was given him upon the occasion of his retirement as organist in 1915.

Nelson Gallup, Mr. Gallup's father, was a former resident of Laurel Hill and his sister, Harriet, was a well known music teacher in this city. His grandfather, Russell Gallup, was a brother of Isaac Gallup, grandfather of Charles D. Gallup of Laurel Hill, president of the Norwich Belt Manufacturing Co. The older branch of the family came from Ledyard.

The burial will be in Hartford.

PATROLMAN McFADDEN ON RETIRED LIST AFTER 37 YEARS ON CITY POLICE FORCE

After adopting an ordinance making Shetucket street a one-way street from the Laurel Hill bridge corner to Main street, the court of common council at its April meeting Monday evening retired Officer Charles McFadden with half pay, appointed Edward Burns a member of the regular police force, and approved the appointment of Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan as acting chief of the Norwich fire department during the absence of Chief Henry R. Taft who is confined to his home, No. 18 Colt street, by illness. The council also approved the appointment of Captain John E. Blackburn of Engine Co. No. 2, as acting deputy chief of the department.

The council meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading. The city clerk read his certificate of publication of the new milk ordinance adopted at the March meeting and also the certificate of publication of the new traffic ordinance making Shetucket street a one-way street, after which Mayor Robbins declared the hearing on the traffic ordinance open for discussion.

Shetucket Street Traffic Ordinance

Henry F. Powers, president of the Uncas-Merchants National bank, said that although interested in the ordinance, he was not opposed to the ordinance in its entirety. He said that stopping the 10-minute parking limit at 3 o'clock might cause some inconvenience to bank patrons. He said the bank appreciated having the police officer stationed at the corner of Shetucket and Water streets. He advocated a right turn for automobiles at all times, turning into Main street from Shetucket street, as one way of solving the traffic problem. Not one automobile in six goes from Shetucket street into Broadway, he pointed out. He registered opposition to having the police officer taken off the Laurel Hill bridge corner.

Charles A. Hagberg stated that Shetucket street is a main artery for traffic bound for the Military highway. Making Shetucket street a one-way street will make i difficult for out of town autoists to find their way to the Laurel Hill bridge, he said.

W. Manley Eastwood advocated the right hand turn, at all times, from Shetucket street into Main street. He endorsed Mr. Powers' remarks. He also advocated strict enforcement of the traffic laws, stating that he has seen autos parked on Shetucket street all day.

Charles Ollson, garage proprietor, was opposed to the ordinance. He said that enforcement of the parking laws would solve the problem.

Alderman Frederick J. Ortmann, chairman of the board of police commissioners, explained the reasons for the proposed traffic ordinance. He said it hadn't been tried out and believed it ought to be given a trial.

Council Adopts Ordinance

This completed the discussion at the hearing, and at 8:15 o'clock the council recessed to the mayor's office, reconvening about 10:05 o'clock, at which time the ordinance was unanimously adopted without change.

The new ordinance provides for 10-minute parking on the easterly side of Shetucket street from Main street to Laurel Hill bridge from 8 a. m. until 3 p. m., and 40-minute parking from 3 p. m. until 6:40 p. m., when the parking limit is extended to 6 hours. No parking is to be allowed on the westerly side of the street at any time and the street is to be a one-way street in the block from Main street to Laurel Hill bridge, for automobiles traveling northerly.

Petitions Received

Petitions were received and disposed of as follows:

From Joseph and Mary Hulboj, for a bug light in front of their property at No. 29 Lois street; referred to the police commissioners with power.

From John Pryzekop, for an estimate to be placed in the city budget for a sewer on Golden street extension; referred to the public works committee for investigation and report.

From F. O. Dahl, for a grade for a sidewalk at No. 248 Boswell avenue; referred to the public works committee.

From Thomas P. Murphy, et. al., for the acceptance of Avery street as a public highway and for an estimate to be placed in the city budget for a sewer on Avery street; referred to the public works committee.

From Albert M. VanWagenen and Eben Learned, asking that the short street at the southerly end of the Little Plain, running from Broadway to Union street, be named Crossway street. This street has previously had no name. The council voted to grant the request and fixed Crossway as the name of the street in question.

Hobart Avenue Sewer Assessment

On recommendation of the public works committee, Joseph and Frank Lukowski were assessed $400 for benefits derived from the Hobart avenue sewer.

A claim for $87.28 which was received from Dora Bonin for damages sustained in a fall on an icy sidewalk on Boswell avenue, January 30th, last was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel. They later in the meeting recommended that the claim be paid and it was so voted.

There was also a claim of $25.25 from Harriet O. Tubbs for damage sustained by her automobile because of the alleged defective condition of McKinley avenue extension. This was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel who recommended that the claim be disallowed. The recommendation was adopted.

Mayor Speaks Of Improvements

Mayor Robbins spoke of the success of the administration in securing about 4 1-2 feet of sidewalk at Market and Water streets, the so-called Jackel corner, for the widening of the street at that point. Mrs. Yetta Sternlieb, owner of the property at that point, made no objection to the plan, the mayor said. He also spoke of the presentation to the city by the Chelsea Savings bank of a strip 25 feet long and six feet wide for the widening of the street in front of their building and also referred to the pleasing change at Burnham square effected by the Connecticut Light and Power Co. The latter deeded to the city a strip of land for the widening of the street at that point. The mayor also made reference to the small strip of land, 15 or more feet in length and 18 inches, wide at the Harry Land property on Main street, which provided for the widening of the street there.

Officer McFadden Retired

Alderman Ortmann, chairman of the police commissioners, informed the council that Police Officer Charles McFadden, after 37 years service, had requested that he be placed on the retired list. He had a slight shock during the winter, the alderman said, and has been examined by two physicians who find him suffering from high blood pressure. The police board, he said, recommended that the officer be retired. The clerk was requested to cast one ballot in favor of the retirement, and the officer was declared retired on half pay.

At the recommendation of the police board Supernumerary Officer Edward Burns was appointed a regular police officer, the clerk being requested to cast one ballot in favor of the appointment.

Supernumerary Luppert Resigns

The resignation of Valentine Luppert, as a supernumerary officer, was read and accepted.

Names Acting Fire Chief

Alderman Amiel C. Brosofske informed the council of the serious illness of Chief Henry R. Taft of the fire department, stating that the chief will be confined to his home for eight weeks or more, making it necessary for the fire commissioners of which Alderman Brosofske is chairman, to name an acting chief and acting deputy chief to serve as such until Chief Taft is able to resume his duties. The alderman stated that the board had named Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan as acting chief and Captain John E. Blackburn of Engine No. 2, as acting deputy chief of the department, and the appointments were approved.

The quarterly reports of the chief of police and fire marshal, the quarterly cash statement of the water department and the monthly reports of the city treasurer and street commissioner were received and accepted after which department bills were approved as follows:

Water dept., $4,977.15; cemetery dept., $963.29; fire dept., $8,203.26; park dept., $353.37; police dept., $6,816.34; street lights, $3,444.65; gas and electric dept., $52,216.84; Deep River reservoir, $417.25; finance dept., $21,137.14; public works dept., $13,114.23. Adjournment was taken until 10:45 o'clock.

SCOUT COUNCIL SEEKS DONATION FOR SCOUT CAMP

It was the unanimous opinion of all members of the executive board and scoutmasters and deputy commissioners at the meeting Monday evening that Norwich should look about for some public spirited person to provide a camp for this council. For this year the scouts will go with New London where an overhead will have to be paid for each boy in attendance, but it is hoped that in the future either Norwich will have its own camp or that it will be able to buy one-half of the New London camp.

Wilbur S. Williams and Harry Prentice reported to the board on the joint meeting held between New London and Norwich camping committees and the tentative agreement made for Norwich scouts to attend the New London camp.

Edward W. Jewett, reporting on the attendance at the annual regional meeting, declared that at least eight would attend the afternoon session and that in all from Stafford Springs Putnam and Norwich it was expected that 20 men would be present.

C. V. James reporting on troop organization brought up the question of the continuity of Troop 10 and of the new troop about to be started in the Elizabeth street school. Deputy Commissioners F. H. Wyant and Walter Casey gave reports on the different troops they were inspecting and it was decided that the new Troop 4 and the American Legion troop would be inspected by a commissioner this month.

The jamboree rally was discussed by the board and scoutmasters and it was voted unanimously to lend every possible morale support to make the rally a success.

Scoutmasters H. Downer Johnson, Will Collins, John Hill, Henry Sebastian, and Thomas Murphy gave reports on the work of their troops.

Several questions were raised about the inter-troop contest. It was pointed out that civic service in the contest has been interpreted to mean any community service rendered by the troop for its church, school, city or for individuals; differentiating it only from the scout individual good turns which a scout does each day anyway.

The bills for the month of March were read and approved. Camp savings stamp folders were distributed to the troops present and the group expressed themselves heartily in favor of the scheme.

In the absence of H. D. Larrabee, C. V. James presided. Those present at the round table discussion were: Charles Colt, C. V. James, Wilbur S. Williams, C. B. Gilbert, Arthur L. Peale, Walter Casey, F. H. Wyant, Edward W. Jewett, John Richardson, John Hill, H. Downer Johnson, Will Collins, Henry Sebastian, Tom Murphy, Harry Prentice and John Boldrighini.

GAVE LECTURE-RECITAL FOR MUSIC ASSOCIATION

The Norwich Music association had an unusual, but very pleasurable, programe for its April meeting Monday evening at Slater hall annex when Miss Pauline Scarborough of Madison, N. J., gave a lecture-recital upon the subject, "Music—Whence and Whither."

In the development of her subject, Miss Scarborough used the piano to illustrate the points she wished to make as to the changes and trend in music from one century to another, playing appropriate selections which brought out the differences very skillfully and distinctly and often caused much amusement to her appreciative hearers.

In the music of any particular period, Miss Scarborough declared, was really to be seen a reflection of the age in which it was produced. That could be seen by comparing the music of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries. The 18th century begat regularity, superficiality, objectivity and repression; in the 19th century there was more freedom of thought, of action, of speech, and more attention to individuality; now in the 20th century it is noise, unrest, speed and machinery, with a certain hardness that comes with these.

To illustrate each of these, Miss Scarborough played a little Italian jig, a Brahm's waltz, and a waltz by a French composer of the present century, which is of the machine-like type, and has no variation in it except loud and soft.

Modern music, said Miss Scarborough, brings into juxtaposition the most diverse material and so is very much in keeping with the lives we live nowadays. She illustrated the different ways in which romance was interpreted in music by Schumann and by a composer of the present day and spoke of various influences that bear upon the composer. As the music of tomorrow, who can tell? Perhaps we are on the verge of more revolutionary and more incendiary work than we have hitherto known, or perhaps we are to turn back to the past. We must try to understand before we condemn.

Miss Scarborough closed her interesting recital with a spirited Rachmaninoff selection.

In order not interfere with the program of the evening the annual meeting of the association was postponed till the first Monday in May.

WROTE OF HER TRIP THROUGH CANADIAN ROCKIES

Last summer Miss Mary Turner Shugrue and Miss Nellie T. Donohue made a visit to the Pacific coast and spent some time with Miss Shugrue's uncle, Thomas F. Shugrue, at Santa Monica, Cal. On their return they came back through Canada.

Miss Shugrue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Shugrue, of River avenue, and penmanship supervisor in New London schools, writes of their trip "Through the Canadian Rockies" in the following interesting manner in the April number of Normal Instructor and Primary Plans:

"From Vancouver, the greatest Canadian port on the Pacific coast, we started on our return journey to the Atlantic coast, after seeing a very satisfactory portion of continental United States. Our route took us along the Fraser river canyon and other narrow passes. Like a tiny black serpent the train wound in and out among great mountains and glaciers. At Albert canyon a stop was made to enable tourists to alight and peer into the Royal gorge. We followed Beaver river and Stony creek, and for five miles were under the mountains—in Connaught tunnel, one of the greatest engineering feats of the world.

"Leaving the train, we boarded a queer little train that agilely climbed a mountainside, giving us a beautiful ride among the mountains. Huge trees clung tenaciously to sleep slopes, and wild flowers of all hues were scattered in every conceivable nook. And then—Lake Louise! Like a lake of fairyland it lay before us, an aquamarine circle guarded by gigantic mountains. An immense glacier, startlingly white in the afternoon sun, lay between the mountains, and the whole group was reflected in the calm bluish green water of the lake. The chateau of creamy yellow stone, standing a little back from the shore, seemed to merge into the landscape as if it had always belonged there. Myriad poppies, white, gold, and orange, nodded a friendly greeting, while stately fir trees, singly and in groups, added their dignified charm to the scene. An air of tranquillity characterized this fairyland. The beauty of Lake Louise is so ethereal, so exquisite, so perfect, that it almost hurts.

"After a few days at the chateau we motored to Banff, through the valley of the Bow river. This trip gave us our first glimpse of mountain sheep grazing. After a walk through Johnson canyon a lively narrow gorge, down which rushes a mountain torrent, eddying into pools and waterfalls—we returned to the car and drove through the village of Banoff. Banoff Springs hotel, which reminds one of a great baronial castle, faces the Bow river valley and the Fairholme range of the Rockies. A magnificent site, unsurpassed in rugged beauty.

"The sulphur springs at Banff as well as the scenery, attract many people. The government maintains sulphur baths in the village, while at the hotel there is a large swimming pool of sulphur water.

"After we had again boarded an eastbound train, I began to realise that the mountains were becoming lower and lower and knew that soon they would disappear altogether, and I experienced pangs of regret, almost as if I were having to take leave of old friends!"

NEW LONDON COUNCIL PRESENTS OFFICER RIORDAN BRAVERY MEDAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 7—The city council held a two hours meeting this evening in which there was considerable discussion but not very much action. Edward Henry Riordan policeman, was presented a distinguished service medal by the council, City Manager Holt reading a citation in which the action which prompted the presentation occurred. Riordan on the sixth of October, 1929, stopped Frank Lipka at Broad and Williams streets about 4 o'clock in the morning observing that he was a stranger in the neighborhood, to inquire as to his business there. Lipka had robbed the Aben Hardware company and a small clothing store on Church street and he had also held up a night lunch cart or Crystal avenue where he had obtained $60. Lipka whipped out a revolver and shot Riordan in the leg but the officer pursued Lipka until he fell from exhaustion. Lipka continued on to Waterford where he was later apprehended by the state police and local officers. He received a sentence in superior court for 15 years. In presenting the service medal City Manager Holt said it was one of the pleasantest duties that fell to him since his service in the city government and was in recognition of Riordan's bravery and exceptional service. Mayor Twomey then pinned the medal on the breast of the officer and congratulated him upon the splendid service he had rendered the city. A detail of a dozen officers in uniform in charge of Sergeant Murphy was in the council chamber accompanying Riordan.

Two motorcycles were bought from Robert Cleaves. There was considerable discussion over it, Councilor May seeking to have the contract go to a New London dealer, there being but a difference of $10 in the bid. The council decided that the bids were asked for in good faith and that Cleaves being the lowest bidder should have the contract. Councilor Minor said that was the only honorable and fair way to dispose of it. Councilor May wanted the bids deferred, but the council rejected his proposition.

A contract for 40,000 to 50,000 gallons of road tar was awarded to the Massasoit company.

The city bought several autos for the different departments of the city after Councilor May objected to awarding the contract. Contract for tile pipe was awarded Raymond and Alexander and contract for road oil and cold tar for street use to the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

Mansfiel Road was accepted as a city street.

Annie Lyons was given permission to remove a building on Harris court.

The payment for land for the Coast Guard academy was brought up and the city council had been authorized to offer bonds for that purpose, $150,000, but the director of finance has hit upon a plan by which he can use the cash on hand of the city and issue small notes instead of issuing bonds. Referred to the finance committee.

It was voted to lay a sewer 330 feet on Ocean avenue, north of Gardner avenue.

Councilor Chappell reported on the Maple avenue crossing and it was arranged to have a public hearing on the matter next week, Tuesday evening. There are two or three plans for an overhead bridge and an underpass, to get by the tracks of the New Haven railroad from Maple avenue to Pequot avenue. The expense is very large so a public hearing is to be held on the matter.

Tax Collector Manwarring reported the uncollected taxes of property and personal taxes.

The Connecticut Broaching company gave notice of an appeal from the assessment on its property and the action of the board of relief. Francis and ese Degange objected to the assessment on their property claiming that an error or discrimination was made. Mayor Twomey said it had been called to his attention that errors had been made in assessment of property and suggested that this matter be referred to the assessors and building inspector, the city manager to inform Mr. and Mrs. Degange as to their rights in the premises.

The Dumont Marine Service company applied for permission to establish a gasoline tank at the foot of State street. The city manager explained that they first wanted it on the wharf and that was objectionable and they decided to place it below mean high tide under water. He said there would be no odor. The system used is known as the aqua system.

Councilor May asked the city manager to explain the purchase of a model A Ford by the city without soliciting bids for it. The city manager said it was to take the place of other cars of the city and that the cost was $290. The amount specified by the charter for which bids should be asked is $300. Councilor May replied that other dealers were not given a chance to bid on it. The city manager said that he was not obliged to give other dealers a chance to bid on it unless the purchase price was $300.

Pauline M. Asbell, of 31 Granite street petitioned for permission to sell flowers on the streets Friday and Saturday from 3 to 6. Referred to the city manager.

MORRIS RICHMANN STRUCK— KNOCKED DOWN BY YELLOW CAB

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 7—Morris Richmann, 27, 177 North Bank street, employed as a handy man at the Capitol and Crown theatres, was injured tonight when knocked down by a Yellow Cab, driven by Henry M. ..lish, R. F. D., No. 1, Montville. Richmann is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital for treatment for a lacerated face and an injury to his head. A stitch was necessary to close the facial wound and the injury to the head will be determined tomorrow when an X-ray picture will be taken. Richmann was walking from the north side to the south side of State street, corner of North Bank and Bank. He carried a small ladder and when about to cross that part of the highway from the traffic zone to the corner of State and Bank streets, the cab, headed easterly, struck the ladder Richmann was thrown about 20 feet. Automobile Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and Traffic Officer Harry Wattersen went to Richmann's assistance and the young man was speeded to the hospital. Two brothers of Richmann, Philip, 19, and Louis, 26, both of 177 North Bank street, went to the hospital immediately following the accident and were insolent and abusive in seeking information relative to their brother's condition. After leaving the hospital, the brothers went to the Crown theatre and continued their tirade against the manager, F. L. Lawrence. The latter lost no time in ridding himself of the abuse of the brothers, for Lawrence requested aid of the police. Patrolmen William Manice and Dennis Murphy responded and arrested the pair on a charge of breach of the peace. They were locked up at police headquarters and will be in the police court tomorrow.

GIRLS JUMP FROM WINDOW WHEN TRAPPED BY FIRE

The firemen of the Robertson Paper Box Co., Palmertown, were called out Monday about 8 a. m. for a fire in one of their two-family houses close by, occupied by George Taylor and family and John Perry. The fire, which started in the hallway on the second floor was discovered by Mr. Taylor's daughters, Evelyn and Angeline who gave the alarm. The two girls whose only means of escape was from the hallway where the fire was, jumped out the second story window, both sustaining slight injuries. Residents in the vicinity succeeded in saving a little of the furniture. The fire caused considerable damage to the house. A hose was hooked up to one of the Robertson's Paper Co. hydrants, there being no fire department in Montville But for the speedy action of the firemen of the Robertson's Co. the blaze no doubt would have caused total destruction of the property.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

A double-feature bill combining comedy and tragedy will be presented at the Palace theatre Wednesday, Thdrsday and Friday of this week with the showing of "Free and Easy," starring Buster Keaton at the head of a great cast, and "The Locked Door," featuring Rod La Roque, Barbara Stanwyck, William Boyd and Betty Bronson.

Buster Keaton as a soloist is only one of the remarkable things about "Free and Easy." The cast reads like a page out of Hollywood's "Who's Who." Among the other stars in this picture are Anita Page, the beauty from Gopher City, Kansas, Trixie Friganza as he Ma, Robert Montgomery, Fred Niblo, Lionel Barrymore, William Haines, William Collier, Sr., Dorothy Sebastian and Karl Dane.

BUSTER KEATON in "FREE AND EASY"

"Free and Easy" is an uproarious satire on studio life in Hollywood. It tells the story of Elmer, garage man of Gopher City, played by Buster Keaton, who departs for Hollywood with Miss Gopher City, chosen the city beauty by the chamber of commerce, in his charge, accompanied by her Ma. En route they meet a movie star who is returning from the east. He promises to help and gets Elvira a job as an extra. She doesn't care about becoming a star but her Ma insists and so she tries. In the meantime the actor has fallen in love with her and she with him. This hinders her progress and while Elmer and Ma are hired and become successful Elvira retires from the stage and marries her hero.

The plot and setting in "The Locked Door" however is entirely different. Here we have Rod La Rocque cast as Frank Devereaux, the son of a wealthy business man. Attracted to Ann Carter, his father's secretary, he takes her to a floating cabaret, states his base purpose and imprisons her in the dining room. The ship is raided before he can go farther with his vile threat, a flashlight picture is taken and the couple escape. Ann resigns from her position, meets and marries Lawrence Reagan but does not live happily ever after because this is life and not a fairy tale. There are many exciting moments after this and much thrilling drama until Ann's dreams come true at the conclusion.

The Westerly town council April meeting held Monday lasted from 9 a. m. to 1:30. Then the council went into executive session from which the members did not emerge until after 2 p. m.

Cornelius J. Riley, president of the Westerly Central Labor union came before the council on two matters. He requested and later the council voted to have the town adopt the state law as to the control of barber shops and have them licensed, a procedure necessary in the cities, but optional in the towns of Rhode Island. He said there existed unfair competition where shops on Pierce and Oak streets were open only on Saturdays and Sundays.

Mr. Riley also called attention of the council to a resolution passed at the annual financial town meeting Feb. 6, 1928, which requested the various town departments to use local labor. Mr. Riley argued that men are employed on the roads from Stonington, Mystic and Hopkinton and this work should be given to local taxpayers.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

PRICE INDEX OF PROMINENT STOCKS SHOWED LOSS IN CAUTIOUS MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—Strenuous bullish demonstrations in today's stock market found traders increasingly nervous over the market's technical position, and for the most part merely attracted profit taking.

A few shares made sharp gains, but these were offset by a long list of small losses at the close, and the price index of 50 representative shares showed a loss of 1-2 point for the day.

Price trends shifted frequently. The market opened strong, sagged during the morning, turned upward toward midday, made rapid progress around mid-afternoon, and sold off swiftly in the last half hour.

Oils and utilities were turned over in huge volume, more than a score reaching new high ground for the year sometime during the day, but the majority closed under the day's best levels, and several showed small net losses. Stocks changed hands in blocks of 5,000 to 40,000 shares, and total sales approximated 5,500,000 shares, the second largest day of the year, coming within about 440,000 of Friday's turnover.

Aside from settlement of the Fox Film refinancing controversy, the day's news was not of a character to influence share prices, and the market appeared to be governed largely by varying sentiment regarding its internal position. Although many large traders and several commission houses firmly maintained a bullish stand, there was a growing feeling that the market was entitled to a moderate reaction, after the rapid advance of the past few days. Slightly more favorable business and trade reports, however, have made the bear faction cautious, and short selling was not aggressive.

In fact, shorts appeared to be severely pinched in a few issues. Wall street understands that some of the more powerful interests committed to the advance are governed by the desire of effecting mergers. With business recovery proceeding at an irregular and gradual pace, however, they apparently find wide bullish enthusiasm difficult to maintain.

Fox Film "A" shot up more than 9 points to a new 1930 high at 50, and closed at 48. The settlement evidently caught a large short interest napping. Loews and General Theatres Equipment were also carried to new high levels for the year. Extreme gains of 8 to 10 points in Vanadium, National Bellas Hess, and United Aircraft also indicated that shorts were being trapped. The bidding up of United Aircraft, however, was also attributed to the efforts of the management to acquire National Air Transport through an exchange of stock.

American Telephone up 5 points rose to a new peak at 274, and closed at 272. Wall street rumor has it that rights worth from $10 to $20 will shortly be granted, U. S. Steel sold up more than 2 points to a new high at 193 3-4, then lost its gain. Rumors of a merger of American Radiator and Johns Manville were renewed, and the former reached a new top for 1930. Other conspicuous strong spots at the close were Corn Products, Bendix Aviation, Motor Products, Public Service of N. J., and Stone and Webster.

Coppers sold off again, Anaconda losing nearly 3 points. Cutler Hammer, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Chesapeake and Ohio, Liggett and Myers, and Western Union lost 2 points or more, and American Machine and Foundry, 5.

Credit conditions showed little change. Call money, after renewing at 4 per cent, was cut to 3 1-2 for the first time in more than a week, but this was said to reflect the placing of a single large block of funds in the market. Time money was slightly firmer. Foreign exchanges were steady to firm. French francs were in demand, the cable rate rising 5-16 of a point to 3.91 3-4 cents. Sterling cables held at $4.86 1-2.

Commodities generally eased. Wheat lost about a cent a bushel, reflecting a slump in export buying, and corn sagged about 1-2 cent on bearish weather. Cotton futures advanced early in the day, but encountered realizing and only the May position closed higher.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—Prices on the New York Curb exchange displayed considerable irregularity today with the oil and aviation issues replacing the public utilities as the market leaders. The market was called upon to absorb a rather large volume of profit-taking inspired, in part, by a growing feeling that a technical reaction cannot long be delayed. Trading was in fairly heavy volume, total sales of 1,605,100 shares being the third largest of the year.

Fox Theatres crossed 11 to a new 1930 high on the announcement that William Fox had disposed of voting control in the parent company and that a settlement of tangled legal proceedings was in sight.

Opening of the Detroit aviation show provided an excuse for aggressive pool operations in the aviation issues. Aeronautical Industries, Allied Aviation, Aviation Securities, Consolidated Aircraft, Irving Air Chute, National Aviation and North American Aviation all reached new high records for the year. Fokker turned heavy on the announcement of substantial price cuts.

Oils made further progress on the up-side on persistent rumors of crude oil and gasoline price increases. Gulf, Imperial of Canada, International Petroleum and Standard Oil of Indiana sold at new peak prices for the year on gains ranging from fractions to nearly 4 points.

Public Utilities fell back under the weight of heavy realizing. American Light & Traction dropped 4 points, American Gas & Electric 3 and Brazilian Light & Traction, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Electric Bond & Share and several others yielded a point or two.

A better demand was noted for some of the radio issues. Canadian Marconi was turned over in large volume and moved into a new high for the year. De Forest also sold at a new peak. Polymet Manufacturing rallied briskly on reports of a sharp upturn in orders from radio manufacturers. Among the many specialties to reach new high ground were Chesebrough Manufacturing, which soared nearly 20 points; Driver Harris, Aluminum Limited, Federal Screw, General Realty preferred, Loews debenture rights, Merchants & Manufacturers, and Lane Bryant.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—Activity in stocks was again mirrored by the share feature bonds today. Several convertible and warrant issues soared to new highs on large turnovers, although part of the advance was obliterated in the late trading as stock prices softened.

Rates on time loans firmed about a quarter of one per cent, but call money slipped back to 3 1-2 per cent after renewing at 4. Turnovers in investment rails and utilities showed a small improvement but prices moved narrowly and the general list was only steady. A slight increase in bank inquiry is reported and investment bankers and dealers are encouraged by the firmness of the market's undertone.

Evidence of this satisfactory situation was seen in the announcement that the Erie railroad's $50,000,000 issue of 45-year refunding and improvement 5s is being offered tomorrow at 95 1-2. These bonds were authorized by the interstate commerce commission about a week ago, but their appearance was apparently deferred pending the market's readjustment to firmer money rates.

The share option group fairly boiled today. American Telephone 4 1-2s climbed to 193 1-4, a new 1930 high, on enormous trading. The last sale was at 191, a net advance of 1-2. The day's business in the debenture totaled nearly $3,300,000, principal amount.

Even more volatile were the General Theatres Equipment 6s which soared 12 points to 152 before reacting with the shares. The final quotation was 147 1-2, up 7 1-2 from Saturday.

Loew's 6s, with warrants made the new high of 125, up 5 1-4, and closed at the top. Warner Bros. Pictures 6s and International Telephone 4 1-2s eased. Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s were steady.

Active spots in the less spectacular sections of the market included Santa Fe General 4s, Rock Island 4s, Gulf States Steel 5 1-2s, New York Central 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, Union Pacific 4s, Utilities Power & Light 5 1-2s and Western Union 4 1-2s. The demand for oil stocks was accompanied by a rather brisk dealing in Shell Union Oil 5s, with warrants, and Sinclair Pipe Line 5s. Pennsylvania Railroad Consolidated 4 1-2s made a new high at 102 1-2, up 1 1-2.

United States governments held firm in an active market. Changes in the more prominent European bonds were of minor size, but there was an easier tone to the secondary issues.

New bond flotations expected soon include a $10,000,000 issue of Starrett Investing corporation secured 20-year 5s, with warrants for Starrett corporation common stock.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 7—(AP)—Insect and bin damage to 1,247,000 bushels of wheat in a few elevators here dominated the Chicago wheat market today. Almost regardless of other factors, heavy selling and general unsettlement of trade resulted from announcement that the wheat had been posted as out of condition because of weevil and heat injury. Warehouse receipts for all other grain in Chicago public elevators were guaranteed formally by the elevator owners, but this action came after the close of the market, too late to influence prices.

Wheat today closed heavy, 3-4-1 1-4c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1-4-5-8c down, oats a shade off to a shade up, and provisions varying from a shade decline to a rise of 10c.

News that a comparatively large amount of elevator wheat in Chicago had deteriorated to such an extent as to be no longer available to meet ordinary contract requirements put everything else temporarily in the background, so far as most wheat traders here were concerned.

It was taken for granted generally that the market would be burdened with cheap offerings made under disadvantageous circumstances, although, in some quarters the view was expressed that curtailment of the quantity of wheat which could be delivered on Chicago May contracts ought really to be construed as bullish. The majority of traders chose to consider only immediate market effects, and turned aggressively to the selling side.

Forecasts of cloudy weather tonight in Kansas and Nebraska pointing to chances of a possible break-up of drought conditions did a good deal also to stimulate wheat selling here. Meanwhile dispatches told of persistent lack of moisture and of high winds.

Furthermore, the amount of wheat on ocean passage showed decided additional shrinkage today making the total quantity afloat far less than half of the aggregate at this time last year. Notice of 2,827,000 bushels decrease in the United States wheat visible supply and of a general port strike at Buenos Aires was also virtually ignored, as well as official figures showing serious dearth of subsoil moisture in Canada.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, and because of favorable weather for field work.

Provisions kept about steady despite upturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities — Wheat—May 1.12 1-2-3-4, 1.17 1-8; July 1.13- 1-8, 1.19-1-8; Sept. 1.16, 1.21 3-4. Corn—May 85 1-2, 86 3-4-7-8; July 87 5-8, 89-1-8; Sept. 88-5-8, 90 3-3-1-2.

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—The net railway operating income of the Class 1 railroad of the country for the first two months of the year aggregated $115,169,125, which was at the annual rate of return of 3.88 per cent on the property investment, the bureau of railway economics reported today. The aggregate for the first two months of 1929 was $161,914,617, or 5.60 per cent on the property investment.

Steel ingot production for the first quarter of the year fell short by more than 1,700,000 tons of that of the corresponding quarter of 1929, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute. March output totaled 4,288,935 tons, compared with 5,058,258 in March, 1929, and that for the first quarter amounted to 12,143,406 tons, as against 13,874,612 tons in the first quarter of last year. The report further showed that the average rate of operations for the quarter just ended was 80.42 per cent of rated capacity, as contrasted with 91.88 for the first quarter of 1929, and the approximate daily output 157,707 tons for the quarter, compared with 180,190 tons in 1929.

The Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co., of Detroit, did not earn all of its common stock dividend requirements during the first quarter, Fred Wardell, president, said today, but the directors felt that they would be justified in paying the dividend due at this time from surplus, "while waiting for general business conditions to clarify."

Holders of United States Steel Corp., common stock numbered 124,069 when the books were closed for the March dividend, an increase of 6,118 during the past three months. On March 31, 1929, stockholders numbered 103,571.

March sales of the Childs Co., amounted to $2,351,691 compared with $2,408,961 in March 1929. There were two less stores in operation this year than during March, 1929.

Members of the New York Cotton exchange have voted for the closing of the exchange on Good Friday, April 18, and on Saturday, April 19.

SIX PERMITS GRANTED FOR NEW CONSTRUCTION WORK IN CITY

During the past week there were six building permits granted by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft for new construction work in the city. The permits included one for a new five-car garage to be erected by Betsey Friedberg on Spring street. The other permits were for additions to the present frame structures.

Considerable progress has been made on local building work during the past week. Contractor P. F. Sweeney has completed the house on Fanning avenue for his brother, Thomas P. Sweeney, of Fitchville. He has also nearly completed the new house on the Norwich-Westerly road for Oscar H. Main.

At the Norwich Inn, work progresses rapidly with the contractors, Peck-McWilliams Co., planning to have the work completed with the possible exception of the landscaping, in about seven weeks. The third story of the building, together with the employes' quarters, is practically done.

The work on the new Norton Memorial gymnasium building at the Norwich Free Academy is going along rapidly. Contractor Spencer has the foundation work nearly complete and will start on the walls within a week.

Several of the new houses on Fanning avenue and Lambert parkway, being built by George Lambert, have been finished, while two others are in the process of construction.

The permits issued during the past week are as follows:

To Ralph Riccadino to add a room 5x10 feet to the present frame house at 20 Penobscot street. The room will be used as a bathroom. The foundation will be of stone and the superstructure of frame. The estimated cost is $100.

To Edward Neiderman to erect a five-car frame garage at 87 Spring street for Betsey Friedberg. The garage will be 60x20 feet and will have a cement foundation with frame superstructure. The roof will be covered in composition shingles. The estimated cost is $1,000.

To Ralph Demicco to add to the present frame house at 11 Lake street. The addition will include a porch three stories high with stairways leading to each porch. The size will be 7x20 feet. The estimated cost is $75.

To Agnes Jakubulski to add a frame veranda to the present frame dwelling at 9 Ninth street. The veranda will be 5x8 feet and the estimated cost is $50.

To Robert J. Sullivan to add one room to the present frame dwelling at 59 Woodside avenue. The addition will be 12x13 feet and will be of frame construction with finish to correspond to the present dwelling. The estimated cost is $350.

To Frank Przylucki to build a one-room addition to the present frame building at 33 Roath street. The addition, which will be 6x8 feet, will be used as a bathroom. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and fireproof shingles. The estimated cost is $50.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were six sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to nine sales for the corresponding week in 1929. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $2380 and $5000.

In New London during the past week there were four sales of real estate, seven less than during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $23,250 and $86,620.

NEW LONDON

The program for the city this year assumed a much brighter aspect the past week with the important announcements that $850,000 has made available to start work on the new Coast Guard academy in Mohegan avenue and that the contract has already been let for the new Allyn art museum.

Thus, with the new children's annex of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals and the new administration building for the Connecticut College for Women already in the process of construction the building situation takes a more optimistic turn.

Announcement was made this week that the contract for the fine Allyn Gallery of Art, which will cost $400,000 and will take 18 months to build, has been awarded to the H. Wales Lines company which has played a prominent part in the construction of the larger buildings in New London for the past several years. Inasmuch as the Wales company has a large force of local workers are awarding of the contract to this company will mean much in stabilizing the employment situation in this city this year.

The new art gallery is to be located on the Allyn property in Mohegan avenue and will be one of the most imposing buildings in this section. It was designed by one of the foremost architects in the country.

It will be built under the terms of the will of Harriet U. Allyn and the funds for the building are being handled by Clement Scott, trust officer of the Hartford Trust company.

According to the plans the structure will be of a colonial type, built entirely of granite. The steps leading up to the facade will be of plain granite. Four giant pillars to support the portico will be fashioned in Ionic design, suggestive of the old Greek temles.

Work is expected to be started in May. The structure will be 110x56 feet, consisting of two stories and a basement. Four special hand-carved panels, two on either side, in rectangular shape, together with three circular hand-carved panels under the portico, all in granite, will form the only decorative features of the memorial.

The roof, entirely of glass, will require more than 6,000 feet of one-half inch wire skylight glass. The glass is made by a special process of casting the glass with the wire netting. The reason for the special roof is to flood the interior with natural light, while the wire will make it impenetrable.

On the first floor will be located a large library, directors' quarters and administrative rooms. Eight sections, in which the mony works of art will be displayed, are to be located on the second floor. A large auditorium will be provided for in the basement of the building.

Building Permits

E. I. Raymond, house and garage, corner Morton and Dart streets, $7,300.

Stanley Smolenski, et. al., frame dwelling, Adelaide street, $10,000.

Harry Wheeler, et. ux., frame dwelling, Norwood avenue, $5,600.

ROCKVILLE

The permit has been issued to Otto Kasulke for the erection of a dwelling on Grant street.

Arthur Bamford has started the cellar for a residence to be built on Rheel street.

The contract for the erection of an addition to the garage on Union street, owned by Conrady Brothers has been awarded to William Stengle.

WESTERLY

For the first week in April, Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi, have issued the following building and zoning permits:

FURNITURE NEEDS TO BE KEPT CLEAN

Did you ever figure out what causes furniture to become dingy and lose all semblance of a shine? Frequent applications of a dust cloth apparently fail to prevent it. The reason is that many housewives, who are persistent in their demands that the younger members of the household wash vigorously and often behind the ears, fail to recognize the fact that furniture also needs to be "washed behind the ears." Wood has fully as many pores as human flesh and they collect dirt and grim just as readily. What actually is needed is some reliable oil or wax which, when worked into a cloth, will wash the surface and clean the pores of the wood fully as effectively as a washcloth launders the hidden spots behind youthful ears. Application of a cloth containing a small amount of oil or wax once a week will keep wood clean and wholesome, but neglect to do so will result eventually in a dead wood surface which no end of varnishing and polishing can restore. Just a word of caution, however, let it be also urged that these cloths soaked in oil and wax be kept in tightly sealed metal containers when not in use. A pound tobacco box is good, but one of these round tin boxes in which certain types of dust mops come are even better. If they are tossed loose into a closet they are liable to cause fire from spontaneous combustion. In fact, they are almost certain to do so.

COLD WEATHER IS UNJUSTLY BLAMED

Cold weather isn't to blame for half the colds attributed to it. It's the custom of keeping the house too warm and it's the house that "runs hot and cold" throughout the day that nurtures most colds. This is especially true in the spring months when the outside temperature sometimes varies as much as 20 degrees in a day. Physicians and heating engineers who have studied the problem of proper indoor temperature regulation point out that the affect of high atmospheric temperature is to dilate the tiny blood vessels of the skin and concentrate the blood flow in them at the expense of the inner parts of the body. This leads to a lowered tone of the whole heat-regulating circulatory system and the result is a profound and noticeable influence upon the susceptibility to colds and respiratory disorders. Automatic heating systems have been found to maintain the uniform, healthful indoor temperature conductive to good health. The job of keeping the temperature at the same healthful level is turned over to a thermostat which reacts instantly to any rise or fall in the thermometer. The heating plant is thus controlled by the heat of the house.

FIGHT DANDELIONS WITH PLANT FOOD

"Dandelion-fighters" at last have the inside story on how to eliminate unsightly weeds from their lawns. The way to do it, specialists say, is by building up the grass itself. For weeds thrive where the turf is thin or in a weakened condition. An early spring feeding with a complete plant food will give the grass a quick, vigorous start, and produce a thick turf with a strong root system that is hard to penetrate.

Then, if the weed should gain entry, the well developed grass turf and roots crowd it so as to hinder growth. Lighter feedings of plant food at intervals of six to eight weeks will keep the grass in a healthy, thriving condition. Frequent mowing is helpful in checking the top growth of the weed. The "bleeding" which takes place at each cutting supplements the work of the strong grass roots in weakening the weed utnil it is finally eliminated.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS

There should be a fire extinguisher on every floor of every home. We've got one of the best fire departments in the world, but it takes a little time for them to get there.

NEW HOME OF THOMAS P. SWEENEY

The above is a picture of the new home of Thomas P. Sweeney of Fitchville, built by his brother, Contractor Patrick F. Sweeney. The house, which is located on Fanning avenue, is a five-room cottage house of the semi-bungalow type. It is one of the most attractive of the new houses on the street. The exterior finish is in red cedar clapboards painted a cream color. There is a large porch across the front of the building. A cobble stone chimney on the south side of the house adds a charming note.

The interior finish is in hard wood and hard finish plaster. A large living room opens from the front entrance with a dining room and kitchen in the rear. The bedrooms and bath are on the second floor. The floors are all of oak and the bathroom is all of tile. The fixtures are of white porcelain. In the kitchen are a number of built-in features and the plumbing fixtures are of white porcelain.

The house is heated by steam and the piping throughout the house is of brass.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

One of the most entertaining, best directed and best enacted talking pictures which has yet come from the Fox Movietone studios, "Harmony At Home," an all talker, is now playing at the Breed theatre.

The production was directed by Hamilton McFadden, former brilliant stage director in New York, and has an all star cast, including William Collier, Sr., Marguerite Churchill, Elizabeth Patterson, Rex Bell, Charles Eaton, Charlotte Henry, Dot Farley and Dixie Lee.

Combining romance and the thrilling events attendant upon the launching of the world's first submarine, "The Mysterious Island," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's pretentious submarine fantasy, will be seen at the Breed theatre beginning Thursday. Lloyd Hughes, Jane Daly, Lionel Barrymore and Montagu Love are the principal players of this extraordinary play and among the tensely dramatic situations of the plot are two hand-to-hand encounters between monarchist and liberal factions, in submarines which are helpless at the bottom of the sea. Based on Jules Vernes popular, imaginative novel, "The Mysterious Island" has been adapted and directed by Lucien Hubbard and enhanced in its picturization by natural color photography, dialogue and sound effects.

Fires that have burned sixty-six years in Atlanta's gas plant were extinguished with introduction of natural gas.

STUCCO HOUSE ANSWERS CRY FOR LOW LINES

Home builders frequently seek to realize their plans in a long, low house of distinctly modern lines. This house is one answer to such desires.

Although it may be built on a narrow lot, it is much better adapted to a wide or corner lot to allow landscaping so effective as setting for the English style of house.

Its exterior is of stucco, with clapboards above it under the gables. The roof may be of slate or tile in colors to suit the builder's preference. Usually the stucco is of light cream or a similar color.

Exceptional convenience is found in the service entrance, which is handy to cellar stairs, making it unnecessary to build outside stairs. The service yard is screened by a fence.

Three bedrooms and two baths are fitted compactly into the second floor plans, with ample closet space throughout. The large front bedroom particularly is light and airy.

Including the two-car garage planned in the rear, the structure may be built at costs ranging from $10,000 to $12,000. The figure may be somewhat lower in smaller communities, or if less expensive materials are chosen.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Dainty Nancy Carroll with her cute Irish brogue and "come-hither" eyes, makes her last appearance at the Broadway with her latest creation "Honey," with today's showings. Her able assistants "Skeets" Gallagher, Lillian Roth, who is soon to be a star in her own right, Harry Green with that "awful thirst," and ZaSu "Niobe" Pitts, to say nothing of tiny Mitzi Green, a nine-year-old bundle of impishness, have aided little Nancy to add much to her laurels in this sparkling comedy drama of an impoverished southern family. At today's matinee the ladies will receive Nancy's latest photo and tonight the big "Honey" confection will be awarded from the stage.

Tomorrow brings to the Broadway the outstanding dramatic picture of the year, with lovable Ruth Chatterton in the stunning mother-love story "Sarah & Son." Surpassing even her greatest work in "Madam X," and her other well known roles in "Charming Sinners," "The Doctor's Secret," and later "The Laughing Lady," Miss Chatterton, who has been acclaimed by critics and managers the world over as the premier emotional actress of the screen, rises to undreamed heights as the patient, long-suffering mother, who cheated of her boy by the Blind Goddess of Law, finally gives battle with the terrible ferocity of a jungle tiger defending her young, and wins her way through apparently unsurmountable difficulties to ultimate happiness with her boy, in the arms of her new found husband. Frederic March, Fuller Mellish, Jr., and young Philippe de Lacey are included in Miss Chatterton's support, the entire cast being a positive guarantee of unequalled dramatic entertainment. As usual the management has an excellent surrounding program of short subjects.

Recital at Slater Hall.

Advanced students of Frank Drage will be heard in a violin recital at Slater hall annex on Wednesday, April 8, at 8 o'clock. An attractive and artistic program has been chosen and the students will be heard in solo and ensemble. Miss Amie March, soprano, will be the assisting artist. The public is cordially invited.

Well Babies' Conference

The public health nursing department of the United Workers will hold a well babies' conference at the club house in Occum on Friday, April 11 at 2 p. m. This change is necessary because of Good Friday.

JIMMY QUINN WINS HIS FIRST BOUT IN QUEST OF NATIONAL BOXING CROWN

BOSTON, April 7.—(AP)—Honors in the National A. A. U. amateur boxing championship tournament were widely scattered when the first half of the opening program was completed here tonight. Boxers from ten cities and Hawaii were successful in the first 16 bouts, which provided sizzling action in four of the eight classes.

The leather pushers from San Francisco were skillful enough to pound their way to three victories. Boston, Buffalo and Pittsburgh had two successful representatives and the other victories were scored by youths from New Orleans, Baltimore, Grand Rapids, Cleveland, New York, Portland, Ore., and Honolulu.

This year's field, fighting for eight undefended titles, appeared much better equipped for striving for national honors than any in recent years, thanks to A. A. U. officials in various sections, who were determined to send nothing but competent performers in this year's tournament.

Quinn Wins Verdict

The battling in the 126-pound class provided most of the thrills during the first three hours of unceasing warfare. This division contained such skillful sluggers as August Miller, sun-tanned blond from Honolulu, whose stinging right hand knocked out Jack Sylvester of Philadelphia, in a round and William Gladstone of Chicago, another right-hooker, who took no longer to floor James Comfort of Boston.

James Quinn of Norwich won the decision over Morris Grenn of Cleveland, in three fast rounds.

Six bouts were necessary to wind up the first round bouts in the 112-pound class. Joey Kushner of Cleveland, the junior national champion, drew a bye.

DYKES CONFIDENT ATHLETICS WILL REPEAT IN 1930

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—Jimmy Dykes, who does the talking for the Philadelphia Athletics on the field, but leaves most of the conversation off the diamond to Connie Mack, today stepped out of character long enough to suggest that the world champions will repeat.

In New York on his way to Troy to be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the semi-annual dinner of the Industrial Athletic league, Dykes came out flat-footed for the A's to win in the American league again "after a battle."

"There should be a great race in our league," said Dykes, who is the pepperpot of the team and keeps up a running fire of chatter throughout every game.

"We're better than we were last year. The Yankees will be better, too, and I look for a lot of trouble from Cleveland and Detroit.

"Don't be surprised if Howard Ehmke pitches a lot of games. I never saw him look better than he does this spring. And say, some of the young pitchers have a lot of stuff.

"Nobody has to say how good the regulars are. Is Grove still throwing birdshot? I'll say so. When he is right he is unbeatable. I have heard that said about a lot of pitchers, but I know it is true of Grove.

"Simmons isn't in Philadelphia yet but I am convinced he will be all right when the season opens. Foxx never looked better. Under weight? Certainly not. He never was heavier. Hit? The only place Foxx doesn't look good as a hitter is in parks where there are no fences for him to hit the ball over."

INJURY TO HORNSBY'S HEEL GROSSLY EXAGGERATED

CHICAGO, April 7—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby came back to town today and learned from a specialist that the soreness in his right heel had been grossly exaggerated.

Barring unforseen complications, the big stick wielder of the championship Cubs, was advised he could return to work the latter part of this week in the Kansas City exhibition series and certainly for the opening festivities of the National league pennant race at St. Louis, April 15.

The verdict, made by Dr. Howard Chislett after a minute examination of the heel, which has been bothering the "Rajah" since last September, was a welcome surprise to Cub fans and President William Veeck, in particular, who was given to understand that his star would be lost to the team for half the approaching season.

Dr. Chislett said the bony growth on the heel had almost disappeared and that the soreness now centered wholly in the right ankle because of Hornsby's recent habit of walking on his toes to favor the heel. He advised the "Rajah" to walk normally hereafter and to take a few days rest at St. Louis, his home.

Hornsby was jubilant and confident that he was ready to play baseball right now. He boarded a train for St. Louis tonight and expected to rejoin the Cubs at Kansas City Thursday or Friday.

FIRE LADDIES ANNOUNCE LINEUP FOR WEDNESDAY

The long-awaited announcement of the lineup for the Norwich Fire department in their baseball game against the Academy Wednesday at the campus was forthcoming Monday. It is a team that is backed to the limit by the local fire laddies and one which they say will show the Red and Whitesters up to perfection.

Here it is: Billy Reid, late of Yantic A. A. and speed-ball artist, will do the twirling; Blinderman, late of Richmond Radiator fame, will catch; Jack Moody, of Squad A, first base; Gil Kampf, shortstop; Cliff Barwell, of Engine 5, third base; Kirk Wilcox, right field; Mike Clifford, center field and Johnny Fitzgerald, of the Smoke Shop, left field. The second base position was not announced by Manager Tracy as it is still in the midst of a hot fight and the decision will probably not be made by the crafty leader until game time. Eddie Nevins, ex-Greeneville Rosedale player, will also be in uniform, ready at a moment's notice to relieve Reid in the box.

The team will hold its final practice this morning at the campus. The workout scheduled for Monday was called off because of wet grounds and Manager Tracy took his charges inside for several pinochle games to put them in the right mental attitude. Kirk Wilcox, star right fielder, however, had a stiff batting session Monday afternoon during which time he sent many hard liners to all parts of the field. Kirk reports himself in fine shape and will taper off his training tonight with a light checker game.

Some have unjustly termed this team as the greatest collection of misfits to step upon a Norwich diamond but to the fan in the street they represent a powerful nine, that will give the schoolboys the surprise of their lives. They seem to have the veteran mixed in with young talent to form a club that means power with the stick, speed on the bases and clever defensive work.

NEW SCHEDULE SYSTEM ADOPTED BY COACHES

A system of deciding the 1931 basketball championship in the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island interscholastic conference was agreed upon at a four-hour session of the basketball coaches held at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Academy.

The plan is a new one for the sport of basketball, which sees each of the nine teams play half of the eight league members and it has been so arranged that two of the opponents are reputedly large teams and two small ones. The meeting was attended by all schools who will compete for the basketball champion, except Chapman Tech. The others are Windham, N. F. A., Killingly, Plainfield, Putnam, Fitch, Stonington and Bulkeley. Westerly, the other member of the "Big Ten", has no basketball team.

The list of teams and their opponents follows:

Windham—Bulkeley, N. F. A., Plainfield, Putnam.

N. F. A.—Windham, Bulkeley, Killingly, Putnam.

Killingly—Chapman Tech, N. F. A., Putnam, Plainfield.

Plainfield—Bulkeley, N. F. A., Killingly, Putnam.

Putnam—Chapman Tech, N. F. A., Plainfield, Killingly.

Fitch—Chapman Tech, Bulkeley, Plainfield, Killingly.

Stonington—Chapman Tech, N. F. A., Fitch, Plainfield.

Chapman Tech—Windham, Bulkeley, Fitch, Stonington.

Bulkeley—Chapman Tech, N. F. A., Plainfield, Fitch.

This is a complicated arrangement and is being used more as an experiment.

Although no plans have been made for the 1931 season at the Academy, it can be seen that the sport is in for a big revival with the completion of the new Norton Memorial gym. This will give the Wildcats one of the best playing surfaces in these parts with every opportunity for the team to make good. Bleachers with ample seating capacity will bep laced on the floor, which will have an area much larger than that of the Y, present basketball center of the city of Norwich.

PLAINFIELD SWIMMERS CLASH WITH SO. MANCHESTER WED.

At the Plainfield swimming pool on Wednesday evening, the Plainfield swimming team and the South Manchester Recreation center team clash in the second meeting between these two swimming teams. The last meeting at the South Manchester pool resulted in a victory for the South Manchester mermen, so that the Plainfield boys are out to sink their opponents tomorrow night. The events for the meet will be the 40-yard free style, 40-yard backstroke, 40-yard breaststroke, 100-yard free style, 220-yard free style, diving and 160-yard relay.

The members of the team are Connelley, Burby, J. Korab, Lang, C. Smith, J. Smith, Robarge and Mette. Connelley and Burby are the outstanding stars of the Plainfield team and are entered in four events, the 220-yard free style, 100-yard free style, 40-yard breaststroke and the relay. J. Korab, another star of the team, is entered in three events while Lang is depended upon to capture the diving honors, along with Mette, who is entering this event for the first time. The meet is open to the public.

DODGERS MEET STIFF OPPOSITION IN CRACKERS

MACON, Ga., April 7.—(AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers found the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association hard to crack today, but managed to eke out an 8 to 5 victory.

The Dodgers gained an early lead due to some extra base hitting by Frederick, Herman and Bissonette, but were forced to stave off a last inning rally, which netted the Crackers three runs. Score:

Atlanta 100 010 003—5;11;1
Brooklyn 110 002 04x—8;12;0

Dumovitch, Kiefer, Rouch and Wingo, Long; Phelps, Dudley and Picinich.

PAPERS IN DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST SHARKEY NOT FILED

BOSTON, April 7.—(AP)—Counsel for Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight boxer, today announced that papers have not yet been served on them by Emanuel P. "Rocky" Stone, of Boston, Sharkey's former sparring partner, who has threatened to file suit for $500,000 damages.

The heavyweight's counsel, Jack Conway, branded Stone's threatened action as a "hold-up" and said he intended to turn the papers in his suit, if filed, over to the Boston Bar association for investigation.

GEORGIE DAY LOSES TO HOLMES AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, April 7.—(AP)—Eddie Holmes, Providence lightweight, earned a verdict over Georgie Day of New Haven, in the feature ten-round bout at the Marieville club, here tonight. Holmes took six of the ten rounds, while Day was credited with three. The other was even. In an eight-round semi-final, Irish Paddy Mullins of Charlestown outpointed Jimmy Rossi of Westerly, R. I. A second eight-rounder found Jackie Harmon of Waterbury the victor over "Scoops" Roullier of Salem, Mass., in a fast bout that went the distance.

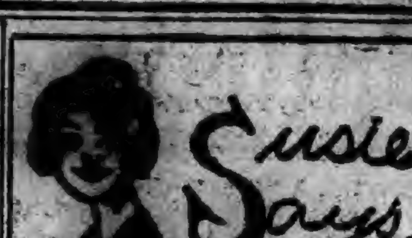
Shikat Throws Karilenko

NEW YORK, April 7—(AP)—Richard Shikat, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as world's heavyweight wrestling champion, threw Matros Karilenko of Russia with a crotch and body hold after 40 minutes and five seconds of wrestling tonight.

Karilenko was a last minute substitute for Ferenc Holuban, Hungarian wrestler who gave Shikat a terrific battle in their previous match. Holuban telegraphed that he was sick and unable to appear for the bout.

Carnera to Box Wright

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7—(AP)—Primo Carnera, the Italian heavyweight and "Bearcat" Wright, Omaha Negro who weighs 222 pounds, will head the annual Derby Eve boxing card of the local American Legion post. Announcement that the two fighters had been signed for the bout May 16 was made late today.



Susie Says

Yas, Sar, come right in. I knows you, you is the Census Man. I'se been expecting you. Sit right down there by the ol' fire where you can write. Come in here you 'Rastus, the Census Man is here.

Go right ahead with yore questions and 'Rastus and me'll answer 'em. No, I guess I better do the answering. 'Rastus is liable to make a lotta useless talk.

Yas, Mr. Census Man, my name's Liza Jones and that's my man, 'Rastus. Say, you don't all suppose we'd be living together if we wasn't married? He's ma husban' and I'm his wife and I might say his support, too.

No, Sar, there ain't no raddio in our home, but I'se got one of them new fangled washin' machines. 'Rastus don't like 'em 'cause they work too fast and he has to carry more washings than he usta.

Is I married, single, widowed or divorced? Well, I told you I was married, but I'se willing to be any of the other three. What was my age at my first marriage? Glory be, I was so young I didn't know any better.

Have I attended school or college since Sept. 1, 1929? Now Mister Census Man you sure do like to have your joke. You don't tell me yo is askin' me in earnest, 'cause you oughta know that I ain't been to no school or college, ever, say nothing about in the last six months. Now 'Rastus, he helps sweep out up to the high school now an' then, but that ain't what you mean.

Of course Ise able to read and write. How do you think I get my money for the washin' if I don't. I always write a note saying, "Please give 'Rastus, check, made out to Liza Jones." By doin' that I always get my money, 'cause 'Rastus ain't so reliable but he can't read so he don't know what I writes.

What is my color? Say, Mr. Census Man, you didn't take me for no Easter lily didja? My color's a sort of mahogany and Ise proud of it. Yas, sar, I'se a gainful worker, and how. My occupation is conducting a laundry for the very best people in town.

Was I at work yesterday? Say, boss, you don't know nothin' about washin' for white folks if you think I don't work every day. Say, them questions about how much time I work can be answered by three words, "all the time."

Waal, Mr. Census Man, I ain't so sure about 'Rastus, you better put a big "No" after all them questions. Is he able to work? Well, take a look at him and put down your own answer. Is he looking for work? Mister Census Man that block o' ebony looks for work like he looks for the small pox. He just runs away from it.

How many weeks has he been outa work? Say, boss, you're sure it says weeks and not years? Wait, I'll find out. 'Rastus, how old is you? Forty-three, well mister Census Man put down 43 years.

Give the reason for losing your last job? Well, you can't lose nothing you never had, so that question's superfluous.

Is that all? Well, I'm glad 'cause I gotta lotta work to do. Go 'long 'Rastus and get that wash from Mrs. White and hurry back. If you stop at that speakeasy for any gin, I'll make you do the washin' alone. Now git.

Well, goodbye Mister Census Man.

POLISH TEAM ANNOUNCES ROSTER FOR COMING SEASON

The Polish American Citizens baseball club roster of this pioneer Polish team is as follows: Leo Jarvis, the Finn brothers, Johnny and Bootsie Greene, Pete Raymond, Charley Lamory, Joseph Snow, Lefty Wilki, Peter Labenski, Alex Arico, Red Burelle and Steffi Chimochowski. What these pill-pluggers don't know about baseball is not worth mentioning. Leo Jarvis and the Finn brothers need no introduction. The rest of the boys need no bouquets either. Alex. Arico and Pete Labenski have proven their skill in the Industrial league in the past and, with the help of the Greene brothers, there is no question that the team will capture the pennant this season. So confident are the boys that they all agreed to play with this club and, to make it plain, they have signed contracts to that effect. Any club that would like to play this team, just drop a line to, or phone the manager, George Bisinski, 457 North Main street, Norwich, phone, 3268-W. This ball team has their headquarters at Pulaski hall.

ACADEMY HAS WEAK SPOT IN OUTFIELD

Greatly encouraged over their ten-inning victory over the Richmond Radiators Saturday, the Academy baseball squad got down to work again Monday, confident that they are in for a big year. The workout yesterday afternoon was confined to batting by the regulars. An infield drill was scheduled but because of the condition of the field after the hard rain of the previous night, had to be cancelled.

Coach Brigham finds himself confronted with the task of sorting out his candidates and finding the right combination for an outfield trio. That appears to be the team's only weakness for in Weisgraber and Greene they have two sweet high school pitchers; they have a classy receiver in Bud Fontaine, and an infield that ranks with the best the school has ever had in Alec Arico, Speed Reardon, Mickey Breen and Capt. Chubby Gibbs, at first, second, third and short, respectively. At least, that's the way things shaped up after Saturday's game against an Industrial league team composed almost entirely of leading semi-pro players of eastern Connecticut.

TWO HOMERS HELP YANKS BEAT LITTLE ROCK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 7—(AP)—Babe Ruth was out of action today but the New York Yankees were not lacking in home runs as they defeated Little Rock of the Southern association 7 to 5.

Henry Johnson and Gordon Rhodes, the Yankee hurlers, took over the Babe's home run act, each hitting circuit drives within the lot and driving in five of their team's runs. In addition the two pitchers held the minor leaguers to nine hits. Score:

New York .... 010 021 201—7 11 1
Little Rock .... 001 210 010—5 9 1

ENCOURAGING REPORTS FROM JARVIS AT HOLY CROSS

Improvement was noted in the condition of Lloyd Jarvis' throwing arm last week after the former Academy pitcher-outfielder had made two trips to a Hartford specialist. Jarvis, who is conceded a very good chance of breaking into the Holy Cross varsity lineup this spring, in left field, has been troubled by his left wing since the middle of last season and was sent to Hartford by Coach Jack Barry in the hopes that something could be done to have the popular Jewett City lad in action.

As Holy Cross does not open its season for another week, when it meets the Springfield Eastern leaguers next Tuesday, Jarvis is not rushing himself and, with a turn in fortunes from those which have been his lot for the past year, expects to be in there hitting the ball high, wide and handsome for the college champs just as he did when he wore a Wildcat uniform and aided greatly in bringing two state titles to N. F. A.

A few other members of the freshman team, who played here against the Academy last season, are expected to break into the varsity batting order this spring. They include Marshall, shortstop, who has been shifted to second; Farrell, outfielder, formerly of Bulkeley high in Hartford, and Mahoney, a pitcher.

The Holy Cross schedule, which is bound to be followed with interest by local fans this years, follows:

April 15, Springfield Eastern league team at Springfield; 19, Brown; 22, Columbia at New York; 24, Fordham at New York; 26, Princeton at Princeton; 28, Providence; 30, Yale at New Haven; May 2, Cermont at Worcester; 3, Fordham at Worcester; 9, Tufts; 10, Brown at Providence; 12, Colgate; 17, New York university; 24, Georgetown; 28, United States Marines; 30, Boston college; 31, Harvard at Cambridge; June 4, Providence at Providence; 7, Harvard; 14, Boston college at Boston; 17, Holy Cross alumni.

There are games pending for May 21 and June 11.

DAWSON LEADS FIELD IN N. AND S. AMATEURS

PINEHURST, N. C., April 7.—(AP)—Youthful John Dawson, of Chicago, led a field of 167 golfers at the end of the first eighteen holes of the 36-hole qualifying play in the 30th annual North and South amateur golf tournament here today. He scored a 72, one over par.

Dawson was three strokes better than his three nearest rivals who finished in a triple tie for second position, J. B. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y., Kenan Smith, youthful contender from Raleigh, N. C., and C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., 1928 amateur champion, came in abreast with cards of 75.

Following behind were George J. Voight of New York, defending champion, tied with Forbes K. Wilson of York Harbor, Maine, a Yale player, each tallying 76.

Richard Wilson, Georgetown university star, and James T. Hunter of North Adams, Mass., were next with a 77 each.

The players who started late in the morning had to contend with a stiff wind that sent scores soaring, and which lasted until well along in the afternoon.

The big field contained a sprinkling of college stars, only a few of whom did well enough to justify expectations that they will qualify in the championship division.

The leaders:

John Dawson, Chicago, 37-35—72.

J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., 38-37—75.

Kenan Smith, Raleigh, N. C., 38-37—75.

C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., 39-36—75.

George J. Voigt, New York, 38-38—76.

Forbes K. Wilson, York Harbor, Maine, 36-40—76.

Richard Wilson, Southern Pines, 38-39—77.

J. T. Hunter, North Adams, Mass., 38-39—77.

Howard Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., 36-42—78.

Thomas Staller, New York, 39-40—79.

W. C. Fownes, Jr., Pittsburgh, 40-39—79.

The final exhibition game between the Indians and the Pelicans will be played tomorrow. The score:

SIX FAST BOUTS PROMISE PLENTY OF ACTION AT DANIELSON TONIGHT

DANIELSON, April 7.— A bulking pair of heavyweights—Boy Burlap, 215 pound Westerly scrapper, and Rocky Knight, Boston, and with an international record in the ring, will be featured in the star bout at the town hall, Danielson, Tuesday night.

Burlap is expected to weigh in at around 215 pounds, while Knight, a slugger of the go-get-'em type, will rate about an even 200 pounds. Burlap's record is well known to eastern Connecticut fans. Rocky lays claim to the colored heavyweight championship of England, where he has done considerable fighting, as in several other European countries and in Canada. Burlap and Knight are scheduled to go six rounds, and it is likely to be a pretty punching bee.

Ero Peterson of Worcester, clever and sturdy battler, will appear in the semi-final, meeting Wild Man Firpo of Providence. This Peterson boy has been going great guns since turning professional and has over 30 victories to his credit. He has lost only one decision in 32 starts. Firpo has been winning consistently in Rhode Island and Massachusetts towns and cities. He is a furious battler with a wallop. Peterson and Firpo are in the 136-pound class.

In another 6-round go Al Koziol of Norwich will take on Alex Touraine of New Haven, formerly of Providence. Fans who have seen these two boys in action in various bouts know that this affair will be well worth seeing. In Touraine, Koziol will have an opponent rating one of the best in his class in Connecticut. This bout is scheduled for 133 pounds.

To accumulate more of the 34 rounds of battling that is carded for the show Rene Peloquin of Danielson, smart and clever little fighter, will meet Julius Lurkey of Worcester, 122 pounds, 6 rounds. Rene has lost only one battle for a long time, that at Taftville recently, to Romeo Dubois of New Haven, and Rene was outweighed in that affair by a considerable margin.

Other bouts here tomorrow night will be between Cowboy Mickey Flynn of Norwich and Benny Novak of New London, 6 rounds, 133 pounds, and between Brouillard of Danielson and Mush Moriarty of Norwich, a four-round opener.

HE TORE OFF HIS FALSE WHISKERS—AND IT WAS JACK

"Lucinda, my love, I knew you would be true. 'Tis I . . . your own Jack Delavere!"

"Jack," replied Lucinda blushing prettily; "must I confess? I recognized you from the first. That honey-smooth voice . . . those golden tones . . . that perfect throat-ease can belong only to a man who smokes OLD GOLDS. You wag! . . . you thought to confuse me, but my! The mild and mellow queen-leaf tobacco sets its OLD GOLD mark upon you as sterling upon silver. There's not a bark in a billion."

HOUSE OF A FORMER MAYOR IS BEING RAZED

This house, with the other two in the premises is known throughout Greeneville as the Carpenter property, which at one time belonged to Increase Carpenter, who served as mayor of the city of Norwich. This house has been a land mark, according to one of Greeneville's older residents. While at work one of the laborers, a Greeneville youth, found a piece of a coin of a date nearly 100 years old, which he will keep as a souvenir. The land where the house stands will be graded off and the latest device for greasing and oiling will be placed there.

NORWICH TOWN

CATHOLIC MISSION DRAWS LARGE CONGREGATIONS

The week's mission conducted at the Sacred Heart church by a Franciscan missionary, Rev. Father Lucian, was brought to a close Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Throughout the entire week, both morning and evening services were attended by large congregations. The parishioners were complimented by the visiting father at the final service for their faithful efforts; the majority of those attending the 8:30 o'clock mass Sunday morning, having received communion, a convincing proof that the mission had proved a success. Rev. Father Lucian, who expressed the hope that all had been benefited by the mission, took for his sermon theme Saturday evening, "Mary, the Mother of God." Sunday afternoon, his general theme was a review of the week. He spoke at length of the duties of the people to persevere in the way of righteousness. While renewing their baptismal vows, each one stood holding a lighted candle, making a most impressive sight. This was followed by the papal blessing. Benediction of the most blessed sacrament, during which Miss Mary Buckley sang O, Salutaris Hostia, and the hymn, Holy God, We Praise Thy Name, brought the mission to a close. The pastor of this parish is Rev. Edward J. Quinn.

Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver were in attendance Sunday afternoon at Newent Congregational church, at the funeral of Mr. Weaver's niece, Mrs. Henry J. Kendall, of Lisbon. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Charles Senter who motored to Norwich Town and Lisbon from Natick, Mass., and who also were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver, the former being Mr. Senter's uncle. Among other callers at the Weaver home Sunday were other relatives who attended Mrs. Kendall's funeral, Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews and son, Arthur Andrews, of Hartford; Mrs. John Larned of Stafford Springs; Miss Lois Senter and Miss Ruth Nye, of Natick, Mass.; Mrs. Weaver's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nye, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perkins and children, Francis, Jr., and Herbert Perkins, of Mansfield, also Robert Perkins of Meriden, were callers Sunday on Mr. and Mrs Weaver.

E. society Sunday evening had for its theme, "What Is Involved in Deciding for Christ?" Romans 10:8-15 (Consecration meeting). Reginald Avery and Charles Barber were in charge.

Visitors in attendance at Sunday morning worship at Bozrah Congregational church when the pastor, Rev. George H. Strouse, preached the sixth in his series of Lenten sermons on "Was the Death of Jesus Christ Substitutionary?" included Mrs. Elizabeth Hurlbut and Mrs. Charles Burke, former parishioners of Rev. Bishop Leete has presided in more than 100 sessions of different annual conferences since he was consecrated a bishop, and says that he never has known a minister or a church to refuse to accept an appointment made in any of these conferences.

NORWICH MUSICIANS IN NEW LONDON VESPERS

The last choral vesper of the year at the First Congregational church in New London was held Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Helena M. T. Church, contralto, Mrs. Olive R. Roberts, organist, and Maurice E. Wallen, tenor, as soloists. Both the contralto soloist and the organist are well known Norwich musicians.

The opening anthem, John West's noted The Eternal God is Thy Refuge was given a spirited rendition. A contralto solo, King's Israfel followed, being sung by the soloist of the afternoon, Helena M. T. Church, whose voice showed richness, sympathy and sweetness to an unusual degree. Her interpretation of this dramatic number was exceedingly effective. Two other numbers, a duet for contralto and tenor and anthem in which Mrs. Church sang effectively the solo part, were both excellent additions to a well balanced and enjoyable program

RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE DRAWS FINE OF $25

Frank B. Miller, 30, U. S. N., stationed at the submarine base, was fined $25 and costs in the city court Monday morning on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested March 26th following an auto accident on North Main street, and since the accident has been confined to the hospital. He was at first taken to the W. W. Backus hospital and later transferred to the navy hospital at the submarine base. He received a fractured skull and abrasions about the body.

Miller is a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Chewink. According to the evidence in the case Miller was driving an Auburn cabriolet down North Main street at a fast rate of speed. As he neared Mueller's garage, No. 263-267 North Main street, he was blinded by the lights of another car and his car crashed into the rear of an Essex owned by Charles A. Mueller and parked by the roadside. Both machines were considerably damaged and Miller was thrown to the street, and it is thought the rear wheels of his own car ran over him. Miller claimed he did not know what happened after he was blinded by the approaching machine. He is a deep sea diver and according to his officers is a model sailor. He has served 13 years in the navy and has an excellent record. In view of his record a minimum fine was imposed.

Brzich was fined $10 and costs for breach of the peace. The charge of carrying a concealed weapon was dropped. The weapon, a revolver, later found to be useless, was found on Brzich when he was searched at police headquarters Saturday night.

PETITIONS TO SELECTMEN OVER FIRST BURIAL GROUND

Two petitions have been presented to the selectmen over the old first burial ground of the town at Norwich Town, one asking that the selectmen take care of the plot and the other asking for a meeting with the selectmen to discuss the matter.

These apparently will tend to bring a decision from the selectmen as to the location of the old burial ground (the Post-Gager cemetery), whether it was in the swampy section where a search of records by Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher places it, or whether it was on the higher land, near the Mason monument, where it is placed by Civil Engineer Shepard B. Palmer and Mrs. Edna M. Rogers, according to the search they have made.

One petition which is signed by about two score names of legal voters and tax payers asks the selectmen "to cause the first burial ground in the town, sometimes called the Post-Gager cemetery to be cleared from weeds, bushes and briars and the fences or walls to be repaired and kept in orderly and decent condition in accordance with section 3045 of the general statutes of Connecticut."

The undersigned, members of the Faith Trumbull chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, most of them legal voters and taxpayers of Norwich Town or the city of Norwich, hereby petition you to cause the first burial ground of Norwich Town (the so-called Post-Gager cemetery) to be cleared from weeds, bushes, etc. . . . and the bounds to be re-established and kept in orderly and decent condition in accord with Section 3045 of the General Statutes of Connecticut.

They also respectfully request an interview with the selectmen of the town for the purpose of discussing the matter and coming to some clear and prompt understanding, in view of the near approach of the tercentenary celebration of Connecticut and the importance in the history of the state of Connecticut of John Mason, buried in the aforementioned cemetery.

SEN. DENEEN DEFEATED IN ILL. SENATORIAL PRIMARY BY RUTH HANNA M'CORMICK

Victory of Mrs. McCormick Is Conceded By the Chicago Daily News, the Only Metropolitan Newspaper to Support Senator Deneen—Mrs. McCormick's Plurality In Chicago Is Estimated At From 125,000 to 150,000—She Is Running Ahead of Deneen Down State — Former Senator Lewis, Democratic Candidate, Snowed Under His Four Opponents and Will Run On a Wet Platform

CHICAGO, April 8.—(AP)—The nomination of Ruth Hanna McCormick as republican candidate for United States senator, was conceded tonight by the Chicago Daily News, the only metropolitan newspaper to support Senator Charles S. Deneen for renomination.

Waging a strenuous campaign in every county of Illinois opposing American adherence to the world court as her dominant issue, Mrs. McCormick built up a commanding lead in the returns from today's state-wide primary election.

Tabulation of ballots cast in 3,035 of the state's 7,117 precincts gave Mrs. McCormick 287,198 votes against Deneen's 183,563 and the Chicago Daily News, one of the two metropolitan newspapers to oppose her nomination, conceded her victory. The morning newspapers estimated her plurality in Chicago between 125,000 and 150,000, and granted her a lead downstate.

If the final returns bear out the early indications Mrs. McCormick, whose dearest aspiration was to win back the seat Senator Medill McCormick lost six years ago and become the nation's first elected woman senator, will face former Senator James Hamilton Lewis at the fall election. Mr. Lewis had snowed under his four opponents for the democratic candidacy and has announced that prohibition will be the issue of the campaign. He opposed prohibition while in congress during the Wilson administration.

Chairman Bernard W. Snow of the county republican central committee, termed the McCormick majority a "tidal wave" and in a statement said: "The state of Illinois has once more declared in positive terms that her people will have nothing to do with the League of Nations either through the front door or the back door."

Only a few minor disturbances occurred at the polling places in Chicago, probably a record vote being cast without serious disorders. A minor bombing, a trivial shooting and an attempted kidnaping were reported before the polls opened but after the officials got on the job, the election machinery moved forward smoothly.

Upward of 800,000 votes, officials estimated, were cast in Chicago and it was expected at least that many more were tabulated down state. The primary vote in Chicago two years ago was about 630,000.

HOOVER ADDRESSED MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—Insistence upon the obligation of engineers to make their contributions to public service was expressed tonight by President Hoover.

Accepting the first award of the Hoover medal instituted by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers to commemorate his achievements, the president voiced his views at the banquet of the fiftieth anniversary of the society's founding. Of the organization itself, the engineer-president said that "during the span of life it has contributed a great part in the development of an art into a mighty profession upon whose capacity and fidelity rest so much of human progress."

After outlining the development of "our great national tools—our engines, our railways, our automobiles, our airplanes, our steamships, our electric power and a score of other great implements," Mr. Hoover said the engineer, through them, "has added vastly to the problems of government."

The government must see, he added, that the developments are not misused to limit liberty and freedom, but that they advance equality of opportunity.

To solve these problems, the president said, "we have need for a large leavening of the engineering knowledge and engineering attitude of mind and engineering method."

The president made clear that he did not advocate "that all public services be turned over to engineers."

The presentation of the medal to President Hoover followed the award this afternoon of the Daniel Guggenheim medal to Orville Wright, "for design and construction, with his brother, now deceased, of the first successful engine-propelled airplane."

Martin J. Kelly, independent candidate for the office, polled 274 votes.

Mayor-elect Quigley, who was chief executive of this city from 1914 to 1919, was informed of his victory at the New Britain hospital where he was removed to last night from his home when he was threatened with pneumonia. His condition is not considered grave by hospital officials.

All of the republican candidates for offices were swept into office with Mayor-elect Quigley. Bernadotte Loomis, tax collector; Curtiss L. Sheldon, city treasurer; Alfred L. Thompson, town clerk, and William H. Day, city comptroller, were all re-elected. Day was the only one of these four candidates to be opposed and received 9645 votes against 7115 votes for Paul Nurczyk, democrat.

The republicans by electing nine councilmen and three aldermen, retained control of the common council. The democrat elected four councilmen and one alderman.

Mayor-elect Quigley will succeed Mayor Angelo M. Paonessa, who did not seek re-election.

CONFEREES CONTINUE TO ADJUST TARIFF RATES

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—Continuing the adjustment of senate and house differences over metal tariffs, conferees on the tariff bill today raised the senate rates on aluminum but still held them below the level of the present law which the house bill did not disturb.

The senate cut in the automobile tariff and increase in the Manganese ore levy were agreed upon.

The rate on crude aluminum which the senate coalition of democrats and republican independents had cut from 5 cents a pound, at present, to the level of the Underwood rate of 1913 or 2 cents, was boosted to 3 1-2 cents.

Sheet aluminum was made dutiable at 7 cents a pound instead of 9 cents now in effect and 3 1-2 cents as provided in the senate measure.

A duty of 8 1-2 cents a pound and 40 per cent was assigned aluminum household utensils as compared with 11 cents a pound and 55 per cent in the existing law and only 25 per cent in the senate bill.

The senate rate accepted on automobiles valued at $1,000 or less was 10 per cent. The present duty is 25 per cent.

GAVE MONEY TO ACTRESS IN PHILANTHROPIC SPIRIT

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Apparently fatigued and at times considerably irritated by the persistent cross-examination to which he was subjected by the defense attorney, Nathan L. Amster, elderly traction magnate, continued his second day on the witness stand in the trial of Iva Elde Edwards, actress, who was indicted for extortion on his complaint.

Again today and more than once, Mr. Amster declared emphatically that the sums of money he gave and lent to Miss Edwards—totaling about $170,000 in all—represented at first his philanthropic spirit and later his fear that she would annoy his wife and family by charging publicly that he was the father of her child.

Tilson Made Acting Speaker Of House

To Serve During Speaker Longworth's Absence From Washington For Week of Rest.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, April 8—Leader John Q. Tilson of Connecticut is speaker of the house for this week, with all the prestige and power of the speaker. Tilson was designated by Speaker Longworth to serve as speaker during Longworth's absence from Washington for a week of rest and recreation.

This appointment gives Tilson full authority to sign all bills passed and exercise all other duties and powers of a duly elected speaker of the house, and entitles him to have his portrait hung in the speaker's lobby if he so desires. Probably Tilson will not exercise the latter privilege, even though entitled to do so. During temporary absence of the speaker a member is often appointed to preside over the house, but the full authority of speakership, including signature to bills passed is rarely given a presiding officer.

During the Tilson speakership Representative Snell of New York, chairman of the rules committee is serving as floor leader.

There is a vast difference between the office of speaker pro tempore for a period of three days and for a longer term. A speaker may be designated by the speaker to preside for a three day period without further formality, but the appointment of a speaker pro tempore for a longer period requires not only the designation by the speaker, but it must be confirmed by the house, a formal announcement of the appointment sent to the president of the United States and to the president of the senate. This is done in order that measures passing congress during that period bearing the signature of the speaker pro tempore shall be judged authentic and authoritative by senate and the president. That honor has been bestowed on less than a half dozen men since the framing of the constitution and Tilson is the latest to be so honored.

GRANDMOTHER SUING ELDERLY MILLIONAIRE

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Both sides rested today in the quarter of a million dollar breach of promise suit brought by Miss Adelaide Lean, 58-year-old grandmother against Charles F. Harman, elderly millionaire, whom she charges threw her aside for another after a five-year courtship that started in famous Peacock Alley of the old Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Harman, appearing more youthful than his 67 years, took the stand to deny that he ever proposed to Miss Lean or that his friendship with her was other than platonic.

Testifying that Miss Lean accepted his friendship on such a basis, Harman said that during the year 1926-27 he had paid her apartment rent and had given her $3,000 for clothing.

He denied he had given Miss Lean a serpentine ring as an engagement pledge.

Miss Lean is the divorced wife of Charles Kaufman, Detroit banker. She charges that Harman broke a pledge to marry her and wed another. The proposal, she said, was made in 1926.

The case will go to the jury late tomorrow after summations.

OPPOSED TO CONSOLIDATION OF VETERANS' AGENCIES

WASHINGTON, April 8—(AP)—Unexpected opposition to President Hoover's plan to consolidate government agencies handling veterans' affairs developed in the house today under leadership of Representatives Knutson, republican, Minnesota, and Gasque, democrat, South Carolina, as debate on the bill to effect the consolidation got under way.

In an attack on the measure which would place the veterans and pensions bureaus and the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers under an "administration of veterans' affairs," the Minnesotan said it would permit eventual elimination of the pensions bureau.

Knutson is chairman of the pensions committee.

Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin, said consolidation was favored by the American Legion.

Hope Revived For 5-Power Naval Pact

Agreement Reached Between Britain and France Upon the National Security In Europe.

LONDON, April 8.—(AP)—Agreement between Great Britain and France upon questions of national security in Europe, as indicated tonight by Foreign Minister Briand, after his conference with Prime Minister MacDonald, will permit the London naval negotiations to continue with a five-power disarmament treaty as the goal.

Whether a five-power agreement is really any nearer realization could not be determined tonight, however, in view of the very brief and restrained official announcement made by the British and French delegations after the conference of their chiefs.

Briand, returning to the Carlton after the interview, declared to the French journalists that there now was agreement between the British and French regarding interpretation of Article XVI of the League of Nations covenant. That is the article which deals with measures to be taken should any member of the league resort to war in disregard of its covenants under league articles, and its interpretation has been a moot topic here.

Further than that Briand said little except that he and MacDonald considered arrangements for continuing discussion with view to the possible ultimate conclusion of a five-power pact. They will meet again tomorrow.

But whatever the fate of a five-power pact, the three-power treaty between the United States, Great Britain and Japan took another big step toward actuality this morning when the big three—Mr. MacDonald, Secretary Henry L. Stimson, Reijiro Wakatsuki—reached complete accord on all questions regarding such a treaty excepting Japan's proposal that she be permitted to use 20,000 tons of naval strength for building submarines instead of destroyers.

This is what naval experts call transferring tonnage from one category to another. The big three will meet again tomorrow to settle this final point.

OPPOSED TO PENDING INTERSTATE BUS BILL

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Appearing today as a witness before the committee on commerce of the American Bar association, W. H. Chandler of the Merchants association opposed the interstate motor bus transportation bill now pending in congress which would revise a part of the procedure of the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. Chandler, who also represented the National Industrial Traffic league and the Shippers Conference of Greater New York, attacked the commission as favoring railroads against the interests of shippers and the general public and declared that many of its examiners are biased.

He objected to the section of the transportation bill which would authorize the I. C. C. to refer motor bus cases to a commissioner or one of its examiners, declaring that it would add 150 members to the personnel of the commission without senate approval and establish a dangerous precedent.

FRAUD AND CORRUPTION CHARGED IN EXCESS RENTALS FOR P. O. BUILDINGS

WASHINGTON, April 8.— (AP) — Charges of "fraud and corruption costing the government millions of dollars in excess rentals on postoffice buildings annually" were voiced in the senate today by Senators Nye, South Dakota, and Blaine, Wisconsin, republicans.

Senator Blaine condemned the postoffice and justice departments for "criminal negligence" in failing to break the leases. He offered a resolution calling for a senate investigation of the 1,200 postoffice building leases.

The attack centered on an item in the postoffice department appropriation bill allowing $120,000 for next year's rental of the commercial postoffice station in St. Paul. Neither the Blaine resolution nor the appropriation item were voted upon after the all-day assault.

Defending the present administration, Senator Phipps, republican, Colorado, said no rent had been paid on the St. Paul postoffice sub-station since March, 1928. He read a letter from Postmaster General Brown suggesting that provision be made for a lump sum appropriation of $60,000 for rental of another St. Paul building [illegible] involving the commercial station.

Senator Nye asserted the St. Paul transaction "smells to the high heaven."

"If other leases are on a par with that at St. Paul," he said, "the situation is rotten and unconscionable and it is a story that possibly rivals the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease."

Nye said fair rental value of the St. Paul station would be about $38,000 annually. He charged that Jacob Kulp and company, of Chicago, which controlled the St. Paul lease, had inflated the valuation of the property after obtaining in 1923 from the postoffice department a clause in the lease guaranteeing against cancellation of the 20-year leasing contract.

In return for that clause, Nye said, Kulp reduced the annual rent for the government from $120,776 to $120,000.

Senator Blaine read from records of the postoffice department which he said contained a report from C. H. Clarahan, an inspector, stating Kulp promised to see to it that he would be promoted if a favorable report were made on the St. Paul lease. The records quoted Clarahan as replying he [illegible] promotion from Kulp.

DISGRACEFUL VERBIAGE AT THE SENATE LOBBY INQUIRY

Called a "Coward" By Senator Black, Publisher Pierce Rejoined By Calling the Senator "A Contemptible Cur"—Senator Black Later Withdrew His "Coward" Remark From the Record—Spectators Were Tense During the Exchange of Militant Remarks.

WASHINGTON, April 8. — (AP) — Senator Hugo Black was called "a contemptible liar" today by a fellow Alabaman who faced him in public testimony before the senate lobby committee.

The Alabama democrat shot the charge back at the witness, J. E. Pierce, who publishes the Huntsville Times.

After also being termed a coward, Pierce rejoined that the senator was "a contemptible cur."

The savage exchanges thrust the crowded room into a turmoil unprecedented during the sensational lobby committee hearings. Pierce started the verbal hostilities.

Black was questioning him about a $1,000 fund he had received from J. W. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the Tennessee River Improvement association, which has advocated the proposal of the American Cyanamid company, to lease Muscle Shoals.

Saying the money was for traveling expenses incurred by him in promoting the association's work, Pierce turned to Black and charged that "You are insinuating a contemptible lie."

"I'll see you outside about that" Black retorted. "Everybody knows you are by nature a coward."

Leaping to his feet as Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, pounded for order, Pierce shouted:

"We'll go outside right now."

Senator Black withdrew his "coward" remark from the record.

Spectators leaned forward tensely in their chairs to await the outcome. Walsh continued without success to insist on decorum.

"It can wait for settlement," Black commented.

"Then you admit you are a contemptible liar," Pierce said.

"No," Black replied hotly. "I admit you are."

Jumping up again, Pierce turned to Senator Walsh, who still was vainly trying to restore order, and said:

"This man Black said I was known as a coward. I call him a contemptible cur in return."

"That is enough of this," Walsh snapped, and at last succeeded in getting order.

In a few minutes the committee adjourned until tomorrow.

After the hearing, Pierce talked with newspapermen outside the committee room for several minutes. He said later he had been waiting for Senator Black, but the senator did not appear.

Black, who left the room before Pierce, declined comment except to say that he was not attempting to make any insinuations.

"All I was trying to do," he said, "was to bring out the facts and let them speak for themselves."

Black read a letter written by Pierce to Worthington on October 22, 1929, which said it was "quite necessary that you make an advance of $1,000."

He also attempted to show that it was about that time that Pierce newspaper began advocating the American Cyanamid proposal to lease Muscle Shoals but Pierce said he had favored it since it was offered.

An editorial from the newspaper on July 17, 1928, was read by Black. It said Black and the other members of the Alabama delegation had committed themselves to government operation of Muscle Shoals and added that "victory, it is hoped will come in the December session."

CRITICISM OF RASKOB BY JOSEPHUS DANIELS

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)—Criticism of John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, for contributing money to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment was voiced today before the senate lobby committee by Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., newspaper publisher and former democratic secretary of the navy.

"I think that a chairman of the democratic party ought not to be a member of and giving money to any organization to elect anybody except democrats," he said.

NEW AIRCRAFT DEVICE BY PRATT & WHITNEY

HARTFORD, April 8.—(AP)—The development by the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company of a new device that promises to revolutionize the design of aircraft power plants, and influence the future development in all automotive fields, was made public here today.

Practical flight demonstrations of the device which promises a new economy in aviation and an increased reliability of aircraft operation were held at Brainard field this afternoon before Gov. Trumbull, Pratt and Whitney officials, aeronautical experts and New York and Hartford newspapermen.

Eliminating the usual carburetor and intake system of the gasoline engine, the new device which culminates a long period of experimentation, permits the use of a large range of fuels, including both furnace oil and aviation gasoline.

FORMER EAST HAMPTON BANKER GOES ON TRIAL

MIDDLETOWN, April 8.— (AP) — Clark W. Burnham, resigned executive vice president of the East Hampton Bank and Trust company, went on trial in superior court today before a jury and Judge John Rufus Booth on charges of embezzlement and falsification of records.

Burnham, who resigned from the bank after officials of the institution had revealed irregularities in the bank's accounts, pleaded not guilty to the charges and a jury was quickly selected for the trial.

Milton C. Carpenter, secretary of the board of directors of the bank, was the only witness called today. He testified that Burnham had failed to submit nine notes totalling approximately $44,000 to the directors for approval.

LORENZ RE-ENACTED THE MURDER OF ANDERSON

HARTFORD, April 8.—(AP) —Without any show of emotion, Henry O. Lorenz, 25-year-old confessed slayer of Nils E. Anderson, re-enacted the week old crime in Wethersfield early today a short time after he had been brought back from Niagara Falls, N. Y., where he had been in custody since Sunday, following his capture at Windsor, Ont.

Sleek and well dressed the youth was presented before Judge Newell Jennings a few hours later at a special criminal session of the superior court and remanded to the grand jury, which will convene Friday at 2 p. m., to consider a murder indictment. He told the court he had no friends and no money but Judge Jennings said he would see that defense counsel was provided and later in the day appointed Walfrid G. Lundberg, West Hartford prosecutor and a member of the firm of Shipman and Goodwin to represent Lorenz.

No other motive than the $300 loan which Anderson was pressing for payment is involved in the slaying, it was said authoritatively today. Apparently Lorenz had several other creditors who had asked him to settle.

HOOVER PAYS TRIBUTE TO DR. WILLIAM WELCH

WASHINGTON, April 8—(AP)—Leading an international tribute to Dr. William Welch, of Baltimore, on his 80th birthday, President Hoover today characterized the noted pathologist as having contributed "more than any other American to the relief of suffering and pain."

The president spoke over a radio hook-up that extended throughout the United States and into other countries participating in the celebration. He described the man who founded the Johns Hopkins' Medical school as "our greatest statesman in the field of public health."

In reply, Dr. Welch, vigorous and alert, but modest, stepped to the front of the platform and accepted the plaudits, not on his own behalf, but for an "army of teachers whose work has advanced the science of medicine."

ILLICIT LOVE AFFAIR BACKGROUND OF MURDER

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—(AP)— A strange tale of murder, which has for its background an eighteen-year-old assertedly illicit love affair between the widow of the victim and a lover who lived in a secret compartment in the family home, was offered by Herman Shapiro, an attorney, today as the solution of the slaying nearly eight years ago of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy apron manufacturer.

The alleged sweetheart, Walter Klein, about 40 years old and married, was arrested shortly after Shapiro gave police an affidavit telling of a long private investigation into the killing. The widow, Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich had not been located tonight.

ATTY.-GENERAL MITCHELL ASSAILED BY REP. STOBBS

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(AP)— Attorney General Mitchell was assailed in the house today by Representative Stobbs, republican, Massachusetts, for adversely criticizing the latter's proposal to modify the Jones law to fix maximum penalties for casual and first offenses.

Citing cases in which he asserted federal judges were inconsistent in imposing sentences on this class of dry law violators, Stobbs said, the purpose of his bill to amend the Jones law had been approved by Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission but criticised and disapproved by the justice department.

SALESMAN SUED FOR SUPPORT AND DIVORCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 8.—Arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of non-support of his wife, Mrs. Elba Dion of Providence, R. I., Leon Dion, a traveling salesman giving this city as his present address, secured a continuance of the case until May 6, on an understanding that he would pay his wife $6 per week during the continuance period. A demurrer to the charge was entered by Dion's attorney, Attorney Arthur T. Kelley.

With the adjournment of court, Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish served a divorce complaint upon Dion on behalf of Mrs. Dion, the proceedings alleging that Dion has been living with another woman as man and wife here for the past year, the woman said to be a High street resident. Further allegation is made that while living with the local woman Dion has failed to provide for the support of his wife in Providence, although claimed to be financially able to do so.

The demurrer entered was on the grounds that neither of the parties is a resident of Connecticut. Testimony to this effect satisfied Judge Frank H. Foss, however, that the accused has established a residence at 191 High street, this city. Mrs. Dion testified that she and her husband had separated in January of 1929 and that he stopped providing for her support in February of the same year. They were married about 15 years ago. For the past year she has been earning $14 a week, which is not sufficient for her to live on, she said. Dion asserted that he was not working at the present time and had not been employed for several weeks past. He stated that 191 High street was nothing more than a mailing address.

DR. CAMPBELL TELLS ROTARY CLUB NEED OF SANATORIA

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 8.—That there is a waiting list of from 350 to 450 persons seeking entrance into Connecticut's five tuberculosis sanatoria was revealed to the members of the Willimantic Rotary club in a talk at the regular meeting in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon by Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, head of the Norwich sanatorium. This condition, which is to be alleviated measurably by the building of additions at Shelton and Newington, does not, however, entirely relieve a critical state. Dr. Campbell pleaded for recognition of the necessity of suitable appropriations to increase accommodations at any or all of the sanatoria. He told of the success of new processes being used at Uncas-on-Thames in curing tuberculosis, giving, in all, a splendid outline of this important work. Dr. Campbell preceded his talk on sanatorium work with a review of the methods of the Norwich Rotary club in securing and using funds for boys' work, giving specific mention of the boys' band sponsored by the club. Guests other than the speaker were Dr. R. R. Agnew and Alex McNicol of the Norwich club. President Louis H. Arnold announced that the Springfield, Mass., club had endorsed Richard E. Dodge for next governor of the 30th district.

She exhibited cuts of beef as used in various forms of cooking and described the manner in which they should be treated in preparation for cooking. Hints were also given on the selection of meats. One whole side of beef was used in the demonstration. Arrangements were in charge of Miss Sara W. Dimock of Merrow, home demonstration agent for Tolland county, with Miss Alice Billings, Windham county agent, and Miss Ruth Russell of New London county as assistants.

Mrs. Pickering came back to America last year after six years' residence abroad as foreign fashion writer for the Fairchild publications and has just completed a tour of the states, broadcasting over radio stations in 40 principal cities on the subject of Paris fashions. Stafford Springs

MRS. NANCY TINTI FINED $225 WITH COSTS OF $13

(Special to The Bulletin)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, April 8. — Mrs. Nancy Tinti, of Tolland avenue, was fined $225 and costs of $13.60 by Judge William H. Heald in the borough court Tuesday afternoon for violating the liquor laws. Mrs. Tinti was charged with two sales of liquor, one March 16th, and the other on March 22nd, and there was also a charge of keeping with intent to sell. Her place was raided Tuesday noon by State Policemen Murphy and Hill, who found 150 bottles of beer and about three quarts of moonshine, in addition to a large quantity of wine. The fine and costs were paid by the accused.

Peddler's License $25

The borough ordinance requiring peddlers to pay a license fee of $100 has been repealed and a new ordinance proposed making the fee $25.

The court of burgesses several months ago raised the fee to $100 as local merchants were complaining that several out of town people who paid no taxes were competing with them by peddling their wares in the borough. Recently, one of the peddlers objected to paying the fee and the matter was referred to Borough Counsel M. D. O'Donnell who gave an opinion that the fee of $100 was unconstitutional, that it authorized the burgesses to collect a revenue tax which they had no power to do and that as a matter of fact a nominal fee was about all that could be collected for issuing such a license.

Lovely Smooth Skin that millions admire

MARY PHILBIN, lovely Universal star, in the bathroom built for her in Hollywood. "A star's skin," she says, "must have that marvelous smoothness we call 'studio skin.' I entrust mine to Lux Toilet Soap's gentle care."

When a screen star poses for the close-up, she knows the glaring lights are a cruel test of beauty. Mary Philbin's skin shows up ravishingly lovely.

"EXQUISITE smooth skin has tremendous appeal," says Irvin Willat, famous Universal director, summing up the experience of 45 leading Hollywood directors—experience gained in finding out just which kind of beauty will most surely win and hold world popularity for a girl on the screen.

And so, of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 use Lux Toilet Soap. Every one of the great film studios has made it the official soap for dressing rooms.

The Broadway stage stars, too, long ago made this fragrant white soap their own. And now, the continental screen stars have adopted it—in France, in England, in Germany!

You, too, will love the way it cares for your skin. Order several cakes—today.

DANIELSON

WAUREGAN MAN FINED FOR MOTOR VEHICLE VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 8—Leo W. Germaine of Wauregan was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to answer to a charge of violation of the rules of the road last evening when the machine he was driving was in collision with a truck operated by Stanley A. Dzick of 133 Suffolk avenue, Darlington, R. I. The accident happened at the corner of Water and Furnace streets. A fine of $5.00 and costs was imposed by Judge W. Fenner Woodward.

Walter W. Ryder of 72 Mechanic street, Danielson, and George A. Seaver, a minor under the age of 16, also were in court this morning, Ryder for allowing a youth not financially responsible to operate his car, and Seaver for operating without a license. In each instance a fine of $1.00 was imposed by the court.

Leases in what are regarded as final form have been prepared for the signatures of the parties to an agreement under which the Standard Oil company of New York will have the use of property owned by the Westcott and Wilcox Old People's home, at the corner of North Main street and Providence road. It is understood that the oil company will erect an ornate filling station on this busy corner and also operate it. The matter has been the subject of negotiation for some time past.

Although there have been few days as yet sufficiently enticing to draw many players out onto the links some of the members who are resident here have been playing golf on the links of the Putnam Country club.

Numbers of the Danielson members of Putnam lodge of Elks were in Putnam this evening to witness the annual ceremony of installing the newly elected officers. This year the exalted ruler is Frank M. Bedard, resident on the West Side here, and who has filled various offices in the lodge during the past few years.

Frank T. Anderson, the secretary, has made announcement that a quarterly meeting of the Windham County Guernsey association is to be held at the Canterbury Green church, in Canterbury Monday evening of next week at 7 o'clock. J. J. Anderson, superintendent of Woodford farm at Avon, is to speak on Replacements and Udder Trouble. Mr. Anderson has been with the Woodford farm for 17 years. He has supervised the raising of most of the cattle on this farm, which produces certified milk. Another talk will be given by A. R. Merrill, state extension dairy specialist, at Storrs. A supper is to be served prior to the meeting.

Next week—Holy week—a series of special services are to be held here by the Danielson Federation of Churches. The first service will be held in the Westfield Congregational church Tuesday evening with Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, pastor of the South Killingly Congregational church, as the preacher. On Wednesday evening the service will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church, and the preacher will be Rev. A. E. Tingley of Moosup. Gaylord will preach at the Westfield Congregational church.

Of interest to his many friends here was the announcement in this morning's Bulletin that Rev. M. Joseph Twomey, D. D., for the past sixteen years pastor of the Peddie Memorial church at Newark, has been named as pastor of the Grace Baptist Temple in Philadelphia, one of the largest churches of the denomination in the east. For a period of several years Dr. Twomey was pastor of the Danielson Baptist church, later going to Portland, Me.

FUNERAL

Guilford Griggs

This afternoon funeral services for Guilford Griggs, 96, who died the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCoy in Brooklyn, were conducted at L. E. Kennedy's funeral home, Furnace street, by Rev. C. C. Rowlison, pastor of the Brooklyn Congregational church. Burial was in the South cemetery at Brooklyn. Friends acted as bearers.

The body of James Manly, who died at his home on the north shore of Quinebaug lake, was brought to Danielson in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Manly, a native of New York state, was 68 years of age. He had been ill for a number of weeks, much of this time in a hospital. He leaves his wife and three children. For a number of years Mr. Manly operated what is known as the Paine farm in the Squaw Rocks district of the town. Later he has been in the employ of George Paine of the Green Hollow road.

Reports continued to come in today of damage to property resulting from the wild wind accompanying the heavy southeast rain storm of late Sunday night and the early hours of Monday morning. On a lower section of the Green Hollow road the main entrance gates to All Hallows cemetery were blown over. Limbs were blown from trees and strewn in the highway near this point, this also happening in various other sections of the town.

This morning a cow, one of several on the highway, was struck by a car owned by Frank Anderson of Woodstock while the machine was traveling along the new state road between Brooklyn and Pomfret. The animal sustained a broken leg. The cow was the property of Thomas Gorman and is believed to have gotten loose from pasture with other cows that were on the road at the time. The matter was investigated by a state officer from the Danielson barracks.

Arsene A. LaRocque of New Bedford is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

For the third consecutive year Holy week services, arranged especially for young people, are to be held here under the auspices of the Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs of the County Y. M. C. A. These services are to be held sufficiently early each morning so that high school students may attend before going to school. The degree of interest shown during the past two years warrants arranging for the services again this year.

Next Monday brings Danielson's annual borough election. Polls will be open in the town hall at 4 p. m. As for years past there is only one ticket in the field and one list of nominees. Danielson is non-partisan in its borough politics, regardless that on town lines there is a sharp division of opinion of political opinion and that party lines are clearly drawn. The election Monday will be followed by the usual business meeting, for consideration of such articles as are set forth in the call.

Real estate in Brooklyn village: Beautiful 29-acre estate, 15-room Colonial house, parquet floors, open fire places, modern improvements, barn, garage and modern poultry plant for several hundred head; also another fine Colonial estate of about five acres. Town Clerk Frank T. Preston said this morning that fishing licenses have not been taken out in such number this year up to now as was the case last year. Resident fishing licenses this year cost $3.35, an advance over the price for last year.

That petition for a proposed special town meeting to see if the voters would authorize an apropriation for the purchase of motor trucks by the town to be used on road work had not reached the selectmen's office up to 11 o'clock this morning.

Fri. 8.00, Cong. church, ladies' spring sale, food and fancy articles.—Adv.

The volume of business being transacted at the Danielson postoffice shows an increase for the first quarter of 1930, over the business done during the same period of last year, and the local office seems destined soon to be listed as a first class office.

Members of the Methodist Episcopal church here express themselves as pleased with the reappointment by the Southern New England conference of Rev. Albert Abbott as pastor of the Danielson church for another year.

Temperatures down, to 34 degrees two points above freezing, were reported from sections of Danielson by early risers this morning.

Boxing bouts at the town hall this evening attracted attendance from many places in eastern Connecticut.

Nathaniel E. Bowen, for many years a resident of Pomfret, died at his home there this morning following a long illness. He was 73 years of age. Mr. Bowen for many years was employed as a caretaker at the Clark estate in Pomfret and until his death today was a sheep ranchman at the Eastlands, Pomfret estate of Charles Van Brunt Cushman. He was born in Thompson on May 22, 1856, the son of Edward J. and Cynthia (Andrews) Bowen. His only immediate survivor is a daughter, Mrs. Leonard E. Parker, who resides in North Weymouth, Mass.

Elks Install Officers

Frank M. Bedard of Brooklyn, recently elected exalted ruler of the lodge, was installed in office tonight, succeeding Lionel H. Charron as head of the Putnam lodge of Elks. Other officers who were installed in office tonight were Sidney P. Marland of Danielson, esteemed leading knight; Henry N. Benoit, esteemed loyal knight; James J. Charron, esteemed lecturing knight; William H. Mansfield, Jr., esquire; George Lewis, Jr., secretary; Lucius P. Merriam, treasurer; William Wheatley, tiler; Alexander J. LePire, inner guard; Napoleon A. Keroack, chaplain.

It appears that there will be a host of fishermen at the brooks in this section of the county on next Tuesday, the 15th, the opening day of the trout season, since Henry N. Benoit, town clerk, has issued a large number of licenses during the past week. In past years when it was customary for the Connecticut trout laws to lift on April 1, the streams bordering on the Massachusetts state line were visited by out-of-state fishermen, who enjoyed early-season privileges of the sport at the expense of the state of Connecticut, returning to their native state 15 days later to fish in brooks heavily stocked and untouched by fishermen not natives of the state. This practice disappeared when the Connecticut assembly advanced the opening date, making it conform with the Massachusetts code of fish and game laws.

Incident to the opening day of the trout season, County Game Warden J. Thomas Daniels of Plainfield has stated that the brooks throughout the county will be carefully patrolled by deputy wardens, who will keep a sharp eye for persons angling without licenses and committing other violations of the fish and game laws.

A quarterly meeting of the Windham County Guernsey association will be held on Monday, April 14, in Canterbury at the Canterbury Green church, according to an announcement made this morning by the local farm bureau office. J. J. Anderson, superintendent of the Woodford farm in Avon, will speak on "Replacements and Udder Trouble." Mr. Anderson has been with the Woodford farm for more than 17 years and is well qualified to talk on this subject. A. R. Merrill, state extension specialist of Storrs college, will be present at the meeting and will give a short talk. Secretary Frank T. Anderson of the Guernsey association extends a cordial invitation to everyone interested to attend this meeting.

Of interest to the people hereabouts is the announcement of the Woodstock Agricultural society that the Woodstock fair dates this year will be Sept. 9, 10 and 11.

Two Putnam high school graduates, Frances E. Miller of Danielson and Irene P. Dugas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dugas of Providence street, members of the senior class of Pembroke college, Brown university, have places on the dean's list for the second semester of the college year. The honor is awarded only to students who have high scholastic standing and who are striving for final honors. Misses Virginia M. Paine of Abington and Helen A. Sparrow of Woodstock have their names among the list.

You ARE PAYING FOR A PACKARD

Why not own one?

A Packard Standard Eight, priced even at twice as much as the car you are now driving, costs no more in the final analysis—if you keep it twice as long.

Here is the real secret of Packard ownership: Buy a Packard Standard Eight. Drive it for a year or two longer than was your habit with lower priced vehicles. Net cost is the same—and you have the supreme enjoyment of Packard performance, Packard luxury and Packard distinction.

But what about operating costs?

It costs no more to drive the Packard than any other car of like size. Gas, oil and tire expenses are no greater. Neither are the costs of license, insurance, garaging and repairs, in the aggregate. Slightly higher insurance charges for the Packard are offset by the lower repair costs which result from Packard quality.

Clearly Packard ownership costs no more. This means that in driving your car of similar size and trading it in every two years or so you are actually paying Packard transportation costs. Then why not have the Packard, with its unchanging, always-modern beauty, its year after year of superb performance?

Your present car accepted as cash

You can take possession of your Packard Standard Eight with no cash outlay, if your present car is of average value or better—for it will make or exceed the down payment. The remainder may be arranged on convenient monthly terms.

The price of the most popular model of the Packard Standard Eight—the five-passenger Sedan—is but $2485 at the factory. Ten other body styles are available on the 127½ and 134½-inch wheelbases at from $2425 to $2885.

CITY TREES

We have reached the season of the year when thoughts must be turned to the planting of trees. There will be the set occasions such as Arbor days which are observed, or set for observance, in certain of the states but it is not simply the trees that are planted on such a day that grow and contribute to the delight of mankind. This is the season of the year when tree planting can be successfully done. It is the time when there should be community interest in such efforts. It is fully understood that trees which are set out at this season, before they leaf out, stand the best chance of living and making a successful start. It is, therefore, the time for tree planting.

In the course of a year there are various conditions which make the removal of trees necessary. They may stand in the way of necessary development, they may have died and thus become a detriment instead of an asset and they may have so suffered from storm that it is out of the question of saving them. In such instances, it is not always possible or wise to replace those trees by setting out new ones in the identical spot. When it can be done the practice is an excellent one. Where it is impossible, an effort should be made to set a tree nearby or at least at some point where its shade and protection will serve in the years to come.

Furthermore, there are those opportunities for making streets and property much more attractive by setting out trees. It may be a locality where the need should be supplied by the community, but there are plenty of instances where individual efforts can meet the situation and where personal pride should result in the careful attention that is so helpful at the start.

The cities which make a practice of putting out a certain number of new trees each year to replace those removed and to embellish streets which have never had them are making provisions for the future which are going to add greatly to the appearance of these communities. Nothing adds to the good appearance of city streets like well placed and well kept trees, and this is the time when thoughtful attention should be given to it.

NEW ENGLAND POULTRY

Poultry raising has been quite generally developed in New England in the past quarter of a century. Many who had previously been engaged in general farming believed they saw an opportunity for better results by specializing in poultry by raising broilers, selling eggs and at the same time catering to other market requirements. Poultry farming has helped to solve many a problem by those owning country property, but if we stop to consider what L. C. Parsons, publisher of the New England Poultryman, has to say in regard to it it would appear that the ground has only been scratched.

He directs attention to the fact that poultry raisers are not serving the markets close at hand much better with eggs and poultry than they are with other products of the farm. He points out that "the people of New York alone pay over $250,000,000 a year for poultry and eggs. New England supplies less than 5 per cent of this demand. Live poultry arrivals in New York retail for over $100,000,000. Missouri provides over 23 per cent of the shipments. New England is nearer and ships less than 6 per cent."

Naturally the question arises as to why New England, which is at the very door of New York, cannot get a larger slice of this profitable business, for it is to be presumed that if Missouri, half way across the country, can supply New York with poultry and eggs to the extent of 23 per cent of the requirements it must be doing so at a profit and it certainly is in no better position to do it than is New England.

It is possible that the New England poultrymen are concerned more with serving New England with what it requires in their line than in reaching out into other markets. Possibly they are unwilling to increase production until it can be shown that there is a demand for their products at a figure that would satisfy them for their effort. Missouri is a large state and it may have a surplus which it can offer to New York at an attractive figure which wouldn't compensate New England poultrymen for their labors, and should it undertake to push up the supply there might be a surplus that would make the venture a loss. The importance of making the most of the New England products and supplying nearby markets cannot, however, be overlooked by New England producers.

PAYING EMPLOYES BY CHECK

From time to time knowledge of the method of paying off employes at manufacturing establishments has made it possible for criminals to effect a successful holdup of the paymaster or the person transporting the payroll. Even the sending of a guard to furnish protection for the paymaster has not always prevented the loss of the funds and in the search for methods of preventing such undesirable affairs resort has been made to the employment of armored cars and the payment of employes by check.

In the city of Waterbury, decision has been reached to pay by check in the future and about the first of next month that plan will be adopted. Waterbury authorities have reached this decision for more than one reason. It is recognized that it will be a guard against payroll robberies and it is realized that it will mean the saving of a considerable sum to the city each year through the elimination of the payments which are now made to the banks for making up the payrolls and the insurance which is carried on the payrolls.

This will mean that all the city employes will be handed checks when pay days roll around. Included in the list will be school teachers, policemen, firemen and those employed in the other departments.

The plan has been employed with good results in plants where large numbers are paid off. Its chief handicap has been that some difficulty was found by the workers in getting their checks cashed as easily and quickly as they desired because storekeepers have lacked the ready money and the paying off time has been such that the employes found trouble in getting to the banks before closing hours. That it means a protection and overcomes the temptation that is placed in the way of those who are ready to take desperate chances must be fully appreciated. Various schemes for the carrying of large sums for the payroll have been used, but those who are in the business of getting easy money and care not how they do it make careful study of such arrangements and find little difficulty in penetrating the disguise and getting away with the money. Paying with check instead of cash eliminates a real hazard and in all probability there will be all possible cooperation to make the plan a success.

AGREEING AT LONDON

The London conference hasn't completed its work but it is evident, even at this stage, that its outcome will be successful. It may not be that it will accomplish all that was expected, since the agreement reached may be between three instead of five nations, but even a three power pact will bring a degree of satisfaction which cannot be disregarded.

Ambassador Gibson has made it clear in his statement that definite results have been obtained and he attaches much importance to the things actually accomplished. Hopes haven't been abandoned that some method may be devised of getting Italy and France to enter into the agreement, although it cannot be said that the outlook is promising. But with the three other nations another definite step in the way of disarmament and limitation seems assured. Through the understanding which has been reached by the United States, Great Britain and Japan, there will be an extension of the Washington pact. There will be a certain number of vessels scrapped in the way of disarmament and there will be a limitation placed upon other classes of warships so that until 1936, as between these countries, there will result no competitive naval construction. As a matter of fact, the expectation that certain large construction programs would be required will be upset, since no battleship replacements will be undertaken.

With the extension of this policy of keeping down naval construction for another period, time will be permitted for these and other nations to recognize the importance of such a course and to appreciate the desirability of continuing it. If it doesn't result in a willingness on the part of the other two nations to come to join hands in this effort for international peace it will be surprising. Provided they continue to refuse to agree at this time, they cannot fail to be impressed by the good example which the other three are showing them.

SINCE THE WAR

As time moves along we see evidences that the feelings which were manifest directly after the war are being softened. Nations are better able to understand each other and display a willingness to meet problems in accord with changed conditions.

We have reached the 13th anniversary of the entrance of this country into the World war, a struggle that was in progress years before that time, but great changes have taken place since the close of that war. We have gone through the various stages of effecting a peace, of carrying out modification of the terms, of arranging and rearranging debt payments, of negotiating new treaties among the nations which fought, looking to the improvement in relationship and the adjustment of differences in the future, and we have seen organizations and pacts established for the advancement of international peace. A treaty for the banishing of war has been followed by a new agreement among the nations concerning reparations, the terms of which have just been ratified.

While the nations of Europe have been closing the gap that was created by the war and recovering the frightful losses that were sustained, there has grown up a stronger demand for the adjustment of international differences by sane and lawful methods. Instead of resorting to bloodshed, there is a desire for peaceful settlements. At the present time there appears to be a sincerity about it which gives much promise for the future. Whether conditions will develop which will push this desire far to one side remains to be seen, but the demand seems to be to get it so firmly entrenched that there will be no willingness to resort to the practices of the past. If the public sentiment in that direction which has developed in the days since the war, can be strengthened and increased the world over, the effort should not be fruitless.

THE FUTURE LEASE

Brook Haines said to Marjorie Claire for the twentieth time, "Darling, if you'll just say the word I'll lease that vacant apartment in Greystone manor and we'll be married whenever you set the day."

For the twentieth time Marjorie shook her head.

"Don't you love me?"

"Of course I love you," admitted Marjorie, "but I wish I didn't and I'm not going to marry you. Drive me home, Brook."

Beside a towering brick wall which sifted many shades of light through its generous sprinkling of windows Brook brought his roadster to a standstill. Marjorie breathed a curt little good night, slid to the curb and vanished through the entrance of the apartment.

The room was small, but made complete for living purposes by a series of alcoves. As Marjorie entered it a young girl, sitting by a bridge lamp, looked up. "Why, Marjorie," she cried in surprise, "I thought you had a date with Brook."

"That's off," Marjorie shrugged.

"You don't mean you've quit. Brook is a darling. Not every girl—"

"I dont care. I won't settle down and live in an apartment. It's bad enough to teach school and live in one. Remember, Ruth, I was born and raised in one of these pens. What I want is freedom, wide spaces."

"Come home with me over Sunday," suggested Ruth. "The farm's not much, but if it's space you want—"

For answer she received a suffocating hug.

It was Saturday morning and they found Ruth's mother canning peaches. "I just had to do it," she explained, "or let them spoil, and there are men for dinner, too, helping with the corn. Dear me, I wish you had a school near here instead of in the city. I need your help."

"We'll both help today," offered Marjorie brightly. "Just give me an apron and a paring knife. We'll make quick work of the fruit." But she was a little dismayed when she saw the amount there was to can. You must like peaches," she observed when she had peeled until the tips of her fingers were wrinkling with the juice.

"Hands," explained Ruth's mother. "I'm always cooking for hired hands."

At lunch there were eight at the table. Marjorie was amazed at the quantity of food and still more amazed at the appetites of the husky men. Later on she wondered if she and Ruth would ever come to the end of the dishwashing. But when they did there were more peaches waiting to be canned. And then came the milking and gathering eggs and feeding chickens and while they were out in the barnyard a woman came to buy two chickens. So Ruth picked one chicken and Marjorie the other. Then there was supper to get and afterward more dishes to wash.

"Let's take our dinner down to the river tomorrow and have a picnic," Ruth said.

"All right," agreed her mother. "I've been wanting to go down there all summer."

But next morning Ruth's father called off the picnic. He sniffed the air, predicted frost and said they'd have to pick the tomatoes or they'd lose the last of the crop. Ruth tried to keep Marjorie at the house, but Marjorie was game to help. At first it was fun to pick the luscious red fruit, but gradually she forgot about the fun and thought only of the chisel which seemed to be boring a hole right through her back.

Brook Haines was at the station to meet the girls. Very deftly he tucked Ruth and the suitcases in the rumble seat and swung Marjorie to her customary place beside the wheel. As the car drifted into motion he leaned down toward Marjorie and whispered, as though he had never mentioned the subject before, "If you'll only say the word, I'll lease the vacant apartment of the Greystone manor and we'll get married whenever you set the day."

"Rent it tomorrow" whispered Marjorie, "and take out a good long lease."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 8—It's one of the scientific peculiarities of the gyroscope that it operates in "apparent contradiction of the laws of gravitation," as Mr. Webster's celebrated work puts it.

Attempt to shove down on one side of this gadget, seemingly delicately balanced in air, and it promptly shoves back at you belligerently.

And the Bystander never watches that peppery son of New Hampshire, George Moses, in the senate without being reminded of this scientic phenomenon. Decidedly, Mr. Moses has a temperamental gyroscopic complex, so to speak.

He resists instantly, instinctively, pugnaciously every effort to coerce him. And he does it with eyes snapping blue fire, jaw putting out and tongue delighting in biting, sarcastic repartee.

Wheel Horse

As Mr. Moses is a man of many senate jobs, he gets lots of opportunity to display this complex. It bobs up every time he casts a vote on a controversial question. His "aye" or "no" snaps out in ringing, decided fashion. He wants everybody to know just where he stands. Not that there is ever much doubt in advance, for Senator Moses is a wheel horse of the old guard regularity team in the senate.

As president pro tem of that body and presiding officer in the absence of Vice President Curtis, Moses has great difficulty keeping out of debate. He doesn't do it, in fact. So far as the Bystander knows, he's the only presiding officer in senate history who engaged in debate from the rostrum. He has developed a formula for it.

Two Voices

He speaks with two voices. The Record puts it this way:

"The president pro tempore: 'The senior senator from New Hampshire wishes to say that if the senate (etc., etc.) he will object.' "

That stirred Johnson of California, another quite as colorfully belligerent senator, to object, to hold that the presiding officer was out of order in thus barging into debate.

"The present occupant of the chair has done it so many times that he considers that a precedent has been established," snapped Moses. "He intends to follow it whenever the interests of his community are at stake."

George of Georgia—Senator Walter Franklin George to be more specific—is a modest man if his official biography in the Congressional Directory is any guide. It merely notes his age, his two elections to the senate (one of which cost him nothing flat), his marriage and the fact that he has two sons.

And everybody knows there is quite a lot more of interest—public interest—in the senator's 53 years than that.

Stir him to a denunciatory vein, and he booms into decisive action. Recently when his accuracy was questioned in the wool debate, he hit back with the declaration that his opponent's deductions were "designedly erroneous."

YOUR HEALTH

Mental Hygiene Objectives

By Helen L. Myrick, Executive Secretary, Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene, Chicago.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

We can call mental hygiene healthy mindedness or mental stability. Its objective is to obtain and maintain self-control and at the same time constructive self-expression so that the individual may function to best advantage in all phases of his life. By this means mental and nervous breakdowns may be prevented and family discord, failure at school and college, delinquency and social conflicts may be better understood, controlled and in part prevented.

Certain principles have been found valuable in development of one's self and therefore should be made part of the training of children. Some of these are:

(a) Attention to the present, which is the necessity of being able to meet life as it comes.

(b) Orderly association and the avoidance of conflict. Confusion is bad in work, play or study, conflict of thoughts and feelings, or between ambitions and achievements.

(c) Normal reaction to emotion and avoidance of repressions.

(d) Self confidence; not a too great aggressiveness but cheerful sense of achievement.

(e) Normal social relations. Ability to get along with others and a philosophic acceptance of one's abilities as compared with other people of superior or inferior abilities.

(f) A normal sense of dependency is necessary. In early childhood this is dependence on parents, during school years on both parents and teachers, and in mature life upon a mystical sense of a higher being or force in life.

(g) A scientific attitude toward life. The facing of reality and through this developing the attitude of trying to find reality is the final and supreme principle of mental hygiene.

The application of these ideas by the adult in all of his relationships and emotonal crises, such as meeting sorrow, physical illness, disappointments, facing old age, is one way of attaining mental health. Social activities, physical exercise, orderly study, regular habits, vocational adjustment, all are means to this same end for both adults and children.

Education in and practice of mental hygiene have been organized through the mental-hygiene movement and the development of mental-health clinics throughout the United States. Many states have privately supported statewide mental hygiene societies affiliated with the ational Committee for Mental Hygiene which is located at 370 Seventh avenue, New York City, and from which further information can be secured.

Peter Finds Some Feathers

A very little thing, indeed,
To that for which your search may lead
—Peter Rabbit.

It was two weeks since Peter Rabbit visited the Smiling Pool. There had been many other things to take up his attention. He had been so disappointed when he discovered that the Quacks had left the Smiling Pool that he had lost all interest there. He hadn't intended to go to the Smiling Pool on this night. He had gone over to the Laughing Brook and it was while he was over there that the thought occurred to him that he might just as well run down to the Smiling Pool to see if there was any news there.

Now, at one end of the Smiling Pool there is an alder swamp. It is through this alder swamp that the Laughing Brook enters the Smiling Pool. Peter likes this little alder swamp, because there is always a good hiding place handy. In the spring the big leaves of the skunk cabbage are everywhere. It is a very easy matter to hide under those big, broad, green leaves.

"Were there some more ducks here, Jerry?" inquired Peter eagerly

When Peter reached the Smiling Pool, he continued out on the bank where he could look all over the Smiling Pool. He didn't expect to see Mr. and Mrs. Quack. But the thought had occurred to him that there might possibly be some other visitors in the Smiling Pool. He saw no one, however. Not even Jerry Muskrat. Peeper the Hyla and Stickytoes the Tree Toad were singing as if they had nothing else in the world to do. He tried his best to see them, but he couldn't. They were in the water somewhere with just their heads out.

Peter hopped along the bank of the Smiling Pool toward the lower end. He had it in mind that perhaps he would follow the Laughing Brook to the Big River. Presently he came to where the Laughing Brook left the Smiling Pool. Right on the edge of the water he discovered something that gave him quite a start. Yes, sir, it gave him quite a start. It was a feather. It was a feather from a Duck. It was a feather from a Mallard Duck. Peter knew he couldn't be mistaken. He looked it over very carefully. Then he began to look along the shore for more feathers and presently he found several of them. They were floating lightly on the water. Two or three were on the shore.

"Now, what do these feathers mean?" said Peter to himself. "If I know anything about feathers, these feathers were dropped this very day. They were not left by the Quacks when they were here, for these feathers are soft and fluffy. Can it be that another flock of Ducks has stopped here on the way North? That must be it. They must have stopped here and then gone on again. I wish Jerry Muskrat would come along. Jerry must know."

As if in answer to Peter's wish, Jerry Muskrat suddenly popped his head out of the water right in front of Peter. Jerry had been swimming under water and that was why Peter had not seen him. "Oh, Jerry Muskrat!" cried Peter. "You are just the fellow I wanted to see."

"Well, here I am. You can see me to your heart's content," replied Jerry.

"Were there some more Ducks here, Jerry?" inquired Peter eagerly.

"What do you mean by more Ducks?" Jerry demanded.

"I mean, has there been another flock of Ducks here since Mr. and Mrs. Quack and their flock left? Was there a flock in here today?" explained Peter.

"No," replied Jerry. "I haven't seen any Ducks here but the Quacks."

"Do you see these?" cried Peter, pointing to the feathers.

"There's nothing the matter with my eyesight," replied Jerry. "Those are just feathers."

"Where did they come from?" demanded Peter.

"From a Duck," replied Jerry, and dived under water and disappeared.

"Inter-related Lives"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "None of us liveth to himself" (Romans 14:7).

Read: Romans 14:1-7.

MEDITATION: The opening sentence of David Copperfield runs: "Whether I shall turn out to be the hero of my own life, or whether that office shall belong to anybody else, these pages must show." The story leaves the impression that David furnished the deciding factor in the making of his own life. But he had much help in the shaping of his career. There were his aunt, Peggotty, Mr. Peggotty, Mr. Wickford, Agnes and the rest. There is no such thing as a self-made man. We are continually making each other. Other people have helped to make us. Their lives have entered into our lives. Because they lived we live also. No man can keep his life to himself. This was why Jesus said: "For their sakes I sanctify myself."

PRAYER: We bless Thee that we are set amid this rich brotherhood of inter-related life with its mysterious power to quicken and uplift. Make us willing to pay the due price for what we get by putting forth our own life in wholesome good will. Amen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Saloon And The Woman

Mr. Editor: Saturday night, at 11 o'clock, a woman stood on a street corner in a part of Portland, Oregon, where there are several factories which operate day and night. She remembered standing on that very corner at about the same time, one Saturday evening, 15 years ago. But what a difference!

About 50 men, with their Saturday pay checks in their pockets, were coming up the opposite sidewalk. The majority of them stopped at a prosperous-looking grocery store which kept open to serve the workers as they came off the last shift. They soon came out talking and laughing good-naturedly, carrying what appeared to be appetizing packages of vegetables and groceries for family consumption. Remembering the Saturday evening of several years ago, the onlooker let her street-car go by, and watched the men without any sensation of insecurity whatever.

Fifteen years ago, a saloon stood where the grocery store now stands. The group of men coming up the sidewalk with pay checks were hailed halfway down the block by a jovial, white aproned bartender, who slapped the shoulders cordially and gave the "glad hand" to everybody. Many went in as they reached the saloon, their usual custom doubtless, and rough laughter and noisy music soon floated out. Those who passed by were followed by the drink promoter and offered treats and cajoled, the weaker brothers yielding and returning with the weekly stipend. It was a perfect illustration of the spider and the fly method.

Later, drunken men reeled out, with undoubtedly empty pockets, and two in fighting mood were thrown out by an attendant. The writer stood on one foot and then on the other, praying that the street-car would hurry up and take her.

Which is better, prosperous grocery stores with happy people going home with necessary supplies to a joyous Sunday with the family, after a week of labor, or prosperous saloons, and men reeling home with empty pockets to hungry and frightened children and wives? Women who go about their legitimate privileges happily and fearlessly, or women who dare not venture out after dark without an escort? The average woman has an immediate answer. In the "land of the free and the home of the brave," personal liberty is a great thing, a mighty matter. This story is not only true of Portland, Oregon, but of every city in every state in our Union, and how it does remind us of our own city of Norwich, Bath street, Water street, and many others where now we have stores where any woman need not hesitate about entering, with streets well lighted and perfectly safe at any hour, day or night. Truly we are living in a new day.

Here is what Mrs. Calvin Coolidge says about repeal of the 18th amendment: Two things are difficult to understand; how thoughtful people can advocate an era of lawlessness, for that is what repeal of prohibition law would mean; and how any group can go forth to repeal prohibition until it has something better to suggest. The saloon bar—a bar to heaven, a door to hell — whoever named it, named it well! A bar to manliness and wealth, a door to want and broken health. A bar to honor, pride and fame; a door to sin and grief and shame. A bar to hope, a bar to prayer, a door to darkness and despair; a bar to honored, useful life, a door to brawling, senseless strife; a bar to all that's true and brave, a door to every drunkard's grave. A bar to joy that home imparts; a door to tears and aching hearts; a bar to heaven, a door to hell— whoever named it, named it well!

JUST A WOMAN.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing Company, Inc., Danielson.

The E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing company was established by Edward H. Jacobs in 1859 to deal in general mill supplies under the name of E. H. Jacobs company. With the constant growth of the textile industry this company began the manufacture of a number of lines, such as reeds, harnesses, bobbins, shuttles, etc. Later the company found it economical to specialize in but a few lines, including lug straps, pickers, dobby cords, etc. Since that time it has become the largest manufacturer of loom supplies in the world.

In 1890 the firm was incorporated under a special charter, taking its present name of the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing company. At this time the company erected an up-to-date factory to which it moved from its previously inadequate quarters. In 1917 it was found necessary to double the size of the plant. As a further addition to the manufacturing and distributing facilities of the company, a branch factory was established at Charlotte, N. C., in 1926.

During the early part of 1928 the E. H. Jacobs Manufacturing company contracted with the General Electric company for the exclusive distribution of its textolite pickers, manufactured for the textile field.

The products of the Jacobs company are sold all over this country, Canada and in fact every civilized country in the world.

The present officers are: F. A. Jacobs, president; J. H. Chadbourne, vice president; D. H. White, vice president; W. I. Bullard, treasurer; A. J. Tucke, assistant treasurer.

U. S. CHILD BUREAU HEAD URGES INCREASED CHILD WELFARE WORK

Miss Grace Abbott of Washington, D. C. chief of the United States Children's bureau, made the keynote address here Tuesday at the annual conference of the Connecticut Child Welfare association, speaking at the luncheon at 12:15 at the Wauregan hotel, where there was an attendance of 200.

She urged that the United States, richest and greatest of nations, should do the utmost and greatest for its children and that there should be no backward step, locally, state-wise or nationally in using the modern agencies for solving such child problems as delinquency, dependency, neglect, mental health, housing and other conditions in order that there might be a good child health programme.

The gathering at the luncheon, which was in the ballroom at the hotel, included representative city and town officials with the members of the Norwich League of Women Voters and state and local welfare organizations.

Seated at the head table during the luncheon were the following: Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, First Selectman William S. Murray, Mr. Goodwin, Elsi Roberts, Robert McNeely, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Charles W. Cassidy, Miss Lucy B. Abbott, John H. Richardson, Miss Elizabeth Munger, Edward G. McKay, Miss Edna Tyler, Kenneth L. Messenger, Mrs. E. W. Higgins, Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, Miss Grace Abbott, Miss Katherine Blunt, Rev. Dr. T. M. Shipherd, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Edward J. Graham, Mrs. Frances Roth, Judge Arthur F. Libby, Miss S. F. Gleaton, Ernest O. Rodier, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, Mr. Jones, Miss Audrey Gernon and Mrs. Mix.

Mrs. Thomas M. Shields, president of the Norwich League of Women Voters, in conjunction with which the state conference was held here, called the gathering to order, and Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd of Park Congregational church, offered the invocation before the luncheon.

The further programme of the luncheon period was in the hands of Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, chairman of the executive committee of the state association, who made a number of announcements, in which she expressed appreciation of the hotel management in the arrangements made and of the Contact club in postponing an important meeting for this. She stated that Dr. Katherine Blunt, president of Connecticut college, was to be the speaker for the Contact club meeting on April 21.

She asked for support for the Norwich women when they conduct an educational campaign for an elevator in the court house, a matter of $15,000, and she spoke of the choice of four names for the national memorial nominations, these being Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman and Mrs. Willis Austin of this city, Miss Edna L. Tyler of New London and Miss Sally Fanny Gleaton, the field secretary.

Welcome by Mayor Robbins

Mrs. Higgins mentioned that Governor Trumbull was not here because the Norwich flying field was not in condition for him to land on it and she presented Mayor Robbins who spoke in a happy vein as he extended the official welcome to the city to Miss Abbott and the out of town visitors, complimenting the organization upon the work it was doing and telling them that he hoped to see the meeting in this city again next year.

Miss Abbott Speaks

Mrs. Higgins, who had been called upon to preside in the absence of Mrs. Percy T. Walden, state president of the Child Welfare association, introduced Miss Abbott, who was listened to with close attention and given a rising vote of thanks at the conclusion of her address.

She said that the problems of childhood, such as delinquency, despondency, neglect, health or recreation are now being looked upon in connection with their interrelationship to the community and nation much more than we used to do, and she went on to draw an interesting picture of the efforts to reach congress by the different departments calling for appropriations. She pictured this as a traffic jam into which the war, agriculture, commerce and other departments all crowd in with arguments that are easily understood but when the baby carriage is pushed into the jam that is something different.

It is hard to say in terms of money what it amounts to in saving a baby's life, said Miss Abbott. Money value is a very low estimate to put upon this. We are trying in increasing measure to find out what is best for the individual, and we have a new type of conduct problems in children. We need the greatest skill available to approach these problems in the best possible method for results.

The wise father and the wise mother is the one who knows enough to call the technical expert when things go wrong. We are developing a new technique of specialism in child conduct treatment. There is an individual and community approach to child problems and we need resources that we didn't have before. It will take a good deal of hard work and a good deal of hard thinking if we are going to do all that is possible in the field of child welfare. Children who suffer today will be permanently marred and that makes it an immediate problem. The United States, richest of nations and greatest of countries, should do the utmost for her children. What is to be done, said Miss Abbott in conclusion, is to be done primarily by the women voters. This is a woman's job and we ought to go ahead together to accomplish the utmost possible everywhere for what is done anywhere helps children everywhere.

Morning Meeting

The conference began in the morning at 10 o'clock with a round table meeting held in the front parlor of the hotel with Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell presiding. The topics were: "Care of Children Under Four," and "Interstate Placement of Children."

Mrs. Frances Roth, an officer of the New Haven juvenile court, was the speaker, taking the place of Mrs. Edith Valet Cook, executive secretary of the state child welfare association, who was unable to attend.

Mrs. Roth spoke for the need of state legislation governing the adoption of children, saying that the presentm ethod was too haphazard, as probate judges do not have sufficient time to know the full facts in such cases. She urged that a bill be presented at the next session of the general assembly emphasizing two measures in particular: 1, One year's probation in the home; 2, an absolute certified examination of the physical and mental conditions of the child.

Women's Farm Superintendent

Miss Elizabeth Munger, superintendent of the state farm for women, which is located at Niantic, was the next speaker.

She brought out some of the conclusions to be drawn from psychological examinations on the last 300 admissions at the farm, and went on to say that these inconclusive figures and these rather rough classifications show we have a preponderance of mental deviates in our population and that this group tends to increase rather than decrease. At any rate, the proportion of cases appearing to test as of average intelligence is appreciably less in the last one hundred admissions.

There is nothing very strange or startling in this situation. If it means anything at all, it means that the probation and preventive agencies in communities are becoming more and more effective in keeping out of our institutions the more hopeful cases which can be readjusted without institutional treatment. Moreover, other institutions like ours all over the country, are faced with the same situation. Institutions established primarily for the reformation, re-education and reinstatement of this class of offender are finding limitations placed upon them by the very material with which they have to work. Since the psychologists have placed in our hands the facilities for finding this out with some degree of accuracy, it remains for us to face the situation as it is rather than as we would like to have it.

No state could possibly afford to provide institutional custody for all of its defectives, even if this were advisable. What is needed is careful individual study to determine the exact treatment and care for each case; then be careful selection return to the community, under close supervision such cases as can make satisfactory re-adjustment.

It is important at this time to agree upon a policy and a procedure and, as my time is limited, I wish to state briefly the following recommendations, as far as our institution is concerned:

1. That all low-grade defectives now in our institution, who are incapable of earning a living and are subjects for permanent custodial care, should be transferred to a custodial institution.

2. That our law be amended to apply the indeterminate sentence to all defective delinquents.

If these recommendations are carried out, there will be additional room at the State Farm for the troublesome and high-grade defectives and, by increasing our parole staff and, perhaps, later establishing colonies, we can find out by the time the 1934 legislature meets just what additional buildings may be needed.

State Commissioner Speaks

"Care of Children Under Four" and "Interstate Placement of Children" were the topics of discussion led by Kenneth L. Messenger, state commissioner of child welfare.

While discussing the first mentioned topic he brought out the fact that in 1881 when the county home was created, each of the counties in the state was provided with a home for children between the ages of 4 and 18. Further legislation in 1923 allowed the selectmen of the various towns to place children under four in licensed homes and institutions. Any person may file a petition for commitment and the selectmen on application to the state board of welfare may commit the child as he sees fit. In some cases the child is well taken care of but in other cases the child is placed without a thorough study of the conditions that exist at the licensed home or boarding house. In some instances there is no supervision whatsoever of this type of home.

Mr. Messenger urged state legislation that would give social agencies power to conduct a physical and mental examination of children and would also allow them to place the children properly. In conclusion, he stated that Norwich was one place where the children were properly placed by the selectmen. Selectman William H. Murray, who was in the audience, was called upon at this time and he stated that the licensed boarding homes in Norwich were very good. The selectman urged that children be placed with relatives, rather than in boarding houses or institutions, where possible.

Visiting Teacher Demonstration

In the afternoon at 2:30 a demonstration of visiting teacher work was given in the large dining room at the hotel. Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, president of the Woman's City club, presided and the demonstration was conducted in an interesting way by Miss Margaret Bridges, visiting teacher in the Norwich schools and by Miss Lois Meredith, field secretary of the national committee on visiting teachers.

Conference Notes

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. J. Edward Driscoll, Miss Elizabeth Huntington, Mrs. Nathan Gilman, Mrs. Edward J. Graham, Mrs. A. M. Brand, Mrs. Roderick F. Sullivan, Miss Irma Hutzler. The ushers in charge of Miss Elizabeth Huntington were: Mrs. Marion Grover, Mrs. Goffe Briggs, Mrs. Benjamin H. Palmer, Jr., Mrs. Bruce Rogers, Miss Alice Sayles, Mrs. Willis P. Austin, Miss Ruth Bruckner and Mrs. Milton Adnopaz.

Assisting Miss Audrey Gernon on the reception committee were: Mrs. Albert H. Chase, Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell and Miss Louise C. Howe.

An interesting exhibit of social work publicity, which was arranged in the Woman's City club room, attracted much attention, having been arranged by Miss Irma Hutzler and Miss Nancy Tomlinson.

There was a capacity reservation of 250 for the luncheon, although there were some empty places at the tables as a number who had secured tickets were not present.

The large floral center piece on the head table, which was part of the floral decorations by Otto Ernst, was taken to Connecticut college and presented to Dr. Katherine Blunt, who brought Miss Abbott here from New London by motor for the luncheon and took her back again.

In other years the Connecticut Welfare association has paid all the expenses of the annual conference, but this year the committee met part of the expense by adding 50 cents to the price of the luncheon tickets.

STATE SURVEY MISSED NORWICH AIR-MARKED ROOF

In a report on a state survey made of places that are air-marked for the guidance of aviators, the sign "Norwich" which is painted on top of the Shannon building was missed when the survey was made, as it is not mentioned in the report.

There are 41 other communities which have a total of 66 signs painted on roofs of factories, lumber sheds, garages, warehouses, state armories, freight stations and other buildings advantageously located.

Bridgeport leads the state with a total of seven air-marked buildings. Meriden ranks second with six markings, Hartford is marked by five signs; Plainville and Stamford each have three signs.

Much of this roof painting activity followed as a result of a request in August, 1927, from President Hoover, then secretary of commerce, to Governor Trumbull to urge the chambers of commerce to take the matter up with the business organizations of their communities.

In this part of the state the places reported to be in the air-marked list are the following:

Danielson, Exchange block located in the center of Danielson and directly back of the railroad station; East Hampton, Summit Thread company; Glastonbury, factory of the J. B. Williams company; Groton, Groton Lumber company abutting the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. station, 1 1-2 miles north of Trumbull field in Groton; New London, Stan Bros. drug store, State street and Groton airport; Niantic, Niantic Lumber company shed; Putnam, Union block, Union square, center of town; Rockville, Lavin block, Main street; Willimantic, freight house.

GOVERNMENT GETTING BIDS ON THAMES RIVER DREDGING

Continuation of the deepening of the Thames river channel to the harbor of this city is to be carried on as specifications for bids for the dredging have been submitted to contractors by the U. S. engineers office at Providence. The bids are to be opened May 2.

The government effort to secure bids on the work now is caused by the stoppage of dredging operations by the Morris & Cummings Dredging company before the company had completed its contract.

The work covered by the contract was completed as far north as Fort Point, and partially completed between Fort Point and Rolling Mill wharf. From the wharf to the harbor here no work had been done, inasmuch as the contractors refused to complete the job last summer for various reasons. The government, it is understood, is to hold the New York dredging concern liable for the bill in finishing the dredging of the Thames in order that an 18-foot channel might be obtained.

According to the standard government form of invitation for bids, the approximate quantity of material to be removed between Fort Point and Norwich inclusive of allowable over-depth, and exclusive of the amount that was removed by the Morris & Cummings Dredging Co., Inc., between Fort Point and Rolling Mill wharf is 332,000 cubic yards. This estimate is based on the original surveys of November, 1923, and July, 1925, and for the work done by the Morris & Cummings Dredging Co., Inc., between Fort Point and Rolling Mill wharf upon a survey made in December, 1929, and January, 1930.

Under the original contract, the work to be done under the specifications consisted in dredging the river channel to a depth of 18 feet below mean low water between Allyns Point and Norwich. The width to be made is 200 feet, except at the lower and upper turns at Long Reach, where the maximum widths are 250 and 320 feet, respectively, and in the basin opposite the Norwich wharves, where the width varies from 200 to 720 feet.

PELOQUIN-LURKEY BOUT FEATURES TAME CARD AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 8—Regardless of the advanced announcement—and these boys occupied a third place position on the bill—Rene Peloquin and Julius Lurkey, of Worcester, fought the star bout at the boxing show in the town hall tonight. Peloquin won the referee's decision as he deserved to. It was some fight.

Big Boy Burlap of Westerly, weighing in at 225 1-2 pounds, and supposed to be performing in a star bout with Rocky Knight, 190 pound college champ. of England, came down here from Boston for the show, performed in hippodrome manner. After an even two minutes of the second round of what was supposed to be a six-round affair, Referee Billy Taylor, of Hartford, raised Burlap's hand in victory. The crowd started walking out within one minute after the big colored boys started to pet each other around in the first round and as the boys up in the bleachers started to yell "Sweethearts" and "I'se regusted".

That just about gives a line on the match with either big boy concerned, having no intention of hurting the other one. The fans decided about four minutes ahead of the referee that the bout was a total loss and that there was no use sticking around for it.

Getting back to the Peloquin-Lurkey bout, this proved to be some fight, probably the best seen in this town in many a day. It went the full six rounds. Peloquin had a margin on the visiting boy but not too much. After the show fans were clamoring to see them in action again and declared that they would pay the box office charges for admission if little or nothing more happens to be on the bill.

Here are two boys that can and will fight. Each weighed 128-1-2 pounds tonight. They ripped, slashed and tore at each other like two wildcats, through each round and from bell to bell. There were times when it seemed that either one or the other must pass out of the picture but both weathered the storm and Danielson's baby tiger, likely to be a big shot some day, came through a winner.

Al Koziol, of Norwich, lost to Alex Touraine, of New Haven, in a six round bout that went the limit. This was a comparatively hard fight but somehow lacking in interest. There was much fighting in this battle and both fighters took considerable punishment, but it lacked so in color as to rate just one more fight with the crowd. Koziol weighed 137 1-2 and Touraine 138.

Benny Novak, of New London, beat Cowboy Mickey Flynn, of Norwich, a brave but over-matched battler in this particular bout, when the referee stopped the affair in the third round. Cowboy was quite badly cut up and considerably outclassed.

Ero Peterson, the Worcester boy, fighting in the 138 pound class and who has won 31 out of his 33 starts, beat Wild Man Firpo of Providence by a referee's decision after six rounds of hard milling. Firpo was good but too wild.

Al Brouillard of Danielson took the preliminary affair, scheduled for four rounds, from Mush Moriarity, of Norwich, in the early stages of the third round, after the visiting boy had absorbed a lot of punishment.

A capacity audience saw the show.

CANZONERI KNOCKS OUT LA FAY IN 1ST ROUND

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, tonight knocked out Frankie La Fay, Troy, N. Y., lightweight, in the first round of their ten round bout at the Broadway Arena.

Canzoneri scored one knockdown after another from the bell until the quick ending of the fight. La Fay went down six times, and got up five. The sixth time he was on his knees throughout the count but was slow rising and failed to reach his feet before the count of ten. Canzoneri weighed 131 pounds, La Fay 137.

In a four round preliminary, Paris Apici of Providence, R. I., outpointed Al Peters of New York, Apici weighed 120 1-2 pounds, Peters 120.

WHITE SOX BEAT GIANTS TO GIVE THEM EDGE

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 8—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox once more took the lead in the exhibition series with the New York Giants, winning today's game, 7 to 4. The count now stands, six to five with one game having been tied.

Bill Walker and Ralph Judd were found for ten hits at the opportune time while the Giants fell on Ed Walsh, Jr., and Hal McKain for 12 safeties. Home runs were made by Eddie Marshall of the Giants and Carl Reynolds, of the Sox, the former's being a fluke as Jolley lost the ball in the sun. Score by innings:

THREE OUTFIELDERS FOR ATHLETICS ARE INJURED

None of the injured men have serious hurts, however, and all are expected to be ready for the regular season opening.

Shotton Pleased With Pitcher

PHILADELPHIA, April 8—(AP)—Burt Shotton, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, believes that his pitchers have great possibilities, even though they look bad in spring training. If they start by April 15, it will be time enough."

"I'm a druggist," said one. "A paper hanger," said another. "I run a lunch wagon." "I'm an interior decorator."

"None of you'll manage exterior decorators," said Stand as he ushered them out, sans licenses.

ACADEMY SECOND TEAM TO SCHEDULE GAMES

The Academy will again have a second team in baseball this year that will play a schedule all its own, according to an announcement Tuesday by Coach Earle E. Brigham.

Games are to be arranged with most of the second teams of schools in this section in addition to the first teams of smaller high schools.

With challenges to fistic combat between senators and witnesses at the sessions of the senate lobby committee becoming so frequent the government could cash in on them if handled properly.

A code of rules governing the verbal preliminaries leading up to the challenge would simplify matters for spectators and newspapermen and the actual fistic combat could be governed by Marquis of Queensbury rules with which everyone is familiar.

A Preliminary Draft of Rules

Rule 1—The President of the United States shall appoint a commission to be known as the Commission on Verbal Combat. Said commission shall examine all applicants for verbal combats as to their qualifications.

Rule 2—No witness or senator who has a limited vocabulary of cuss words will be allowed to take out a permit to engage in verbal combats.

Rule 3—Verbal combats shall be divided into three classes: Tame, active and torrid. Prices shall be on a sliding scale with the torrid class commanding the highest price.

Rule 4—There shall be three judges to decide on the winner of the verbal combat. The judges shall be one Democrat, one Republican and one Insurgent, said judges to be able to understand cuss words and epithets in at least seven languages.

Rule 5—Judges must be unanimous in their decision or verdict will be left to poll of newspapermen at ringside or to the Literary Digest.

Rule 6—All contestants must possess powerful voices and have at least an eighth grade education or the equivalent. Opponents from the solid south have preference, with westerners next and New Englanders third.

Rule 7—Opponents are permitted to have one person as a second. The second should be able to supply his principal with epithets when said principal is groggy. No second shall be permitted to hurl epithets at his principal's opponent but must communicate them directly to his principal. Infraction of this rule will mean disqualification of his principal.

Rule 8—In contests between senators and laymen the senators will be permitted to hurl the first epithet; in contests between senators seniority shall govern who is to start the verbal combat.

Rule 9—After starting to hurl epithets the first contestant shall continue until he is out of breath. Then second contestant has right to start and continue until he is exhausted.

Rule 10—A contestant while regaining his breath may confer with his second and acquire a new supply of epithets.

Rule 11—Scoring: A point shall be scored for each one-syllable epithet hurled; two points for two-syllable epithets, and three points for all epithets over two syllables. Epithets never heard in a senate hearing count five points.

Rule 12—The contestant who first challenges his opponent to fistic combat outside the senate chamber will be declared the loser. To challenge to fistic combat is a sign that a contestant has run out of epithets and is licked. If the contestants continue until silenced by the senate committee chairman then the judges shall render a verdict.

Rule 13—When a contestant is challenged to fistic combat he can either accept or decline but if he accepts the Marquis of Queensbury rules apply and the fight promoters will be permitted to make advances to the contestants.

W. AND M. TURNS BACK HARVARD TEAM, 1 TO 0

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., April 8.—(AP)—William and Mary turned back Harvard this afternoon, 1 to 0, with Wallace, diminutive twirler, allowing the Crimson only two hits while striking out ten and issuing one free pass. He pitched hitless ball until the eighth stanza.

Devens wildness and sloppy support on the part of his team mates cost the Crimson a run in the opening inning. The Indians were never able to dent the scoring column thereafter although threatening on two occasions, once with the bases loaded.

Score:

W. and H. 100 000 000—1;4;1
Harvard 000 000 000—0;2;3

Wallace and Ferrell; Devens and Batchelder.

Coming up from Hollywood Rumler had a restless night and jammed his feet through the window. He suffered severe cuts and will be out of play for about a week.

Accepts Challenge

The B. S. A. club team accepts the challenge of the Westerly Majestics for a game to be played Sunday, April 13, at Westerly.

QUINN LOSES TO NEW YORKER

BOSTON, April 8—(AP)—Several startling upsets occurred here tonight while the three smallest classes in the National A. A. U. boxing championships battled to enter the semi-final rounds. At least three of the favorites went down to ignoble defeat and several others, who waged impressive warfare in the opening rounds, squeezed through with few points to spare.

The most startling upset had clever Joey Kushner of Cleveland, the junior national 112-pound titlist, as its victim. He was the favorite in the flyweight class but Augie Curtis, fast punching youth from San Francisco, had but little difficulty outpointing him.

Quinn Loses Verdict

Two namesakes, Emil Miller of San Francisco, and August Miller of Honolulu, the last survivor on the Hawaiian team, were drawn for the same bout. August, a terrific right handed puncher, scored an impressive victory in his opening bout but his California namesake was much too clever to be bothered by August's right hand. Emil's jabs prevented the Hawaiian from using his right and the latter was decisively out-pointed. Another heavy puncher, William Gladstone of Chicago, a 126-pounder, was knocked out in two rounds by Don Astos of Uniontown, Pa. The other qualifier in this class was Ray Meyers, experienced New Yorker, who tamed Jimmy Quinn of Norwich, Conn., with a furious two-fisted attack to the head and body.

Three of the four second round heavyweight battles ended in knockouts. Mike Lucash of Philadelphia, had to hit Homer Blenus, huge Boston milkman, with at least 40 accurately placed right hooks to the jaw before he floored his opponent for the 10 count in the second round. Sylvan Taylor of New York, needed less than three minutes to flatten John O'Brien of Chicago, and Jack Pallat, Cleveland, pounded Earl Meierer of Buffalo, to the canvas in two rounds. The only heavyweight bout to go the limit was a most unscientific bout and had Clarence Doyle, of San Francisco, and Chester Matan of New York, as competitors. The Californian, a semi-finalist in last year's tourney, drew the decision.

Game starts at 2:30 p. m.

The Norwich Fire Department baseball team, the result of weeks of effort and carrying hopes of the entire personnel of fire laddies in our fair city, make up the opposition for the Academy's second start of the season this afternoon at the campus at 2:30.

It should be one of the best games of the year, from a certain standpoint. It pits youth and speed, in the Wildcats, against brains and brawn, in the hosemen and is expected to draw a packed gallery.

Both teams had their final workouts Tuesday. In the morning, for about three hours, the N. F. D.'s were driven at top speed by Manager Tracy to put the finishing touches on a long seige of training while in the afternoon Coach Brigham gave the Red and White a short batting drill and called it quits.

The announcement of the lineup of the Firemen, it is commonly known, has caused the schoolboys to do much thinking with the result that on Tuesday they were all a serious-faced lot, ready to fight to the last ditch for their school against the powerful foe that will be the firemen today. Coach Brigham even went so far as to make a shift in his batting order to put more punch into the lineup. Speed Reardon has been moved up into second place, sending Capt. Gibbs to third, Pepin from third to sixth and Weisgraber seventh. The Academy's outfield today will be composed of Weisgraber in left, Pepin, in center and Crowell, in right. Chuck Lavarge will start on the mound with Boots Greene ready at a moment's notice to step in and quell any uprising, especially from the bat of Kirk Wilcox.

Let's look over the lineup of the Fire Department for a minute—Blinderman, leading catcher for the Richmond Radiators when they won the Dusty league pennant in 1927, will don the mask with Bill Reid, speed-ball artist with a penchant for long strike-out records, in the box and Jack Moody, of the old Connecticut league and also former U. S. Army player at first; Barwell, of the Greeneville Bearcats at second, Gil Kampf, of the Richmonds, at short, Eddie Nevins, pride of Greeneville at third, Blinderman or Gromko or both, in left, Fitzgerald, of Smoke Shop fame, in center and last but not least, Kirk Wilcox, champion batter of the Chauffeur's league in right. All will be uniformed, which will be something else again. There is no truth to the rumor that one of Barnum's old tents has been shipped on to outfit Kirk. The utility men are Kearney, Lieberman and Scud, the latter recalled from the Policemen's team especially for today.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years.)

A local fan has submitted a game to this column, played at Brooklyn Fair grounds, Sept. 8, 1904, between the Wauregan nine, strongest in Eastern Connecticut and the Jewett City aggregation. It ended 4-4 in the eighth inning, the game being called on account of darkness. Wauregan had an enviable record that reason, having beat such teams as Webster, Southbridge, North Grosvenordale, Mechanicsville, Putnam, Baltic, Taftville, Mystic and Willimantic, in addition to dividing with Jewett City.

Dan Marra was pitching for Wauregan on this occasion and he was in rare form, allowing his opponents but five hits. He struck out ten men.

..SWEEPING UPWARD in popularity—

There really never has been anything quite like the success of the Chrysler-built De Soto Six. It rushed into sudden popularity the moment the motoring public laid eyes on it—and went on to set up a new first-year sales record for the industry. That success grew and grew and today continues without lag or let-up. All this is simply a matter of cause and effect. The De Soto Six is a huge success in sales because it is a huge success in engineering and manufacturing—a six that definitely offers the owner more for his money in all those qualities that make for enjoyment, pride of possession and greater value. By no means consider buying any Six without taking a ride in a De Soto Six.

WESTERLY

LOCAL THEATRE MANAGER HELPS OUT CIRCUS MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., April 8—Representatives of the Miniature Circus arrested on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, Monday noon by Officer Adin R. Sheldon, when he found that the outfit traveling by motor trucks was unlicensed and no motor operator's license was held by any of the party, appeared in Stonington town court Tuesday. The circus was a collection of performing ponies, dogs, monkeys and donkeys and apparently they had a hard way to travel for it was impossible to raise the sum of $50 bail required to free them in court and the trucks were held. Even in court and before the court convened there was present all the flavor of a full-fledged circus. One of the men had a bad case of hiccoughs in court and the origin was not difficult to trace, for examination of the court room plumbing fixtures by Court Officer Benjamin Adams showed that a "dead soldier" in the form of an empty half pint bottle had been parked in a flush tank and its presence there was revealed by a continuous flow of water.

George Mandis, 34, of Barrington street, Philadelphia, pleaded guilty on two counts, the operation of a Reo truck on the Boston Post road when the same had not been registered and when he had no driver's license. Judge Wilcox fined him $15 on each count with costs, which brought the total amount to $60.

Edward Kabese, 34, of 1560 Broadway, New York, owner of the circus, as he claimed after it had been arrested, pleaded guilty to having no operator's license and was fined $15 and costs which totalled $29.45. He declared that he had applied for a license in New York state and asked the prosecution how he was to obtain it? Prosecutor H. P. Hammacher said that the court was not in session to give him advice, but to pass upon his guilt. It looked as though the men, one of whom was accompanied by his wife, would have to go to the New London jail when Manager John B. Findlay, of the United Theatre, Westerly, appeared and arrangements were made to sell one of the trucks and with the proceeds pay the court fines and costs.

There was no court appearance for Michael J. Carroll, a driver for the A. and P. truck, which was without reflectors as found in check-up by state police officers and on recommendation of Prosecutor Hammacher the case was again continued one week.

Two other violators of the motor vehicle laws were before the court. John R. Payne, 22, of Brookline, Mass., pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and was fined $10 and costs of $12.55, and William F. Broughton, Jr., 18, of Yale street, Stratford, Conn., was found guilty of reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs of $11.35. Both paid.

Mitchell Levy, 36, of Revere, Mass., who was arrested Sunday by a state trooper for an automobile law infraction, had his case continued two weeks.

WHITE ROCK MILL PLANT AUCTIONED FOR $15,000

White Rock residents Tuesday noon again saw the red flag of the auctioneers displayed on White Rock mill property. The property which has been owned by the Traco Finishing Co. Inc., went to satisfy a first mortgage claim of the B. B. & R. Knight Finance corporation. The property was struck off for $15,000 to L. R. Anthony of Providence, a representative of the Knight corporation, this being the only bid received.

This plant was formerly owned by the Knight interests and was sold about three years ago to the Traco Co., for $45,000. The new owners at the time paid $15,000 on account, leaving the Knight corporation holding a mortgage of $30,000. Charles Watmaugh, head of the Traco Co., tried to interest Westerly business men in the proposition, but was unable to raise funds to equip the plant. The company was also unable to keep up interest payments on the mortgage, with the result that the Knight company foreclosed.

Several in the crowd seemed interested in the property and it may be that a private offer will be made by them to the Knight corporation.

The mill is a four-story brick building with loft, 367 by 60 feet. There is 105,471 square feet of manufacturing space in the main structure, with 14,-800 square feet of storage space in auxiliary building. Nearly 33 acres of land go with the property.

Harry L. Bates and Joseph W. Lewis of the firm of Henry W. Cooke & Co., Providence, were the auctioneers and were assisted by Oliver P. Crandall of Westerly. The conditions of sale required a deposit of 10 per cent of the purchase price. The conditions also gave the mortgagee the right to bid. The property sold included all the mill property in Rhode Island. A small parcel, about a quarter of an acre located across the river in Connecticut, was not included because of a difference in foreclosure proceedings in that state, where it is necessary to take the matter to court.

Mr. Lewis stated that the 1-4 acre in Connecticut at the dam landing would be thrown in to the purchaser of the Rhode Island property and a mortgagee deed delivered within 30 days for the same.

Norwich Masons Attend

William M. Wyman, L. H. Allen, A. N. Lamphear and Nicholas Amato, all members of Franklin chapter, No. 4, Royal Arch Masons of Norwich, were Westerly visitors Monday evening, attending a special convocation of Palmer chapter, No. 28, R. A. M., of Pawcatuck, held in Masonic hall. Excellent High Priest Ernest F. Stenhouse and officers conferred the Royal Arch degree upon a class. Light refreshments followed the convocation.

Palmer and wife, Mary D. Palmer, land at Potter Hill with four two-family houses, adjoining lands now or formerly of Oliver Babcock and Susan A. Andrews.

Patrolmen Turn Students

Brown Tuesday afternoon escorted a class of Westerly police officers to their first session in the new Rhode Island police school held in the Benefit street armory, Providence. Members of the class were Lieut. George H. Champlin, Trooper George L. Madison, Constable Frank E. Knight and Officer Michael McCarthy. Tuesday evening Officers Robert M. Kessell, Charles Button and LeRoy H. Norman attended the session of police evening school in Providence.

Returning from several months motor trip to California and a tour of the Pacific coast, William H. Goodgeon and motor party, on their way to Westerly, were in Nashville, Tenn., Sunday, April 6th.

The strong southeast winds the past few days caused heavy surf on Westerly beaches. At Watch Hill the breakers were rolling in from 25 to 30 feet high. On the east beach the water reached up to the sand banks. The stonewall abutments at the property of Mrs. Samuel W. Bettie on Napatree Point were broken and considerably damaged by the pounding of the waves. Breakers were inside the jetty at the life-saving station, an unusual occurrence. During the height of the sea two small yachts were observed from the coast guard station making their way to the eastward. They were watched anxiously from the observation tower until they vanished from sight in the direction of Point Judith. At Misquamicut the waves broke over the bulkheads and washed high up on the beach, as they did along the dunes at Weekapaug.

The bride's brother, August Hartke, Jr., was best man. The double ring service was used. A wedding supper was served. Afterwards cigars were passed around.

AUBURN
Straight Eights and Sixes

AFTER a careful study of the leading automobile manufacturers, their plants, products, and policies, we have chosen Auburn, because we believe Auburn builds the motor cars we can most whole-heartedly recommend to our friends.

We have found Auburn management the most progressive. Auburn has pioneered important automobile advancements: low bodies, straight eight motors, metal side quarters, Bijur chassis lubrication and other features now generally adopted. Auburn cars will always have the newest proved motoring improvements.

Auburn has the diversified experience that comes from building many different kinds of motor cars and other automotive products in nine great plants, to suit the needs of all kinds of people.

Auburn is the fastest growing motor car manufacturer, with rate of sales increase in 1929 greater than any car except Ford. And it is Auburn's policy to pass the fruits of its success back to Auburn purchasers in the form of greater and greater values. As a result of all this Auburn always offers longer, stronger, higher powered, roomier, more comfortable, more distinctive and more enduring motor cars for less money. That is the secret of Auburn's amazing Success.

You are invited to visit our sales room during opening week; to learn for yourself the high grade of service we are equipped to offer and above all to see and inspect and drive the new Auburn cars. You know it is Auburn policy that if the car does not sell itself you will not be asked to buy.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Humming-bird's Nest

Her nest a bit of down from thistles blown,
Caught lightly here and there with silken thread
Torn from some grim-eyed spider's raveled web
By Mistress Ruby Throat to make a home.

A home scarce larger than an opening rose
She wove for nestlings small as velvet bees,
How soft God's hand to fashion such as these,
The tiniest fledglings that the bird world knows.

Jewels with wings, how soon with sudden dart
You'll poise above my honeysuckle vine
Or sip the sweetness from a columbine
Wooing through summer days my garden's heart.

And since your throat has been denied a song
You needs must make a harp string of the air
And list'ning none shall miss your voice or care.
So vibrant is the sone you flash along.

Thrice glad shall be thy welcome, sparkling guests,
Blest symbols of the change love's touch can bring Wherever God has placed some helpless thing
Be it in human homes or feathered nests.

—Mary Wilder Pease.

My Purring Pussy

"Oh, the soft caressing manners
Of my little pussy-cat,
Pressing gently up against me,
Coaxing for a loving pat!

Often when I'm sad or weary,
With my view of blessings blurred,
Vaulting to my lap, she's settled
Where she purred and purred and purred.

There is something very soothing
In that sound of sweet content;
Pets like her I can but treasure
As a blessing heaven-sent.

—Elizabeth Archer

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Of our many friends in the animal family there are none which have a finer record for devotion and service than the St. Bernard dog. The Hospice of St. Bernard high up in the snow-covered mountains in Switzerland, is the place where these famous dogs are trained for their life saving work.

The original pack of dogs connected with the Hospice of St. Bernard was formed about the year 1812.

The average strength of the pack maintained in the Hospice kennels is fifteen at a time. They are all remarkably good specimens, as big as young calves, and strong enough to carry a helpless man through the snow. Some of them measure nearly six feet from muzzle to tail, and weigh anything up to 150 pounds. Their usual coloring is a mixture of red and white, but some of them are tawny or brindled.

The training of the St. Bernard dogs in their rescue-work is a systematic business, and begins when they are mere puppies. The first step in the process is to send out a young member of the pack leashed to a more experienced one. This prevents it getting lost among the passes. After a time, it is taken some miles from the Hospice, turned loose, and left to make its own way home. It soon discovers this, and can then be allowed out by itself and without fear of mishap. Before long, a young dog develops a very keen sense of direction, and will pick up the track in the heaviest snow and mist. He is then employed as a guide when the monks set off to bring food and fuel from Bourg St. Pierre and Orsiers.

During such periods as they are used to search for and assist storm-bound travelers attempting to reach the Hospice, the dogs are despatched in couples. The object of this is to permit one of them to remain at the spot where the wanderer is found, while his companion hurries back and brings the rescue-party. There are many well-established accounts of the intelligence and courage and devotion they exhibit in this work.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

My Trip Around The World

Dear Uncle Jed: This is about my trip around the world which, of course, is only imaginary. We will start from San Francisco. The boat on which we will sail is a large ocean liner called, "The Pocohontas." At 7.45 she left the dock with her passengers, bound first for the Hawaiian Islands. Here the steamer stopped for three days and took on enough coal to last until we landed at Singapore.

At Hawaii the passengers had a chance to inspect the island. I was interested in the growing of pineapples. There were several other things of interest. I was presented with a piece of light wood, "of which the airplanes are made," and which grows around there.

We resumed our trip and before very long we docked at Singapore. We only remained over night there so we did not have a chance to explore.

Continuing our trip we soon reached Madras, India. We were here for two weeks and while we were there, one of the interesting things we saw was the natives bathing in the Ganges. They believe that if they have a disease they will be cured by bathing in the river.

After our stop in Madras we continued our journey to Aden. Here we stopped long enough to replenish our coal supply. Going through the Red Sea and through the Suez Canal we came to Alexandria where we stayed for three days. Sugar cane is grown here and I managed to obtain a small piece to take home with me. From here we traveled across the Mediterranean sea and to Gibraltar. This city is in Spain although it belongs to the British people. Until this time we had had excellent weather, but here we entered a terrible electrical storm. However, the Atlantic Ocean on which we now are, became calm again.

After seven days on the Atlantic Ocean we landed at New York. From here we took a train across the continent and are once more in our home in San Francisco.

The Haunted House

Dear Uncle Jed It seems very long since I have written to you Uncle Jed, but I am sending you a story and I hope it will be liked. The name of my story is "Never Again." Extra! Extra! All about the haunted house. The paper boys were peddling papers, and I bought one. The head lines of the paper read: Haunted House, Near St. Low Falls; One Who Stays One Night at This House, Twenty-One Dollars Prize.

I never believed in "haunted houses," so I thought to myself, "Why not take a chance at this grand prize." I left our house about half past six and arrived at the "haunted house at seven. I came to the house, a dreary old place, and walked in. It was nicely furnished. I sat in a chair and was reading when I heard a noise. like hoot! hoot! I jumped and ran full force, not looking where I was going. I bumped my head against a mantle piece and fell to the floor.

When I came too it was morning. I scrambled to my feet and ran right over and received the twenty-one dollars. But, never again. !

Trapped In A Tower

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you again. The name of my story is going to be "Trapped In A Tower."

There was once an old tower that stood on the outskirts of a town in Germany. It was owned by a king who hated everyone but himself.

One day a man came to look at the tower because he had never seen the inside. The king hated this man and had always tried to do something to him.

They went to the tower together and had looked at everything in the rooms. When they were in the last room the king told this man he had forgotten something. He went out of the room, shut the door behind him and locked it. The king went to his home thinking something would happen to the man.

It was beginning to grow dark and the man wondered what had happened to the king. By and by he began to smell smoke and saw a very small light that began to grow larger and larger. Finally he saw that he was in danger and began looking for a way to escape. Just as he was about to give up he saw a small window. But how to get to the ground! There was a rope hanging on the sill so he took hold of it and slid to the ground. He was going home as fast as he knew how when he heard a crash and looking back he saw the tower in ruins on the ground.

On A Ranch

Dear Uncle Jed: I won a book and it was very nice. I thank you very much. I am trying to win another one by writing a story. I hope you and the Wide Awakes Circle will enjoy my story about a day on a ranch.

One day in summer I went to visit my uncle in Texas in the great plains. I arrived late in the afternoon. My uncle told me many stories, then I went to bed. In the morning I rode on horseback to the place where they brand calves.

The cowboys put a red hot iron on the calves' backs. The iron was shaped as a bar S. I asked my uncle why did they do that. He said that the name of his reach was bar S, and when the calves would go with others he would know which ones were his. And that day I learned many things. I told my uncle that I would like to be a cowboy.

Four Little Bunnies

Dear Uncle Jed: Would you like to hear about my "bob-tailed friends?" One day while I was in the woods I came upon a rabbit nibbling grass. After a while she took a leaf and ran off. I watched her disappear under a rock. I stood very still waiting to see if she would return. She did return with four little brown and white bunnies hopping behind her. It was the prettiest sight I had ever seen.

A Surprise

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you a story about "The Night We Moved." One Saturday when I was eight years old, my mother went to Mystic to get my father. As the hours passed I grew very tired of waiting for them to return, so I went to bed. In the night I was awakened by my father's voice. He told me to get dressed. In my haste I didn't bother to put on my stockings and shoes, but father told me to sit by the stove and do so. Behold the stove was gone! Not a thing was in the house except my bed and the table. My father told me that he had moved everything else to our new home. I laughed at the joke he had played on me.

My Vacation

Dear Uncle Jed: It is my vacation and I am having a very nice time. Where we are staying there is a dog, two cats, and some chickens. My sister and I go and feed the chickens and get the eggs. On the way over from Enfield I saw two pheasants. I am going to tell you about a little boy and girl who went in the woods. One day a little boy and girl asked their mother if they could go to the woods. Their mother said they could. So they started. After they had gone a little way they saw a fox running through the bushes toward them. The girl screamed and the boy shouted for help. There was a woodcutter nearby who had a gun so he shot the fox. Then the children went home and never came to the woods again.

Betty's New Dress

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you again. The story I am going to tell you about is "Betty's New Dress." One day Betty, Mary and their aunt were going on a trip. Betty had packed her clothes and so had her aunt, but Mary had not so she went to pack her clothes and soon she had it done. Betty had found a little mouse and thought she would put it with Mary's clothes to scare her.

Soon they had reached the place where they were going to stay and were going to unpack their clothes. Mary and her aunt had soon finished but Betty had not begun so her aunt told her to hurry up. Betty unpacked her clothes and last of all she picked up her new dress and out fell a mouse. The dress had big holes in it. The mouse scared her so she ran to tell her aunt. When her aunt came the mouse was gone and Betty said, "I meant to put it in Mary's clothes and I made a mistake and now my new dress is spoiled. The mouse has eaten several holes in it.

This story shows us that we should not try to play tricks on other people because the joke may be on us instead.

A Story About A Robin

Dear Uncle Jed: I should like to tell you a story of a robin. It was a beautiful summer day and I sat under a tree where a mother robin built its nest, laid its eggs and hatched out three baby robins. The birds were singing and the butterflies were floating in the air. Then all of a sudden one baby robin dropped from its nest. The cat sprang on it and ran away. I thought the poor bird lost its life. I ran after the cat and took away the bird. The bird hurt its wing and legs. I bandaged them up. In a few days it was able to hop. It sat on my shoulders and pecked at the crumbs. In the middle of August the bird was able to fly, then I taught it some tricks. I wrote a letter to my friend. I tied the message to its foot and told it to carry it to the place. I did not see my pet for a few days. After a while it came with a message to me. I was glad to see my pet again. I made a little swing for my dear pet. It would sing and swing. When autumn came it flew away to the warm lands. This made me feel sad. All winter I mourned for it. One spring day I sat looking out of a window. I heard a flutter of wings and a beautiful song. My heart beat fast and in flew my dear pet. The rest of the summer I was happy. It still sings its best songs and cheers me up.

A Black and White Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written. My pet is a cat. He is black and white. He likes to play with a piece of wood he has. When I get up in the morning he will hide under or behind something. I have a lot of fun with him. You should see him sit up and beg. One night when I was playing bounce the ball he tried to bounce it too. One day when he was outside the dog next door tried to kill him. When he came home my mother put him in a box and when I came home from school and saw him in the box, believe me, I didn't think it was funny. But now he is running around just as good as ever.

A Football Game

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. This story is true. One Sunday a boy named Billy, told me that a football game was in the park. I said I would go with him. We reached the park at 2.30 just in time to see the game. A man blew a whistle when to start. They got in a line. A man kicked the ball. One man on the Red's side got it. They all ran after him. A man tackled him and he was badly hurt. That ended the game because they thought too many men would get hurt.

A Trip to Roger Williams Park

Dear Uncle Jed: Last year in September my Sunday school class, (The Live Wires), hired a truck with the money we made by holding a supper and entertainment to go in a group to Roger Williams park.

We left the East Killingly church at 8 o'clock in the morning. We arrived at the park about 9:15. First we heard the seals. We went and saw them. They have an odd bark. We saw the alligators basking in the sun. We walked on and saw the wolves and foxes. They have hens of all important species. We were surprised by the call of a beautiful peacock. The park has beautiful spacious lawns. There are pigeons and guinea pigs. We saw the pony track. We saw, where ever we went on the park, squirrels climbing trees and frisking about in a most playful manner.

We saw the golden and ruffled pheasants. We saw love birds, toucans, cranes, parrots and many other kinds of birds. We saw one bird which builds its nests of colored crepe paper. We saw some birds of paradise. There were monkeys in a large cage. There were fish and eels in two aquariums in the large one. We saw an eagle eating meat. We saw a dark cage with a barred owl in it. They have an elephant that was contributed by a hunter. (Many other things in the park have been contributed to the park). The thing that interested me most was the monkeys. There is an artificial island. There are very many monkeys. There is an old tree without leaves used for the monkeys to climb. They have ropes with bells for them to climb also the bells make a great noise. We rode on the merry-go-round. After coming out we saw the deer. They are very tame and friendly. We also saw the bison. He is most popularly called "buffalo." They once roamed the western plains but they were nearly exterminated by hunters who relied almost wholly on them for food. There are many statues. We went into the museum. There we saw many Indian relics. There are mummified Indian heads. We saw an Esquimaux kaijak and all of their Arctic implements for hunting and fishing. There are stones from most parts of the world. Many are beautiful onyx and amber. There is a miniature Indian town. There is a replica of the solar system, showing moon, earth, and planets. The sun is an electric bulb. While passing the water we saw swans and ducks. Under the supervision of our good Sunday school teacher we all enjoyed a fine time.

The Witch

Dear Uncle Jed: I saw my other story in the Wide Awake circle so I thought I would write again. One day Bobby, a little boy, said to his mother, "May I go out for a walk tonight?" His mother said, "Yes, if you will be home before nine o'clock." Bobby promised her that he would.

As he was about to pick up the handkerchief that had fallen from his pocket he heard a queer noise. It was an old witch who made that noise. After a while he heard someone say, "You did not mind your mother, did you?" Bobby said, "It must be an old witch because that is the one who wants to know everything." He did not answer her but just kept on going. He saw someone running and he said, "Who are you." The old witch said, "Why do you want to know?" The little boy didn't like this so he said, "I want to know because you wanted to know if I minded my mother." She did not like this so she said, "Go home, I think it is late."

Bobby ran as fast as he could. When he got home, what do you think happened? The old witch was there again. She took off the mask from her face and who do you think it was? It was his own mother.

Popping Corn.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first letter I have written to the "Wide Awakes." I am going to tell you a story about the popcorn. Once upon a time there was a little boy and girl. One day their mother let them make some popcorn. The children were delighted. When they finished popping the corn in came a big dog as big as a bear. The children dropped their pan and ran. The big dog ate up the popcorn. Then he went away. The children's mother let them make some more. No dog got any more popcorn. I wish I could pop some corn.

My Pet Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading my story about Sally, my pet cat's new home.

I very often visit my grandmother and the week before Christmas I saw my pet cat Sally sleeping in the sun. As I came near her she got up, mewed and rubbed herself at my feet as if to say, "I missed you very much." As I walked into the house Sally followed and sat in my lap and purred. Next day Sally was nowhere to be found. A few days later Sally was found out over to grandmother's again.

Yesterday my mother went and got Sally again and three new babies with her. One gray, one black and white, the other one black, tan and white. Why what a surprise for me as I found out she will stay with me. I made a nice bed of hay and put them into the barn.

At Rocky Point.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you or to the Wide Awakes. The name of my story is A Trip to Rocky Point.

One Sunday we went for a trip. We decided to go to Rocky Point. We took our lunch with us. We started about seven o'clock in the morning. After we went about 20 miles, we had a flat tire. We were disgusted. We fixed the tire and went along. We got there about nine o'clock. There was a big crowd there. We didn't bring our bathing suits, so we couldn't go swimming. But we took off our shoes and stockings and went paddling. We didn't stay in very long. We came out and put our shoes and stockings on. We then went on the rocking horses. We went on them about three times. Then we went and looked around. We came to a shoot-a-shoot, where boats came down fast and landed in the water. We watched them about 15 minutes. Then we went and saw some airplanes. From there we went and ate our lunch. After we were through we went back in paddling again. We stayed in about an hour. We got out and got dressed. We finished looking around. We came back to the car and we left for home. It was about five o'clock. We got halfway home and ran out of gas. We had to walk about half a mile to get some gas. We got some and started on home. We got home about 7:30. We had a nice time.

GIFT FROM I. O. O. F. LODGE TO REV. CHARLES SMITH

At the meeting of Thames lodge, I. O. O. F., held at their rooms in the Palmer Memorial school, Palmertown, Tuesday night, a farewell was given Rev. Charles Smith. Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the M. E. church, Uncasville, came here in 1922 and is finishing a pastorate of eight years, the longest in the history of the church. In addition to his work at Uncasville, he supplied the Montville Center Congregational church. Jerome House, in behalf of the members of Thames lodge, presented Rev. Mr. Smith $35 in gold. Rev. Mr. Smith responded in a speech of appreciation. While not a member of the lodge, Mr. Smith attended the meetings frequently and was very popular with the members, who will miss him keenly. It has been the custom of Rev. Mr. Smith to devote one Sunday morning of each year to the members of the lodge, when he delivered a sermon to them as they attended church in a body. As he will be unable to follow this custom hereafter, other arrangements have been made for the coming season. Rev. Mr. Smith is a member of the Pemberton, New Jersey, lodge of I. O. O. F. Visitors from Norwich and New London I. O. O. F. lodges were present and there were several interesting talks given by members after Rev. Mr. Smith had finished. About 40 members of Thames lodge were present. After the meeting there was a donation supper served, consisting of potato salad, baked beans, coffee, rolls and cake. A committee composed of Jerome House, Reuben Okrant, Archi Fisher and Benjamin Johnson had charge of the arrangements. Mr. Smith expects to spend the spring and summer months at his summer home at South Harwick, Cape Cod. He may resume some ministerial work in the fall.

WEISLER HOUSE BURNED— SECOND BAD FIRE IN A DAY

Fire which started from an unknown cause completely destroyed the fine residence of T. Weisler, located on the River road, Uncasville. The fire started at about 9 p. m., Monday. This was the second fire in the village in one day and caused a total loss of $15,000. The loss is only partially covered by insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Weisler were in New London when the fire started and returned home shortly after to find their house afire. Employes of the night shift and residents in that locality made an effort to run a hose from the hydrant of the Connecticut Power company but failed in their efforts. Mr. Weisler claims with the proper fire equipment that the damage to his home would not exceed $800 at the most. Mr. Weisler, who moved here from New York, was a real estate dealer. His home was fitted with all modern improvements. The house is known as the Lathrop residence and was owned by John B. Lathrop, a former coal dealer of this town.

H. B. Engle of Uncasville was a bearer at the funeral of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Henry J. Kendall, at Lisbon Sunday.

There will be a prayer and song service for Rev. Charles Smith, retiring pastor of the Uncasville M. E. church, tonight (Wednesday) at the Uncasville M. E. church. All friends of the church are privileged to attend.

Mrs. William Forde, who has been a patient at Home Memorial hospital New London, was dismissed over the week end and is at her home in Oakdale.

The heavy rainfall over the week end was greatly needed in this vicinity to soak the woods and brush and eliminate danger of forest fires.

The vacancy at the Uncasville M. E. church caused by the retirement of Rev. Charles Smith has been filled by the appointment of Rev. O. L. Monson who comes to Uncasville from Washington, in the Providence district.

A Rank Injustice

SOMETIMES one hears it said that "any advertising is better than none at all." Just why folks say such a thing isn't entirely clear. It is doubtful if the same people would declare with as much confidence that "any salesman is better than none at all."

Most institutions have discovered at one time or another that some salesmen are worse than none at all. And advertising is nothing more than selling.

From still another source we hear the defense, "We never do any advertising." Yet the man who makes that declaration does use stationery with his name and address and the nature of his business poorly printed on a cheap grade of paper. He doesn't believe in advertising and he saves all he can on his stationery. That stationery advertises him whether he believes in advertising or not. And it is the wrong kind of advertising. It is worse than none at all. It does him a rank injustice, for he conducts a thoroughly legitimate business that ought to be better represented to the folks who receive his letters.

Winroth of the Jewett City Dairy were heard in the interests of the borough milk supply. Argument was presented in favor of Pasteurized milk, or that from tubercular tested herds. No final action was taken by the board. Members of the borough electric light commission were present to offer plans and suggestions relative to improved lighting on Main street. The request that the borough accept Elm street as surveyed was promised favorable consideration at such time as the street shall be nearer completion. Edward Blanchard, with three insurance representatives, was interested in an insurance plan which is to cover the entire personnel of the fire company. An outline of the benefits to be derived was set forth, whereby any fireman receiving injury between the time the alarm is sounded and the roll call after the fire, shall receive such amounts as the policies provide. Future action on this matter may be considered favorably.

POETRY

The Law

'Tis a truth as old as the soul of things—
Whatever ye sow, ye reap.
'Tis the cosmic law that forever springs
From the unimagined deep.
'Tis shown in the manifold sorrowings
Of the race; in remorse with its secret stings;
That he who grief to his brother brings
In his turn some day shall weep.
To the man who hears his victim's cries
And hardens his heart at the sound,
At last a Nemesis dread shall rise
From out of the void profound.
Who sows in selfishness, greed and hate
Shall gain his deserts in the years that wait,
For the slow and remorseless wheel of Fate
Forever turns 'round and 'round.

If ye give out of mercy and love and light,
The same shall return to you;
For the standards of right are infinite
And the scales of the gods are true.
By its good or evil each life is weighed;
In motive and deeds is its record made;
In the coin ye pay ye shall be repaid
When your wages at last fall due.

—J. A. Edgerton, in Denver News.

Song

Only a little while since first we met,
And soon the sea, with many a weary mile,
Shall sever us forever, Sweet—and yet,
Will it be very easy to forget?
Only a little while!

Only a little while that I may claim
The whole soul's breath of you without denial,
And see your eyes grow golden with a flame
That is not Love, yet hath no other names,
Only a little while!

Only a little while to use my art
So that some day you may look back and smile
Out of a joy wherein I have no part
On that old self of yours that filled my heart
Only a little while!

—Brian Hooker.

"How's Abel Saas getting on with that school teacher he's calling on now?"

"Well, every time he goes to see her she keeps him an hour longer for being naughty."—Exchange.

"Say, how do you account for a fellow right here in California shooting himself?"

"Why, that's an easy one! Some fellow from Florida jealous of our climate, of course."—New Bedford Standard.

"Yes, sir," panted the new shepherd, "I got all the sheep in, but I had to run some to get those lambs."

A fire alarm box in Brooklyn is becoming a problem to the fire and police forces. Not only have sixty false calls been sent in from it, but a few days ago a man tried to mail his income tax report there. Then William Kehoe, five, looked it over carefully, all the while clutching a cent in his grubby fist. Little Bill had once been in a penny arcade and the lever on the box awakened recollections. "I wanna see a movie," he muttered. He stuck his coin through a crack in the alarm box and pulled the lever. In less than no time there was plenty of movement.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Today, tomorrow and Friday, patrons of the Palace will have an opportunity to see two of the finest pictures which have ever been shown at this theatre on the double-feature bill which includes, "Free and Easy", starring Buster Keaton and a fine supporting cast, and "The Locked Door," which features Rod La Rocque, Barbara Sanwyck, William Boyd and Betty Bronson.

Assisting Buster Keaton, who sings on the screen for the first time in his career are: Anita Page, Trixie Friganza, Robert Montgomery, Fred Niblo, Lionel Barrymore, William Haines, William Collier, Sr., Dorothy Sebastian and Karl Dane.

The plot of "Free and Easy" is a rollicking satire on studio life in Hollywood. Cast as Elmer, a garage man, Keaton is in charge of Miss Gopher City of Kansas, (Anita Page) chosen by the chamber of commerce, on her trip to Hollywood where she is to become a star, thus putting Gopher City on the map. They are accompanied by her Ma and on route they meet a screen hero who is returning from the east. Having been attracted to Elvira he promises to help them and does get the girl a job as an extra. Their trip to the land of motion pictures and their experiences there result in one of the most hilarious films in which Keaton has ever played. How everyone, except Elvira, is successful and the reasons for her failure, combined with the fine comedy roles of the other stars is the delightful comedy of this picture.

More sober in theme and more dramatic in action, however, is "The Locked Door." This plot is woven around the schemes of Frank Devereaux, son of a millionaire who entices his father's secretary to a floating cabaret and there threatens to ruin her. A raid on the ship thwarts his plan, but a flashlight picture is taken and by procuring this he continues to molest her after she is happily married, by directing his attentions to her sister-in-law of whom she is very fond. Ann, in an attempt to save the girl, goes to his hotel where her husband follows her and while locked in another room witnesses one of the most tragic scenes of her life.

This picture is notable for its fine acting and tense moments. The combination of the excellent comedy of "Free and Easy" and the drama of "The Locked Door" will be sure to please the most exacting theatregoer.

MAJORITY OF ACTIVE SHARES CLOSED 1 TO 5 POINTS LOWER IN ACTIVE MARKET

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—The stock market leaned rather decidedly toward reaction today. Professional operators for the advance managed to regain control of the price movement for a time around mid-day, but were soon discouraged by the steady influx of selling orders. The market sold off rapidly in the last hour, but rebounded here and there as shorts covered in the final few minutes of trading. The majority of the more active shares ended the session 1 to 5 points lower.

Total sales aggregated 4,689,410 shares, one of the smallest turnovers for a full session in nearly two weeks of heavy trading. The price index of 90 representative stocks lost about 1 1-2 points.

The day's business news was for the most part not particularly favorable, but the market appeared to be governed primarily by a growing conviction among traders that a top heavy position had been reached during the violent pool activity of the past several days, and that a technical correction was overdue. News regarding the oils was distinctly favorable, including a further reduction in crude output, and advances in gasoline prices in the eastern states, but profit taking was about as heavy in this group as elsewhere.

Reports from the steel trade were somewhat less cheerful. It was predicted that U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage statement on Thursday will show a substantial decline, and preliminary reports indicated that last week's rate of mill operations is not being maintained.

President Denney, of Erie said that under present business conditions, he could not predict when plans for the inauguration of common dividends will materialize. He indicated, however, that there had been some seasonal pickup in traffic during the last few days.

Radio Keith was again hurled upward in heavy buying, reaching new high ground for 1930 at 44 3-4, up about 4 points, and within 1 1-2 points of its record price reached before the autumn crash. J. P. Case was a spectacular feature, rushing up 17 points to 290. Bulls also made some progress in the motors, General Motors reaching a new 1930 high at 53 1-4, but then losing most of its gain.

American Can, Corn Products, United Carbon, and U. S. Pipe and Foundry were among shares rising 2 points or more to new high ground for the year, but losing some of their gains in the late trading. United Aircraft was bid up 2 points to 99 a top price for the year, but this attracted heavy short selling, and the stock closed at 94 1-4. Stone and Webster rose about 2 points to a new peak for the movement, only to slip back 4 from the top.

U. S. Steel was under considerable pressure, dropping about 4 points, then regaining about half its loss. American Telephone lost about 4 points when the management again denied rumors of a split-up or distribution of its Western Union holdings as a stock dividend. Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, General American Tank, Mexican Seaboard, Radio, Public Service of N. J., Simms Petroleum, Standard of California and Westinghouse Electric were among issues losing about 2 to 5 points.

Credit conditions remained stationary, with call loans again renewing at 4 per cent, then dropping to 3 1-2. The under tone in the money market was a little easier, however, with the passing of the month-end requirements. Foreign exchanges eased a little, sterling cables sagging 1-8 to $4.86 3-8.

Commodities were somewhat reactionary. Wheat lost about 1 1-2 cents on bearish crop reports, and corn nearly as much. Raw sugar and sugar futures were heavy, with some of the active positions reaching new lows for the season. Cotton, however, closed fairly steady.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—Mixed tendencies appeared in the bond trading today. Stock option issues, of course, reversed their upward movement as the share market became heavy, and the general list, although on the whole steady, closed with minus signs in some rather conspicuous places.

There seemed to be some uncertainty as to the trend of money rates. Time funds, unchanged and more liberally offered, have nevertheless been firming, apparently in expectation of increasing flow of money into the stock market and the expected demand for commercial loans which accompanies a revival in business activity. Call money, on the other hand, is easier and after again renewing at four per cent today, the rate was reduced to 3 1-2, with funds available on the outside at 3 per cent.

Some observers believe that stocks are once more offering considerable competition to bonds, and that the latter are already finding less favor with the individual investor.

United States governments eased by minor fractions. Treasury 3 3-4s sold off 1-4 on substantial sales and the same loss was suffered by the Treasury 4s.

The investment rails were relatively firm, but several weak spots developed. Santa Fe General 4s, New York Central 3 1-2s, and Union Pacific refunding 4s yielded at least a point and numerous others averaged a quarter point lower. However, Baltimore and Ohio refunding 6s, Canadian Pacific debenture 4s, Rock Island 4s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania Gold 5s, Southern Railway general 4s, and 6 1-2s, and Wabash 4 1-2s, held firm. Erie 5s sagged 3-4 on the offering of the new issue, which was oversubscribed.

Industrials and utilities made a little progress. Prominent in the day's business were Detroit Edison 6s, Liggett and Myers 5s, Wilson 6s, New York Telephone 6s, and American Telephone 5s of 1960, up 1-2 to one point.

Amusement company bonds, with stock features, fluctuated erratically. General Theatres 6s closed 2 1-2 net lower, Loews 6s lost a point and Warner Brothers 6s, finished steady on late support.

American Telephone convertible 4 1-2s dropped 3 1-4 net to 187 3-4. Foreign obligations worked lower. Losses in some of the Latin Americans ran from one to two points, but leading European government loans were steadier.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 8—(AP)—Uncertainties over the government crop report to be issued tomorrow, had much to do with a late setback in wheat prices today. Many holders of wheat future deliveries showed eagerness to realize profits on an early advance. There was also some speculative selling, because of opinions that drought advices had been discounted temporarily, exhausting market possibilities on the up side.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1 1-2c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish, corn closed 1-2 to 1 1-4c down, oats 3-8 to 5-8c off, and provisions unchanged to 20c decline. Export business today in wheat from North America amounted to only 200,000 bushels, mostly Canadian.

Provisions were firmer early with hogs, but eased with grains later.

COTTON

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady, 13 points lower to 5 higher. Spot quiet; middling 16.65.

Treasury Balance.

WASHINGTON, April 8— (AP) — Treasury receipts for April 5 were $5,759,472.72; expenditures $13,539,566.33; balance $348,121,641.69.

The sale of inflammable X-ray films has been prohibited in New York state.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—The curb market turned emphatically heavy late in today's session, after irregular and uncertain price movement during the early hours of trading. Traders were inclined to nervousness and quick to take profits, acting on the theory that the market's technical position had been weakened by the almost uninterrupted advance of recent weeks.

A number of strong spots stood out at the close, however, among which Fox Theatres "A" was conspicuous. Unlike Fox Film and Loews on the big board, this issue did not react after the sharp advance which greeted announcement of settlement of the refinanced controversy, but continued to forge ahead, closing at 14 1-2 up 3 1-2. Castle company, Driver Harris and Polymet Manufacturing, also reached new high ground.

Although crude oil production decreased again last week, and gasoline price advances were announced in the eastern states today, the oil shares generally sagged under profit taking. Gulf lost nearly 4 points and Humble more than 2. Cities Service sagged a point. Cosden, however, was firm.

Utility and Natural Gas stocks were also under pressure. Electric Bond and Share and the United Gas issues lost about 1 point each, and Niagara Hudson, a recent strong feature, slipped back more than a point. American and Foreign Power warrants lost more than 2 points. American Gas, however, closed up a point.

Aluminum company dropped 10 points, Perfection Stove nine, and Anglo Chilean Nitrate, Fokker Aircraft, Libbey McNeil and Western Air Express closed off about 2 to 4 points.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(AP)— W. L. Ross, president of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis (Nickel Plate) railroad, reported today that business in the company's territory seems to be getting better, and that he looks for an improvement to be shown in the second quarter.

The Thatcher Mfg. Co., of Elmira, N. Y., has formed the Thatcher Securities Corp., to act as a financing medium for the former company in connection with expansion plans which may subsequently be developed. Stock in the new company will be distributed without charge to holders of Thatcher Manufacturing stock share for share. An additional 131,836 shares of Thatcher securities, out of an authorized issue of 500,000 shares, will be offered Thatcher Manufacturing stockholders at $4 a share in the ratio of one share for each held.

Hat Fashions Changed

The meeting of the Farm Bureau group of Old Mystic, which was to have been held Thursday of this week, has been postponed until next month. It had been expected that felt hats would be made at this meeting, but since attending the Fashion and Fabric show held in Norwich, recently, where it was learned that only straw hats were to be worn this spring, it was decided not to make felt hats until perhaps a later date. The leader for this type of work says that it is very hard to successfully make a straw hat. There is to be a dressmaking class for the Mystic group, Mrs. W. L. Main leader, Friday, April 11. Any one interested is privileged to attend, bringing a pattern and dress material, also some article of food for the lunch at noon. April 24, there will also be a dressmaking class with the Cider Hill Farm Bureau group, held with Mrs. Harry Morgan of Ledyard. The Old Mystic group is planning to attend this meeting. This will also be an all-day affair, and the same rules of the Mystic meeting are in effect at this meeting.

Harvey post, American Legion, in Stonington, during last week and Monday evening. Their opponents were also Mystic players, Roscoe K. Burrows and William McGregor. NEW LONDON MOTORISTS MUST END PETTING PARTIES AT WATERFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 8.—Prosecutor Leon Belsheim made it known today that the practice of auto drivers in staging petting parties in that section of Waterford known as Ridgewood park, must end. It has become a practice of drivers to park for such parties almost nightly and because of the numerous complaints received by the Waterford authorities and the state police, arrests will be made if the "neckers" continue to pursue their pastime there in automobiles.

The heavy rainfall of Sunday night and late yesterday caused an accumulation of refuse to be lodged in gutters and at catch basins throughout the city. Monday and today laborers were engaged removing the refuse, besides clearing the basins of large quantities of mud and refuse that had collected during the winter months.

NEW YORK POLICE CAPTAIN THANKS LOCAL DEPARTMENT

Capt. John Redden, 18th precinct, New York police department, was recently promoted to deputy inspector, Seventh division. When the promotion was announced this week, Lieut. James C. Sullivan of the New London department tendered congratulations, on behalf of the local officers, to Capt. Redden and today the latter communicated with the New London officer, expressing appreciation of the New London department's good wishes for his success in new office. Capt. Redden was in charge of 60 patrolmen, who accompanied the body of Patrolman John Duffy to New London several months ago. Duffy was slain by a murderer's bullet and the body was buried in St. Mary's cemetery here.

But a solitary case of intoxication is on the blotter at police headquarters tonight. The fellow came to headquarters seeking lodging and as he was intoxicated, he was provided with a cell instead of a bunk in the tramp room. However, the tramp room was well occupied because of the low temperature.

The New London police tonight maintained a lookout for a Dodge sedan, stolen in New Britain earlier in the day. The car carries Connecticut registration 101889.

TWO SISTERS ARRESTED AT REQUEST OF A THIRD

Two young girls, sisters, one of them married, were arrested last night at the request of another sister because it was feared that the former were in danger of falling into ways of vice. The girls absented themselves from their home Sunday night and went motorcycling. While in Groton a heavy rain storm came up and the girls said they spent the night in a shack, which statement was found to be true. When they returned to New London Monday the other sister sought and obtained their arrest. The girls were later delivered into the custody of their parents.

In the Waterford town court yesterday, William Bishop, of this city, and Thomas J. Baglis, Bridgeport, were charged with reckless driving. Both drivers were fined $25 and costs, but in the case of Bishop the court ordered the fine remitted. Dwight Perkins, Waterford, and Louis Nelson, Stamford, were fined $1 and costs each, on a charge of driving without a license.

TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the recently formed Taxpayers' league, held yesterday afternoon, was attended by a large number of property owners. The meeting was an informal one and resulted in the election of Samuel M Prentis, temporary chairman, and Robert C. Tate, temporary secretary. Another meeting for the purpose of organization will be held within a few days. The purpose of the league is to endeavor to obtain a more equitable assessment of the valuation of real estate. Since the recent reassessment of property throughout the city, which resulted in pratcically all realty being valued at twice or triple the previous assessment, there has been a general howl over the action of the assessors and because of the big increases made, the league was formed. The league has a membership of some of the largest owners of real estate in the city.

Leonard W. Dart has completely recovered from illness which caused his confinement for a fortnight to his residence on Berkley avenue.

BROTHERS TOO ARDENT IN INJURED BROTHER'S CASE

Philip and Louis Richmann, aged 19 and 24, respectively, of 177 North Bank street, were in the police court today, charged with breach of the peace. Their cases were continued to May 3 and they furnished a surety on their bonds for their court appearance on that date. The brothers went to the Crown theatre, where another brother, Morris, 27, is employed as a handy man, he having been injured by being struck by a Yellow Cab. The brothers indicated that they would attempt to obtain money from the manager, F. L. Lawrence, because of Morris being injured. Manager Lawrence made complaint to the police and Philip and Louis were arrested by Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and William Manice. Prior to going to the theatre, the brothers went to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where the injured brother had been taken and there conducted themselves in a disturbing manner, but because of the presence of officers there, the troublesome pair was ejected. Morris Richmann, who was knocked down by an automobile on State street, is suffering from injuries no more serious than a lacerated face and a bruised head. A scalp wound exists, but an x-ray revealed that the brain has not been injured.

Prentice Alexander, of Quaker Hill, Waterford, was charged with refusing to obey a traffic officer's signal and was fined $5 and costs.

Bride Goes Free

Since then she has been at the home of her parents in Hartford.

MRS. E. M. KESSLER MATRON OF DETENTION ROOM

Another city office has been created by City Manager William A. Holt for that official has appointed Mrs. Emily M. Kessler police matron of the detention room, the appointment to become effective at once. The office was created for the purpose of providing women and young girls with detention quarters other than police headquarters. Heretofore, when women were arrested they invariably were locked up at police headquarters the same as other prisoners, but in extreme cases they were taken to the Kessler home and detained until such time as their cases were disposed of in the police court. In the case of young girls they were always turned over to Mrs. Kessler for safeguarding or else detained at the Salvation Army. New London is one of the few cities in the state that maintains a police woman or a matron of police detention room, for in the other cities female prisoners are treated the same as male prisoners, as is the case in jails.

PERFORMANCE THAT ONLY YEARS CAN ACHIEVE

The experience gained in six straight years of building Straight-Eights makes the 1930 Hupmobiles the great Straight-Eights of the year

Time has no substitutes. It enriches the minds of men as no other force can do, and a motor car is only the minds of men—in metal. Hupmobile engineers six years ago pioneered in the manufacture of Straight-Eights. Time and experience alone could build these cars. Time did—superlatively. So take just a little of your time to examine the greatest Straight-Eights that time . . . and Hupmobile . . . have built.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

A real drama of real life, best describes the overwhelming screen production of "Sarah and Son,' Ruth Chatterton's latest starring vehicle, which opens at the Broadway today. Surpassing by far even Miss Chatterton's immortal portrayal of "Madame X," the frivolous gayety and stern drama of "The Laughing Lady," and the tense situations of "The Doctor's Secret," all of which contributed to her fame, the clever Ruth, who has risen to stardom in one short year in the "talkies," rises to undreamed heights of dramatic success in "Sarah and Son." The story is simple and because of its very simplicity, overpowering in its sweep and appeal. Sarah is a lowly young woman who marries a worthless scoundrel.

RUTH CHATTERTON in the Paramount Picture "Sarah and Son"

Beaten down by his laziness, she chides him one day and in revenge for the scolding, he kidnaps her baby boy, and turns him over "for a price" to a wealthy but childless couple. Striving against this latest blow, Sarah squares her shoulders and by sheer will, lifts herself out of the ruck to a fair meed of success. Through an accident she hears of the whereabouts of her beloved son. Meeting a young lawyer who agrees to aid her, she continues the search, and the manner in which, through love, the hapless woman finds her supreme happiness in the restoration of her youngster, and the winning of a decent man's love, makes for the most tensely thrilling story that has been screened in many a moon. Timothy Shea wrote the novel, which was adapted for the screen by Zoe Akins and directed by Dorothy Arzner, the entire group having a fine understanding of the heart of a woman. Frederic March is the lawyer, Fuller Mellish, Jr., the dissolute husband, and Phillippe de Lacey the son. Women—yes, and men, alike—will enthuse over this presentation of a story so real as to be startling. The surrounding bill is equally meritorious, with Charlie Chase in his latest comedy, "All Teed Up"; Anna Chance and Charles Grapewin in "That Red Headed Hussy"; a musical novelty from Heatherland, "A Wee Bit o' Scotch"; a Paramount song novelty, "Rings on My Fingers," and the latest Paramount Sound News.

Breed Theatre

"The Mysterious Island," which comes to the Breed theatre tomorrow, marks the motion picture's most unique departure from conventional custom. When one refers to this all-color, dialogue and sound fantasy, as comparable to no other photoplay, the statement is merited. Not even the fantastic "Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," or the prehistoric animals of "The Lost World," may be compared to the originality of "The Mysterious Island," which in addition to its many thrilling and elightening under-water sequences, presents a fantastic race of submarine people and submarine encounters between ships and men never presented on the screen before. Lloyd Hughes, Jane Daly, Lionel Barrymore, Montagu Love, Dolores Brinkman, Edward Connelly, Harry Gribbon and Snitz Edwards are the principal players of this extraordinary drama.

Dodge Bros. Exhibit

An unusual and interesting exhibit in the form of a cut-away chassis of the Dodge Brothers' six cylinder car at the salesrooms of the Jordan Auto company at 410 Main street is attracting considerable attention and favorable comment. A duplicate of the one on exhibition at the New York Automobile show, the chassis in question affords one a clear conception of the internal operation of the engine, clutch, transmission and differential. In reality, practically every operating part is in clear view due to the clever manner in which the chassis is cut away.

According to the Jordan Auto Co. the chassis will be on exhibition for the entire week and anyone interested in viewing it is cordially invited to visit the salesrooms. This exhibit is a practical novelty and presents the would-be Dodge owner with an excellent opportunity to inspect what he is to buy.

Property owners welcomed the Sunday and Monday showers, which wet down the dry grass, and lessened the danger of grass and brush fires. Taftville has had an unusual number of these fires this spring, the most serious being the blaze which destroyed the barn and poultry houses at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Polidor Brodeur on Hunter road. Fire Co., No. 2, has had a busy season, and the members of the department have done excellent work in fighting fires which might have become serious.

The committee which had charge of the recent benefit card party at St. Theresa's hall announced that the sum of $130 was cleared at the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Trudell have taken a house on South Third avenue.

STATE POLICEMAN RETURNS WITHOUT HUBER, WANTED ON CHARGE OF ARSON

William S. Huber of 242 Broad street, wanted by the police on a warrant charging arson, had not been arrested up to Tuesday night, as far as known. At least he had not been presented at local police headquarters up to an early hour this (Wednesday) morning. Huber is wanted on a charge of having been responsible for the midnight fire in January at the plant of the Turner-Stanton Co., 251 Broad street. It is understood that Huber, who was bookkeeper at the Turner-Stanton plant, has lately been in West Haven, in the employ of the Hall Organ Co.

A warrant for the arrest of Huber on the charge of "wilful and unlawful burning of the private property of the estate of Maria T. Turner" was issued Tuesday by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy and given to State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh to make the arrest.

The state policeman left here in the afternoon and was back again at night, but without the prisoner. He declined to have anything to say as to why Huber had not been brought here, or whether he had been arrested.

It was learned Tuesday from authorities familiar with the testimony brought out in investigation of the case that the claim is made that Huber had falsified the income tax report which he made for the Turner-Stanton company, that the books of the company, which were kept by Huber are badly jumbled up and that a number of checks have been drawn to petty cash and that no explanation of how the money has been spent has been arrived at.

The fire occurred two nights before the limit time which a government income tax inspector had given Huber to produce the books. These had been kept in one of the rooms on an upper floor of the mill, inside the safe or on top of the safe, but after the fire they were found on the basement floor where the fire was. One of the books was found under the back seat of Huber's automobile.

The warrant was issued as the result of a lengthy investigation of the Turner-Stanton fire by State Police Commissioner Robert T. Hurley. The factory was badly damaged by the fire with a resulting loss of $30,000. Completing his investigation Commissioner Hurley turned his report over to State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, and a warrant was requested from City Attorney Cassidy.

Commissioner Hurley's report of the investigation of the fire says:

For the past five weeks I have been holding fire marshal hearings in connection with the fire which occurred at the Turner-Stanton Manufacturing Co. plant in Norwich, on the night of Jan. 25, 1930.

During my investigation, I have examined 24 witnesses, some of whom have been called back for a second time. My report is divided into two parts: one is a synopsis, while the other consists of the statement of each witness. Briefly the case consists of the following facts:

(1) William S. Huber has been bookkeeper and in charge of the books of the Turner-Stanton Co. for ten years, the Hall Bros. trusting him in every particular.

(2) The federal authorities made a demand for inspection of the books, in connection with the income tax of 1924. Mr. Huber informed Edward Hall, treasurer, that the books could not be found, and on Huber's word, Mr. Hall made out an affidavit to that effect for the government. The company, at that time, was penalized about $216 for failure to show the books.

(3) On Jan. 22, 1930, the Wednesday before the fire, John Duffy, of the internal revenue department, made a demand upon Mr. Huber for inspection of the books, in connection with the income tax for 1928. Mr. Huber informed him that the books were in the attic and search would have to be made for them, but promised to have them ready for Mr. Duffy on the following Monday.

(4) Mr. Huber states that on the Friday following Mr. Duffy's request he went to the attic and got the books. The two clerks assisting Mr. Huber, in the bookkeeping department, state that they have no recollection of Huber going to the attic at that time for any books, and that, as far as they knew, all the books for 1928 were either in or on the top of the safe.

(5) On Saturday, Jan. 26, the day of the fire, the factory closed at noon, and the fire in the boiler was drawn just before closing time. The engineer Michael Bohan, says there was no fire in the basement nor electric lights burning when he left about 12:30 p. m. Also the superintendent, Alfred Beebe, left the factory at 1:45 p. m., and at that time the factory was closed and locked and no lights burning so far as he knew.

(6) Mr. Huber went back to the factory about 4:00 p. m., according to his own admission and stayed until a little after 5, and worked on the inventory.

(7) About 11:52 p. m., Huber was seen going to the factory by two policemen, Sergt. John Casey and Officer Farrell, both of the Norwich police. At about 11:56 p. m., Mr. Chmielewski, driving by, saw a large amount of smoke coming from the factory. He notified the two policemen and the alarm was rung in about 11:59 p. m.

(8) This places Mr. Huber in the factory at the time the fire started.

(9) After the fire was extinguished and an investigation made, it was found that all the books, with one exception, which were usually either kept in or on the safe, and were there on Saturday noon in their proper places, were in the case room in the basement, where the fire originated, and were in more or less of a charred or burned condition.

(10) The one exception referred to above, that book was later found under the cushion of the seat of Mr. Huber's automobile, which was parked in his garage.

GAVE FORESTRY LECTURE FOR WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

Sponsored by the civics department of the Woman's City club an illustrated lecture on the subject, "State Parks and Forests," was given in an interesting manner by Walter O. Filley, a forester at the Connecticut Agricultural college, New Haven, Tuesday evening in the club rooms at the Wauregan hotel. Numerous stereopticon slides depicting picturesque and historical spots and other scenes in state parks and forests assisted Mr. Filley to explain more clearly the work of the state forest and park commission in reforestation and improvements of forest conditions.

The speaker pointed out to his audience that the commission was not only engaged in establishing state forests and state parks for the preservation of natural beauty and historical sites, but that these places might be used by the populace for hiking, camping, nature study and picnic purposes. Among the striking views that were shown in connection with his talk were a number taken at the Devil's Hopyard, Shantok park and others places in this section. A view of thousands of persons enjoying bathing at Hammonasett beach showed one of the few beaches that are under the control of the commission.

The establishment of statae parks and state forests by the commission was due in part by gifts of persons in some cases, it was brought out by the speaker. The acquisition of land in a number of cases has been prfohibited by reason of political interference, the speaker said, while individuals have alson stood in their way by demanding too high prices for their land. The commssoners ..YtGF- commission is allowed to pal only a certain sum for land, he said.

Following his talk Mr. Filley was asked and answered a number of questions pertaining to the subject matter an dto diseases that are prevalent in white pine and chestnut trees.

The moving picture machine was operated by Louis H. Walden. Arthur L. Peale, a member of the state park and forest commission, was among those present at the round table meetin.

RELIGIOUS BODIES FIGURE IN SENATE LOBBY HEARING

Representative Tinkham Would "Unmask the Indispensable Political Activities" of Methodist Board of Temperance and the Federal Council of Churches — Charges That the Two Organizations Have "Set Aside Entirely" the Principle of Separation of Church and State—Today He Will Give the Committee His Evidence Against the Federal Council of Churches.

WASHINGTON, April 9—(AP)—An appeal to "unmask the indefensible political activities" of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Federal Council of Churches, was made today before the senate lobby committee by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts.

Tinkham charged that the two organizations by political activities have "set aside entirely" the principle of separation of church and state.

"I believe that this committee can render no greater public service," he said, "than to do its part toward a public exposure of the practices of these organizations, in violation of the principle of the separation of church and state, so that their church constituencies, as well as the public at large may be informed and so condemn such practices."

After charging the Methodist board with violating the federal corrupt practices act by failure to report expenditures for political purposes, Tinkham was excused until tomorrow. Then he will give the committee his evidence against the Federal Council of Churches.

Chairman Caraway, of the committee, announced that both organizations would be given an opportunity to reply to Tinkham after he completes his testimony.

Meanwhile, the committee subpoenaed the records of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and summoned Henry H. Curran, president of the association, to appear next Tuesday.

The committee will attempt to ascertain the methods employed by the association in opposing the prohibition law and the amount of money expended. John J. Rascob, chairman of the democratic national committee, has testified he contributed $65,000.

FREED BY MEXICAN BANDITS AFTER PAYMENT OF RANSOM

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 9—(AP)—Exhausted from a month's privation and terror in the hands of Mexican bandits, J. E. Bristow, American oil man, was released by his kidnapers today in the mountains near Ahuacatlan, Nayarit, after payment of ransom by his son, Obie Bristow.

Details of the delivery, reported both in official and private advices, were given tonight in a copyrighted dispatch to the Daily Oklahoman from Merle Blakely, staff writer.

Blakely joined Obie Bristow in Mazatlan two weeks ago and was in the party of three Americans who carried the ransom money to the mountain village of Ahuacatlan, where final arrangements for the elder Bristow's release were effected.

The long weeks of anxious waiting were climaxed by the meeting between father and son, who had hurried to Mexico when news of the capture became known.

The exact amount of the ransom has not been made public, but was believed to be either $1,300 or $15,000.

HOG ISLAND TO BE GREAT AIR-MARINE-RAIL TERMINAL

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—(AP)—Hog Island, the greatest shipyard in the world in time of war, is planned to become one of the greatest air-marine-rail terminals in the United States in time of peace.

After much dickering between Philadelphia and Washington, the federal government, through the U. S. shipping board, has agreed to sell the World war shipyard site to the municipality for $3,000,000.

Hog Island is to be transformed into a great terminal, according to present plans, where ocean steamships, trans-Atlantic ships of the air and trans-continental trains and airplanes may load and unload passengers and cargoes.

The total area involved in the purchase is 946 acres. Of this, 307 acres will be used for the airport, 70 as a seaplane base, and 569 for the marine and rail terminal.

EXPERTS WILL DRAFT THE THREE POWER NAVAL PACT

LONDON, April 9—(AP)—Indications are that all constructive progress in the London naval conference ended tonight and the end appears to be a matter of days.

Secretary Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonald and Reijiro Wakatsuki, reached full agreement today on all questions necessary for a five year naval treaty among the United States, Great Britain and Japan, but the Franco-Italian deadlock on parity and security issues continued to resist all efforts towards solution.

Thus it is held likely that the final plenary session will be held early next week—probably Tuesday—and that delegations will prepare to leave soon thereafter.

With that, the three power experts will meet tomorrow to begin the formal drafting of the London treaty.

TWO COUNTS AGAINST FORMER BANKER DROPPED

MIDDLETOWN, April 9.—(AP)—Two of the 14 counts against Clark W. Burnham, resigned executive vice-president of the East Hampton Bank and Trust company, on trial in superior court on charges of embezzlement and falsifying bank records, were dropped today by Assistant State's Attorney Bertrand E. Spencer.

The counts were dropped, Spencer explained, in order to expedite the trial because of the numerous documents which will have to be submitted as evidence in the case. Spencer also suggested that the court convene earlier in the morning to speed up the trial. The usual time, 10 a. m., was set, however, for the opening of tomorrow's session.

SO MANY SPEAKEASIES, SIGNS PLACED ON PRIVATE HOUSES

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—Testimony was given in the supreme court today that there are so many speakeasies in West 53rd street between Fifth and Sixth avenues that owners of private homes in the block have been forced to hang out the sign "This is a private house," in order to insure an undisturbed night's rest.

Detectives employed by Harry K. Thaw, who is seeking to set aside a $25,000 verdict awarded last year to Marcia Estardus, night club hostess who alleged that Thaw beat her, made the statement in court.

While searching for friends of Miss Estardus in the West 53rd street night clubs and speakeasies, they testified, they saw private house signs hanging on several doors in the block.

Huffman circled the airport in his tiny blue and red ship and apparently intended to land on the field's concrete apron, but photographers who rushed out to meet him got in his way and he was forced to land in the center of the field.

He left Cincinnati at 7 o'clock this morning and was an hour later in arriving here than he had anticipated. The glider, propelled by a 30 horsepower two-cylinder engine, carried 28 gallons of gasoline.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—A jury was deliberating tonight over the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Adelaide Lean, 57-year-old grandmother, against Charles H. Harman, 67, retired millionaire.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill instructed the jury to seal any verdict it might find and present it when court opens tomorrow. The case went to the jury this afternoon.

Miss Lean, divorced wife of Charles Kaufman, Detroit banker, charges that Harman failed to keep his promise to marry her after a courtship that lasted five years.

The two met in 1922 in old Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Harman denied he ever proposed to her.

ORGANIZATION ENJOINED FROM USING WORD "OWLS"

HARTFORD, April 9.—(AP)—Ferdinand D'Esopo, of this city, supreme president of the fraternal Order of Owls and a member of the order for 23 years, received word today at Owl international headquarters, 31 Wethersfield avenue, that the Improved Order of Owls of Pennsylvania, Inc., are enjoined from using the name Owls. This order is the result of a decision handed down by Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick on Monday.

Every state in the union has branches as well as Canada, Hawaii, New Zealand, Alaska, Mexico, Cuba and Japan. In March, 1928, a few expelled members banded together in Philadelphia, their chief spokesman being Joseph Lyons. They organized under the name Improved Order of Owls. Several branches of the order in Philadelphia remained loyal to the parent body.

The Improved Order of Owls were endeavoring to cause loyal branches to secede from the Order of Owls and join the Improved Order, with the idea of placing themselves in office as supreme officers of the new organization.

Suit was immediately instituted to restrain them from using the name Owls, Owldom, Order of Owls, OOO, the Owl ritual, Owl regalia, printed matter, cuts, literature, as well as the paraphernalia.

DECISION AGAINST THE AETNA LIFE INSURANCE CO.

HARTFORD, April 9—(AP)—The first skirmish in the legal battle started by the Aetna Life Insurance company to recover $376,340.36 paid as taxes for 1923 and 1924, to the federal government, ended with a victory for the government, according to a memorandum of decision handed down by Judge Warren B. Burrows in the United States district court.

Judge Burrows, in his decision upholds the demurrer entered by the office of United States District Attorney John Buckley, in behalf of the collector of internal revenue, alleging that the district court had no jurisdiction in the case.

The taxes, assessed against federal, state and municipal bonds by the insurance company, were paid by the Aetna Life Insurance company, following an agreement reached in 1927 between the company and the commissioner of internal revenue and the secretary of the treasury. The agreement apparently ended a period of disagreement during which the Aetna protested against the amount of the tax demanded.

May Day Proclaimed As Child Health Day

Hoover Calls For All [illegible] Science Can Give [illegible] For Our Children

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—May day was proclaimed as Child Health day by President Hoover tonight, with the reminder that "We shall fall short of our highest aspirations if we fail to practice all that science can give in service of our fundamental asset—our children."

"The president called upon all people and all agencies interested in boys and girls to assist every reasonable effort of their communities to make this a day for organizing and coordinating interest in child health."

The text of the proclamation follows:

By the President of the United States of America. A Proclamation.

Whereas, the congress by joint resolution has authorized and requested the president of the United States of America to proclaim annually that May day is Child Health day; and

Whereas, all the states of the Union, together with Alaska and Porto Rico, through their health officers, medical societies, and other agencies of good will, with the support of their respective governors, are now actively supporting organized child health programs; and

Whereas, the White House Conference for Child Health and Protection, composed of groups distinguished in all the vital phases of child life, is mobilizing knowledge in practical application for submission to the country at large; and

Whereas, while applied science and invention have given us world leadership in mechanical processes, we shall fall short of our highest aspirations if we fail to practice all that science can give in service of our fundamental asset—our children; now,

Therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate May First of this year as Child Health day, and I do invite all our people and all our agencies interested in boys and girls to assist every reasonable effort of their communities to make this a day for organization and coordinating interest in child health.

Our children have the right to be born in health, to be well throughout babyhood and the pre-school years; to be surrounded with moral and spiritual inspiration; to work and to play through primary school with well minds based on well bodies; to enjoy and to profit to the utmost by their higher schooling because of wholesome habits of thought and deed; thence to graduate into adult life, strong in body and inculcated with the sense of fair play and of responsibility for the rights of others.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be fixed.

Done at the city of Washington this thirty-first day of March, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and (seal) thirty, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fifty-fourth.

HERBERT HOOVER.

By the President:
J. P. Cotton,
Acting Secretary of State.

AMERICAN CLERGYMAN IN TROUBLE IN GLASGOW

GLASGOW, April 9.—(AP)—The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, of the Protestant Episcopal church in America and late resident of Detroit, was before the sheriff's court here today on four charges of contravening the regulations for travel by aliens. He denied them all and was held in bail for trial April 23.

Mr. Richmond, who is a native of Springfield, Mass., was accused of changing his address without notifying authorities and of failing to show his identity certificate when requested to do so.

In denying the charges the clergymen said that he was an American citizen visiting Great Britain on the invitation of the Archbishop of York who had asked him to preach in the jurisdiction of the archsee.

Rev. George Chalmers Richmond attracted much attention a dozen years ago when he renounced Episcopal orders and became an independent minister of Calvary church in New York city. Later he was minister of the Central church, St. Louis, in 1920-21 and of the Community church, Los Angeles, in 1922-24.

CONNIE LEWIS DECIDES TO FIGHT EXTRADITION

BRIDGEPORT, April 9—(AP) The Bridgeport Post, in an interview with Clifford J. (Connie) Lewis, for whom extradition papers have been issued to return him from New Rochelle, N. Y., to stand trial in lottery ticket charges, says: "I am going to fight extradition every foot of the way. I am not a felon. Even if I were guilty and I am not I would not be a felon. Gambling is a misdemeanor, not a felony. It is Connie Lewis this. It is Connie Lewis that. If a 92nd cousin of mine gets into a jam over a lottery it must be Connie Lewis. Nobody else will do but Connie Lewis."

Lewis said he had half a million dollars worth of property in Bridgeport which needs to be looked over.

Lewis lives in a stucco house close by New Rochelle's high school. He called Lieut. Carroll, of the Westport barracks Sunday night and the latter took steps to have Lewis arrested. This was done and Lewis was in a cell that night until he obtained bail.

PADLOCK SUIT AGAINST CORNISH ARMS HOTEL, N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—Suits to padlock the entire Cornish Arms hotel or "such parts thereof as the court may determine," and to padlock the grill and 16 guest rooms of the Hotel Manger, were begun in federal court today by Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney. The suits are the outgrowth of recent raids staged on the two hotels by federal prohibition agents.

The raid on the Hotel Manger was staged in February by dry agents under the direction of Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell. Thirteen arrests were made.

The agents had stayed at the hotel several days as guests and charged that bellboys had acted as intermediaries for bootleggers and often delivered liquor themselves. Six bellboys, five waiters and two alleged bootleggers were those arrested.

Heflin Hurls Defiance At Raskob And His Ilk

Says He Will Whip Them In a Democratic Primary Or Out of It In Alabama.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—A demand that John J. Raskob resign as chairman of the democratic national committee was made in the senate today by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama.

The Alabaman said five democratic senators who would not say Raskob should relinquish his office could not be found.

Heflin added that not more than 15 democrats in the house, outside of what he termed "the Tammany group," could be found who would not favor Raskob's resignation.

Saying the "Roman Catholic-Tammany-Raskob regime" had been working against his candidacy for renomination for the senate from Alabama, Heflin shouted:

"I'll defy them. I'll whip them in my state, either in a democratic primary or out of it."

Heflin has been barred from the democratic primary because he refused to support Alfred E. Smith for president in 1928.

ILLINOIS TO HAVE WET AND DRY SENATORIAL CONTEST

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)— Ruth Hanna McCormick swept to the head of the republican party in Illinois by an avalanche of ballots in yesterday's primary election, dropped the campaigner's role today to return to Washington and her duties in congress. Belated returns maintained here indicated plurality of 200,000 over Senator Charles S. Deneen, who ousted her husband from the senate six years ago.

A total of 6184 precincts out of 7117 in Illinois gave Mrs. McCormick 613,200 and Deneen 426,073.

Mrs. McCormick departed with no word as to the causes she will expound when she again takes her post on the political battle field next November to contest with James Hamilton Lewis, the democratic nominee, for election to the United States senate. She cannot use opposition to the world court in that contest as Lewis also is opposed to it.

Lewis, already has sounded his cry for the battle—"personal liberty vs. prohibition."

Mrs. McCormick is dry, "both personally and politically," she told the Anti-Saloon league during her campaign for the nomination.

BROKER TESTIFIES IN AMSTER EXTORTION CASE

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Louis Whicher, a grey haired broker, today testified in general sessions court that against his advice, Nathan L. Amster paid to Olga Elbe Edwards, on trial for extortion, large sums of money during the last four years of their association.

Whicher, described on the stand by Amster earlier in the day as his "buffer," said that from 1926 to the time of Miss Edwards' arrest on Amster's complaint last fall he paid the money which Amster gave her and he identified several checks submitted in evidence by the state.

He also testified that in December, 1926, he hired a private detective to trail Miss Edwards because Amster was afraid she was going to shoot him.

Several times in his apartment and in Amster's office in his presence, Whicher said, Miss Edwards charged that Amster was the father of her son, Lee, now six years old.

Last August, he said, Miss Edwards appeared at Amster's office and demanded $5,000 in cash and a monthly income of $1,000, declaring she could not get along on $500 a month, the income of a $100,000 trust fund which Amster says he established under fear that she would annoy his wife and family, to care for her and the child.

Against his advice, Whicher said, Amster paid her $900 that day and more than $500 the following day.

PHYSICIAN KILLED NURSE, THEN TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Apparently despondent over his failure to build up a lucrative practice, Maxwell Adlerberg, 30-year-old medical school graduate, is believed to have shot his youthful nurse-secretary today and then turned the pistol upon himself.

The bodies of Adlerberg, who practiced under the name of Dr. Maxwell Beverley Allen, and the nurse, identified as Miss Florence La Pelle, 20, were found in the physician's office-apartment in fashionable Sutton place when an operator reported she received no answer to his telephone signal light.

Miss La Pelle had been shot three times through the throat and Dr. Adlerberg had a bullet wound in his right temple. The telephone stand had been overturned.

The physician's body was identified by Dr. Gustave Adlerberg of Brooklyn, a brother, but late today no one had called to identify or claim Miss La Pelle's body. It is believed she came here two years ago from Malone, N. Y.

Robinson, Jr., of Hartford, who has held the temporary chairmanship of the state organization since its formation about one month ago, was elected chairman, while the other officers chosen included: Vice chairman, Mrs. Hiram P. Maxim of Hartford; secretary, Mrs. Stuart Clement of New Haven; treasurer, Mrs. Wilmarth Lewis of Farmington.

PERSONS PHONING MAY SEE EACH OTHER AS THEY TALK

Practical Demonstration of Two-Way Television Conducted By the A. T. & T. Co—Users of the Device, Two and One-Half Miles Apart, Looked Each Other Directly In the Eye As They Conversed.

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—The curtain veiling the telephone of the future was jerked aside for a moment today in the first practical demonstration of two-way television by the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Seated comfortably in an armchair in tiny rooms that bore little resemblance to the ordinary telephone booths, users of the device, described on a tiny sign as the "Ikonophone," looked each other directly in the eye as they conversed, two and one-half miles apart.

It was a demonstration of the progress the Bell Telephone laboratories have made in approaching the day when it is hoped to be able to see the person at the other end of the telephone line. It was made possible by a number of improvements in the elaborate apparatus required to transmit and receive clear and easily recognizable pictures by television.

The prospective conversationalist entered an anteroom where sat Miss Ruth Clough of Rutherford, N. M. She was the television operator at one end of the line located in the Bell laboratories, which, through five special wire circuits, was connected to the telephone company's building.

The person conducting one-half of the television conversation saw on a screen level with the eyes an image of the owner of the voice which was coming into the booth. No telephone was visible, for it consisted of a microphone and a loud-speaker hidden behind the screen which concealed the television apparatus. One just talked, looked, listened and acted naturally.

At the other end of the line during this particular discussion of things not important enough to record, was Allen Smith, New York newspaperman. The speakers congratulated themselves for participating in what they told each other was the first introduction by television of persons who had never met.

The picture as received was sharp and clear, with only an occasional slight flicker. The booth was bathed with orange colored light, and the scanning beam, which picked up a copy of the features of the speaker, was a blue ray not bothersome to the eyes as was the strong light of earlier television systems.

The television apparatus is basically the same as that employed by the telephone company in its demonstration in 1927. However, the results obtained were much better due to improved Neon tubes for the receiver and more sensitive photoelectric cells for the transmitter. The other equipment also has undergone considerable improvement.

The picture transmitted had 5,000 elements, or 72 lines. Two frequency bands, each 40,000 cycles wide, compared with 10,000 cycles as used in radio broadcasting were required for the television channels. The wire space needed was equivalent to that for 80 telephone conversations.

This advance in television is due to the efforts of the same group in the laboratories who were responsible for the earlier achievements. The work is under the direction of Dr. Herbert E. Ives, with important contributions by Dr. Frank Gray, J. M. Stoller, A. W. Horton and M. W. Baldwin.

The received picture was about as large as a cabinet sized photograph, and in detail compared favorably with the moving picture.

STRIKE OF STUDENTS AT LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

HARROGATE, Tenn., April 9.— (AP)—Lincoln Memorial university, mountain boys and girls school financed by some of the nation's prominent business and other leaders, was confronted today by a strike of students who demanded reinstatement of four professors and reorganization of the university administration.

President H. U. Roop, now in a Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium, resigned at a meeting of the trustees Sunday in Washington, D. C.

Judge J. H. S. Morrison, vice president of the trustees board, said that "very small proportion" of the approximately 400 students participated in the strike and that none of the demands would be met "because there is no real reason for them." He said classes continued.

The president of the student body, Clay McCarrolll, Knoxville, said nearly all the students participated.

6 PER CENT BEER BILL KILLED IN N. Y. SENATE

ALBANY, N. Y., April 9.—(AP)— The New York state senate today rejected a motion to discharge from committee the Post-Sheridan bill calling for manufacture and sale of 6 per cent beer and 15 per cent wine by the state, the sale to be made under a permit system. The vote was on strict party lines, 27 republicans opposing and 22 democrats approving.

The bill is predicated on the theory that the 18th amendment and the Volstead act do not specifically prohibit states from manufacture and sale of beer or wine, inasmuch as the statutes place the prohibition only on "natural persons."

In a prolonged debate, proponents of the measure cited United States supreme court decisions to prove that the state could not legally be considered a "natural person" and therefore was beyond the pale of the prohibition law.

MOTION FOR PARTICULARS AGAINST HER HUSBAND

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP) — Mrs. Ardath Crane Johnstone, of California, filed a motion for particulars in supreme court today against her husband, Clifford Warren Smith of New York, asking him to explain why he believes her Maine divorce from him is not good, and whether, since he has remarried, he claims to be a bigamist.

The motion is an upshoot of her attempt to cause him to continue to pay $750 a month for the support of their daughter, Ardath.

They were divorced in Maine on October, 1926, she said, and the custody of the child given her, after he had signed an agreement to pay for the daughter's support. She said they lived in Maine prior to the decree and that he owns property in Kennebunkport, and other places in that state.

She said he wished to stop the payments, and that he alleged that the Maine decree was illegal.

TO RE-ENACT FIRST COVERED WAGON TRAIN TO OREGON

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—(AP)—Creaking wheels of ten covered wagons were oiled today and leather jackets, squirrel caps and other articles reminiscent of pioneer days were borrowed from historical societies and relic collectors for the re-encatment tomorrow of the departure of the first wagon train over the Oregon trail.

When 81 hardy frontiersmen left the Mississippi bank at St. Louis for the unexplored west April 10, one hundred years ago they blazed a trail the fame of which never has faded. Tomorrow the start of that first trek will be relived and a reproduction of the first expedition will set out from near the river front and rumble eastward.

As the cavalcade assembles at the old St. Louis court house at 2:30 p. m. ready to start over the trail, a pageant will reproduce the scene of 100 years ago. Half a hundred persons, most of them women dressed in costume, will bid members of the party good-bye. Cattle and an ox will add to the picture.

TEMPORARY INJUNCTION AGAINST STEEL MERGER

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 9.—(AP)—Determined that there will be no billion dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation despite reports of a merger victory, the opponents today won a temporary injunction to restrain the counting of 51,038 shares of Sheet & Tube stock which are favorable to the merger.

As a result of the decision the fate of the merger was cast in doubt. If the injunction becomes permanent it will seriously diminish the amount that can be voted favorably for the merger. It also may encourage further court action over contested stock.

Sheet & Tube officials, however, claim a victory by a 79,000 majority.

As pledges have been given that the house go on record on these rates before final conference decision is reached, however, they will be deferred, tobacco and agriculture taken up instead.

TAXPAYERS VOTE FOR AUDIT OF TOWN BOOKS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, April 9—At a special town meeting that was not without its fireworks over 500 taxpayers voted tonight to cause an audit of the town's books at a cost not to exceed $10,000. The meeting took no action on the matter of levying an additional tax rate on the 1939 revalued grand list. Attorney William A. Arnold was moderator and the warning containing four clauses, three of which had to do with the audit, was read by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton.

On motion of Dr. George E. Wilcox, president of the Taxpayers Protective association of Windham, a committee of three was named from the floor to select certified public accountants who will do the auditing. The committee named consists of Dr. George E. Wilcox, Attorney William A. Arnold and Henry A. Bugbee.

The clause for the additional tax which was included in the warning by the selectmen in view of the fact that the eight mill tax levied at the annual town meeting is considered insufficient to meet the expenses bore the brunt of discussion tonight. By resolution the three clauses having to do with the audit were taken up and disposed of at first. These clauses were pursuant to a petition for a special town meeting signed by members of the Taxpayers association.

When the additional tax clause was taken up Eugene Dion, treasurer of the Taxpayers association, stated that the clause had no business in the warning and moved for no action. Town Counsel Arthur T. Kelly prepared to read a statement on the financial status of the town this year, but was interrupted by Eugene Randall who rose to a point of order on the grounds that a no-action motion was not debatable. Chairman Arnold pleaded for a reconsideration of the point with the result that Raymond Comins appealed to the ruling of the chair which ruling was overruled by a yea and nay vote. Attorney Kelly was then able to proceed and opened his talk with a review of the tax laws controlling the situation. The figures which he presented showed that while the budget amounted to $402,400, an eight mill tax on the grand list of $23,179,306 would bring in only $185,439.58. Added to this is an outside income of about $100,000, leaving a deficit including the $10,000 appropriation voted tonight of $127,260.02. A twelve mill tax would bring in $378,168.97, leaving a deficit of $24,541.

Further explanation was made by Valentine L. Murphy, judge of probate, who gave credit to the Taxpayers association for creating interest in town affairs and suggested that the organization begin now to stand by its motto of pay as we go. Judge Murphy reviewed the indebtedness of the town, showing the tremendous burden being carried through paying interest on borrowed money.

When put to a vote, however, the motion for no-action prevailed by a wide majority.

Old Sore Tortured For 30 Years

She Is Happy Now

For 30 long, pain-tortured years, Mrs. J. C. Henderson of North Carolina, had an ulcer on her ankle—no matter what treatment she tried or amount of money she spent—nothing helped her distressing condition.

Someone suggested Peterson's Ointment to her—she admits she was doubtful but she was so discouraged with this never-ceasing agony she was willing to try anything.

Before Mrs. Hederson had finished her second box of Peterson's, the ulcer had completely disappeared—she was overjoyed to think that at last she could enjoy living.

Peterson's ointment accomplishes these near miracles because it's so powerfully healing. Even one application instantly relieves the pain and soreness of bruises, piles, boils—a few days treatment entirely banishes pimples, blackheads—even the long standing cases. A 35c box proves it—all drugstores.

When YOU WANT to put your business before the public there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

DANIELSON

STONE HURLED BY PLAYMATE PAINFULLY WOUNDS CHASE BOY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 9.—Ralph Chase, 6, a grandson of A. A. Chase of Oak street, has a quite badly injured eye as the result of being struck by a stone hurled by Harold Brooks, another little boy, while they were at play near the Killingly Center school yesterday afternoon. The affair is regarded as having been purely an accident. This morning it was indicated that the injured boy might require the attention of an eye specialist.

The first fire alarm of the borough's new financial year came in this afternoon at about 2:30 for a blaze that was lapping away at a henhouse near the Anderson and Page properties on Cottage street. It was believed the henhouse became ignited from a grass fire. The building was quite badly damaged before the fire was extinguished.

State officers continue to check from time to time in territory hereabouts for operators' licenses and registrations. Practically six weeks have elapsed since the old licenses expired, yet from time to time the officers find some driver who is operating without having a new license.

It was recalled today that Rene Peloquin, who is making quite a reputation for himself as a boxer, was a Bulletin newsboy. Rene, who is still in his 'teens, solicited the opportunity to establish what is now known as the North Main street route. He built it up and covered it for five years, never missing a customer in the five years he was on the job excepting on one occasion. He still rates as one of the best newsboys The Bulletin has had in Danielson, though Rene doesn't deliver papers nowadays.

Taking of the census in Killingly goes steadily on. The enumerators are having the experiences common to other census-takers throughout the country, and are managing to overcome the little difficulties that develop in covering some cases.

FUNERAL

Leo Comtois

This morning the funeral of Leo Comtois was held from the home with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Anthelme Mollard, M. S., Rev. Francis Baldwin, M. S., and Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S., were the officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. There were many relatives and friends at the service. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Fr. Demers. Bearers were Leo Comtois, Lucien E. Comtois, Lucien T. Comtois, Lucien A. Comtois, Rene Coutu and Ernest Coutu. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

All Holy Week services arranged by the Hi-Y and Tri-Y of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. here are to be held in the Baptist church. A representative of each organization will be in charge each day. All boys and girls attending Killingly high school have been invited to attend. The services, beginning next Monday, are to start at 7:45 a. m. and will be concluded in time to allow all attending to reach school on time. Monday morning, Rev. C. J. Armstrong will be the preacher, Tuesday morning Rev. J. Rees Jones will be heard, on Wednesday the speaker will be Rev. Albert Abbott, while on Thursday Rev. A. E. Gallup will be the minister and on Good Friday, at 10 a. m., Rev. Harding W. Gaylord.

Here are the rules governing the activities of those who go angling on state-leased streams on and after Tuesday next. Licenses are required of persons over 16, including women. Permits for children under 16 years of age may be obtained from county game wardens and brook patrolmen. Anglers must keep within ten feet of the banks of the streams. Where step-overs are provided by the commission they should be used. Cultivated or open lands must not be crossed without permission. Building of fires is not permitted without permission of the fire warden and landowner. Spearing is not permitted in any state-leased stream without permission of the commission. Parking is not allowed in front of bar-ways or on lands inside bar-ways, without the consent of the owner. Use designated entrances and exits for approaching and leaving streams. Posted instructions containing regulations of the commission should be read carefully and observed. Creel limit on Snake Meadow brook 15 trout per day. Creel limit on other streams 20 trout per day.

There were two cases growing out of violations of the motor vehicle laws disposed of in the town court this morning. Cyrille Turcotte of 68 Cote avenue, Woonsocket, was in court charged with operating a truck registered in Massachusetts while having only a Rhode Island operator's license. He pleaded guilty and was fined $1 and actual costs. He was ordered into court by State Officer Royal V. Martin, who was checking cars for licenses when Turcotte drove by.

Theodore S. Bielecki of 51 Huard street, Fall River, was fined $25 and costs by Judge W. Fenner Woodward after the accused pleaded guilty to reckless operation of a motor vehicle. Bielecki was ordered into court by State Officer George Martin for coasting a heavy truck of the Winward Co. down Dark Lantern hill, in the eastern section of this town. Because of the fact that Bielecki's father is in the hospital and the young man is now the sole support of the members of his family, $34 of the fine was remitted.

Alfred Zambrano, newly appointed director of the Killingly High School band, came here from Cranston today and for the first time conducted a rehearsal at the high school. Mr. Zambrano has had wide experience in directing bands and is himself an excellent musician. He will work along the same general lines here as did his predecessor, the first director of the local high school band, giving private instruction to band members if they so desire, as well as directing.

Three teams have expressed a desire to enter the proposed Y. M. C. A. Grammar School Age Baseball league. There is opportunity for one more team to enter before the playing season starts. Teams of interested boys may apply to the Windham County Y. M. C. A., at Danielson. Any boy of grammar school age is eligible to play on these teams.

Monday evening, Killingly grange observed its anniversary. The program, under the leadership of the lecturer, Walter G. Bruce, consisted of talks on the history of Killingly grange by four past masters—Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear, now chaplain of the Connecticut State grange; Frank J. G. Bailey, Harriet Wood and Mr. Bruce. After the meeting dancing was enjoyed.

A feature of the observance of the Lenten season this week at St. James' church is a retreat being conducted for the English-speaking members of the parish. This is one of a series of retreats that have taken place during the later weeks of Lent.

Plans are being worked out to give Danielson a credit bureau. Under the proposed arrangement those who habitually fail to pay their bills will find it exceedingly difficult to obtain credit from the group of business men that have agreed to take the credit service or are considering doing so.

Throughout the town, the selectmen have posted signs dealing with the dog laws. In this connection, it is pointed out that dogs owned in the town of Killingly must be registered by May 1, if their owners would avoid being penalized for failure to pay the tax on time.

PUTNAM

ANOTHER PAYMENT TO BE MADE TO BANK CREDITORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 9—That the creditors of the defunct First National bank of this city will soon be favored with an additional and final dividend was seen today in the quarterly report for the quarter ending March 31, to the comptroller of currency at Washington, D. C., submitted by George M. Coffin, receiver of the no-longer existent financial institution. Mr. Coffin's report outlined that assets in cash, amounting to $81,000 are on hand.

The report of the receiver is indeed gratifying to the people of this section who suffered financial reverses when the bank closed its doors in 1924. The fact that a dividend, which Mr Coffin stated will be the last to be paid, will be distributed among the creditors soon, is seen in the statement of Mr. Coffin that $95,000 was the required amount which provided for the last dividend which was five per cent. The assets of the bank now on hand are but $14,000 short of a sum necessary to make a five per cent settlement.

Creditors have received eighty per cent of the principal of their funds on deposit when the First National bank suspended business nearly six years ago.

In his report to the comptroller, Mr. Coffin stated that he is doing everything in his power to collect the balance of available assets in order that he might pay a final dividend and close his trust.

When interviewed today Mr. Coffin commented on the bright outlook for a final dividend but was unable to make any statement as to when creditors could expect payment, which depends entirely on the collection of assets needed to complete the required sum of $95,000.

Mr. Coffin has been working diligently for the interest of the creditors of the defunct bank. He has been successful in gathering in a large amount of money since the filing of his quarterly report for the quarter ending June 30, 1929, which at that time showed a balance of $33,577.14, with the comptroller.

The construction gang at work on the building of the foundation for the one million gallon steel water standpipe to be erected on Oak hill as a part of the city water system, is making rapid progress on the work. Tons of ledge encountered when the men first began work a week ago have been blasted away and a circular trench several feet deep has been dug. Forms which will be filled with concrete for the base of the tank are now being built.

A section of the new tank, constructed by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works arrived in this city yesterday aboard flat freight cars. The parts of the tank are being uncrated and removed to the city property on Oak hill where the tank is to be erected.

When completed the giant standpipe will repose directly in the rear of the present reservoir, which has a capacity of 450,000 gallons.

PUTNAM TO HAVE ANOTHER SILK COMPANY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 9—It appears that this city will soon be the silk manufacturing center of the state, with the announcement this week that another concern has leased property in the old Manhansett mill on Canal street for the purpose of manufacturing silken products. The new concern is a Pennsylvania organization and its name is being withheld at the request of the officials according to Walter N. King, president of the chamber of commerce, which organization is entirely responsible for the company locating within the limits of Putnam.

Mr. King stated this afternoon that officials of the new company came to Putnam last week and after a conference with officials of the chamber of commerce and an inspection of the plant where they are to locate, selected this city in preference to a Pennsylvania town which they had previously considered. The officials signed a lease to occupy the top floor of the Manhansett mill No. 4 and will begin the installation of machinery to take care of their present needs at once, in order that they might be prepared to begin operations within the next few months. Twenty-one thousand feet of floor space will be occupied for the present ,but the concern plans to expand as soon as business conditions warrant additional floor space.

Mr. King has been informed that the silk company will provide employment for 100 operators at the start, with the chances for a greater employment list as soon as expansion plans get underway. The concern expects that its payroll in this city will approximate $100,-000.

According to information obtained today the company is operating a plant in Pennsylvania where 250 hands are employed.

There is another silk manufacturing plant, that of M. Salzburg and Son, now in operation in the Manhansett mill. It is likewise a new concern, having located here only about six months ago. Other large silk manufacturing concerns with plants in this city are the Edward Bloom company of New London and the Belding Hemingway Silk company of Watertown, which are two of the largest industries in the city.

A talk by Francis Curran, head of the Latin department of Putnam high school, and a Latin dramatic interpretation of the play, "The Dead Sparrow," given by pupils of Mr. Curran's Latin class at the high school, provided a highly interesting programme for the members of the Putnam Rotary club at their weekly luncheon and meeting held at noon today at the Putnam Inn. Mr. Curran chose for his topic, "The use and value of the study of Latin," in which he pointed out that this study develops the intellect, will, memory and imagination, which are the four qualifications for success in business life. The play was presented by Arthur Ross and Miss Beatrice Sochor. Miss Dorothy Johnson gave an introduction of the play, preceding its presentation. Joseph McDonald, a high school Latin student, delivered an interesting essay on Catullus, the heroic character of the "Dead Sparrow."

At the close of their part of the programme, a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Curran and the students who so ably assisted him.

President S. Nickoloff presided at today's session of Rotary and announced plans of a Spring Rotary conference to be held in Holyoke on May first and second. The local club is to be represented at the conference and E. L. Kelley has been appointed chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the pilgrimage.

Among the visitors at luncheon today were P. Lawrence Daly secretary of the Webster Rotary club and editor of the "Webster Times," who extended an invitation to the local club to attend a joint meeting of the Webster, Southbridge and Uxbridge clubs to be held at Webster on May 20th. The invitation was accepted and Secretary E. L. Beebe of the local Rotary organization was named chairman of the "On to Webster" committee.

Other guests present at today's luncheon were A. Putnam Woodward, Henry Dubuc and Henry Johnson of Danielson and Mr. Curran of this city.

Leon M. Farrin, superintendent of schools, announced today that the per cent of attendance in the schools of the town for the month of March was 94.19. The five rooms attaining the highest standing in attendance for the month were: At the Sawyer district school, Miss Mary J. Millard, teacher with 26 pupils, 99.20 per cent; Putnam high school, Miss Jeanette C. Jacques, teacher, with 35 pupils, 98.60; Sawyer district school, Miss Angelina J. O'Flynn, teacher, with 39 pupils, 97.34 per cent; Putnam high school, Miss Irene R. Bernier, teacher, with 28 pupils, 97.70 per cent; Putnam high school, Miss Marjorie McGillicuddy, teacher, with 35 pupils, 97.39 per cent. The total number of pupils enrolled in the public schools for the month of March was 934, Mr. Farrin said.

While press accounts tell of New England being flooded with counterfeit money, bank officials in this city have not detected any of the notes in this city as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Boyce of West Hartford, were Putnam visitors this week. Mr. Boyce was the first treasurer of the Cargill Trust company.

Re-surfacing work is now underway on the athletic field at Putnam high school which has been undergoing repairs during the winter months. The field will not be used by the school baseball club this season, school officials said.

The appeal to the supreme court of errors of the decision of Judge Edward M. Yeomans handed down in the divorce suit of Mrs. Daisey D. Bosworth, formerly of Pomfret, has been dropped, a Putnam attorney figuring in the case said today. Recently Mrs. Bosworth, in a writ filed in superior court in New London county instituted a new suit for divorce from her husband, Burton D. Bosworth of Woodstock, in which she seeks custody of her minor child, Robert Bosworth. She charges intolerable cruelty on the part of her husband. In the petition in superior court in this county last year, which was denied by Judge Yeomans, Mrs. Bosworth alleged that her husband was unfaithful to the marriage vows and was also guilty of intolerable cruelty.

METHODIST PASTOR RETURNS TO BEGIN HIS SEVENTH YEAR

Members of the local Methodist churches, with the townspeople in general, are rejoicing that Rev. J. W. Carter is assigned to the home town pastorates again, entering upon his seventh year here. A recent removal of the time limit, which at one period made the transfer of a Methodist minister mandatory, now permits the return of a pastor to be arranged indefinitely. The present financial status of the local churches, their degree of Christian fellowship, and their important standing in the Southern New England conference, all appear as evidences of the pastor's efficiency.

With the open season on trout only five days away, local anglers are getting ready to try the stream for a brand of trout heretofore known only to Mt. Misery brook, in which waters they were native. This spring the state hatchery at the Mt. Misery game preserve has planted around 9,000 fingerling trout in several brooks in this locality.

Many friends are encouraged to learn that First Selectman Daniel F. Finn is much improved and was able to go out for a short drive Sunday. He will be welcomed on his first trip downtown, which is to be the next pleasant day.

The Missionary society of the Congregational church met at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was conducted by Miss S. K. Adams, the president. Rev. G. F. Goodenough had charge of the opening exercises. The proceeds of two entertainments given by out-of-town people, which have been equally divided, made it possible to vote to pay $50 toward the church missionary apportionment. The Lenten offering envelopes were received at this meeting. An acknowledgment was received from the president of Tougaloo college for the receipt of $25 which provides a library unit for one of the very few libraries in Mississippi accessible to colored youth, which are open every day in the college year under care of a regular librarian. Rev. Lydia Hartig of Ekonk gave a most interesting talk on her home missionary work in the south and west. Mrs. Goodenough and Miss Helen Goodenough served sandwiches, cake, cookies and tea.

Plans For Memorial Day

The American Legion post held its meeting Tuesday evening, which was attended by 17 members. In the absence of the commander, W. H. Payne, Dr. G. H. Jennings presided. Several committees were appointed for Memorial day observance. There was considerable discussion as to the advisability of discontinuing the Sunday Memorial exercises in the borough, the matter finally being laid on the table. It was voted to place one large wreath on the gate of the cemeteries visited by the procession, and to decorate all veterans' graves with flags. Adjutant John Davis was delegated to secure the flags. Dr. Jennings was appointed to secure speakers and to ascertain plans for the dinner. Gilbert Miner was named invitation committee, Alex McNicol committee on automobiles and H. George Wilcox to secure laurel. John W. Blake is chairman of a committee to secure a band. It was voted that uniforms shall not be worn. The post now has 62 members, and is in a thriving condition.

ROSS MOTOR TOURISTS WILL COVER 5,500 MILES

In his last letter from the Hotel Roosevelt, San Francisco, dated March 21, Mr. Ross says:

I think one or two schools have been following our journeying across the country and up the coast. One teacher wrote that she was teaching her pupils geography by these journeys.

We leave this city on the 22nd on board the Panama mail steamship Ecuador, touching at Los Angeles for only a few hours. On the 28th we will be Mazatlan, Mexico. Four days later we make Champico, Guatemala. The next day will be at San Jose De Guatemala. April 3 we reach Acjutla, Salvador. The afternoon of the next day we will be in La Libertad, Salvador. The morning of the sixth at La Union, Salvador. Corinto, Nicaragua on the 7th of April. Two days after we will be in Punta Arenes, Costa Rica.

Very early in the morning we reach Balboa, Canal Zone, leaving the same morning. We pass through the canal by daylight and will be in Cristobal that afternoon. I wish you would draw a straight north and south line through Cristobal extending it to the Canadian border and see how far east Cristobal is situated. Also notice how far south the Panama Canal is south of the Gulf of Mexico.

From Cristobal we sail partly across the Caribbean sea to Cartegena, Colombia. We will be in Cartagena at least one day. Our next stop will be Puerto, Colombia. Here we will have a chance to visti the quaint old town. Four days later we will be in Havana, Cuba. (Address Panama mail, S. S. Ecuador.) I hope we may receive some mail from home at this port. On the 21st of April we reach New York (Brooklyn).

If this interests any of the pupils in the schools I shall be pleased.

COMMUNITY BEAUTIFICATION

At some time or other most every community gets interested in the idea of community beautification. It takes various forms and it accomplishes much good. It goes along with the annual clean-up in which many cities engage at this season of the year and when the two are combined there are invariably results which mean a definite gain for the cities. They look better, they are better and they make a stronger appeal to the daily visitors.

Just at the present time there cannot fail to be interest in the program which Providence is about to launch. It is declared to be more ambitious than has been undertaken in that city for a score of years. The city has had a special committee at work studying the situation concerning its trees and as the result of its report the city council has voted an appropriation of $14,000 for setting out new trees and caring for those which have long been neglected. The idea is to set out something like 1,000 trees to be distributed throughout the city where they can be placed at the best advantage and in some instances trees will be placed on private property if owners dig the holes and prepare the soil. In addition, it is expected that care can be given to a fifth of the 40,000 trees of the city.

The care of trees is getting recognition from cities to a far greater extent as stress is placed upon the time that it takes to replace the old and neglected ones with new ones. The need is to give the trees the care that will keep them in fit condition, and when it is realized that such care in most instances is slight and probably never greater than the cost of removing them, it must be appreciated that it is the thing to do. A city has reason to take pride in its trees. It is deplorable to see the huge giants waste away through lack of attention. Providence recognizes that its present action is belated, but the indications are that it is making a start on a program which will be maintained from year to year. It will not be surprising if the results gained so impress the authorities and citizens as to mean an expansion of the work as the years go on.

The progressiveness of a city is measured to a large extent by the manner in which the streets are kept up, the way in which the trees are cared for, the effort that is put forth to make homes and grounds attractive and the general cooperation that is given to good appearances.

It will not be long now before Norwich plunges into the task of cleaning up. It is done each year with more or less enthusiasm. There are the eyesores which should be removed and there are those instances where bad examples need to be checked. But, along with the clean-up, there is always an opportunity for the display of a healthy interest in caring for existing trees and in setting out new ones. Such work regularly carried out means satisfying community benefits.

FLAX INSTEAD OF WHEAT

Considerable stress has been placed upon the curtailment of production in certain agricultural products in order to remove the surplus crops and bring relief to the farmers. This is one of the suggestions that has been made to the wheat and cotton growers. They have been urged to cut down their acreage in the belief that by so doing they will raise less wheat and cotton and that will mean less difficulty in disposing of their crops at a good figure. It would eliminate that situation which results when there is so much of these products that not only the country but the whole world finds difficulty in absorbing it at a price that will compensate the growers.

In connection with these efforts, some have been so indiscreet as to advise cotton and wheat production by those who have never been in the business. That would knock in the head the good that might be expected from the curtailment by the wheat and cotton growers. But, in connection with the inclination of the northwest to comply with the farm board suggestion for curtailment, there has been a discussion as to what the farmers would raise in diversifying their crops and the farmers have been told to raise flax, barley, rye, oats, alfalfa and sweet clover. Further than that, the farm board is going to give its encouragement to such action by offering to finance the supplying of the seed. There are those who have their wheat seed ready for use. They will have more than they require if they cooperate in reducing their wheat acreage, and in those instances a way will be opened for them to exchange their wheat for such other seed as they desire.

The farm board is particularly stressing the planting of flax. Study has shown that there are considerable areas which are well adapted to its production and from the climatic standpoint it is believed that it will be quite as advantageous as for wheat.

Flax is one of the products which this country does not raise in sufficient quantity to meet its requirements. It thus offers a good opportunity for developing that production without danger of creating a surplus in that direction. If undertaken on a large scale, it will be possible to determine how the cost of raising it in this country compares with that in other countries, since it is to be remembered that imported flax is taxed under the tariff. But when it is estimated by Dr. J. L. Coulter, chief economist of the tariff commission and former president of the North Dakota Agricultural college, that a million acres now devoted to wheat can be profitably devoted to flax there is much to inspire the farmers to make the test. With special stress placed on flax and increased production for the other grains on a smaller scale, the farmers will be making that much needed effort to do something for themselves.

BANNING PICNIC PARTIES

What the inconsiderate picnic parties do to the general public is well illustrated by the action which has been taken by the park board of New Haven in building a fence at Lighthouse park and excluding therefrom picnic parties.

In order to get the proper amount of protection for the bathers against broken glass and other dangerous objects, it was found necessary by the park board to erect a fence so that it can control those going to the beach. It will charge a fee for those who want to go in bathing. It will admit free those who want to sit on the beach and play in the sand, but it will not allow picnic parties to enjoy such privileges because they have demonstrated their unwillingness to keep the beach free from glass and other debris.

This is the attitude with which the picnic party in general is received, or anticipated, in many localities. It is a case where the good as well as the bad are excluded because of the acts of the few who take the attitude that they are going to do as they please, regardless of the effect it may have upon others or the disgraceful appearance which they create through their litter.

A public park is expected to be open to the general public but when the time comes that it is impossible to get the proper cooperation from the public it is time to establish stricter regulations. Those in charge of parks are vested with that responsibility. It is often that similar action has to be taken by private owners. They exclude all in order to reach the real offenders. They do it often against the will, but it becomes necessary because of the abuse of the privileges.

The picnic party has long since become undesirable. It has been responsible for the erection of the many signs forbidding trespassing simply because of the utter disregard for the property rights of others. It is an unfortunate development, especially for the innocent and considerate picnickers, but inability to separate the sheep from the goats makes it necessary for those who demand tidy conditions to place the ban on all. Picnic parties, or members of them, have much to live down.

WHERE EXPLOSIVES ARE USED

Philadelphia and the country were stunned recently by the loss of life that resulted from a fire in a fireworks factory in that city. It was to be expected that there would be an inquiry to determine the cause and the responsibility. Such an investigation has been held but those seeking the facts found they were greatly handicapped because those who knew the most about what happened, or should have been able to throw much needed light upon the circumstances, were among those killed.

Thus the probe was robbed of much of the important information and, while the investigators were able to bring out conditions which call for better protection, it will probably never be known just what happened.

While the state has its laws concerning the transportation and manufacture of explosives, it has been brought out by the coroner's jury that there are no regulations for the protection of the public relative to the location of factories where large quantities of explosives are used, no laws putting restrictions on the quantities of dangerous materials and no requirements concerning inspection. The answer to this is probably that the experiences of the past have not required them.

That cannot be said to be the situation now. The blowing up of the fireworks factory gives good and sufficient reasons for establishing greater precautions and the jury makes the recommendation that there be more stringent laws enacted concerning the manufacture and storage of explosives. Philadelphia apparently needs to take the action that New York found necessary to do some time ago in regard to the use of flimsy material and inflammable films where motion pictures are being made. It is true that New York found that its regulations were not getting the respect that prevented a serious fire, but it was possible to show that it was possible to place the responsibility for the failure to comply with requirements.

Where dangerous conditions are known to exist the proper protection of life is provided only when the possibilities are anticipated and the activities are surrounded with those precautions which will keep any explosion at the minimum. If precautions are necessary to avoid peril, greater precautions are needed where explosives are being used and fireworks are being manufactured.

JUDY BREAKS A PRECEDENT

"I've just had the nicest dream," said Judy, as she attacked her breakfast cantaloupe. "I dreamed that the nicest man proposed to me. He was tall and dark and—"

"S-sh! Don't tell it to a soul outside these walls, my dear," cautioned Cousin Sarah apprehensively. "Telling one's dreams is simply not being done, you know, since all these clever psychoanalysts sprang up among us. They seem able to detect some mysterious Freudian impulse in the simplest kind of dream."

"All I'm afraid of," said Judy, "is that dreams go by contraries."

After living for twenty-one years in a small downstate village, where every personable man either had married or left town before she had emerged from the kiddy-car age, Judy made no bones of the fact that she considered Cousin Sarah's invitation to spend the autumn at their campus home—Cousin Jim Allen was a university professor—nothing less than the knocking of opportunity upon her door.

If, before the arrival of her guest, Cousin Sarah had felt any misgivings regarding her niece's ability to compete with the up-to-the-minute college girls, she dismissed them hurriedly after viewing the results of Judy's first shopping trip. By the subtle selection of a leaf-brown ensemble, an eggshell blouse, a pert felt hat and smart shoes Judy had achieved a dash that proclaimed her clothes sense that of a genius. Within three weeks her date book needed an auditor.

The first glimpse Peter ever had of her was at a tea. He was caught in a jam behind the tea table and had about given up all hope of working his way out of the crowd when he caught sight of an arresting pair of brown eyes which were gazing steadily at him over the edge of a teacup. It actually seemed to him that for some unaccountable reason their owner was interested in him.

"Judy dear, let me present Prof. Merritt," murmured a mutual acquaintance. "Miss Bradley — Prof. Merritt." Judy flushed slightly as she acknowledged the introduction.

"Do you believe in dreams?" she asked impetuously and apparently irrelevantly.

"Literally or Freudianly speaking?" laughed Peter teasingly. Judy looked startled.

"You're not by any chance a psychoanalyst, I hope."

"Well," said Peter, "it would be useless for me to forswear my occupation, don't you think? You'd be sure to discover that I'm the latest and most insignificant addition to the department of psychology."

Judy's date book became more and more decipherable as the names of many gave place to the name of one. September had gone and October with its glamorous Indian summer days saw Judy a frequent passenger in the professor's small roadster.

"Cousin Sarah," cried Judy, running into the house starry-eyed one evening, "I've had the most thrilling time. You do like Peter, don't you, dear?"

"I do," replied Cousin Sarah, "but it seems to me that a much more important matter is to make sure you like him yourself."

"Why, Cousin Sarah, I simply adored him before I ever saw him."

"Please don't be incoherent, Judy, even if you are in the ecstasy of a brand-new engagement," chided Cousin Sarah, forestalling the announcement that she saw impending.

"But it's the truth," insisted Judy, "I dreamed the very first night I was here that Peter proposed to me—a tall man with dark hair and—"

"Rubbish!" scoffed Cousin Sarah. "I'm afraid you're altogether too romantic for the campus. As if you hadn't met dozens of tall, dark men here." Her eyes followed Judy proudly, however, as she ran up the stairs.

"Anyway," called Judy from the landing, "I've proved that dreams don't go by contraries."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 9—Over the street from the huge house office building is a fine large plot, now partially cleared, where the new structure almost doubling the office room for house members is to stand.

It is to be about a $9,000,000 project, all told; but the special committee of the house headed by Speaker Nick Longworth which is in charge has had some very sad experiences in obtaining the site.

Uncle Sam, the Hon. Nick told the house in seeking an upward revision of the appropriation made for the purpose, cannot buy land in his own capital without having to pay more than double the assessed valuation of the property he wants.

That is what the committee bumped into trying first to get possession of the entire square by private negotiation. So it resorted to condemnation proceedings only to have special condemnation juries of five hand down verdicts charging the government as high as 127 per cent above assessed valuation.

More Money

Having started out with the original appropriation based on an estimate that 65 per cent over assessed valuation ought to be enough to meet all requirements, the committee was forced to come back for more money.

"I think it safe to say that whenever the government wants land in the district for governmental purposes and is forced to institute condemnation proceedings, it will have to pay not less than twice the assessed valuation of the land for taxation purposes," Speaker Nick told the house disconsolately.

Seek Higher Tax

"And I want to say," interjected Busby of Mississippi, "that I have learned at the tax assessor's office that people who have lands within an area where the government wants to take over property go down there and clamor for larger assessments."

It developed that the property owner who received the 127 per cent verdict had asked for conference with the house committee on the ground that this was too low. His agent originally asked for something like 260 per cent over that valuation. So the private conference was refused.

If anybody qualifies for the title, "the Don Quixote of Congress," it may be LaGuardia of New York; F. H. LaGuardia of the official directory, christened Fiorello Henry LaGuardia. He seems to have a passion for tilting at legislative windmills.

But unlike the romantic dreamer of the book, he takes his rebuffs with a cheerful grin. He expects just that nine times out of 10.

LaGuardia seems to find sufficient joy in the fighting itself. Instead of waiting to be kidded about his defeats he kids himself.

Stories That Recall Others

Daddy's First Name

Virginia, age six, who had just started to school, responded eagerly to all questions. When she was asked her father's name she promptly answered: "Mr. Brown."

"No," said the teacher, "I mean your daddy's first name."

The little girl wrinkled her forehead in a puzzled frown, "Why, I don't know."

"You don't know; but what does your mother call him?"

Then the little girl seemed relieved. "Why, my mamma calls him 'Dear.'"

Coasting

Little Margaret was visiting her aunt and was playing with a neighbor's children. One of them proposed that they do stunts and the stunt suggested was to lie on their backs and pretend to pedal a bicycle in the air. Little Margaret soon became tired.

The child who had invented the stunt looked over at Margaret and asked: "What's the matter; are you tired?"

Margaret, with a ready comeback, replied: "No, just coasting."

YOUR HEALTH

Sunshine And Health
By O. C. Foote, M. D., Washington, D. C.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

With the coming of spring and summer, it has been a time honored slogan that "I have spring fever." The explanation of this is the call of nature saying that the season has arrived which will permit the functions of the human body to relax and recuperate from the lowered vitality resulting from the winter. For in cold weather most people restrict the normal activities of the body by lack of exercise and fresh air, wearing heavy clothes, living in heated houses, and over-eating of heavy foods, all of which interfere with sleep, which is the period during the twenty-four hours when the body gets its greatest recuperation. When the spring fever arrives let it remind you to step into the sun. It is well known that sunshine is nature's conditioner and is the greatest tonic for the proper growth and development of children and the continued health of older folks. The rays of the sun conform to the colors of the spectrum. Most of these rays obtain their result by a general warming of the body, causing perspiration which aids in freeing many of the poisonous products which were stored in the body during winter. The most healthful rays of the sun are those called the violet and ultra violet rays. These rays are absorbed through the skin, picked up by the blood stream and carried to all parts of the body to aid in awakening the sluggish functions and to stimulate renewed energy.

In taking the sunshine and fresh air treatment it is necessary for one to understand that it must be taken in the proper dosage to obtain the best results. As the skin has been inactive during the winter, it cannot be expected to absorb large doses of sunshine and have it distributed throughout the body suddenly; therefore the sunshine must be given in small but increasing doses to permit the readjustment of the skin of this function. If the skin is exposed too long at the first treatment it develops a sensitive reaction, which results in thickening the layers of the skin and stopping the absorption of the sun's rays, and may produce a sun burn, probably causing blisters, and giving no benefit. Too much sun also retards perspiration and elimination of poisonous products from the body, and may produce a dangerous sun stroke. So be careful to expose the skin for only a few minutes the first time; then by gradually increasing the time, one may in a few days expose the entire body surface for a long time and get a great physical recuperation.

It is interesting to note that blonds are more sensitive to the sun's rays than brunettes, and this should be kept in mind in prescribing the sun treatment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Jonah and the Whale

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly allow space in The Norwich Bulletin for the following brief article?

"A BELIEVER IN THE TRUTH OF THE BIBLE."

Norwich, April 8, 1930.

The article follows:

The History of Jonah Correct—

The Pioneer Press, St. Paul's leading morning paper, in a recent issue placed upon its front page a lengthy quotation from a sermon of Rev. D. J. Davies, the Alliance pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle. Among the paragraphs which the newspaper quoted were the following:

"Historical and biological facts tend to support the story of Jonah being swallowed by a whale, then cast upon the shore unhurt, the greatest authority we have being Christ Himself.

"It must be our conclusion that the man who would rather believe the story of Jonah and the whale as an allegory or a piece of imaginary literature, will speak in the same manner of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ believed in the historical fact of Jonah, and gave it as much emphasis as His own resurrection.

"He said a friend had told him of a whale in the old National museum in Washington. The measurements given were 78 feet long, 35 feet around the shoulders, head 19 feet long and one of the flukes of its tail 11 feet across. The weight was 63 tons and it could have swallowed 20 men like Jonah.

"Some believe the fish was a carcharias or white shark, found generally in the Mediterranean and which often exceeded 80 feet in length.

"The ferocity of these sharks led them to swallow whole all they could. Horses, sea cows and reindeer have been found in them. It has not been uncommon to find men in their stomachs and once a man encased in a suit of mail was taken from one of these sharks."

Some Questions

Mr. Editor: That letter of Optimist is great. Let us have the truth; who really wants liquor? The Literary Digest is, I believe, cutting its own nose. Most of the cards are returned by foreigners, in this section at least, foreigners that can neither read nor write and will never subscribe to the Literary Digest. Funk & Wagnalls are not American names, either. Here, again, as in so many other cases, the United States is to be run by unassimilated foreigners. If Americans submit to it, they will get what they deserve.

Keep tabs on drunks, ascertain who they are. I am foreign born, too, and, believe me, I know what wine and beer does to the brain of the user. Nobody can claim that he or she would like to undergo an operation at the hands of a man who used liquor. The American Indian was conquered through the use of whiskey. Now then, vanishing Americans, do you wish for the same fate?

Congressman McFadden is at present sending out a warning against the bonds of the International bank. How many of the voters know under the influence of liquor? Everyone using intoxicating beverages knows how they work. Read reports of weddings, etc. and the shooting and stabbing which follows—a common occurrence across the Atlantic. Why shall we have it here? Can't we enjoy life without being under the "influence"?

"Our Unconscious Influence"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "That as Peter came by, at least his shadow might overshadow some of them" (Acts 5:15).

Read: Acts 5:12-16.

MEDITATION: This beautiful story is perhaps the best tribute ever paid to Peter. People believed that there was healing in his very shadow. He was all unconscious of this influence, as most men are. Our unconscious influence is usually our greatest influence. Life spreads as light spreads, as flame goes from candle to candle. It was said of Disraeli that he was not only brilliant in himself but that he made others brilliant. Our lives cannot be quarantined. Our unconscious influence for good or ill may well fill us with awe. This lies behind Stevenson's remark: "There is one person whom it is my duty to make good, and that is myself."

PRAYER: "Once more a new day lies before us, our Father. As we go out among men to do our work, touching the hands and lives of our fellows, help us to cheer the suffering by our sympathy, to freshen the drab by our wholesomeness, and to strengthen in all the wholesome sense of health and the joy of life. Amen."—Walter Rauschenbusch.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Peter Stumbles Over Something

You'll find that chance some part will play
In all you do throughout the day.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit sat on the edge of the Smiling Pool, no wiser than he was before. Jerry Muskrat had gone off about his business and he hadn't explained how those Duck feathers happened to be there on the edge of the Smiling Pool. He had said that there had been no more Ducks since the Quacks had left for the north. Yet here were these feathers newly dropped. Peter gave up his idea of going down to the Big River. He turned and went back to the little alder swamp at the head of the Smiling Pool. There he sat down to think things over.

But the more Peter thought, the more puzzled he became. Peter knew that Mr. and Mrs. Quack and their flock had gone north some time before. Anyway, he thought he knew it, which amounted to the same thing. Could it be that there had been some more Ducks visit the Smiling Pool unknown to Jerry Muskrat? That must be it. Peter was sure of it.

Having settled the matter in his own mind in this way, Peter started on. He began to hop along rather aimlessly, for he had no place in particular to go. He was still thinking about those feathers and not paying strict attention to where he was going. So it was he stumbled over something and got the worst fright he had had in many a day. You see, the thing he stumbled over suddenly came to life and Peter was stuck two or three hard blows, and beaten with some stiff wings, before he could get to his feet and run away. It was all so sudden and unexpected that he really didn't know what had happened.

"What eggs?" asked Peter innocently

He didn't run far, for he soon found that he was not being followed. He stopped and looked back. Then he rubbed his eyes and stared. "Well," said a familiar voice, "what are you staring at?"

For a full minute Peter couldn't find his tongue. When he did, he stammered. "Is-is-is that you, Mrs. Quack?" he inquired.

"You ought to know whether or not it is," retorted Mrs. Quack sharply, for it really was Mrs. Quack. "What do you mean by being so heedless, Peter Rabbit? Can't a person sit quietly, attending to her own business, without being stumbled over? If I didn't break one of those eggs, it will be a wonder."

"What eggs?" asked Peter innocently.

"My eggs, of course," retorted Mrs. Quack. "What did you suppose I was sitting there for, if it wasn't to keep those eggs warm?"

"I didn't suppose you were sitting there at all," replied Peter meekly. "Do you mean to say that you have a nest, Mrs. Quack?"

"For goodness sake, Peter, what would I have eggs for if I didn't have a nest?" retorted Mrs. Quack tartly. "Now that you know about it, I hope that you will keep that busy tongue of yours still. Mr. Quack and I have kept that nest a secret. You were the first one to discover it. If you hadn't stumbled over me, you wouldn't have found it. Now I hope you'll prove the true friend that I think you are and keep that secret."

"I will!" cried Peter eagerly. "I will, Mrs. Quack? I won't tell anybody, not even Mrs. Peter. But I thought you and Mr. Quack had gone North with the rest of the flock."

"That is where you thought wrongly," replied Mrs. Quack. "You see we are right here."

A YANKEE ABROAD

Half-Censored Talkies

DUBLIN—The Free State censorship is effective for literature, but has not yet caught up with the talkies.

Publication of matter tending to be obscene or recommending birth control in books or the press, or an undue amount of crime news in the latter may lead to suppression.

But only the picture part of the talkies is censored, for the film censor's office has no sound apparatus and no law exists providing for censorship of sound anyway.

Hence the censor recently has passed some talkies whose speech has aroused protest and he admits he never would have passed them if he had known what they were about.

But his hands are tied until the Dail and Senate can pass legislation covering sound regulation. Meanwhile the talkies appear with the censor's certificate, accompanied by a notice that the sound is not censored.

The movie censor is a government official, and it is a criminal offense to exhibit a film not certified by him.

A board of five censors advises the Irish minister of justice regarding the regulation of literature, headed by Very Rev. Dr. Boylan, vice president of St. Patrick's college, Maynooth.

If more than one member of the board dissents no action can be taken.

The minister can prohibit the circulation of a book disapproved by the board, with a penalty of a $250 fine or six months hard labor or both for violation.

In the case of a newspaper an offense in a single issue will not bring suppression, but evidence of frequent abuse is required. The suppression period is for three months.

Little Talks on Thrift

Billions Lost Through Waste Largely Due To Personal Carelessness

Figures of recent compilation give an idea of the vast amount of waste that exists on every hand. The National Board of Fire Underwriters says our annual fire loss is approximately $425,000,000. Eighty per cent of these fires are said to be preventable, thus making the value of property needlessly destroyed by fire, $340,000,000. Armour & Co. recently announced that $8,000,000,000, an amount greater than our total export trade, is lost in the United States every year through waste in distribution.

Secretary Wilbur says that "we are rapidly exhausting the national oil reserve through waste." He does not give the amount of the waste involved but it necessarily runs high into the millions. Another authority says the country's annual weed bill is estimated at $3,000,000,000 and the National Safety Council puts the cost of accidents to the American people at $3,200,000,000 a year.

An authority on crime says our national bill to thieves and other criminals is $500,000,000 a year. One might add many billions more to the list—waste in the kitchens of our 25,000,000 homes; waste due to faulty lumbering operations; waste through unnecessary traffic congestion.

It is not to be assumed that all waste can be eliminated no matter how well organized we may be in commerce, industry and the home. American business is efficient and means of eliminating waste are being developed constantly. One element alone is very largely responsible for the prodigious waste in this country. This is the element of human carelessness.

Education in thrift can help remedy this defect. Industrial leaders should bear in mind that the employee who is thrifty in his personal habits is quite apt to be careful in his work and through force of habit do what he can to eliminate waste. The development of greater individual thrift will mean not alone more prosperity and more substantial standards of living by individuals; it will mean likewise a saving of billions of dollars to national industry.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut.

The Kilborn & Bishop Company, New Haven.

Drop forging is a comparatively young industry, having been in existence only about 70 years, but, as is usual with new ideas, it has advanced from producing simple carriage hardware to what was for a time considered impossible pieces to make by that process. George A. Kilborn, the founder and present president of the Kilborn & Bishop company, commenced in the drop forging business in 1872 and started the present plant in 1895 with three men working in two rooms. Expansion has continued from that small beginning to the present five buildings of 67,000 sq. ft. floor space. The demand has changed from carriage hardware to bicycles, automobiles and now to aviation with the always constant demand for miscellaneous requirements such as alloy steels, copper and brass.

Strict economies were necessary in the early days. The company had furnished about three thousand dollars worth of forgings to a German company on credit. This was a large amount and when payment seemed doubtful the situation became serious. The office had a southern exposure, without curtains at the windows, for curtains were an item of expense which could be curtailed. The sun poured in day after day on an anxious-treasurer and when the payment in full arrived, he leaped to his feet and shouted "By the great horn spoons, we'll now have those curtains."

The present production is special drop forgings and a line of forged hardware known as green line tools.

The present officers are: George A. Kilborn, president; Holloway Kilborn, treasurer.

Why Few Are Fat

Excess fat has been disappearing fast in late years. So fast that excess fat is the exception now. You see that in every circle.

That change is largely due to the discovery that excess fat is largely the result of a gland weakness. A gland whose secretion helps turn food to fuel. So modern physicians, in treating obesity, seek to combat this cause.

Their method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now almost everyone has slender friends to show them the results.

Go do what they did—try Marmola. All druggists supply it at $1 a box, and in each box tells you how and why it acts.

END SUPERFLUOUS HAIR!
Bald Headed Men Have Shown Us The Way

Nature has been producing baldness in men since the time of Elijah. She has given us plenty of evidence that it is possible to devitalize the hair follicle, so that it can no longer produce hair.

Now, we have KOREMLU CREAM, "Nature's rival", that creates baldness only where it is applied and just where you want it, on your face, arms or any part of the body of either men or women. It is applied at night, the same as any good cold cream and works while you sleep, slowly but surely, and above all safely. It causes the follicle to relax and loosen its grasp on the hair. When the follicle is once devitalized, no more hair can ever grow in that spot again.

KOREMLU CREAM is as fragrant as a rose and as effective as nature in creating baldness. It is guaranteed to do all that we claim or your money is refunded if it fails, after our directions have been followed. It is unlike anything ever used before and offers for the first time real freedom from superfluous hair.

HERBERT B. CARY ELECTED PRESIDENT OF NORWICH Y. M. C. A. FOR 3RD TERM

HERBERT B. CARY
Re-elected President

Following a supper at 6:45 Wednesday evening, the 46th annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian association was held in the dining room at the association building and after the presentation of annual reports, President Herbert B. Cary was re-elected to that office for his third term.

Officers elected with him in accepting the report of the nominating committee unanimously were the following: Honorary vice-president, Judge Allyn L. Brown; vice-presidents, B. P. Bishop, James L. Case, Shepard B. Palmer, William G. Park, J. C. Macpherson, H. F. Dawley; treasurer, Arthur F. Wyman; secretary, E. Arnold Smith; directors (three years), John M. Swahn, Clarence E. Carpenter, Dr. A. C. Freeman, Ernest O. Rodier; (two years), Louis H. Geer.

In the other business of the meeting, at which President Cary presided, the minutes of the previous annual meeting by Secretary E. Arnold Smith were accepted and the annual report of Treasurer Arthur F. Wyman showed total receipts of $23,875.95 and a balance of $109.61 on hand. As Treasurer Wyman was not able to be present because of illness, the meeting sent him a message of good wishes.

Department reports were presented as follows, showing an active year in the different lines of work: Finance committee, Mr. Cary; trustees, Mr. Case; house committee, General Secretary Hill; physical department, J. H. Demarest; boys' work, Emory H. Davis; religious work, Shepard B. Palmer; rentals, Frank L. Arnold.

A message of good wishes was voted by the meeting to James C. Macpherson, a former president of the association, and some interesting recollections of the first days of the association in Norwich were given by Vice-president B. P. Bishop, one of the charter members of the association.

General Secretary's Report

The report of General Secretary Edwin Hill was given as follows:

Another year of association history has been completed, and as we cross the threshold into the new year, it is well that we pause and take retrospect of the past 12 months; have we moved forward, or gone backward or have we marked time? I believe that we are within the bounds of truth when we state that the work as a whole has been conducted on a high plane, and in some lines we have exceeded and surpassed the work of any year of our history.

The Physical Work

It is safe to state that the service rendered in the physical department has been of a larger variety than usual, and with the various leagues and groups playing the gym games, and basketball in particular, a larger number of individuals have made use of this very important department than has been the case in recent years; the tendency as the years go by is to have shorter class work periods and to give more time to games of various kinds.

Not only have large numbers of men and boys used the gymnasium and showers and swimming pool, but well over a hundred women and girls were enrolled in the various classes of gymnastics and swimming.

The Boys' Work

Every thoughtful person will readily concede that there is no more important service that can be rendered than that which throws around youth in its impressionable period, those safeguards that tend to mould the young life to high ideals and noble aspirations, that the future man may be a real credit to his country and to his God. This is exactly the kind of service the Norwich Young Men's Christian association is seeking to render to the boys of the community, and there has never been a year in the history of the institution when the service for boys has been of a higher order than during the year just closed. Parents in goodly numbers have expressed their satisfaction in regard to the helpful results they have noted in the lives of their boys. The future of our country for weal or woe depends absolutely on the kind of ideals that dominate the youth of today. Let us lead our boys along the highway of righteousness that the next generation of men may be high-minded and stalwart in all that is noble and true.

The Religious Work

In this day and time, when freedom seems to mean to far too many the spirit of "I will do as I please," regardless of others, there is great reason for our taking advantage of every opportunity to press home with tact and sound judgment the claims of real genuine religion which means the leadership of Jesus Christ. Practically every problem and especially every moral problem can be settled on the basis of the teachings of the great Master, who taught and lived with perfection the so-called "Golden Rule."

No human can measure the good accomplished by the various services rendered under the classification of religious work, and during the year just closed the Sunday services and the various Bible classes have doubtless made helpful impressions upon many lives.

The message of Margaret Slattery at a union meeting was most impressive.

The program of religious music by the Lotus male quartet, the fine series of sermons by Dr. Charles N. Arbuckle, and the delightful lenten heart-to-heart talks by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth have been sources of great inspiration and new conceptions of life.

We desire again to pay a grateful tribute to the memory of Miss M. Louise Sturtevant, whose generous endowment for the religious work of our Y. M. C. A. has made these various ministrations to the soul life possible.

The Social Work

Man is a social being, and therefore we must cater to his social instincts in every right and proper way. The kind of social intercourse a man seeks determines to a large extent the kind of a man he will be.

The association has attempted during the year to maintain a healthy social atmosphere in the building, and the set social occasions have been such as to contribute to the highest enjoyment of all concerned. Not in many years have the various games in the lobby been used to the extent they have been used the past year.

Other Activities

The reading room has been patronized by a large number during the year, and a good variety of reading matter has been supplied.

The dormitory of 20 sleeping rooms has been filled most of the time, and the idea has been to make a home away from home for those who have chosen to live with us in the building. During the year several young men have been directed to rooms in good homes.

Personal conferences have been held with a good number of boys and men individually, with the purpose to help, guide, and encourage along the way of life, and we feel that such quiet service always has its reward for all concerned.

We could call attention to several other phases of service rendered through the year, but the foregoing will suffice to indicate the purpose, the ideals and the goal of our efforts. No human can tabulate the results of all these efforts to serve, but the all-wise Heavenly Father will see to it that no honest effort in behalf of humanity will go unrewarded.

Appreciation

I desire to pay a sincere tribute to the president of the association, Herbert B. Cary, and all associated with him on the board of directors. These men have given freely of their time and money, with no hope of reward except the satisfaction that comes to those who from a heart love of humanity spend themselves for others, many of whom are helped to a higher plane of life.

To my faithful associates on the employed staff, and to those who with splendid diligence do the more common work in caring for the building I express hearty appreciation.

For the courteous and helpful cooperation of the ministers of the city and their willingness to help us whenever called upon, we are certainly grateful.

To the faithful band of women who constitute our auxiliary, for their ministrations in various kinds of service and their generous contribution in money to our current expenses, we want to say in capitals, THANK YOU MUCH.

To the management of the daily press for the willing spirit in keeping before the public in every reasonable way, "the doings" of our Y. M. C. A. we express sincere thanks.

To every individual, who in any way has assisted us by gift of money or service, or both, we are indebted beyond our power to express in words, and we hope they will consider the work we are doing worthy of their continued interest.

We remember with great respect and appreciation, several of our friends who, during the past year, have been called from time to eternity; may God bless the interest they demonstrated in our work through the coming years, and may others be willing to take their places.

The outstanding shock of the year came to us on the morning of Feb. 5, 1930, when we learned that our consecrated young assistant, P. Leslie Conklin, who had left us the night before to take up new duties in Syracuse, had met with a very tragic death in an automobile accident near Albany, N. Y. The life he lived amongst us, for two and a half years, the influence he wielded for good, the evidences of a Christ-dominated young manhood, will linger with us through years yet unborn. Our hope is that many of the younger members of our association who knew Leslie so closely, and were fond of him, may emulate his example in true living and high ideals.

Finally

Grateful to Almighty God for whatever success has been achieved during the year now gone into history; mindful of the fact that we have "left undone many things we should have done," we face the new year just opening with a sense of a great responsibility and a recognition of great opportunities for service that awaits us out in the immediate future. Brethren, we go not alone to the tasks, for we have as our constant companion the great Master, who on a very important occasion in the long ago, said to common men, and is saying to us common men this very moment, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." Let us arise to our great privilege in service.

Report On Boys' Work

The work of the boys' department, under Boys' Secretary Emory H. Davis was given as follows by James L. Case, chairman of the boys' work committee:

The report of the boys' division activities for the year 1929-1930 will be merely a glimpse at some of the most prominent points.

The membership has been at a very high level throughout the entire year, maintaining an average close to the 250 mark. Over 350 different boys have been members of the boys' division at some time during the year and more than 200 other boys have been served by the association in various ways—such as swimming instruction, athletic leagues, etc.

Considerable work has been done during the year along the line of personal interviews, with a good percentage of those within the membership, and in a number of cases relationships have been righted, and several boys have received help and advice that has meant much to them. We hope to do more of this type of work, especially with older boys this coming year.

Good delegations have represented the Norwich association at all of the state conferences for boys, such as Older Boys' Hi-Y, Employed Boys', and Boys' Work council.

The social life in the lobby has been well taken care of, through the medium of various social games, tournaments and educational movies. We believe the interest has never been keener.

A new emphasis was started this last year in interesting the members of the boys' division in the boyhood of other countries. Two meetings were held, one for older boys and one for younger boys, at which time a native New Zealander told those present many interesting things about the boys of that country. Over $50 was subscribed by the boys for the support of the foreign work of the Y. M. C. A.

Twenty-five Norwich boys spent a total of 74 weeks at Camp Hazen, under the splendid leadership of our state boys' work secretary, F. A. Stanley. Sufficient funds were given last summer by Robert Montgomery to repair the Montgomery chapel at Camp Hazen, and thus continue that place of beauty, which is used for worship by so many boys during the summer months.

Transportation was furnished by several local men, to enable over 100 local boys to attend the Yale-Maryland football game at the Yale bowl this fall.

The Newsboys' club, which is composed of over 25 street newsboys, has enjoyed a weekly programme in the lobby, gym and swimming pool throughout the entire year.

The Employed Boys' Brotherhood, composed of more than 30 employed boys and under the leadership of Walter Block has had a very active year. The weekly programmes have consisted of instructive talks given by men interested in various lines of life work, such as banking, life insurance, law, business and several others. A few programmes were given over to the study of one's civic duties and the work of various civic officers.

The Hi-Y club, composed of Academy boys, has probably enjoyed one of its best, if not its best year so far. The membership reached the high mark of 54, making it the largest senior Hi-Y club in the state. Twenty-six sessions were held, with a total attendance of over 900.

The programmes of thi group have been varied and interesting, consisting of Bible study, speakers, socials, etc. Dr. Theodore M. Shipherd and Rev. P. A. Kilmister furnished splendid leadership to these boys, in their discussion groups of Bible study and life problems. Plenty of opportunity is given in this group for self expression, for the affairs of the club are carried on by the boys themselves, under the direction of the boys' secretary.

Of course a great deal of the boys' secretary's time is taken up in supervision and other tasks that are impossible to record in any report, but taken as a whole we believe that this last year will compare favorably with any year that has been experienced so far. It is with a great deal of enthusiasm and courage that we look forward to a new year of opportunities and all its problems. May we be keen enough to recognize our problems and have the courage to face them squarely.

PUPILS OF FRANK DRAGO GAVE SPLENDID RECITAL

Advanced students of Dr. Frank Drago, assisted by Aime March, soprano, were heard in recital Wednesday evening at Slater Hall annex, by an appreciative audience.

An ensemble comprising Dr. Drago, Earl Swan, Miriam Gordon, violins; Albert Clayton, 'cello, and Rose S. Hirsch, piano, opened the program with "Bourree" by Handel, and "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell. The smoothness and admirable tonal quality of the ensemble received well merited applause.

Miriam Gordon presented "Loure" by Bach, and "Indian Lament" by Dvorak-Kriesler. Her playing was intelligent and both the classic Bach and the modern Dvorak found a capable interpreter. Miriam B. Goldberg played the piano accompaniments with taste.

Aime March, soprano, rendered "Louise" by Charpentier. There was intelligence in the treatment of the voice, good phrasing and musical feeling. The piano accompaniment was capably played by Rose S. Hirsch.

Earle Swan, concert master of the N. F. A., presented the "Carnival de Venice" by Paganini with splendid tone and remarkable technical skill. He was ably assisted at the piano by Mrs. Albert J. Bailey.

Lillian Hirsch, well known New London violinist, rendered the first movement of the Viotti "Concerto No. 23." Her playing is characterized by warm musical feeling and dashing delivery. Rose S. Hirsch assisted at the piano.

Miss March followed with a group of songs which included "The Cuckoo" by Liza Lehemann, "The Cunnin' Little Thing," by Hageman, and "Make Me a Song," by Hadley. Her delivery showed a sound sense of style and she found appropriate expression for every song.

Louis Procaccini, formerly concert master of the Hartford high school orchestra, presented the well known "Sonata in G Minor," by Tartini, in co-operation with Mrs. Helen Drago Bowman at the piano. The sonata was beautifully rendered, each movement played in its proper mood, and rhythmic utterance.

The ensemble closed the program with a splendid rendition of the charming "Serenade" by Toselli, followed by a spirited performance of "Gavotte" by Gossec. The playing of all the young artists made a very favorable impression and was warmly received.

Before playing the last number on the program, Max Hanover, in behalf of Dr. Drago, thanked the audience for their interest in the recital and for the appreciation shown by their applause. Mr. Hanover added that as a citizen of Norwich he takes great pride in the achievement and progress made by the boys and girls of Norwich and vicinity. He also said that he listened to the same boys and girls from time to time and that the performance given at this concert was indeed evidence that the effort and devotion of the players to the study of music is being crowned with success.

DECISION RESERVED AFTER GREEN ST. HEARING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, April 9—A hearing was held this evening in the council chamber of the municipal building on the petition of William S. Chappell and four others, that parking on the west side of Green street, between State and Pearl streets, be eliminated and that instead of traffic being permitted in but one direction on that street, that traffic be allowed in both directions. The hearing was attended by but two of the signers of the petition, Edward O'Connell and Frank Weizorek, also by Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney and Desk Sergeant William T. Babcock and Mrs. Emily Spiers. Mr. O'Connell wanted all parking eliminated and traffic in both directions, which would be a benefit to all using the street and would do away with congestion caused by trucks parked at business houses unloading goods. Mr. Weizorek was practically of the same opinion. Mr. Chappell, who did not attend the hearing, communicated with City Manager Holt during the day stating that he would be unable to be present, but that he was in favor of the elimination of all parking, but not in favor of traffic in both directions, preferring the direction of traffic as now existing. Captain Pinney was opposed to traffic being in both directions because of the narrowness of the street, while Sergeant Babcock, who had investigated conditions on that street said that to improve conditions on the street it would be necessary to eliminate parking entirely and bo doing so a space now alloted to eight cars would be done away with, which condition would not materially interfere with the convenience of motorists. He also was strongly opposed to traffic being allowed in both directions and suggested that traffic remain as at present, in a southerly direction. The street at its widest point is but 15 feet seven inches and parking is allowed there until 8 o'cloc kat night for 45 minutes. After that hour parking is allowed throughout the remainder of the night. At the close of the hearing, City Manager Holt reserved his decision.

Lawrence-Memorial hospital alumnae have voted to give a minstrel performance next month. Tentative plans were formulated at a meeting held last evening. Another meeting will be held within a day or two when definite arrangements for the production of the black-face show will be settled upon.

COCK PHEASANTS LIBERATED WILL IMPROVE HUNTING

It will not be the fault of the board of fisheries and game if Connecticut sportsmen do not have excellent hunting this fall as far as cock pheasants are concerned, seeing that nearly 250 adult cock pheasants have already been released in the woods in various sections of the state by the Connecticut game wardens.

Just as the board is paying close attention to the needs of the disciples of Izaak Walton by going in for a wide policy of state leased streams, which are being stocked with fish, so are devotees of the gun being provided with sport through a similar policy of restocking the woods with game.

Some 216 adult cock pheasants have been liberated during the past few weeks, 60 of which were imported direct from England, being reared in ideal surroundings productive of good, healthy stock. These 60 birds were brought into the country last fall, all having stood a somewhat rough steamship passage remarkably well. The birds were quartered during the winter on the White reserve near Litchfield, and have weathered the change of climate remarkably well. The stock is said to be some of the finest in Great Britain many of them coming from the royal preserves, the property of King George V.

Each bird is tagged, that is to say, he wears a ring around one of his legs so that when captured sportsmen are required to note the name of the place where the bird was released and the place of shooting, to determine how far the birds travel from original point of release.

The birds are taken to a suitable spot, and allowed to fly away into the woods where they will soon find the hens and begin mating.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Frigidaire Salads.

A salad a day keeps spring fever away, doctors and dietitians are agreed. The inclusion of too few fresh vegetables in the menu during the winter months is one of the factors to which they attribute "that tired feeling." While more green stuffs are now eaten than ever before, the age-old ailment has by no means been conquered.

The more palatable the salad ingredients, the more appetizing it becomes, they point out. If vegetables can be kept fresh and full-flavored until served, more than half the battle is won—and the patient stands a good chance of complete recovery.

In line with this campaign against lassitude, not only in the spring but throughout the year, Frigidaire Corporation has just issued a salad recipe booklet, showing how a wide variety of salads can be made with the aid of its new hydrator. This device, a moist air storage compartment, which keeps vegetables crisp and tasty for indefinite periods, works an improvement in the palatability of vegetables, some authorities have declared.

Broadway Theatre.

Greater than the mechanical or scientific marvels of mankind — greater than any driving force within the ken of mankind—that tremendous, illimitable fount of strength is Mother-Love, which has defied dangers and terrors from the first cave-woman to the present lovely ladies who despite man's proud but feeble claims to supremacy dominate the world. Seldom does it come to the lot of an actress, however famous, to portray a role which shall become historical, but in one short year Ruth Chatterton has achieved not one but two of the greatest mother-love roles of stage or screen, and her dramatic powers have not even been tapped. Her first smashing success was the famous "Madame X," in which she threw all traditions of the role overboard, and created a new vital character that will live as long as the memory of man. Now she has surpassed even that glorious record as Sarah Storm in the great drama "Sarah and Son" which amazed and entranced the Broadway audiences at its initial presentations yesterday. "Sarah and Son" in book form, was a sensation, the story of a poor and obscure young woman's battle against overpowering odds. Her baby wrested from her by her good-for-nothing husband, deserted penniless, alone, she faces the world with high ideals, and by a valiant struggle accomplishes a meed of fame, and eventually achieves romantic happiness with a fine man and is re-united with her son, now grown. A delightful hint of a Teutonic accent, acquired for the character but adds to Miss Chatterton's constant charm, and lends color to the role. Fuller Mellish, Jr., is a sinister but cleverly drawn ne'er-do-well; Frederic March, a fine upstanding young lawyer, also with ideals which are consummated when he befriends Sarah, and Philippe de Lacey is the manly little son. The surrounding program includes Charley Chase's latest comedy All Teed Up"; a real novelty "A Wee Bit o' Scotch"; Charles Grapewin and Anna Chance scrapping again in "That Red-Headed Hussy"; a "bouncing ball" son, "Rings on My Fingers"; and the latest Fox Movietone News.

Palace Theatre.

Hilarious comedy and grim tragedy will stalk hand in hand across the screen at the Palace theatre today and tomorrow in the double-feature bill which is now being presented Seldom have two such pictures as "Free and Easy," with its all star cast headed by Buster Keaton and "The Locked Door," with another fine cast led by Rod La Rocque ever been shown on the same bill at any theatre.

"Free and Easy" is a delightful comedy satire on studio life in Hollywood. Here for the first time in his career Buston Keaton sings on the screen. This is not the only attraction, however, for all the members of the cast are excellent in their comic roles. Anita Page is cast as Elvira, the beauty from Gopher City, Kansas, who is being sent to Hollywood to enter the movies. Keaton, as Elmer, garage man of Gopher City is her manager and accompanied by her Ma, (Louise Friganza), they depart fort he coast. On the train they meet a screen hero returning from the east. His promise to help them is realized when Elvira becomes an extra. The story is not concluded here but shows how Elmer and Ma become great successes while Elvira pursues happiness in another direction.

Among the other stars in this picture are Robert Montgomery, Fred Niblo, William Haines, William Collier, Sr., Dorothy Sebastian and Karl Dane.

"The Locked Door" is a dramatic offering which also has a fine cast. Supporting Rod La Rocque are Barbara Stanwyck, William Boyd and Betty Bronson. The plot of this picture is centered about the wayward actions of Frank Devereaux, the son of a wealthy man. After enticing his father's secretary to a floating cabaret, he locks the girl in a room and threatens to ruin her good name. The ship is raided before he can carry out his plan and they escape only after he secures a flashlight picture which has been taken. With this picture he becomes a menace to her after she is happily married and almost wrecks her husband's social standing as well as hers.

On Saturday and continuing through Tuesday, the Palace will present "The Lost Zeppelin," starring Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli, Ricardo Cortez and a notable cast. This is a thrilling story of adventure which deals with a new type of aircraft.

Real Estate Sold.

Clarence Sholes sold for James F. Wells his farm of 16 acres and 7-room cottage to Miss Carrie B. Farnhame, who is going to make improvements and move in in the near future, it being one of the best suburban homes to be found, located on the state road to Lebanon.

Breed Theatre

Bringing to life the vivid fantasy pictured by Jules Verne in his most fascinating novel, "The Mysterious Island," comes to the Breed theatre today for three days.

As it is to be presented here, "The Mysterious Island" is an all-color, sound picture, and boasts in addition to Lloyd Hughes, Jane Daly, Lionel Barrymore, Montagu Love, Harry Gribbon, Snitz Edwards, Dolores Brinkman and Edward Connelly, a cast numbering more than a thousand players, several hundred of them made up to create a new race of sub-sea creatures.

There is now on display at the Breed theatre, a picture of absorbing and unique interest. We refer to the serial, chapter-play called "The King of the Kongo" the latest of those really thrilling Mascot pictures.

"The King of the Kongo" has its background in Africa. It has African music especially written for it throughout.

It's a very enjoyable picture and we unhesitatingly urge all our readers to see it at once. Start with the first episode and go to see each one that follows.

Guess what ingredient is missing from this

Apple Sauce Recipe

Pare, core and quarter several juicy, sour apples. Put them in a saucepan and cook with just enough water to keep them from burning. Add a dash of cinnamon and a little lemon juice. Cool and serve.

You only need one guess. Sugar is missing. And if you add sugar "to taste" just before you take your apple sauce from the stove, you will have the utmost in flavorful goodness.

Very often you wonder how to improve foods which are lacking in flavor or appetite-appeal. In most cases a dash of sugar is all that is necessary. This is especially true in the preparation of vegetables. Just try a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt in cooking spinach, carrots, string beans, tomatoes and peas. You'll be surprised at the way sugar improves the distinctive flavor of each vegetable.

When you consider that vegetables, cereals and fruit are essential in the diet for the vitamins, mineral salts and roughage they contain, you will realize the importance of making these foods appeal to the appetites of young and old. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

They came out, got into the machine, which was parked at the curbing a few yards north of the school property, and started up West Broad street. The big truck, owned by the Gets Trucking Co., of New York and Providence, driven by David Boden of Brooklyn, N. Y., came along behind them and hit the rear end of the Ford as it pulled out from its parking place. The car swerved on the sidewalk and hit Mr. Hoxie, rolling him along a short distance. He was not seriously injured, although his leg was cut. TRAINED MISSOURI CAT BORN WITH ONLY THREE LEGS

In a letter from St. Louis Neil Morrison writes:

The wide spaces of the United States and even far countries across the pond have heard about Noank catching queer fish, also about wild deer walking into a barber shop for a shave but out in Clayton, Mo., Leonard Keemp has a freak arrival that would make a circus pile of money and millions of people would come to see it.

It is a tiger cat named Stroll, born with only three legs, two front ones and only one in the back. It sure can get along, but it is fun to see it run on only three legs. It does tricks, jumps rope and his master will say: "Stroll, go and get me my pipe," and the cat will go and bring it to his master, looking up in his brown eyes as though to say, "Do you want a match?" Gee! That sure makes Master Keemp smile! All of John D. Rockefeller's dimes could not buy the freak cat from him.

"It is always at my heels, but I sure feel sorry for an animal that came into the world with only three legs! It makes tears come to my eyes when Stroll goes around that way. Talk about catching rabbits! Every day Stroll will go out into the woods looking for a rabbit. One day, as I was looking out the window across the field he came with something in his mouth, big as a brown bear, it seemed. He came right into the house and dropped a 14-pound rabbit at my feet, to tell me to cook it for supper. Believe me, we had some rabbit pie."

It seems as if the fourth leg of the cat had started to grow about two inches and stopped. But the cat seems to get along alright with only three legs to go around in life.

Master Keemp was telling a gang of fellows around the Clayton gas station that a big butter and egg man came from a circus to buy the cat and make money on him. He was wearing a diamond stickpin that would light up Oliver street and said: "Well, young man, how much do you want for the freak cat? I will give you $150 in good American greenbacks!" Master Keemp looked at the cat which had both paws over his eyes and tears began rolling on the ground when the circus guy wanted to buy him. Master Keemp was all choked up about it and could not speak. There was nothing in this wide world he felt sorry for, as for his pet Stroll. "I need the money, for work has been slack around here, but I guess we got to keep the three-legged cat for awhile yet!" The butter and egg man said, "Well, young man, you have the right spirit toward a freak animal that you have trained and looked after so long! But if you ever change your mind about selling the three-legger let me know. Here is my card. Do you know, I have seen thousands of freak animals and never felt sorry for them; but when that cat put them paws over his eyes and cried, I reached for my handkerchief, for it sure touched my heart! Well, goodbye, Mr. Keemp. I might see you again some day, bringing theo at along for my circus which is playing now in the south!"

"The trained cat is like a Big Ben alarm; when everybody is asleep, he will call me at 5:30, for I have to go trucking in the city. He never fails me, my three-legged cat! He can do the Harvard hop when I play the piano. Stroll is talked about a rat catcher and he has done something other cats never have—caught two rats at the same time. For he has a mouth like a Hudson tunnel. But some quick, this cat is! Now I am training him to be a tight rope walker, taking a line in the kitchen from chair to chair. When I count three the cat will try and walk, getting half way across he will fall to the floor and land on that one foot. But he is game as the Italian giant who has a cement jaw and takes a step ladder to reach it. If the chickens get out and I cannot get them in, Stroll will chase them into the coop. He's a handy cat to have around the house and I don't think you will see another three-legged cat in this country born that way."

NEIL MORRISON.

GENERAL LEVEL OF SHARE PRICES AT ANOTHER NEW HIGH RECORD FOR YEAR

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Speculation for the rise was aggressively resumed in the stock market today, and the general level of share prices recorded another new altitude record for the year. Although business news was none too cheerful, powerful speculative interests remained committed to the rise, feeling that the market had solidified its position during the unsettlement of the past two days. Total sales again exceeded the 5,000,000 share mark.

Some reports from the steel industry bore out earlier predictions that mills would have difficulty in maintaining last week's rate of operations. Iron Age stated that U. S. Steel's operations had fallen from 81 to 77 per cent of capacity this week, and production for the country at large from 78 to 76 per cent. There was some disagreement on this point, however, Iron Trade Review estimating operations generally had gained about one per cent this week.

Iron Age attributed a falling off to smaller business from the railroads and for heavy construction. Some recession in railroad buying had been looked for at this season, but better demand for building and construction is generally expected, in view of the huge volume of heavy construction under contract or contemplated. A survey of building operations by Standard Statistics Co. said the gain in contract awards in March was such "as to bring almost unhoped for encouragement to the industry." Furthermore, automotive steel requirements are expected to gain during the next few weeks.

The weekly freight car loadings figures continued rather unsatisfactory. While a moderate gain was shown over the previous week, this resulted largely from an increased movement of coal. Loadings of miscellaneous freight fell off somewhat, and total was the lowest for the corresponding period in several years.

The American Petroleum institutes weekly crude oil production figures showed a substantial increase, due largely to the bringing in of a gusher in Oklahoma. Earlier estimates from other sources had indicated a further decline.

J. I. Case was a buoyant feature, rising 11 points on top of yesterday's 17 to 201, a new top. Earnings for the first quarter are unofficially estimated at $16 a share. Food shares generally were strong, with Bordens, Gold Dust, Beatrice Creamery, and Penick and Ford selling up 1 to 4 points. Gold Dust is said to have placed its inventories in a highly favorable position during the recent depression in commodities.

General Electric was again a leader, rising about 4 points to a new 1930 high. Utilities were buoyant on further merger gossip, and shorts were sent to cover in the merchandising shares. Other issues reaching new 1930 peaks included Associated Dry Goods, Consolidated Gas, Air Reduction, Dupont, General Gas, General Motors, Public Service of New Jersey, Skelly, Standard of Kansas, Sparks Withington and Worthington Pump, the last named rising 6 points. In the low-priced issues, Universal Pipe sold up about a point to new high ground, reflecting report that a banking group had purchased controlling interest from George Whelan and favorable building outlook Steels and rails were sluggish, U. S. Steel and New York Central losing about a point. American Can, United Aircraft and Fox Film also eased.

Credit conditions were unchanged, call money again ranging from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent. There is some talk of a further reduction in the Bank of England rate tomorrow, but no change is expected in the New York reserve rate. Another substantial gain in brokers' loans is generally forecast. Foreign exchanges were practically unchanged, with Sterling cables holding at $4.86 3-8.

Commodity markets were little changed. Wheat and corn future sold up fractionally on dry weather complaints.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)— A revival of speculative interest in share feature bonds, inspired by the stocks they represent, enlivened the bond market today. Investment bonds, particularly the rails, firmed to a trifling extent but the general tone was again little more than steady. Net changes in higher grade obligations were small.

The high flier for the day was the Shubert Theatres 6, which soared 9 points to equal its year's high at 64. General Theatres Equipment 6s scored a maximum gain of 5 1-2 points, closing at 149 for a net advance of 4. Warner Bros. Pictures 6s, Pathe 7s, Loew's 6s displayed marked strength, but finished below the top for net improvement of about one to 2 points.

American Telephone Convertible 4 1-2s succeeded in pushing past their 1930 high, touching 193 3-8. The advance for the day, at the final price of 192 1-4, was 4 1-2 points. International Telephone 4 1-2s moved up a point. Texas Corp. 5s were active but failed to move.

Many of the rails that had lost ground in the Tuesday trading recovered on average inquiry. The firmer issues included Santa Fe General 4s, Canadian National 4 1-2s, Central of Georgia 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Lehigh Valley of Pennsylvania 4s, New York Central General 3 1-2s, Northern Pacific General 3s and Wabash "B" 5s. Soft spots persisted, however, and St. Louis-San Francisco 4 1-2s, Wabash 4 1-2, Northern Pacific 6s, Pennsylvania 4 3-4s, and Rock Island 4s, among others, closed half a point lower. The recent issue of Pennsylvania 4 1-2s made its debut on the New York stock exchange and led the rail group in activity, climbing about a point above the offering price. The new Erie 5s were also busy but clung to 95 1-2, at which figure they were marketed yesterday.

Utilities, mostly firm, found the market rather narrow. American Telephone 5s of 1965 sold off to 102 3-4 against their high of 105 1-4 a few weeks ago. Consolidated Gas of New York 5 1-2s, International Telephone 5s, Federal Light & Traction 6s, North American Edison 5 1-2s and Postal Telegraph 5s improved. There was only light trading in industrials, but the average for ten bonds of this group remained at its 1930 high of 94.5.

It was a quiet day for the liberties and treasuries and the largest turnover in the group was only about $55,000, par value. Prices closed slightly higher.

Foreign bonds were still irregular and quiet. The few new highs for 1930 included Peru 7s and Hungary Municipal 7 1-2s, each up a point. British 5 1-2s traded briskly but closed a shade lower. Kreuger & Toll 5s, with warrants, touched a new top on vigorous buying.

New financing scheduled for tomorrow is substantial. Heading the list is a $50,000,000 issue of Argentine government six-month 5 per cent treasury notes, to be offered at par. This is the largest piece of short term financing by a South American country in seven years. Other offerings include the $10,000,000 Starrett Corporation 20-year 5s at 92; an $8,000,000 issue of Calgary Power Co., Ltd., first 5s at 94; and a $4,000,000 issue of City of Dublin, Ireland, 5s at 95 1-2.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has placed its cigarette plants on a 10-hour day schedule. Previously the factories were operated on a 9-hour schedule.

Richard Whitney, head of New York stock exchange firm bearing his name, will be officially nominated president of the exchange next Monday as the successor of E. H. H. Simmons, who has been president for six terms, an unprecedented record in exchange history. Mr. Whitney is a member of the governing committee and vice president of the exchange.

Despite the cold period which affected a number of the principal markets of the country toward the end of March, demand for bituminous coal during the month was very slow, according to Coal Age. This sluggishness resulted in a sharp curtailment in running time in most of the major producing fields.

A. L. Humphrey, president of Westinghouse Air Brake Co., and Caleb S. Bragg, president of Bragg-Kleisrath Corp., have been elected directors of the Bendix Aviation Corp., succeeding C. M. Keys and J. C. Wilson, resigned.

The American Bankers Association Journal says there has been further recovery in business in the last month and that confidence is general that the improvement will continue. The steel industry expects to hold schedules around the present 75 to 80 per cent of capacity, the review says.

Net earnings of the Empire Gas & Fuel Co. which with its subsidiaries constitutes the principal oil producing unit of the Cities Service Co., for the year ending Nov. 30, 1929, amounted to $30,717,000 compared with $25,566,000 for the previous year. Leaseholds, oil and gas properties, pipe lines, refineries, service stations, etc., are carried at more than $300,000,000.

The General Electric Co. has acquired a controlling interest in the Walker Dishwasher Corp., of Syracuse, N. Y. Plans are underway to effect a new capital structure and to reorganize the company.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Expecting the government crop report would prove bearish, wheat traders went slow in buying today, only to find after the close that official figures on domestic winter wheat showed the crop condition was only 77.4 per cent. The average private estimates had been 81.4 per cent. Apparently this means that an unexpected cut of 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels in the 1930 probable yield of United States winter wheat has been made.

Closing prices on wheat today, registered before the government crop report was out, were firm at 3-8-7-8c a bushel advance over yesterday's finish but 1c1-5c-8c under today's top level. Corn closed 1-4-3-4c up, oats unchanged to 1-4-3-8c advanced and provisions unchanged to 10c down.

News that France was withholding permits to export wheat was largely responsible for the topmost upturn in wheat prices today. The action of the French government shuts off one of the most important sources of supply for other European countries, but late reports indicated that the refusal of export permits would not be permanent which tended materially to curb bullish enthusiasm. Another drag on the market here was the fact that export business in North American wheat today lacked volume, the total being only 400,000 bushels mainly wheat from Canada.

Relative firmness of the Liverpool wheat market and persistent widespread dearth of moisture from Oklahoma into Canada, however, tended to lift prices here. In some districts southwest drought conditions were described as the worst in 35 years. The Kansas City forecaster did not expect the drought to be broken this week. Late advices were to the effect that every day of drought was taking some toll, and that a large portion of the winter wheat crop of the United States was nearing irreparable damage.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat upturns, despite progress of corn planting in the southwest and of plowing in the more northern sections of the corn belt.

Provisions showed themselves responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat— May 1.11 3-8, 1.16 1-2; July 1.12 1-8-1-4, 1.18 1-2-5-8; Sept. 1.14 3-4, 1.21. Dec. (bids) 1.19 1-4. Corn—May 84 5-8, 86 1-4-3-8; July 87 1-8, 88 3-4-89; Sept. 88 1-8-1-4, 89 7-8-90.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, April 9—(AP)—Treasury receipts for April 7 were $6,264,410.29; expenditures $24,185,890.86; balance $329,168,260.37.

Ostriches are shot down by professional hunters in South Africa and examined to see if they have hidden away in their anatomy anything like a gem. Two birds recently killed are said to have yielded a fortune—one had fifty-three and the other seventeen diamonds. The ostriches plucked the gems from alluvial deposits.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)— Prices on the New York curb market gave a rather impressive demonstration of strength today as trading again approached the 1,500,000 share mark. Spectacular advances in a few high priced specialties were the features although good accumulation also was noted in a number of public utility, oil, motor and aviation issues.

Deere & Co. (new stock) ran up more than 10 points to a new high above 160 on unofficial estimates that earnings for the current quarter would run about $9 a share but eased to 158 on profit taking. The old stock soared 35 points to 781, and retained all but a point of its gain. Aluminum Co. of America jumped 10 points and Aluminum Limited soared 13 points to a new high at 225. A. O. Smith jumped 14 points, Neisner Bros. preferred 12 3-4 and Parker Pen 6 5-8.

In the public utility group, General Gas & Electric Convertible preferred jumped 7 points to a new high at 105, and retained all but a fraction of its gain, in anticipation of an unusually favorable annual report. Niagara Hudson Power, which is expected to absorb Consolidated Gas of New York in the next few months, was again turned over in large volume, but the net gain was fractional. Revival of activity in Electric Bond & Share carried that stock up more than 3 points but about a third of the gain was lost on realizing. Brazilian Light & Traction, Empire Gas & Electric 7 per cent preferred and United Light & Power "A" also moved into new high ground.

Canadian Marconi was turned over in enormous volume, crossing 8 to a new high record, on reports that a new radio plant would be built in Canada by that company with the backing of Radio Corporation of America, Westinghouse Electric and General Electric. Polymet, which recently has received several important contracts from radio manufacturers, crossed 17 to a new high. Driver Harris, which manufactures nickel alloys, jumped 6 points to a new high at 82, on reports of large current business, and retained most of its gain. Ford of Canada crossed 38 to a new high on the publication of an exceptionally favorable balance sheet by the parent company.

Mexico-Ohio Oil, which more than doubled in price, was one of the features of the oil group. Cosden jumped more than 6 points and retained all but a fraction of its gain. International Petroleum sold at 24 for the first time this year. Other oils held fairly steady, the increase in crude oil production last week being offset by the announcement of higher gasoline prices in New York and New England territory.

Aviation Corporation of the Americas and North American Aviation, both at new highs, led the airplane sha

POETRY

The Letter Carrier

No words of mine can quite avail
To praise the man who totes the mail,
Who trudges up and down the street
To make our daily lives complete.
He wears out endless pairs of shoes
To bring us little scraps of news
Of Uncle Will and Cousin Ruth
And little Absalom's new tooth;
He wades through mud and climbs up hills
To cheer us with the monthly bills,
And even when the weather's bad
Lays at our doors the latest ad.
Daily he views the selfsame scenes
And lugs the selfsame magazines;
He has, in spite of comic bards,
No time to read the postal cards,
And I suspect that if he had,
They would not make his life more glad.
His heart's as big as all outdoors,
And housewives give him little chores
Like wrenching tops from mason jars
And cranking unresponsive cars,
In his own quiet, homely way,
He represents the U. S. A.
And makes us sorry we were lax
In figuring our income tax.
How tame his life would be, how pale
If all he did was carry mail!

—Stoddard King, in Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Humanity

Keen men, mean men, merely money mad,
Cave men, slave men, slovenly and sad.
Strong men, wrong men, going to the bad,
All marching to the Day of Judgment.

Sleek men, weak men, slinking left and right,
Rough men, tough men, eager just to fight,
Queer men, fear men, creatures of the night,
All marching to the Day of Judgment.

Grim men, slim men, laggards in the race,
Tall men, small men, stern and fierce of face,
Proud men, loud men, seeking power and place,
All marching to the Day of Judgment.

Mild men, wild men, aimless and astray,
Crude men, rude men, jostling on their way,
Play men, clay men, living for the day,
All marching to the Day of Judgment.

Great men, straight men, stout of heart and soul,
Brave men, grave men, in a noble role,
Wise men, prize men, pressing towards the goal,
All marching to the Day of Judgment.

—Grenville Kleiser, in The Pathfinder.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Abie—Pappa, vat is science?

Pappa—My, how could you be so stupid! Science is dose tings vat says "no smoking."—The Pathfinder.

Chairman—Well, what had we better do with that garbage on the south side?

Member—I move that we put it all in the hands of a special committee.—Detroit News.

Press Agent (to Revue Star): I 'ave a request for your photograph to run in the Transcript. Have you got anything with clothes on?—Boston Beanpot.

The road show was playing a poor town.

"Are we alone?" hissed the villian.

"Almost," rejoined his partner, looking sadly at the rows of empty seats.—Boston Transcript.

He: "And what are you playing now?"

Lovely Small Part Lady: "Oh, the same old thing."

"He (cautiously): "I thought he had gone abroad."—Exchange.

Thrifty Man—Why spend so much on clothes? Cheap ones are just as good. I paid £3 for this suit and I guess if I said I had paid £8 you would believe me.

Friend (examining cloth)—Certainly—if you told me on the telephone.—Der Lustige Sachse.

"What would you do if you had the salary of the Chancellor of the Exchequer?"

"I don't know, but I would like to know what he would do with my salary."—Buen Humor.

"Before I give my consent to the marriage," thundered the old man, "I must ask what income you will be receiving."

"Six hundred pounds in all," the young man answered without hesitation.

"Then, with the 500 I allow my daughter, you will have—"

Quickly the young man shook his head.

"Oh, I have been reckoning that in!" he explained.—London Answers.

ACADEMY HANDS FIREMEN NEAT LACING; WILCOX STARS FOR N. F. D.

All teams have their off days and so did the Norwich Fire department Wednesday afternoon when they lost to the Academy at the campus by a 19 to 2 score.

Why wouldn't they be off? Wasn't it a bitter cold day with the resultant small crowd before which to perform and didn't their star pitcher, Billy Reid, have a sore arm?

But out of all the misery that pervaded the camp of the fire laddies there loomed one shining light in the bulk of Kirk Wilcox, demon rightfielder and lead-off man extraordinary. Kirk's playing far exceeded the expectations of even his most enthusiastic supporters for it was to the sorrow of the schoolboy pitchers that he swung his big bat yesterday. What we mean to say is that Kirk collected two nice clean singles in four trips to the plate and in the field contributed one of the most spectacular plays of the year when he made a diving try for a hard liner hit by Chubby Gibbs. He didn't catch it but that's all beside the point.

Scoring nine runs in both the first and fourth innings, together with a single tally in the third, the Wildcats were just rude enough to make a runaway of the game before the N. F. D.'s could get accustomed to things. The Firemen scored their pair of runs in the fifth and succeeded in putting men on bases in every inning but the sixth.

Coach Brigham used 16 players during the game, including Chuck Lavarge, Cliff Hamil and Boots Greene on the mound while Manager Tracy countered with his entire squad, including three hurlers, Reid, Nevins and McBurney.

The game was sewed up in the first inning when the Red and Whitesters had doubles by Weisgraber and Gibbs and singles by Arico and Lavarge with six bases on balls, two stolen bases, a passed ball, wild pitch and one error for nine big runs. In the second, a double by Fontaine, passed ball and infield out added up to one more tally and five singles, together with plenty of weird baseball, finished things in the fourth with nine more markers.

The Firemen scored in the fifth when Wilcox beat out a bunt down third base, crossing up the whole infield, went to second when Hamil threw into the crowd in trying to catch him napping. Kampf walked but Moody forced Wilcox at third, Gibbs to Breen. Finn popped up in front of the plate and while Fontaine dropped it and was recovering to throw out the runner at first, Kampf scored from second. Nevins then hit a double to left, scoring Moody.

Of the Academy pitchers, Boots Greene, working the last two innings, again looked very good, striking out four of the six men to face him.

Lavarge showed improvement over his first start last Saturday, going through the first four innings without being scored upon. He is a big boy with all the physical requirements for the position and seems to lack only experience. As he is only a lower middler, much more will be heard from him. Cliffie Hamil, who, only a first year student, looks especially good, was given one inning on the hill, the fifth, when the Firemen scored their runs. Cliff came out for pitch but seems more at home in the infield or outfield, where he is sure to win a regular place in a year or so, if not before this season is out.

Butsy Weisgraber and Alex Arico led the hitters with two bingles apiece.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Hank Morin and Shorty Hamil called them right.

The crowd numbered only about 200 or 300, the smallest that has seen a regularly scheduled Wildcat baseball game in some time.

Scoop McBurney, who was a last minute addition to the ranks of the Firemen, played really brilliant baseball. Scoop had a slight mishap in the fourth, when in attempting to field Crowell's bunt, he ran head-on into Nevins and was out for about five minutes. Some rude persons actually laughed.

Eddie Nevins, the Firemen's second pitcher, went along good after relieving Reid in the second until he struck a sore arm and retired in favor of McBurney in the fourth only to re-enter the box in the fifth and finish the game.

The Academy's next game will be against the Alumni Saturday, at the campus. Let's hope it's warmer.

Jack Moody played a nice game around the first bag for the Firemen, in fact playing about the best fielding game of anyone all afternoon.

The cold weather sadly depleted the Third Base Gang but there were a few members on hand, including Pop Lane, Charlie Mack and Scud.

The longest hit of the day was Nevins' double that bounded against the left field fence.

The prize for winning this game was to have been a turkey dinner but somehow or other it was not forthcoming. The victors claim that their rivals hedged.

The Academy revised batting order was not given much of a test but should get it Saturday against the graduates.

STATE CHURCH LEAGUE GAME AT LOCAL Y TONIGHT

Tonight at 8:30 at the Y. M. C. A., the Gamma club of the Greek church and Norwich Church league champions for the years 1929-'30, will have their first chance to show what they can do to bring the State Church league title to Norwich. The Hartford Central Baptist church, which has won the Church league title in that city for the past two or three years, and this year mowed down opposition in the elimination race of the four leading teams, will be the Gamma's opponents. Except for an off night, in which the Gamma team lost to the Trinity Methodist team, they have, with ease, won all their games for two years in the league besides beating other strong teams like the Brothers of Pericles of New Haven. The Central Baptists have in previous years won the majority of the games with the local C. F. C. club which was then composed of Brown, Ludlow, Leffingwell and others, so that the Gammas will have to test their basketball skill to its limits to win tonight. The second game of the series will be played at Hartford on Saturday night.

In the preliminary, the Baltic Methodist and the Phi Delta Nu teams of the Church league will engage in a contest which promises to be equally as good as the main one. In two years of playing the Baltic team has taken three out of four games from the Congregationalists by the same score, 21-20. In the last two games the Baltic team has won in the last minute of play, and the Deltas intend to gain some recompense by beating the Methodists, if possible, by the same score.

The preliminary is slated to start at 7:45 sharp, while the main attraction will take place about 8:30. The admission taken on tonight's games will go toward paying the local team's expenses when it travels to Hartford on Saturday night.

SOMERVILLE AND VOIGHT WIN FIRST ROUND MATCHES

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9.—(AP)—C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., who tied with Johnny Dawson, Chicago, for medalist honor, and George Voigt, New York, emerged winners in the first round match play today in the 30th annual North and South amateur golf tournament.

Somerville registered a three and one victory over T. S. Taller of New York, while Voigt defeated W. C. Fownes, Jr., Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

Dawson was scheduled to meet James T. Hunter of North Adams, Mass., but during the day a question was raised regarding his amateur status. He volunteered to withdraw and a default was put up for him pending settlement of the question.

Eugene Homans of Englewood, N. J., Georgetown university, eliminated Richard Wilson of Southern Pines, a Princeton golfer, 3 and 2.

In another lively match, J. A. Fownes of Pittsburgh ousted J. B. Stevens of Chicago three and two.

Starting out with a six, J. B. Ryerson of Cooperstown, N. Y., recovered enough to defeat W. E. Jacobs of South Orange, N. J., four and three.

Phillips Finlay, Redlands, Cal., eliminated Howard Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., by three and one.

Kenan Smith, Raleigh, N. C., youth, who was a sensation during the qualifying rounds, fell by the wayside by the tune of six and five in his match with W. E. Donahue, of Newark, N. J. Donahue was five up at the turn. Donahue halved the thirteenth to end the match after being trapped on his drive.

BRAVES STAGE BATTING BEE WITH SENATORS

NORFOLK, Va., April 9.—(AP)—The Boston Braves and Washington Senators engaged in an old fashioned slugging bee in their exhibition game here this afternoon, and the Senators won 19 to 13.

A total of 40 safe hits was registered, of which Washington made 22. There were 11 two base hits, one triple and six home runs. Goose Goslin got a homer, single and walked twice out of six times up. Welch, Brave center fielder, drove in Boston's first five runs with two homers. Cooney was hit freely and in addition was wild. Marberry did very well in the five innings he pitched except in pitching to Welch, but Moore proved no puzzle for the Braves.

ROCKNE ENTERS MAYO CLINIC FOR EXAMINATION

ROCHESTER, Minn., April 9.—(AP)—Knute Rockne, famed Notre Dame football coach, in jovial mood after his long journey from the beaches of Florida to Minnesota, entered Mayo clinic today and underwent a number of tests, the first of a complete physical examination.

Rockne, tanned by two months contact with the Florida sun, was accompanied to Rochester by Dr. C. J. Barborka, of the Mayo clinic.

The Notre Dame mentor has nearly recovered from an acute attack of asthmatic bronchitis, and while here will receive treatment for an ailing right leg as well as a complete examination. In a previous examination in Florida, Dr. Barborka defined the ailment as thrombo phlebitis.

Examination of Rockne will not be completed for perhaps a week.

RICHARDS WILL RETURN TO SQUAD IN TWO WEEKS

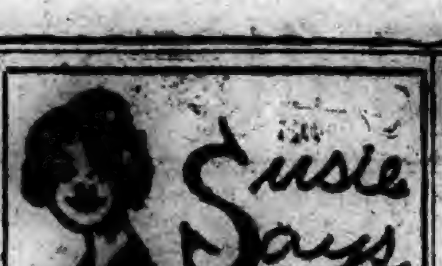
The Academy's 1930 baseball outlook, already bright, has taken on a more vivid hue within the past few days since it became known that Herbert (Pop) Richards, an outstanding pitching prospect, would re-join the squad in about two weeks. Richards had been absent since the first week of practice with a threatened attack of pneumonia.

Richards will probably be in action by May 1, should things continue to shape up as favorably as at present. He has had much experience and will make a strong fight for either a hurling job or maybe a place in the outfield.

Cards Are St. Louis Bound

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 9—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals started for home today. They are due to reach St. Louis Friday and the following day will open a two game series with the Browns.

The Cardinals did no work today at their Bradenton camp.



To one Norwich man the workings of Nature are beyond his comprehension.

It seems that a certain Franklin street merchant has two cats, their relationship being mother and daughter.

A few weeks ago the elder cat presented the Franklin street man with a half dozen nice little kittens as one ever saw. And then the daughter, not to be outdone, followed suit a few days ago, only choosing a neighboring store at her home.

The kittens of the elder cat were well grown when their nieces and nephews were born next door. One morning one of the children of the elder cat got out of the basket and was walking around the floor when in came the daughter cat from next door.

Seeing the kitten walking around the floor she went over, washed its face and stroked its fur and after making it presentable picked it up and carried it back to her own family.

A little while later the proprietor of the store where the younger cat was staying came into the other store very much excited.

"Whadda you think? You know that leetle cat of yours? Well she have kittens in my store yesterday and what you think, today I look at the leetle kittens and there's five with their eyes still shut and so big, but the sixth one has his eyes open and is twice as big.

"What you make outa that? How do one kitten grow so fast and the others not grow at all. I don't get that one leetle time, explain her to me."

And the little fruit man is still wondering about the wondrous ways of nature.

GRIMES UNABLE TO COME TO TERMS WITH DREYFUSS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 9.—(AP)—Burleigh Grimes, veteran "spit ball" pitcher, who was traded to the Boston Nationals today for Percy Jones, a left handed hurler, came to the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1928 from the New York Giants and this year was a holdout. It was his second connection with the local club, he having been secured by Brooklyn from Pittsburgh in 1918. He was with Brooklyn until 1926 when he was sent to the Giants.

Grimes was born at Clear Lake, Wis., August 18, 1892, and started his professional career in 1913. In the minors he played with Chattanooga, Richmond and Birmingham, among other outfits. He also was with the Detroit Americans for a time early in his career.

The "spit baller" was one of the mainstays of the Pirates last year, winning 17 and losing 7 games. He was injured late in the season and was out of the game for several weeks but fully recovered and took his place on the firing line before the season closed.

Grimes was unable to come to terms with the Pirate management this year, a demand by the pitcher for a two-year contract prevented negotiations from attaining a settlement. The club made known it was against the policy to tender more than a one year contract to any player. Grimes also asked an increase in salary.

Last week the pitcher was refused a divorce from his wife, Florence Ruth Grimes, at Canton, Ohio. The Grimes' home is at Minerva, Ohio.

The veteran moundsman went into spring training at Hot Springs, Ark. this spring, after he could not agree on terms with the Pirates, who trained at Paso Robles, Calif. His last conference with President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pirates took place on Monday at Pirate headquarters. A club announcement that day said contract matters had not been discussed but that the conference concerned only Grimes' "personal affairs."

President Dreyfuss tonight said that when "it became apparent that Grimes and the ball club could not get together, it was decided to do what we considered the next best thing—to send him some place where he can work and for us to get for him a man who will be better than having Grimes idle as a holdout."

The magnate said he did not care to divulge the amount of money involved.

GLENNA HAS MORE GOLFERS THAN SHE CAN USE

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—Glenna Collett knows just how the old woman felt who lived in a shoe. Miss Collett has so many golfers she doesn't know what to do.

The captain of the American women's golf team, soon to invade England said she has acceptances from "about 18" players, whereas the blue print for the international competition provides only ten places.

Miss Collett has suggested to Miss Molly Gourlay, British captain, that the team be enlarged to at least 16, but Miss Gourlay indicated a preference for play on the basis of the original ten. Miss Collett has written again and will cable an urgent request for an extension.

"Perhaps we will be able to agree to play ten singles and eight foursomes," said Miss Collett. "Certainly I hope so, for the response to my invitation has been so sweeping that I am anxious for all of our girls to get a chance to play in the matches.

"I sent invitations to about 40 women and nearly half of them have replied that they would go and play on the team. Of course, all of them will also compete in the championships beginning May 12.

"The championship is at Formby. The team match will be played May 1 at Sunningdale.

"As we sail April 22, we will have only two days for practice on the other side at the most and we may have only one."

Miss Collett was asked what course would be followed if the British women adhere to their convictions that the teams should be restricted to ten members.

"Well, in that case I guess only ten of us can play," she said.

"Who will select the team?"

"I don't know. Not I."

Red Sox Downed by Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., April 9—(AP)—The Columbus Senators of the American association defeated the Boston Red Sox 7 to 6 in the ninth inning today just in time to let the Red Sox run for their train and allowing the Senators to sweep the two-game series with their big league rivals. The Senators were ahead most of the way but the Red Sox tied the score at 6 to 6 with three runs in the seventh.

CAREY DENIES HE WILL RESIGN FROM GARDEN; NOT TO CONFER WITH JACOBS

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—Bill Carey came back from South America today, denied vehemently that he had any intention of resigning the presidency of Madison Square Garden, and swept aside all efforts to reconcile him with the managerial forces of Max Schmeling.

Although the garden is cooperating with Mrs. William R. Hurst and the Municipal Milk Fund committee in the promotion of a heavyweight title battle June 12 between Schmeling and Jack Sharkey, the bitterness of a year-old feud between Carey and Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling in everything but name, cropped out stronger than ever. With it grew the possibility that the garden domination of the heavyweight situation will end abruptly if Schmeling whips the Boston sailorman in June.

Jacobs, sailing in from a lengthly visit with Schmeling in Germany a few hours before Carey returned from negotiating a $100,000,000 railroad contract in Brazil, stood in an ante-room at the garden and heard the corporation explain his stand to newspapermen. Carey and Jacobs clashed last summer amid simultaneous cries of "Double Crosser" when an attempt to match Schmeling and Sharkey failed in Detroit after the match had been barred by the New York State Athletic commission.

"Madison Square Garden will never do business with Joe Jacobs again as long as I am president," Carey heatedly told the reporters. "We have no quarrel with Max Schmeling himself but we will never deal again with Jacobs."

Jacobs, who is slated to become the German's manager in fact when the Teuton's contract with Arthur Buelow expires Oct. 13, smiled in the anteroom. It was the first visit he has made to the garden since his clash with Carey last summer.

"The garden," he said, "will never get a chance to deal with Schmeling. Max can do some refusing on his own account."

Schmeling, Jacobs said, will be the first of the modern heavyweight champions not bound to the garden holdover contracts if he beats Sharkey. The fighter will sign his own contract with Milk Fund representatives upon his arrival here from Germany about the fifth of May. If successful he wants to fight Jack Dempsey somewhere in the United States in September and would like to defend the title in Berlin next summer.

Schmeling, now weighing 190 pounds and in fine condition after a month of training at a small camp near Berlin, is due to sail for New York April 28. He probably will complete training at Stroudsburg, Pa., where Gene Tunney, who forfeited the championship, prepared for his first battle with Jack Dempsey.

BRITISH PROS PLAY GREAT GOLF AT ROEHAMPTON

LONDON, April 9.—(AP)—With steel shafted golf clubs made honest weapons for British competition for the first time, every professional carried at least one in his bag at the annual Roehampton invitation pros tournament today. They used these and other clubs to such effect over the short course in the London suburbs that distance and par were annihilated and some competitors with even fours for 36 holes failed to qualify for match play tomorrow.

Reginald Whitcombe, youngest of the trio of golfing brothers and the only one of them to qualify, lead the field with 137, finishing with a record breaking 64.

Gus Faulkner, called "One Putt Gus," because he took only one putt on nine greens, had previously smashed the course record with a score of 65, but Whitcombe came in soon after with 64.

Henry Cotton, recently returned from a visit to South America, shared the runner-up position with W. T. Twine, each scoring 138.

Archie Compston required 145 strokes and failed to qualify as did the veterans, Alex Herd, J. H. Taylor and Harry Vardon.

DAWSON NOT ENTITLED TO PLAY AS AMATEUR

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the rules committee of the United States Golf association, made clear in a statement tonight that Johnny Dawson is "not entitled to play in amateur golf according to the rules of the U. S. G. A." although the official body had no part in forbidding him to compete in the North and South tournament at Pinehurst.

Mr. Ramsay explained that the U. S. G. A. had no more concern with the Pinehurst event than in "the championship of China" and said that no question of the Chicago player's participation at Pinehurst had come before the governing body of golf in the United States.

"However," Mr. Ramsay added, "I have been asked since the Pinehurst development what Dawson's status is in regard to the U. S. G. A. and I can only say that under its rules he is not entitled to play in amateur golf."

Dawson's eligibility was first questioned in the national amateur last year after he had decided to change his business from selling bonds to sporting goods. He did not play in the Pebble Beach competition.

FAGAN MAKING GOOD SHOWING WITH AGGIE FROSH

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, April 9.—Three full teams are working out daily for positions on the regular Connecticut Aggie freshman baseball nine. Among this group are a number of promising candidates who, after their experience with the frosh, should prove valuable material for the varsity nine next year. In the scrimmage games to date with the varsity the freshmen have been in excellent form, and in the last practice game the varsity succeeded in nosing the yearlings out only in the ninth inning by a 4-3 score. Present indications are that the freshmen at the Aggies will be represented by an outstanding nine this season.

The candidates who have seen the most service to date include Fagan, former Norwich Academy star outfielder, who has been converted into a catcher at the Aggies. The leading pitchers are Tourville and Calamari, of Deep River; Flynn, of Portland; Krumholtz, of Hartford, former Bulkeley high moundsman; and Photakas, of New Haven.

The infield is comprised of Lamson, former Windham high player, at first; DeRosa, from Warren Harding high at Bridgeport, at the keystone sack; Warren, of Windham high, at third base; and Gates of Middletown at short stop position. The latter appears to be one of the best fielding short stops to matriculate at the Aggies in recent years.

The leading outfield candidates consist of Merrill, former Windham high ball player; Skubliskas, of Windsor; Levitow, of Weaver high, Hartford; and Neild, of New London.

The freshman nine opens its season on April 26, at Storrs, when the yearlings will play the Bristol Boys' club on the Gardner Dow field. The complete frosh schedule, consisting of eight games, three of which will be played at Storrs, is as follows: April 26, Bristol Boys' club, at Storrs; April 30, Suffield Prep, at Suffield; May 7, Pomfret Prep, at Pomfret; May 10, Assumption college, at Worcester, Mass.; May 17, Rhode Island State, at Kingston, R. I.; May 24, Springfield college, at Storrs; May 28, Williston, at Easthampton; and May 31, Rhode Island State, at Storrs.

GRIMES TRADED FOR JONES FOR CASH CONSIDERATION

BOSTON, April 9.—(AP)—The trading of Burleigh Grimes, Pittsburgh pitcher, who has been a holdout all spring, to the Boston Braves, for Percy Lee Jones, a left-handed pitcher, and a "large cash consideration," was announced here tonight by Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston National league club.

Grimes, right-handed ace of the Pirates' pitching staff, refused to join that club at the training camp this spring when his demands for a two-year contract calling for a $20,000 salary were refused by the Pittsburgh club officials.

President Fuchs refused to give the exact figures of the cash consideration involved in the Grimes trade but said it was the second largest sum the Braves have ever paid for a ball player. Two years ago, Fuchs said he gave the New York Giants $100,000 for Rogers Hornsby, whom he later traded to the Chicago Cubs.

Jones, the southpaw pitcher included in the deal, came from the Cubs in the Hornsby trade last year and had a poor season with the Braves.

Berg-Jarrett Bout Postponed.

NEW HAVEN, April 9.—(AP)—The ten round bout between Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, and Irish Tommy Jarrett, New Haven lightweight, scheduled for Friday night here, was postponed tonight by Matchmaker Denny McMahon of the Arena A. C. An injury to his right hand received in his fight Monday at Toronto against Jackie Phillips, will prevent the English lightweight from coming here.

McMahon tonight said that April 29 has been tentatively set as the new date for the Berg-Jarrett meeting.

COLUMBIA TAKES MEASURE OF YALE IN LEAGUE GAME

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—The first official Eastern Intercollegiate baseball league season was ushered in today at Baker field with Columbia trouncing Yale 8 to 3.

Under the new agreement Coaches Andy Coakley and Joe Wood watched the game from the stands, leaving the direction of the field activities to Captains Johnny Morrison and John Meyer, rival second basemen of Columbia and Yale, respectively.

TRIBUTE TO PASTOR ROBINSON OF HOLYOKE

A recent issue of a newspaper in Holyoke, Mass., where Rev. Edwin Bradford Robinson, D. D., is pastor of the Congregational church, contains the following reference to this former pastor of the Newent church in Lisbon:

The current issue of the "Amherst Graduates Quarterly" carries the following Holyoke "copy" contributed by Halsey M. Collins of Cortland, N. Y.:

"After the fall meeting at Amherst, the secretary was detained for three days in Holyoke by a smashed automobile. Several hours of the tender ministrations of wrecking crews and repair mechanics made him feel the need for more than usual solace. So Sunday night he sought out Grace church, which is the habitat of Rev. Edwin B. Robinson, D. D., and his accomplished wife.

"Your stranded secretary got a real kick out of this experience. The church was packed, the front seats being filled with children. A part of the service consisted of a series of illustrated songs, which were sung with great zest. Finally they flashed on the screen a series of local stanzas composed by Mrs. Robinson to the tune of 'Lord Jeffrey Amherst.' This seemed to be a great favorite with the audience. They extended themselves till the walls seemed to bulge and the roof lifted at least a foot from its moorings. At the end of the first stanza 'Ed' stopped them and further enthused them with the suggestion, 'If you can't do better than that, my Amherst classmate who is in the audience will get the impression that you can't sing.'

"Mr. and Mrs. Robinson have been conducting the work of this church for twenty-eight years. To put over a Protestant church in the industrial section of a city like Holyoke with such a degree of response marks the Robinsons as making one of the outstanding successes of the class.

"The phase 'of the class' in the last sentence is a rather elastic term. Of course we produced 'Ed' and are entitled to shine in any beams he may shed. This is a good time for us to adopt Mrs. R. to make sure that no credit escapes our modest clutches."

GOV. TRUMBULL ISSUES FAST DAY PROCLAMATION

The annual Good Friday proclamation of the governor made public by Governor John H. Trumbull follows:

"The framers of the constitution of Connecticut bequeathed to posterity no inheritance more splendid than our deep and abiding reverence for Almighty God. Such reverence is the foundation of good citizenship, an inspiration to the most exalted patriotism, and an unfailing motive to devotedness and unselfishness in the service we owe one another.

"Service summarizes all our obligations to God and home and country and always implies the willingness to make sacrifices—the surrender of self.

"Thus it is that Good Friday has long been set aside that the people of Connecticut may each year, be led to consider anew the standards which underlie our whole social and civil fabric, and thus it is also that, animated by a profund conviction of the value of this custom, I appoint Friday, the 18th of April next, as a day of "Fasting and Prayer,

"And call upon my fellow citizens to observe this day in accordance with the traditions of our fathers, the dictates of our conscience, and the need, common to us all, of lofty spiritual ideals."

The proclamation bears the first impression of the state seal which was recently completed to replace the old state seal, worn out after years of use.

COURT HOUSE PANSIES WAITING FOR SNOWFALL

If the usual signs hold true, snow should be expected within 24 or 48 hours, because Superintendent Joseph J. Fields set out the bed of pansies at the court house Wednesday. Ever since Superintendent Fields has kept a bed of pansies in the court house yard alongside police headquarters' window there have been few years in which they have not been snowed upon very soon after they were set out. A fall of the feathery flakes should accordingly be expected to be fairly imminent.

Gave Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Harris of Poquetanuck gave a birthday party Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. R. C. Beckwith. Pinochle was the feature of the evening, after which a delicious lunch was served. Mrs. Beckwith was the recipient of many nice gifts, including a beautiful birthday cake presented by the hostess.

VOLUNTOWN PLANT MUST PAY $9,655 DISPUTED TAX

The circuit court of appeals has set aside the decision of Judge Edwin G. Thomas allowing the claim of the Briggs Manufacturing company of Voluntown that it paid $9,655 excess in income taxes in 1918.

The action against the government was brought as a result of wartime contracts when the company was manufacturing cotton yarns, tire fabrics and tent duck for the government. The decision of the higher court was received at the office of United States District Attorney John Buckley this week.

In filing its returns the company made certain deductions from its assessment, claiming that depreciation had accrued to its machinery and other properties because of the termination of their contract with the government at the closing of the war. Judge Thomas decided that the company's claims were justifiable and allowed the deductions.

An appeal was taken by the government, through its counsel, United States Attorney John Buckley and Assistant United States Attorney George H. Cohen. The government contended that the machines were not a total loss as some of them were still in use. The circuit court of appeals concurred, reversing Judge Thomas' decision.

TO RID STATE OF EUROPEAN BLACK CURRANTS

A drive to rid the state of the outlaw European black currant was announced yesterday by the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station. The plant is so virulent in spreading the destructive white pine blister rust that the 1929 general assembly passed an act making the possession of it a misdemeanor subject to fine. Likewise all states bordering Connecticut have placed the bush under legal ban.

In carrying out the eradication program, agents of the experiment station will eventually call at the door of every dwelling in Connecticut. Owners will be asked permission to examine the grounds and to pull up bushes of the European black currant, Ribes nigrum, or other cultivated currants, if the latter are within infecting distance, or 900 feet of white pine. The entire state will soon be posted with information about the statute.

The white pine blister rust, which threatens the existence of the state's most valuable timber tree, lives alternately on two hosts, the tree and currant or gooseberry bushes. The plant known sometimes as spice bush and clove bush is a flowering currant and takes infection the same as any other species known scientifically as Ribes.

The cultivated European black currant is the most susceptible and will catch infection from the trees over a distance of 100 miles. It can transmit the disease to a pine a mile away, whereas other currants are safe 900 feet distant.

Owners may easily identify the species that is condemned by statute. It differs from the cultivated American black currant in having resin spots, which are amber-colored, on the under side of the leaves only. Also its twigs are round and smooth, rather than ridged.

Before the possession of the cultivated European black currant was made a misdemeanor, the Connecticut Nurseryman's association recognized it as dangerous and agreed not to grow it.

The first work of the eradication program is in Salisbury, Litchfield county, the section of Connecticut where the white pine blister rust has inflicted the most damage. Two agents are now engaged in a house-to-house canvass. J. E. Riley, Jr., of the experiment station staff is in charge of the project. Further information may be obtained from him.

$150,000,000 DRY VOTE IN SENATE WITHOUT PROTEST

Two Annual Supply Bills Totaling About $1,500,000,000 Were Passed Yesterday — Voted For Investigation of Senatorial Campaign Expenditures — Report Received From Committee On Unemployment Legislation — Was the Busiest Day of the Long Session

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—Establishing almost a record of accomplishment for itself today, the senate passed two of the annual supply bills totaling almost $1,500,000,000, ordered an investigation of senatorial campaign chests, and received reports from its committees on legislation on unemployment and reorganization of the federal power commission.

It was one of the busiest days of the long session and brought the senate considerably nearer the June 1 adjournment date fixed by leaders.

The Harris bill placing Central and South American countries under immigration quota restrictions was pending at nightfall.

The treasury and postoffice department appropriation bills, carrying the annual allotment of $15,000,000 for prohibition enforcement went through without a word over the dry fund. This measure totaled $1,150,108,528, an increase of $2,000,000 over the amount provided by the house.

No trouble was encountered in rushing through the $287,211,973 proposed by the appropriations committee to carry on the vast interior development program under the interior department for next year. The senate added $4,000,000 to that provided by the house for the interior department.

The commerce committee ordered a favorable report on the bill by Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, to set up a federal employment system. The New Yorker gave notice he would ask to take up this bill next Tuesday along with his other measures to establish a long range employment planning board and to provide for the collection of more accurate employment statistics.

The interstate commerce committee approved the Couzens bill to reorganize the federal power commission. It would set up an independent group of appointed citizens in place of the present personnel of three ex-officio members drawn from the president's cabinet.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, author of the measure said he would seek early consideration by the senate.

While all this was going on, a subcommittee of the judiciary committee began hearings on the house bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department. An attempt will be made to get this legislation before the senate next week.

Representatives of industry appeared en masse before the sub-committee, headed by Senator Overman, democrat, North Carolina, to voice protest against the provision in the bill giving the attorney general a veto power over industrial alcohol permits.

These would continue to be administered by the treasury under the legislation.

Spokesmen for the drug manufacturers, paints, and varnish industries, chemists and allied business complained to the committee that the plan meant a dual control and would result in much delay.

Senator Hebert, republican, Rhode Island, of the committee, warned that the attorney general would be charged with full responsibility for prohibition enforcement. He suggested that some check be provided for the justice department over industrial alcohol. The hearings will be continued.

The resolution of Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, providing for a senate investigation of the campaign expenditures of the senatorial candidates in the forthcoming contests went through without debate.

$17,500,000 SUITS AGAINST HOTELS STATLER CORP., INC.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP)— Four suits, aggregating $17,500,000, were filed against the Hotels Statler Corporation, Inc., the executors of the estate of Ellsworth M. Statler, the New York Statler Company, Inc., and the directors of the Hotel corporation in the state supreme court today by Franklin J. Matchette.

Matchette based his suits upon the claim that he was instrumental in inducing the Pennsylvania railroad to lease the site now occupied by the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York and in bringing the Statler corporation into the position by which it now occupies the premises.

The first suit was brought against the Hotel Statler corporation for $5,000,000, charging breach of contract in the issuance of stock.

The second is against the corporation and the New York Statler company, Inc., for the repayment of $400,000 received for stock issued and for the transfer to Matchette of 6,000 shares of common stock delivered by him and held in escrow by the Bankers Trust company. It also asks for an accounting of $2,250,000 paid on this stock in dividends.

In the third action Matchette asks $10,000,000 from the executors of the estate of Ellsworth M. Statler and in the fourth, directed at the board of the Hotels Statler corporation, an accounting. The complaint accuses the directors of malfeasance and nonfeasance in office.

MAHATMA GANDHI FULLY PREPARED FOR ARREST

JALALPUR, India, April 10.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, the veteran Indian nationalist leader who has been manufacturing salt this week in defiance of the government monopoly, said today he was fully prepared for arrest.

He added that he would be sitting in his motor car with two or three books whenever the arresting officers came, prepared to accompany them, but said he was not prepared to go to jail through shedding blood, as some newspapers had reported. He said that the newspapermen who had reported his words in that sense either had misunderstood his language or else his language was at fault.

The Mahatma had an attack of old his comlaint, high blood pressure, this morning so he was forced to rest most of the day. Tonight he went to the marshy plains near Abrama to urge mass civil disobedience.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS WENT IN SEARCH OF ADVENTURE

NEW HAVEN, April 10—(AP)—Three junior high school girls, who disappeared from this city Tuesday, were safely back here tonight after traveling 400 miles in search of adventure.

The girls, Emma Wells, 15; Helen Stone, 13; and Margaret Short, 15, were picked up by a detective at the Green after they had alighted from an automobile which had brought them here from Hartford. Previously, police had been notified by another motorist that he had given the girls a ride from Springfield, Mass., to Hartford.

The girls were being held tonight at the Children's building pending an investigation into their adventures.

PLANE CIRCLED CAMP OF MEXICAN KIDNAPERS

TEPIC, Nayarit, Mexico, April 10.—(AP)—The droning of an airplane piloted by a fellow American who dropped close to his kidnapers' volcano lair, was a strong factor in the release of J. E. Bristow, American mining man, yesterday after thirty two days of hardship and privation.

Lieut. H. W. Lucas, of Los Angeles, a former navy flier who now pilots a passenger plane between Tepic and Mexico City, tried to locate Bristow's kidnapers early this week and for twenty minutes circled above the volcano Ceboruco where the bandits were hiding without catching sight of them.

Bristow revealed that Lucas circled the actual bandit camp for some time.

The kidnapers did not know whether they had been discovered but feared they had and were therefore inclined to hasten the ransom negotiations.

Bristow reached Tepic late last night Ahuacatlan where he had been released after payment of $1,500 ransom.

FIND THAT BASIL MILES DIED OF NATURAL CAUSES

WASHINGTON, April 10—(AP)—The department of justice announced today that it had not found any evidence to indicate that Basil Miles, former diplomat, had died of anything "other than natural causes."

The investigation was started at the request of United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover after reports had been made to him that there was something suspicious in the death of Miles.

More than a score of witnesses were examined during the inquiry, including the physicians who had pronounced Miles' death as due to a blood clot on the lung.

Miles' widow is now Mrs. H. H. Rogers, wife of the Standard Oil capitalist.

A statement from the department said:

"Not a shred of evidence has been obtained by the department to suggest that Miles died of anything but natural causes, or to justify further inquiry, and so far as this department is concerned the matter is closed."

INDEFINITE POSTPONEMENT STEEL MERGER PROBABLE

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio April 10.—(AP)—Financial observers here tonight believed that indefinite postponement was in prospect for the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, with the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

They based their conclusions on a statement of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and chief merger opponent, and of Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, assistant counsel for Sheet and Tube who had taken leadership in the proponents' legal battle.

Baker stated in open court this afternoon that even if the merger is confirmed by inspectors of election at the Sheet and Tube stockholders' meeting, "and Bethlehem so notified," that company will tell Sheet and Tube to get rid of its litigation before the deal can go through.

DROUGHT CONDITIONS MORE ACUTE IN THE SOUTHWEST

KANSAS CITY, April 10—(AP)—Hot, dry winds sweeping northward through the wheat belt lifted temperatures to mid-summer levels again today and made drought conditions more acute in the southwest.

With southwestern farmers praying for rain after one of the driest springs in years, the federal weather bureau held out little hope for an immediate break in the drought.

There was said to be slight chance for more than scattered showers in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, although the forecast was for somewhat cooler and more unsettled weather than in the past few days.

Dust storms that filled houses with grime were kicked up as the winds rode over dried out top soil in fields sown to wheat and other crops.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, April 10.—(AP)—The Daily Herald, newspaper organ of the labor party, announces that the British air ministry is investigating possible sites for an enormous aerodrome to be built in the heart of London.

ALLAHABAD, India, April 10.—(AP)—Led by Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the All-India congress party of Lahore, a group of civil disobedience volunteers today manufactured salt in the heart of the city from mud brought from a nearby salt marsh, and afterwards auctioned it off in packets. The police did not interfere.

THE HAGUE, April 10.—(AP)—Miss Doris Stevens and her colleagues of the national woman's party of the United States today demanded an interview with David Hunter Miller and the full American delegation to the conference for the codification of international law, asking Mr. Miller "to uphold President Hoover's pledge to the women that the United States delegation would be instructed to work for equality in nationality."

SUMMER TEMPERATURES PREVAIL IN MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, April 10—(AP)—Chicago and the middle-west perspired today from temperatures which sent the mercury to new heights for so early in the season.

With memories of the recent all-time record snow fresh in their minds, Chicagoans doffed their top coats and vests and turned on their electric fans as the mercury soared to 90 degrees at 3 o'clock, setting an all time April heat record.

Many other middle-western cities reported that their heat records for so early in the season were broken. St. Louis reported a temperature of 92 degrees; Milwaukee 90; Kansas City 92; Omaha 92; Peoria 92, and Des Moines and Dubuque, Iowa, 92.

The government weather bureau here said such high temperatures prevailed during the day in most of the lower Missouri valley and in the Mississippi valley. The heat wave was moving eastward, the meteorologist said.

CHARACTER WITNESSES IN TRIAL OF BANKER BURNHAM

MIDDLETOWN, April 10—(AP)—Fifteen character witnesses were called to the stand by the defense today in the trial of Clark W. Burnham, resigned executive vice president of the East Hampton Bank and Trust company, after the state had rested its case. The defendant is charged with embezzling $55,000 and falsifying bank records.

Two of the twelve remaining counts against Burnham were dropped today by the state after the court was informed that they did not involve Burnham directly. Yesterday two other counts were dropped by the state from the original fourteen counts.

Among the character witnesses who testified today, were Sheriff Charles A. Gates, of Willimantic and Deputy Sheriff Ray Younge, of East Hampton. Another character witness, Fitch Jones, of Hebron, testified that he had frequently allowed Burnham to buy stocks for him, leaving the defendant to select the stock. Jones said his dealings with Burnham had always been satisfactory.

PRICELESS HISTORICAL OBJECTS STOLEN IN VIENNA

VIENNA, April 10—(AP)—Priceless historical objects were stolen today by thieves who broke into the Vienna Army Museum.

The keys of the fortress of Venice and the golden key of the city of Milan, which Marshall Radetzky presented to the emperor of Austria after capturing the cities in 1848 and 1849, were carried off. Many jewel-studded decorations and trinkets were also stolen, including 100 decorations struck off by Maria Theresa, daughter of the Emperor Charles VI, and presented to famous Austrian generals.

STOLEN JEWELRY FOUND ON LAWN OF NEIGHBOR

MIDDLETOWN, April 10.—(AP)—Police today called it the act of a conscience stricken thief.

While raking Mrs. R. W. Cant's lawn, a man found jewelry valued at $100 stolen last November from her neighbor, Miss Florence A. Stillman, a school principal, who lives around the corner.

Since the lawn was raked carefully three weeks ago, police figured the thief's conscience began to bother him only recently, and that he left the loot as close to the home as he dared.

UNSUITABLE TO COMMUNIST CONDITIONS OF LIFE

MOSCOW, April 10—(AP)—The Russian Automobile Construction trust, which some time ago entrusted the planning and designing of a huge automobile factory and an entire socialist industrial center near Nijninovgorod to the Austin Engineering company of Cleveland, Ohio, announced today it had found the Austin company's project for a socialist town entirely unsuitable to communist conditions of life.

LINEMAN BURNED BY HIGH TENSION WIRE

MOODUS, Conn., April 10—(AP)—Robert Saffrey, lineman for the Central Connecticut Power and Light company, was severely burned today when he came in contact with a high tension wire. He was taken to the Middlesex hospital, Middletown, where two fingers were amputated and his left heel, which was resting on a steel guy wire at the time of the accident, was treated for serious burns.

BORROWINGS BY MEMBERS OF N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—The New York Stock exchange today announced that the ratio of total borrowings by members to the total value of all listed stocks on April 1, was 6.12 per cent, an increase of .23 per cent. This, however, compared favorably with April 1, of 1929, when the ratio stood at the high level of 9.76.

Naval Conference To Adjourn Next Week

Announcement Made By Premier MacDonald In House of Commons.

LONDON, April 10—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald announced in the house of commons tonight he was happy to say an agreement had been reached this afternoon between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, on a naval program including all categories of ships and showing substantial reductions.

Mr. MacDonald said the French, Italian and British delegations had agreed tonight that it was unnecessary and undesirable to keep the full body of delegates sitting in London pend[illegible] settlement of the difficulties [illegible] concern primarily these three [illegible].

Consequently it was decided to [illegible] a plenary session early next week, when the agreements already reached could be put into shape, and the conference would be adjourned with the understanding that the British, French and Italians would continue their efforts later to reach an agreement similar to that reached by Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

THREE POWER PACT ASSURED; HOPE STILL FOR FIVE POWER

WASHINGTON, April 10. — (AP) — Joseph O. Cotton, acting secretary of state, said late today that a three power naval pact apparently is assured as a result of the London naval conference and added that he had not given up hope for a five power pact.

The acting secretary said his attitude was based on news he had received today from London.

He believed that the present prospects are excellent for naval accord between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

He was still hopeful that France and Italy might be included in a convention for naval construction.

UNION MUSICIANS WON FIGHT IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10—(AP)—Union musicians here won today a round in their fight to hold their jobs despite the advent of the audible motion pictures.

The state district court of appeals reversed a trial court judgment which had dismissed the San Francisco Musicians union suit for a restraining order against the Allied Amusement Industries of California and others. The order sought would have forbidden under a prior contract, the discharge of musicians from theatres in which "talkies" devices had been installed.

An agreement between the Allied Amusements and the union on September 30, 1928, provided that "minimum sized" orchestras and an organist should be retained in any of the Allied Amusements' sixty-one theatres should sound equipment be installed. The agreement was to run two years.

In the superior court trial, the Allied Amusement contended that the agreement was intended to fix wages and conditions of employment, and was not in itself a contract for employment.

The Allied Amusments now are expected to appeal to the state supreme court.

ON TRIAL FOR SHOOTING NEW YORK POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—The fish story of Vincenzo Santangelo may be a decisive point in determining the verdict of a jury trying him on a jury trying him on a charge of shooting Policeman Thomas P. Fitzgerald

"I was working in a fish market the night they say I shot the policeman," said Vincenzo.

"Doing what?" asked Assistant District Attorney Barshay.

"Selling fish," the defendant responded.

Barshay reached beneath the lawyers' table and, drawing forth a finny specimen, queried, "What kind of a fish is this?"

"A Cod," Vincenzo answered after a few false starts.

"Wrong," came back the prosecutor, "it's a sea bass."

Five more times Barshay ducked under the table and came up with various denizens of the sea. Five more times Vincenzo guessed, and each time he was declared wrong.

"That's all," said the prosecutor.

Confessed Hold-Up Of Watertown Bank

John Smeden of Pittston, Pa., Held In Detroit—Had $533 In His Possession.

DETROIT, Mich., April 10—(AP)—John Smeden, 22, of Pittston, Pa., was held here tonight for further questioning after confessing, according to police, that he [illegible] two companions held up a W[illegible], Conn., bank on March [illegible] stole about $20,000.

Sm[illegible] was arrested on a char[illegible]spicion in the Michigan Ce[illegible] early today, refused to [illegible] names of his accomplices [illegible] robbery. Police, however, began [illegible] up on his movements since [illegible] date of the robbery and by further [illegible]estioning hoped to obtain from him more details of the robbery and the names of his companions.

When arrested, Smeden had $533 in his possession and a newspaper clipping, telling of the bank robbery. In a local hotel room, police found $1,000 of the money believed to have been stolen, while Smeden said he had concealed $5,000 of the loot in a safe deposit box in a Pittston bank. He turned over the key of the box to police.

Police said that Smeden's confession was complete. The youth, they said, was uncertain, however, as to the name of the bank robbed, saying that it was either the Watertown Savings or the Watertown Dime Savings bank at Watertown, Conn.

STORY OF HOLD-UP OF THE WATERTOWN BANK

WATERBURY, April 10—(AP)—The bank robbery for which John Smeden 22, of Pittston, Pa., is under arrest at Detroit, Mich., occurred at the Watertown Trust company, on the morning of March 28.

Three men entered the bank and after backing the entire staff of the institution, two men and five women, and three depositors into a rear room, cleaned out the vault and the cash drawers. The trio escaped in a sedan.

About a week ago, State Police Commissioner Hurley announced that Charles Klein, Edward Puckus and Charles Zenkauskas were being sought as suspects in the robbery. The trio, it was announced, had been identified by bank employes from photographs in the Rogue's gallery.

MAN IN CUSTODY BELIEVED TO BE "PHANTOM GUNMAN"

LOS ANGELES, April 10— (AP) — Morris Marks, arrested in New York today, was believed by Los Angeles police to be Morrie Moll, alias "The Phantom Gunman."

Upon receipt of telegraphic advices that the man was in custody, authorities requested that he be held under heavy guard for extradition here to face charges of robbery and for questioning in connection with the murder last September 26 of David Antink, real estate auditor.

The robbery charged against Moll is the holdup of Antink in 1923, while he was a drug store cashier. Four men obtained $33,000 from him. Antink fought his assailants, wounding one of them, Granville Blair, who was captured and sent to prison. Antink was shot but recovered. Elmer Dowdy, another of the quartet, is serving a penitentiary term for his part in the holdup. The third gunman, Harry A. Frank, was arrested in Ohio and sent to prison there on another charge.

REFUSED TO TALK OF THE SLAYING OF HER HUSBAND

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, the woman involved in the eight-year-old mysterious murder of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee, Wis., manufacturer, today made her promised appearance before the district attorney, but refused to talk of her husband's slaying or of Otto Sanhuber, 36, her alleged "attic lover" and confessed slayer of Oesterreich.

An expected meeting between Sanhuber and "Dolly" as he said he had called her during the 18 years she hid him in secret compartments in her Milwaukee and Los Angeles homes, did not materialize.

As she left the investigator's office, Sanhuber entered through another corridor.

The district attorney had planned to bring the two face to face for questioning.

VALUE OF GIN AS A FUR RESTORATIVE ARGUED

CHICAGO, April 10—(AP)—The value of gin as a fur restorative was argued before Judge John L. Lupe today.

"It revives the fibre, makes the fur glisten and keeps away moths," Jacob Cohen mentioned, in explaining why he had a gallon of the substance in his fur store.

The court was interested in Cohen's contribution to industrial chemistry—but not impressed.

"One hundred dollars and costs," Judge Lupe decided.

PROVOKED BY THE NEGLECT OF AIRCRAFT DEVELOPMENT

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary For Aeronautics, Told Senate Committee That Estimates Had Been Consistently Cut Down By the Budget Bureau For the Past Three Years—Asserted That the Navy Had Abandoned Its Racing Program In 1924 "For Reasons of Economy".

WASHINGTON, April 10. — (AP) — David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary for aeronautics, today told a senate committee that naval estimates for aircraft development had been consistently cut down by $1,000,000 by the budget bureau during the past three years.

Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, questioned persistently, he said, to find out whether "the budget bureau, the president, or congress" were responsible for what he termed American failure to keep abreast with other nations in development of fast airplanes.

Ingalls' statement followed an assertion by him that the navy is engaged in a study of the feasibility of pursuing speed development "with the money we now get from congress." The secretary said the investigation started last fall, after the only American plane under preparation failed in tests for the Schneider cup races.

Tydings called upon Ingalls and other high naval officials to give a comparison of American and other nations' navy planes tomorrow in the privacy of executive session, explaining that he wanted "the whole story" from the navy.

The committee began its investigation on Monday. Lieutenant Alford J. Williams, racing pilot, testified he resigned from the navy instead of obeying an order transferring him to sea duty. He said he wished to carry forward high speed experimentation.

Tydings criticised failure of the navy to come to congress over the heads of the budget bureau after Ingalls said the navy had received $1,000,000 instead of the $2,000,000 it had asked for aircraft development during the last three years with the result that only a small amount could be devoted to speed development.

Ingalls responded that such demands, if made by navy officers to an appropriations committee would be "considered insubordination because the budget figures have been fixed by the president."

The secretary said that the navy had abandoned its racing program in 1924 "for reasons of economy."

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION WAS DEBATED IN CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP)—Immigration restrictions against Latin-American countries and the Philippines were proposed in both branches of congress today as a means of checking what was described as the "deplorable" unemployment situation in the United States.

Opening debate in the senate on his bill to apply the quota laws to all Central and Southern American nations, Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, said 7,000,000 persons, many of them veterans of the World war, were out of work in this country and that thousands of their jobs had been taken by Latin immigrants, mostly from Mexico.

Contending the Harris bill would increase rather than retard unemployment, Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, opposed it on the ground that it would "strike a blow at Pan-Americanism from which it would be very difficult to recover."

Bingham argued that only about 2,000 persons enter the United States annually from the 18 Latin American countries south of Mexico and most of these were students, travelers, and agents to purchase goods.

"These nations are not flooding our markets with cheap labor," he said, adding that friendly relations would be seriously affected by any immigration bar.

Senator Harris insisted his bill would help labor and business, especially in the cotton belt where he said 56,000 Mexicans yearly enter into competition with American labor in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

CONFEREES AGREE ON HIGH AGRICULTURAL SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP)—The heart of the tariff bill—the agricultural schedule—was accepted by the congressional conferees today virtually as rewritten upward by the senate.

While the house bill carried several increases in farm rates, the senate boosted these still higher in scores of instances. Only rarely did the house conference group hold out today for its lower duties. A few of the house duties agreed upon exceeded those of the senate.

Only two disputes in the agriculture section—the seventh of the 15 rate schedules—went over for future decision.

These involved the senate amendments placing a duty of seven cents a pound on long staple cotton, now on the free list, and increasing the rate on frozen eggs from six to 11 cents a pound against a house rate of eight cents.

BUENOS AIRES, April 10—(AP)—Conversing by long distance radio telephone, President Hipolito Yrigoyen of Argentina today talked for 14 minutes with Persident Herbert Hoover.

The communication at the Buenos Aires end of the line was kept strictly private, but well informed circles asserted that both presidents had a most cordial exchange of greetings.

The voice of the Argentine president was heard as clearly as though he were in the city.

ATTACK ON WICKERSHAM AT THE LOBBY HEARING

WASHINGTON, April 10.— (AP) — Criticism of George W. Wickersham, chairman of the Hoover law enforcement commission, for serving as chairman of the foreign policy committee of the Federal Council of Churches, while acting as attorney for international bankers, was voiced today before the senate lobby committee by Chairman Caraway and Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts.

Caraway said Wickersham was in an "absolutely indefensible position." Tinkham commented that it seemed there was a "diversity of interests."

The name of Wickersham, who is a former attorney general of the United States, was added to the long list of notables who have figured in lobby committee testimony while Tinkham was demanding an investigation of the federal council, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals and the Anti-Saloon league.

The law enforcement chairman retired several months ago as an official of the council.

Tinkham did not finish with his attack upon the Anti-Saloon league and will appear again next week.

The committee adjourned until Tuesday.

J. P. MORGAN'S NEW $2,500,000 YACHT LAUNCHED YESTERDAY

BATH, Me., April 10.—(AP)—With pennants and signal flags flying from stem to stern, J. P. Morgan's new $2,500,000 yacht, the Corsair, said to be the largest privately owned craft in the world, floated tonight on the Kennebec river here.

The vessel slid from the launching ways at the Bath Iron works after Mrs. George Nichols, daughter of the New York financier, christened it with a bottle of champagne.

Mr. Morgan, his two sons and their wives and his two daughters, watched the Corsair, fourth of its name owned by the Morgan family, slip easily into the water.

The craft has a displacement of 2,71[illegible] tons, a 280-foot waterline, 42 1-2-foot beam and a draft of 18 feet. Her twin turbo-electric units generate 6,000 horsepower to drive the ship at a maximum of 16 knots. She has a cruising radius of 25,000 miles.

MRS. McCORMICK SAYS SHE IS LOOKING FORWARD TO A REST

WASHINGTON, April 10.— (AP) — After being whirled into Washington with a flag-waving welcome from her women colleagues in congress, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, victorious republican nominee for the Illinois senatorship, announced today that she would not start campaigning for election until October.

She is looking forward to a rest in her ranch retreat in Wyoming, in the rugged Jackson Hole country, in the interim between the close of this session of congress and the fall campaign.

"Just a little log cabin," is the way she described it, adding, "my ranch, not my farm."

Mrs. McCormick's home farm in Illinois is a business, not a recreation, and the remote Wyoming spot obviously has a great lure for a woman who has been making many campaign speeches.

CONTROVERSY OVER ST. PAUL P. O. BUILDING RENTAL

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP)—The proposed senate investigation of postoffice building leases throughout the country struck a snag on procedure today as new charges were hurled in the controversy over the 1921 St. Paul commercial station lease.

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, sought action on his resolution of investigation, but Senator Phipps, republican, Colorado, chairman of the postoffice committee, insisted that it be referred first to his committee. The upshot was that nothing was done, although all speakers professed a desire for the inquiry.

Representative Maas, republican, Minnesota, meanwhile issued a statement asserting that Postmaster General Brown in his report yesterday on the St. Paul lease "deliberately attempted to mislead the senate."

NORWICH MEN GIVE TALKS ON ZONING WORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 10—A comprehensive explanation of "Zoning" was given before a membership meeting of the chamber of commerce held with a dinner in the auditorium tonight, by Attorney William H. Shields, former corporation counsel, and First Selectman William S. Murray, both of Norwich. The speakers, who were introduced by President Louis H. Arnold, outlined the purposes and definition of zoning and told of the procedure used in doing the work and taking care of appeals in Norwich.

Attorney Shields, as the first speaker, defined zoning as meaning the creation of districts prohibiting the erection or use of injurious structures and land. Private zoning, he said, was divided into three parts, structural requirements (building codes), bulk (for larger cities as to height and area of buildings) and thirdly, use zoning (residences, business and manufacturing and sub-divisions of these). He stated that residence zoning applied to the number of families and houses, restricting areas for dwelling, clubs, churches, schools, parks, etc. These districts also provided for building lines and structures of accessory use, such as private garages. He explained non-conforming use as a difficulty which arises in the existence of so-called nuisances in areas at the time of the zoning.

The result of zoning, as outlined by Attorney Shields, is for improvement in the public safety, health and moral welfare. Zoning is enforced by police power and no compensation for restrictions is allowed.

Attorney Shields advised against the hiring of experts to do the work, recommending it to be done as it was in Norwich by the mayor, first selectman and two others, preferably two lawyers. He estimated that the cost to do this in Willimantic would be about $1,000 and highly recommended that the work be done.

First Selectman Murray, who is chairman of the board of appeals in Norwich, said that four districts had been established there, namely, residential A and B, and business and unrestricted. Residential B, which is of the highest class, calls for a setback of residences ten feet from the sidewalk line and for occupancy of not more than 70 per cent of the lot. Residential A is for five foot setback and occupany of not more than 75 per cent of the lot.

Permits to build in the city are secured from the fire marshal and in the town from the first selectman. A small fee is charged, the sum going to the fire pension fund in the city and to the town treasurer in the second instance. The board of appeals consists of the mayor, first selectman, and three others. Further technical points in zoning were explained during a question period in which several in the audience participated.

TAXPAYERS COMMITTEE ASKED TO ATTEND SCHOOL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, April 10—An invitation to the Taxpayers' Protective association of Windham to send a committee to meet with the school board when the school budget for the coming year is prepared, is to be extended, in compliance with a vote of the board. Attacks launched by alleged members of the association on the school finances are believed to have led to the proposed invitation. A report, submitted to school board members and covering the period from September, 1929, to and including the month of February, shows that the expenditures totaled $80,546.06. The school budget was placed at $200,000, leaving an unexpended balance of $119,453.94. A statement from First Selectman William A. Buck is to the effect that out of the appropriation of $8,500 for the purchase and improvement of Hayden field as a school athletic field, the sum of $7,932, has been expended.

In order to avoid a more or less concerted migration of pupils from the Oaks and other town schools to larger schools, such as the Natchaug, the school board has adopted a resolution that a pupil considering a change from the school of one district to that in another must first file an application with the committee on or before May 1, for a change to take effect the next school year. The application is to be signed by the parents of the pupil. The attendance at the Oaks schol has dropped below 100 registration, owing to the shifting of pupils to other schools. It is pointed out by committeemen that these changes, which are made during the school year, tend to interfere with the plans and programs of the schools involved.

TOWN RECORD BUILDING SITE NOT YET CHOSEN

Notice has been posted for the special town meeting to be held Tuesday, April 15, to hear the report of the committee regarding the cost, plans of construction and site to be procured preparatory to erection of a brick building with fire-proof vault for the housing of the town records. At the adjourned town meeting March 13, 1929, it was voted to expend not to exceed $4,000 for the erection of such a building, Samuel McDonald, C. H. Norton, James F. Purcell, Dr. Cyrus E. Pendleton and Selectman C. A. Kramer being elected the committee authorized to select the site, preferably on town property and to erect the building. Among sites considered by the committee is land between the Hayward fire house and Bacon academy; the plot of ground north of the Congregational church property; the Cragin lot, west of the Rutka store building, and land west of the Malofes lot, on Lebanon avenue. Various obstacles have arisen to prevent the selection of these sites and it is understood that the committee will appreciate suggestions from the taxpayers as to other possible sites when the town meeting convenes next Tuesday.

The town is badly in need of a record building, as the facilities furnished during past years to Town Clerk and Judge of Probate John Condren are entirely inadequate.

All the state highway fences through this territory that are constructed of wood are due for the discard, though probably quite a long period of time will elapse before the last of them give place to the more modern wire cable fences such as have been put up along recently-built state roads in this section. The cable fences are recognized by the majority of motorists as not likely to cause as much damage to machines or the persons in them in case of an accident wherein a machine comes into collision with a fence, as happens repeatedly. There are miles of the all-wooden fences in nearby territory.

Many chimneys have been cleaned, this being considered a factor in reducing the number of chimney fires noted during the past year.

PUTNAM

CLAIMS THERE ARE SALMON IN ALEXANDER LAKE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 10.—There's a story being told in fishermen's circles hereabouts to the effect that salmon have their abode in the waters of Alexander's lake, in the town of Killingly, just over the Putnam town line. According to the tale which is just being related, the federal government, through its bureau of fish and game, 15 years ago emptied a tank car of salmon fish into the lake. "—And not a one of them has ever been caught," ejaculated an old-time follower of the rod and reel today as he parted with the secret which he has carefully harbored in his bosom for many moons. "They don't catch 'em because they don't know they're there and because, in the second place, they don't know how to catch them," continued the angling enthusiast. Fishermen familiar with the Killingly lake today were inclined to place a certain amount of belief in the fish tale, but all were agreed that never a fish of the salmon species had been taken from the body of water, to their knowledge.

Perhaps the startling disclosure of the Putnam fisherman, made today, will be incentive for a delegation flocking to the lake shores on the first date of the lake fishing season, which will open a few weeks hence, in quest of salmon which must be after 15 years about—oh, well, how long would a 15-year-old salmon be?

Socrates George, Southbridge, Mass., confessed liquor racketeer under arrest in Pawtucket, R. I., on a federal charge of issuing counterfeit federal reserve notes, will be arraigned before the United States commissioner at Providence Friday to answer to the charge. Since his arrest in Putnam two weeks ago, George has been in Providence county jail in default of $5,000 set by the federal authorities for his release. Two others, John T. Cudworth and Miss Christine Ryan of Southbridge and Webster, respectively, who were arrested with George, will also appear before the commissioner, although they are not directly charged with being affiliated with violation of the currency laws.

There are several cases being prepared for trial at the May term of the criminal superior court to be held in this city next month. Among the cases of local interest that are pending is that of Samuel Renick, Main street man, who was found guilty of a breach of peace charge in city court a few weeks ago and received a fine of $1, which he appealed to the superior court. Mr. Renick, in taking the appeal, maintained his innocence and in doing so hopes to prove his contention that he was not guilty of the minor offense charged against him.

Alderman Edward Duffy of Pomfret street has recovered from a recent illness of pneumonia.

Police are puzzled at the mystic powers that attract numbers of vagrants to this city nightly for lodging at the station house on Church street. Wednesday evening the city had seven guests in its cell room. The last tourist to register was unable to be provided with a bunk, but was not indifferent when Patrolman Bill Durand offered the knight of the road the city's only alternative—a lounging spot on the floor outside the cell row. The six cells were taken during the early evening rush and since the last entrant had made no reservations he appeared to be satisfied with his quarters on the floor.

While the police have never as yet refused a brother of the highway organization a berth on which to rest his weary bones, they have found the practice at times bothersome, and to discourage the knights from making Putnam a stopover, they removed the "feather" mattresses from the bunks in the cells, leaving the boys every convenience of home, including the appealing steel slats (soft side turned up) of the restful appearing steel beds—but still they come.

Shortly before 1 o'clock, Thursday morning, an observer who happened to be in the business section of the city witnessed a shooting star, which left a streak of beautiful colors in its path across the sky, that remained for several seconds. Those who were privileged to view this astronomical phenomenon were agreed that the star was the most brilliant they had ever seen. The heavenly body appeared to have gained such terrific momentum in its flight earthward that its nebulous train gave off a swishing noise when it was seen to die out. While the event perhaps had no significance to those engaged in the study of astronomy, the flight of the meteor proved spectacular to those who viewed it and undoubtedly would have been of interest to all others who might have seen it had they been up.

CHROMIUM PLATING HITS FANCY AUTO DECORATION

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Development of fantastic gadgets for automobile ornamentation is stemmed by the popularity of chromium plating.

Chromium, in the language of platers, has "poor throwing power," and elaborate designs cannot be covered uniformly with shiny coats.

The bureau of standards, completing research on plating methods in the industry, concludes that "any revolutionary improvements in throwing power are improbable."

ROADS THAT RELIEVE

Not so long ago there was completed in the state of Rhode Island a by-pass, so called, a stretch of new road that made it possible for through traffic to circle several of the small villages where the highway was more or less congested by the village conditions. It was a new route that was slightly longer than the old one, but by avoiding the chief reasons for slow progress in going through villages it was possible to make much better time even though going a longer distance.

The benefit of this circling highway was at once appreciated. It has made such a good impression that another piece of highway construction is to be undertaken which will mean the elimination of another group of villages in the state to the east. This also will be a bit longer than the present road but distance without the delays incident to congestion in villages is easily overcome, and it will be recognized that the diversion of such traffic will mean safer conditions in the main streets of those villages.

Along with these new roads, it is pointed out that there is being opened up a new section of the state, a section that can be expected to undergo considerable development because of the improved highway conditions, when completed.

Connecticut has opportunities for giving attention to the building of better roads in undeveloped sections where motor traffic would be diverted from the main highways, where congestion exists and where encouragement would be extended to development. There were the days when it was declared that civilization followed the railroads. At the present time it is easily seen that development follows the building of good roads. This state fully understands that and it is desirous that there should be an effort made to open up some of the undeveloped sections by first putting the roads in such condition that they can be used by those who happen to live therein and those who would, if they could with comfort and safety, use the present poor roads which cross them.

It is time that Connecticut launched out more generally on the improvement of the cross roads which, in a great many instances, mean a short cut, less mileage and less congestion in the much used arteries of travel.

NIGHT ROAD WALKERS

It is at this season of the year, when legislatures are in session, that the idea of greater safety in the highways is freely advocated. It isn't the only time that it is needed but it is a time when action can be obtained, if at all.

For the better protection of the users of the highway the idea of having lights or reflectors carried or worn by pedestrians has been urged and it has been advocated that the same plan be carried out with cattle when being driven on the highway at night. The purpose is to give proper warning to others, especially the drivers of motor vehicles, that care must be taken to avoid human beings or cattle which have a right to be in the highway but which may not be readily detected without some warning light.

Edward T. Troland, an instructor in a New Hampshire school, has petitioned the authorities at Concord to provide "protection against reckless pedestrians" on the main highway near the school, which he declares to have been built for high speed traffic and will be used for such. He insists, and drivers will bear him out in his assertion, that there are times when drivers pick up with difficulty the person in dark clothes walking along the side of a concrete road. The situation is one that others have stressed repeatedly in the hope that a general conformance to the needs of self protection would result.

The Concord authorities regard the petition as the most unusual ever received but they must be aware of the seriousness of the situation. They must have knowledge of those who have been struck, possibly killed, at night while walking along highways. This occurs in the day time and under conditions when there is no excuse. There can be no idea in upholding the hit-and-run driver, but the instances are many when the most careful driver has difficulty at night in averting a collision with a pedestrian, chiefly because he did not discover his presence in the highway until almost upon him.

The idea of carrying a lantern or wearing a reflector has been adopted by many. It is a simple provision against serious trouble, a bit of self protection which those who travel the roads by night ought not to be forced to do but should adopt because of recognized value.

THE ILLINOIS RESULTS

There isn't any question but what Ruth Hanna McCormick has secured the republican nomination for the United States senator from Illinois. The figures make that certain. She won in a walk after a long and arduous campaign. Now the interest centers in the election day result.

She was seeking the nomination as a dry. She was standing throughout her primary campaign as an opponent of the entrance of this country into the world court. She was in the fight to redeem the defeat of her late husband when Senator Deneen was victorious and she made the most of the fact that she was the daughter of Mark Hanna. She understood the situation, politically, that exists in Chicago and Cook county, where the Thompson regime was so badly thrown out of joint in the not-distant past by the Deneen machine. She knew the importance of getting that county if she were to win and she accomplished it through an alliance with the Thompson machine, so that the victory not only gives her a chance to wave her hat but for Thompson to claim a restoration of his control in the mid-west metropolis. The claim is made that the McCormick victory was due to the world court issue. It is not impossible for wet Chicago to insist that it had considerable to do with the nomination for, although both of the republican candidates were dry, the wet stronghold cast its vote for Mrs. McCormick. It had had unpleasant experiences with Deneen; it wanted to try someone else. Thompson and Chicago thus have reason to rejoice with Mrs. McCormick.

When it comes to election the contest will assume a different appearance. With Mrs. McCormick as a dry there will be running in opposition J. Hamilton Lewis, an ex-senator, who is going to make his campaign as a wet. This will permit an out and out test on the question of prohibition, in which, the Literary Digest vote indicates, that state is deeply interested. As both republican and democratic candidates are declared to be against the world court that issue should be minimized. Their real contest promises to hinge on the wet question and it remains to be seen whether parties can be held together in spite of it. It is a state which in the past has expressed itself in favor of light wines and beer. How it will treat its senatorial candidates in view of their attitude on that question will be disclosed election day.

COMMISSIONER BUTTERFIELD

In the choice of Dr. Ernest W. Butterfield, education commissioner of New Hampshire, as commissioner of education in this state to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. A. B. Meredith, it is the belief of the state board of education that an able educator has been secured.

Dr. Butterfield will come to Connecticut with a record of accomplishment in the Granite state, a record that made an excellent impression upon those who were vested with the authority of making the selection, and one which it is believed will prove him capable of meeting the requirements in this state.

It was necessary for Dr. Butterfield to understand the problem in New Hampshire. He will be obliged to acquire the same knowledge concerning Connecticut. Twelve years of service where he is stand to his credit. It is not to be expected that the educational problems will be the same in every state, but with the faculty of discovering the needs and the weaknesses and devising methods of meeting them in a manner that will jibe with the prevailing sentiment, or that will prove convincing, there are reasons for looking forward to a long and successful service in behalf of better things educationally in Connecticut.

Having the reputation of doing things for New Hampshire, it is natural to expect that Dr. Butterfield will come to Connecticut with the idea of maintaining if not adding to that reputation. He will have the advantage of knowing what others have done and it is to be expected that he will chart a course of his own calculated to reach the port of accomplishment without striking the shoals or the rocks. He will head an important department of the state and it is to be expected he will make the most out of it. He must at least be given the chance.

AGUINALDO KNOWS

It is not difficult for this country to recognize the benefits which have been given to the Filipinos since they came under the flag of this country. We have been engaged in replacing the bad with the good. We have worked with the idea of relieving them from the unfortunate and handicapped conditions under which they formerly lived and helping them to experience the advantages of civilization and better government.

In spite of all the efforts that have been made, serious obstacles have been encountered. There was opposition to it among certain of the islanders. There were political conditions which had to be rooted out and there was cooperation which had to be secured through persistent effort and good example.

Our guidance of the islands has not been without recognition on the part of Filipinos. Probably there was no stronger opponent to this government in the early days than Aguinaldo. He not only opposed us but fought against our efforts. He has lived to recognize the folly of his course. There is today no stronger exponent of the benefits which the Philippines have secured from American occupation than Aguinaldo. He points with telling effect to the educational work, the good roads, the public improvements, the hospitals, the markets, the telephone and telegraph services, the public buildings. He can see the benefits on all sides and he knows that they are due to policies which have been put forth by this country in behalf of the islands.

Further than that, he knows and declares that what has been accomplished has been done without oppression. There have been serious times, times when the islanders may have been disturbed in their policies, times when drastic measures had to be used for the proper protection of the island government, but they have resulted in great accomplishments and the story is strikingly told when one like Aguinaldo, who has experienced all phases of it, is prompted to talk.

THE BUS RIDE

"Hurry! Hurry! Here comes the bus." Lydia's small brother danced with excitement and pointed with a chubby hand at the green and white bus that was humming down the highway.

In a flurry Lydia kissed her family good-by, grasped her suitcase and was off down the path to the crossroads at the foot of Nob hill. As her tall brother helped to stow away her baggage she entered the bus, then stood to wave until the last moment at the figure of her mother outlined so clearly against the sky. With a deft turn of the wheel the young driver was off again on the long run to the city.

Lydia gazed at the white clouds, deep cushions, and watched the familiar fields and hills of Michigan fade swiftly into the background. How smoothly the great bus swept along!

Her bright blue eyes took in her fellow passengers eagerly. Not one young person in the bus except the driver. Lydia looked at him again. He was quite handsome indeed in his trim brown uniform, his cap tipped jauntily over sleek dark hair.

He drove skillfully, his eyes on the road, his hands resting firmly on the wheel. Mile after mile fell behind like a golden ribbon unwinding in the early morning sunlight.

Lydia gazed at the white clouds, scattered like a flock of lambs across the blue dome of the sky. It would be dusk when they reached Chicago. Did every girl feel this queer sinking feeling when she left home the first time for a big university?

She was thrilled, yet a little frightened. There would be so many people, so many who would have plenty of money to spend, plenty of lovely clothes. She was proud and glad to come, but how she would enjoy knowing some one who would have to save and work hard, as she must do. She had even hoped that there might be other students on this bus.

At noon she was glad to step out and stretch a bit, looking around with interest at the busy corner where the little restaurant served the passengers with lunch. The young driver ate near by casting interested glances at Lydia's pretty, alert face.

On and on again, through towns, past rivers and fields. At 5 o'clock only half a dozen people remained. They frankly dozed and Lydia became restless. She tried to read or write, then stared wistfully out of the window. A paper from the university lay in her lap. She had not noticed that the young driver could see her in his little mirror until by chance she caught his eye. As the bus stopped at a gas station the young driver spoke, smiling at her over his shoulder.

"Going to the university? So am I. This is my last trip." Lydia's eyes flashed her interest. "We might as well get acquainted now," he said.

Luke Graham had worked on the bus line all summer. How queer that he had passed her house so many times! Learning that he lived in Plainville only ten miles from her home, she felt quite like they were old friends. This way his second year at the university, where he was working his way through. Lydia sighed with content.

She would start the year with a friend, some one who knew how to save, how to get the most out of the great new world which seemed so different from the small town high school.

"I saw you get on," Luke confessed as they waited for a train to pass. "I was going to quit last week, then I decided I needed all the money I could make, so I promised to take the bus down today." He beamed at her with such ingenuous pleasure that Lydia forgot to be shy. "And I'm certainly glad I did, for otherwise I'd probably never have met you."

Lydia's heart beat faster and she dimpled as his next words.

"It's going to be a great year, isn't it?" Then he chuckled. "How do you like the bus?"

"I love it." Lydia's eyes were like stars. "I never enjoyed a ride so much in my life." And on through the dusk sped the big green bus.—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 10—When congress enacted legislation way back in 1789 "for the relief of sick and disabled sailors" nobody could possibly have foreseen what the result was to be.

An agency to administer that relief had to be set up That was the beginning of the Marine Hospital service which in turn was to expand into the United States Public Health Service as it exists today.

That service today operates more than 150 hospitals and nearly as many quarantine stations at home and abroad.

It inspects travelers and sailorfolk by the million every year in its eternal watchfulness against disease invasion.

Its head is a quiet, unassuming man of many and various distinctions, Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general.

Bouquets

If Dr. Cummings ever happens to read house proceedings on the day in March when a bill passed widening the scope of his activities quite considerably—and incidentally boosting his pay some $2,200 a year—he might have cause to blush.

Rarely, except for political reasons, do servants of the government receive as many verbal bouquets as were handed then to him. Republicans and democrats alike took part in the symposium of praise.

"I think Dr. Cumming is one of the greatest men in the country," is the way Abernathy of North Carolina put it. "He is entitled to full cooperation of congress and the country in the great work he and his department are doing."

"Witness before our committee stated that the bill was too modest and conservative," said Mapes of Michigan, in charge of the bill.

"Does the gentlemen know of a finer personnel in any agency of the government than that of the health service?" asked Moore of Virginia.

"I would like also to pay a tribute to Dr. Cumming," said Mrs. Kahn of California. "We all realise his peculiar fitness and adaptability for this work."

And that prompted Porter of Pennsylvania to outline briefly "the brilliant record in the international field of medicine," Dr. Cumming has made.

And it is an imposing showing, for the surgeon general has been representing Uncle Sam for a decade in so many international conclaves of medicine men that it would take many words to list them all.

Glory

He has done it in such fashion that he is probably today the holder of more foreign decorations for service rendered than any other American with the exception of General Pershing and a handful of other army or navy folk who hark back to war days.

Doc Cumming is a commander of the Polish Order of Polonia Restuta; officer of the French Legion of Honor, an official of the Cuban Order of Merit, honorary member of half a dozen national medical academies and societies.

So much for this very modest American doctor.

YOUR HEALTH

Smallpox

By Grady Mathews, M. D., Claremont, Oklahoma.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

How many people are aware of the fact that there are more cases of smallpox reported by the United States than by any other nation in the world, with the exception of certain parts of Asia?

In several parts of the country at the present time, there is an unusual amount of this disease, and one reason that makes it hard for health authorities to combat it, is its mild form. People are careless about consulting a doctor, and by mingling with others when they really should be quarantined they increase both its prevalence and its incidence.

Smallpox is to a very large degree preventable, and the will of the people determines whether or not it shall invade a community. Vaccination definitely protects The protection does not persist for all time, and no definite statement can be made as to the length of immunity, which varies with the individual person. But there has never been, as far as the records of the Health Department reveal, any case that developed within five years after a successful take.

It has been contended by those opposed to vaccination, that the disease is one of filth and that it can be controlled and prevented by sanitation alone. The facts do not bear out these contentions.

Smallpox attacks people of every race and nationality, sparing neither young or old, exalted or lowly, clean or unclean. It spreads and thrives in communities enjoying all the benefits of modern sanitation; on the other hand it has been prevented by vaccination and quarantine in very unsanitary districts. Notification, quarantine and isolation are aids in preventing smallpox but they are no more than that; vaccination is the only way to control it.

Present day vaccination is harmless. In Detroit a few years ago, during a very serious epidemic, there were 317,000 vaccination without serious after effects; but one person out of every three who contracted smallpox died.

Therefore, the solution to the prevention of smallpox is vaccination and re-vaccination at not more than five year intervals.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

How Nature Heals Volcano Wounds.

To trace the steps by which Mother Earth heals the great wounds caused by volcanic eruptions, the National Geographic society will send an expedition to Alaska during the coming summer.

The party, which will be led by Dr. Robert F. Griggs, will work over the territory around Katmai volcano and the famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes which Dr. Griggs discovered while leading the society's expedition of 1916. The valley at that time was a seething inferno of hot rocks, steam and acid gases. After the discovery of the valley the National Geographic society sent two expeditions to study the interesting physical phenomena that had been disclosed, the latest one in 1919. It is now desired to note the various changes that may have taken place during the last eleven years.

Two sets of problems will face the expedition of next summer. The first group will deal with the geology, physics and chemistry of the region. By these studies it is hoped that an estimate can be reached as to the probable life of the steaming valley, and that it can be determined whether the fumaroles that in 1919 were filling the valley with their clouds of vapor are dying or whether they are being transformed into hot springs like those of the Yellowstone National park.

These problems will be attacked by making a careful measurement of the temperatures of certain fumaroles and comparing these data with the record of temperatures for the same vents in 1919. This matter gains importance because of the recent studies of Dr. E. G. Zies, published by the National Geographic society, which indicate that it is under conditions such as those exemplified in the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes that many ore bodies have originated. It is possible also that more can be learned through observation in the valley after a lapse of eleven years as to the formation of gysers such as those in the Yellowstone, in Iceland and in New Zealand.

The second set of problems to be attacked by the expedition has to do with the way in which growing plants find their way back into a region in which all vegation has been wiped out by the heat, ashes and pumice from volcanic eruptions. It is realized that conditions in and around the valley immediately after the eruption were somewhat like those throughout the world in the remote past before soil was formed, when plants undertook the great task of preparing the earth so that it could support animals and man.

When the latest careful examinations were made of the return of vegetation in the region, eleven years ago and seven years after the eruption of Katmai, it was found that certain pioneer plants had begun to grow in some of the pumice-covered areas, but that in others no plants had appeared. Photographs and descriptions were made of these locations. They will be revisited this summer and the changes that have taken place will be carefully noted. At the same time the soil in the locations will be analyzed and the analyses compared with those of eleven years ago. It is believed that these studies will throw light on processes of humus formation, thus helping in the solution of some of the most perplexing problems of agriculture.

The region in which the expedition's work will be carried on lies at the base of the Alaskan peninsula from which the Alleutian islands sweep off in an arc toward Asia. An area embracing the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes was made into a national monument by President Wilson in 1918.

FELLOWSHIP of PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "I am the good shepherd" (John 10:11).

Read: John 10:7-16.

MEDITATION: Jesus spoke of Himself as a shepherd. The Psalmist spoke of God as a Shepherd. Ezekiel spoke of men and women as shepherds. They were to care for other people. "Ye, my sheep, the sheep of my pasture, are men." Matthew Arnold spoke of his father as a shepherd. In his "Rugby Chapel" he pens a portrait of the man who led so many other men to life:

"Thou would'st not alone
Be saved, my father! Alone
Conquer and come to thy goal,
Leaving the rest in the wild;
Still thou turnedst, and still Beckonedst the trembler, and still
Gavest the weary thy hand.
Therefore to thee it was given
Many to save with thyself;
And, at the end of thy day,
O faithful shepherd! to come,
Bringing thy sheep in thy hand."

PRAYER: Give us courage, confidence and a love that watches over, cares for and comforts all thy creatures, great and small, for Thy love's sake. Amen.

Stories That Recall Others

No Use

Little Ann's mother had been pestered for several days by magazine solicitors and when she saw a young man with magazines under his arm coming up the walk, she whispered to her five year old daughter to answer the door and tell him her mother could not come.

Ann obediently answered the door and when the man asked to see her mother, she replied with great dignity, "I'm sorry, mister, but my mother can't see you. It wouldn't do you any good if she did, because she's only got a dollar and she has to give that to the iceman!"

Just as Easy

Recently, at a gathering of old friends, numerous tooth pulling experiences were being recounted by those who are now using "store teeth."

Each account was more gruesome than the last, until the youngest addition to the popular order of "Artificial Grinders" felt called on to laud the merits of modern dentistry by telling how painlessly whole sets of teeth can now be extracted.

"Why," exclaimed — — —, "instead of giving the usual well known and brutal yank that sometimes even dislocates the jaw, my doctor merely worked the teeth loose enough to lift out—just the way you take the kernel out of a nut!"

Little Talks on Thrift

Big Business Knows Value of Thrift

During the month of April special campaigns for the elimination of waste will be conducted by many of the large industrial and utility corporations of the United States.

The point which will occur to most of us when we learn of this campaign is that no concern is so large so powerful or so prosperous that it does not need t be thrifty. Some of the points brought out in explanation of the campaign are stated as follows:

"The subject of 'Waste Elimination and Prevention' is receiving each year more concentrated study by the industries and the utilities, for it is realized that the wastes of today will, if prevented, go to the makinig of the profits of tomorrow."

"Losses are more apt to occur in the common-place items often overlooked but the total of which is frequently in excess of those from large and more extensive ones."

"Competition, especially from foreign made goods, is becoming steadily more keen and we want to continue to hold our own by producing, as we have done in the past, apparatus embodying quality and good workmanship and with minimum waste."

Employees of the various plants will be encouraged to make suggestions to the company of methods of eliminating waste and cash awards will be given to workers who offer such suggestions. Exhibits which include tools and materials daily used and broken, lost or spoiled will be shown in the plants. Placards will be put up around the factories reminding the workers that lights and gas fires should be turned down if too high or turned out if not in use. Attention also will be called to poorly oiled machines which increase repair bills as well as to the careless throwing of materials in rubbish cans. It is pointed out that in one plant alone it costs $10,000 a year simply to sort out the scrap that has been carelessly deposited by workers.

Thrift means very much more than merely saving money by the individual. Big business knows this. Our great corporations have learned that waste of the smallest item is to be avoided. It is indeed a great lesson in thrift that all of us can learn from the examples set by these gigantic corporations.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

CHILD TRAINING

The Peril Of Delayed Discipline

(Hilda Richmond)

The judge came home from court with the expression on his face that every member of his family knew belonged with a difficult and painful case. Such a case had just closed. Everybody sympathetically tried to keep the house quiet to let him rest after his nerve-rackinig experiences. He had given scant attention even to his daughter's baby, the first member of the third generation in the judge's family, but that did not disappoint the young mother. Father must have time to rest and forget, in a measure at least, what had occupied his mind for the past week.

But a little dialogue between the young mother and the baby finally brought the judge to his feet sharply. "Mary, don't ever let me hear you say again that the baby rules your home. You must make him mind!"

"Now, Papa? Such a little mite?" said the girl, just as if she were very, very young and naughty herself.

"This very day! I tell you delayed discipline is dangerous. Unless you want to rear another young outlaw to add to the already long list, make your baby respect law and order." Then he went back into the library to the couch, leaving the young mother to fight her own battle alone.

The baby went at once to the forbidden object. "No! No! Baby must not touch," said the mother gently.

But baby did touch, and was promptly carried out of the room. There was some screaming as she firmly deposited the child on her own bed in her girlhood room. Then she went out and shut the door. Presently, as she listened, the noise ceased; so she stole softly down to read the evening paper with its glaring headlines:

"BOY BANDIT SENTENCED TO REFORMATORY. JUDGE H—— SAYS DISCIPLINE IN CHILDHOOD WOULD PREVENT CRIME." Then she glanced over the sickening details. A father and mother heart-broken over the wayward son; one of the best families in town mourning; lack of restraint in childhood makes boy defiant and uncontrolled. She laid the paper aside to slip upstairs and fall on her knees beside her sleeping boy.

That evening at the quiet family meal, in which the young father joined the family party and court news was not mentioned, the baby came in for his share of attention. A little hand reached out to touch a forbidden object and the grandfather watched intently.

"No! No! Baby must not touch!" said the young mother, but she did not take back the little hand by force. "Baby let the pitcher alone."

Lingeringly the hand was drawn back as the little fellow watched the mother's face.

"Good work!" said the young father with a nod of approval. "That's what I've been saying would have to be done, but—"

"But I see now," said the young mother gravely. "Baby is going to be a law-abiding little citizen from this time forth."

OIL REFINERS SEEK IMPROVED PRODUCTS

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Progress in the automotive and aviation industries in the last few years has forced the petroleum refiner to quicken step in order to provide motor oils and greases to meet the demands of modern engines.

Intensive research in recent months has brought advances in methods of refining, and as a result new lubricants and oils have appeared on the market.

One problem created by modern motoring is that of excessive oil consumption. Road tests have shown that at speeds above 50 miles an hour the quantity of oil used increases rapidly. To produce a lubricant adapted to high speed driving, refiners are using vacuum pipe stills equipped with fraction-acting towers which reduce the volatility of an oil to a minimum by separating the more vaporizable parts.

The American Society of Testing Materials has determined that viscosity is the most important single property of a lubricant. Since viscosity changes with temperature and the rate of change varies with different types of oil, and because the automobile and airplane motors are operated over a wide temperature range, the goal of refiners is an oil showing a minimum change of viscosity with temperature.

23 AIRPORTS OPERATING IN NEW YORK'S VICINITY

NEW YORK—(AP)—Twenty-three airports within 25 miles of Manhattan are now operating according to a survey by the Port of New York Authority. This does not include army and navy fields.

Four additional fields are under construction, and the New York municipal airport and the Secaucus airport on the New Jersey meadows are expected to open this year, according to the Authority.

The Newark airport now is the principal landing field for airmail and passenger service in the district.

Wood Makes Motor Fuel

BELLO HORIZONTE, Brazil—(AP)—The problem of cheap motor fuel, in a country where gasoline costs about 60 cents a gallon, seems likely to be solved by the use of alcohol distilled from ordinary wood. One inventor here has succeeded in distilling 60 liters of such alcohol from a cubic meter of wood. The cost is less than a fourth the price of a like amount of gasoline.

Gasoline Tax Aids Aviation

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—An aviation commission has been created by the Tennessee legislature to sponsor development of aeronautics, and the state is now setting aside $50,000 annually from revenue derived from its five-cent gasoline tax to aid in the promotion of airports and emergency landing fields.

"Y" PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT HAS HAD BIG YEAR

The following report of the physical department at the Y. M. C. A. was made at the annual meeting of the association Wednesday, by J. H. Demarest, physical director:

The past twelve months showed many different forms of activity going on in the physical department. New activities were added, many carried on from the year before, and some that were going last year have been cut out. We find in going over the records that there has been a steady increase in all the classes over 1928-1929.

The junior class has grown so that we have found it advisable to split the class in two sections A and B. The idea has worked out very favorably, and we hope to follow this plan through.

The Academy class has been bigger than in the past several years. They have followed a game program, and by the way they keep up their good attendance and interest it seems to agree with them. A large portion of the Norwich Free Academy representative athletes on their various teams keep in condition during the winter months by attending this class.

The business men's class, or the 5:15, as it is sometimes called, has increased over last year quite a bit. The main interest of this class is volley ball. We feel however that if music could be secured that a great number would enjoy a snappy calisthenic drill.

The senior class for the first time in several years have had regular class work two nights per week. The attendance has been good, but it should be larger. The percentage from the men's total membership who attend gym is high, but we hope this coming year to break attendance with this class.

A few of the high lights of last year are as follows: Last April the first annual gymnastic exhibition was held. It was well received by a large audience of friends, and parents of the performers. It was voted by the leader corps to put one on every year. During May the physical director went around to the grammar schools and helped the principals of the schools to train the students in track and field events. This was in preparation for the meet which was held out at the fair grounds the last Friday of May. Over a hundred students took active part, and their respective schools turned out en masse, to cheer them on to victory. Six grammar schools took part, and thanks to a dozen or so volunteer leaders the track meet was run off without a hitch. The same month with the assistance of four Y leaders the physical director went to Ledyard and conducted a track and field meet for eleven schools of that district. The people there seemed to appreciate very much this small service, and I hope that it will be possible for us to do more of it. June found our annual "Learn to Swim Week" under way. Every boy in Norwich of grammar school age was given the opportunity to learn to swim. Over 120 came to the building. Thirty-seven were actually taught to swim while the balance were at the least taught the fundamentals of the art. Friday night at the end of that week, a demonstration was put on by the boys, and their friends and folks were invited to see what they had accomplished. The Red Cross life saving corps put on a demonstration of life saving and advanced swimming.

During the summer months the regular swimming schedule was carried out. We were represented in both the junior and senior city baseball leagues. This kept quite a few of our members busy during the hot summer months. Several organizations were furnished with equipment for picnics and outings, and wherever possible leadership. With the opening of school we began our fall and winter programme. The association entered a team in the state Y. M. C. A. basketball league. They finished third after a hard season. The senior leaders went to Ansonia to compete in the state Y. M. C. A. gymnastic meet. It was the first time that a team from Norwich had entered, and they did very well. The volley ball team played several matches with other associations and enjoyed the friendly competition very much. The Red Cross life saving corps studied under a national representative this past winter. The course was very interesting, and most of the corps took advantage of the opportunity to increase their knowledge of Red Cross work. Several new pieces of apparatus have been added to the general equipment. The new horizontal bar is used a great deal by most of the members.

The all-around athletics were put on for the first time in several years. Keen competition followed, and for the months of February and March that was the talk of the gym. Medals were awarded to the winners and they will cherish them as they grow older. 100 boys took part, and we hope to make this an annual affair.

In closing I would like to express my appreciation to the senior and junior leader corps. They have helped immensely in carrying out the plans of the department. It is our aim to develop volunteer leadership, and we are very fortunate in having such a fine group at the present time. If credit is due, it belongs to them, for single-handed a physical director can do very little.

DEEP RIVER RESERVOIR COLORS CITY WATER

Water from the main line of the new Deep River reservoir was turned into the city system at practically full force Thursday and the results were soon apparent.

Visitors to the reservoir have observed the rather high color of the Deep River reservoir water in comparison with the clear water that comes from Fairview and Stony brook and when this mixed with the other water the results were apparent at once. In addition to this it was claimed that the high pressure had stirred up the sediment in the mains resulting in a muddy condition that drove many people to thinking of getting spring or well water where they could.

It is expected that the muddy condition will be cleared up in a day or two.

LIQUOR CASES TO GO BEFORE JURY IN COMMON PLEAS COURT SESSION

The jury in the criminal session of the common pleas court in this city will have plenty to do if all the cases in which the accused chose jury trials come before it. There were ten of this kind on the opening day of the court term here Thursday, all being cases in which violations of the liquor law were charged and in which the accused entered pleas of "not guilty" and elected to be tried by jury.

The first trial in the list is set for next Tuesday morning when Nicholas Panatagus of this city will be before the court on the charge of selling liquor on Feb. 20 to Ernest Brochu of Occum, who was doing so-called stool pigeon work for the police.

Others accused of liquor law violations, who want jury trial, are the following: Henry J. Pepin of Taftville, accused of selling liquor to Brochu; Mary Piatek, alias Mary Jurack, of Jewett City; Witold Korpacs of New London, keeping and transporting on March 26, also as second offender.

There are also cases in which what is claimed to be evidence was secured by two detective agency employes, Herbert Gray and James Eustis. These cases are the following: Alexander Behnke, Jewett City, second offender; John J. Donohue, Norwich, sale on Nov. 7, 1929; Camile Frechette, Norwich, sale on Oct. 21, 1929; Alexander Kornacki, a minor, Norwich, sale on Nov. 12, 1929; Albert Strakus, Jewett City, sale on Oct. 22, 1929; Charles Morrissey, Jewett City, sale on Nov. 22, 1929, also second offender.

A nolle on payment of $10 was ordered in the case of Nicholas J. Doyle of this city on the charge of driving without lights. Attorneys T. J. Kelly and Edward G. McKay were his counsel and the charge on which he was fined was substituted for driving under the influence on which he had been fined $100 and costs in the city court.

Fined for Long Trailers

Clifford Horton of Boston and Arthur Weeks, North Tarrytown, N. Y., presented in a companion case for violation of the motor vehicle law, each pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs. They were in court as the result of appeals from fines imposed in New London when they were convicted of charges of driving trucks drawing trailers of more than legal length. The appeals were taken to test the law, the claim being that it interfered with interstate commerce.

A nolle on payment of costs of $15 was entered in the case against Sam Chinigo of this city, charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws in failing to grant the right of way.

Sam Santanella of New London, who was fined $5 and costs in the justice court at Montville, had the charge of violation of the motor vehicle law nolled absolutely in this court upon recommendation of the prosecutor.

The case against Henry Giddings of Sprague, charged with non-support, was continued.

Charge Against Woman Nolled

A nolle was entered in the case against Mrs. Annie Hanick of Montville, charged with breach of the peace. The charge was the result of an alleged attack by Mrs. Hanick upon her husband. Mr. Hanick died in New London recently from chloroform liniment poisoning, self-inflicted.

Woman Fined

Mrs. Nora Oulet, conducting a rooming house in the Franklin square section of Main street, pleaded guilty to violation of the liquor law in making a sale to two detective agency employes who were rooming at her house, securing evidence in liquor cases. The sale was a pint of whiskey. Attorney Thomas J. Kelly appeared for Mrs. Oulet and the prosecuting attorney explained to the court that Mrs. Oulet has gone out of the liquor selling business now, which she only adopted as a temporary expedient, as her husband was out of work.

Milton Green and Harold Mansfield, both of the town of Preston, charged with violation of the fish and game laws in the town of Ledyard, had the charges nolled, upon recommendation of the prosecutor. They were represented by Attorney Edward G. McKay. Both men were out coon hunting and were using a flashlight. They were apprehended while in an auto and the game warden charged them with hunting deer, but this was not proven.

Sweet Fined $5

Byron Sweet of the town of Griswold (Jewett City) was given a blanket fine of $5 on a charge of violation of the fish and game laws. He was charged with having deer skins and deer feet in his possession.

Upon recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Whittlesey, the case of George Seidel, Sr., charged with non-support was continued. The attorney said there was a divorce suit pending.

Continuance was also ordered in the case of George Milton Gager. Mr. Whittlesey said this was a motor vehicle accident case in which the fine had been only $10 and there was a civil suit pending. There was also a continuance in the motor law violation of Michael T. O'Connell in which there is a civil action at law.

Fined $125 And Costs.

A fine of $125 and costs was imposed in the liquor law violation case of Mike Kargul of Jewett City, for whom T. M. Shields was attorney. Kargul pleaded guilty on one count. He had been fined $150 and costs in the lower court for sale on Oct. 22, 1929, to Gray and Eustis. Attorney Whittlesey said that as it was beer and not hard stuff which was sold he would recommend the $125 fine and would recommend nolle of a second count on reputation.

TESTIFY TO SPEED IN FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT

Testimony given by passengers of the Nash roadster which went off the Military highway at Dead Man's curve on the night of April 1 and resulted in the death of Mrs. Rose LaValle Riley of this city, at an inquest conducted by Coroner Edward G. McKay here Wednesday afternoon, revealed that the driver, John Kehoe of the Norwich state hospital, had at least two drinks of gin that evening and that at the time of the accident the machine was traveling at an estimated speed of 40 to 45 miles an hour. The fact was also brought out that the dead woman had urged the driver "to step on the gas," previous to the crash.

Mrs. Josephine Bessette of No. 201 Yantic street, a passenger, testified that Mrs. Riley continued to urge Kehoe "to step on the gas" but that she implored him not to go so fast as she was afraid of being killed. She was called a fool by Mrs. Riley on this account, she said. Mrs. Bessette told the coroner that Kehoe was driving "fast enough to scare her," but did not approximate the speed. In reciting a stop made near the submarine base because Paul C. Chaplin of 607 Main street, was sick, she said that "Paul was drunk."

Mrs. Beatrice Frenette, of No. 184 Talman street, testified that there was a half pint of gin in the machine, most of which was drunk by Chaplin, while Kehoe had about two drinks just before leaving Ocean Beach. She estimated that the car was being driven between 40 and 45 miles an hour before the accident.

Mr. Chaplin claimed that two half pints of gin were in the car and that Kehoe was driving about 35 miles an hour prior to the crash. Miss Antoinette Dominique, of 249 Yantic street also testified, corroborating the testimony of Mrs. Bessette. Elmer E. McKenzie and John Smith, of the Groton barracks, also testified relative to the measurements taken.

Kehoe was not questioned at the inquest. He is being held at the county jail here on a technical charge of manslaughter pending the finding of the coroner, which is now expected any time.

PAID FAREWELL TRIBUTE TO REV. F. M. COHOLAN

Nearly 500 parishioners of St. Mary's Memorial church and friends of other denominations in the city were at the assembly hall of the church Thursday evening, when a testimonial gift in the form of a substantial check was presented to Rev. Frederick M. Coholan, now pastor of Holy Trinity church, Pomfret, but formerly assistant pastor at the local church. Rev. Arthur B. Sullivan, curate at St. Mary's, acted as master of ceremonies.

After Rev. Fr. Coholan, with visiting priests from nearby towns and the local parish priests were ushered to places in the front part of the hall, an entertaining programme was carried out, the opening numbers being the selection, "The Bells of St. Mary's," by the St. Mary's trio, and a vocal number, "My Home in County Mayo," by Nicholas Spellman.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan announced that the event was in honor of Rev. Fr. Coholan, who had recently been assigned to the Pomfret church, and also to welcome the newly appointed pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue. He then paid a fitting tribute to the late Rev. William A. Keefe, for many years pastor of St. Mary's, whom he said he felt was looking upon the assemblage in approval, and was there in spirit. Rev. Fr. Sullivan pointed out that Rev. Fr. Coholan was Rev. Fr. Keefe's right hand man in those difficult years of constructing the present church; also in financing its construction. Upon the request of Rev. Fr. Sullivan the gathering stood in silent prayer for a moment in memory of Rev. Fr. Keefe. Remarks were also made by the new pastor, Rev. Fr. Donahue.

At the conclusion of the song number, "Mother Machree," by Edward Connelly, a check for a sizable amount was presented to Rev. Fr. Coholan by Rev. Fr. Sullivan. In accepting the gift Rev. Fr. Coholan stated that he would always remember the parishioners of St. Mary's and his friends in Norwich.

"Happy Days," "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine" and "Auld Lang Syne" made up the closing vocal selections of the musical programme, which was in charge of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, church organist. The accompanist for the evening was Raymond Kennedy.

Among the visiting priests attending were Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's, Rev. A. A. Jalbert, Baltic, and Rev. Omer T. Mandler of Taftville.

A native of New Britain, born there in 1884, Rev. Fr. Coholan secured his primary and high school education in the schools of that city. He studied for priesthood at St. Thomas's seminary, Hartford. After completing the classics there he was sent to France to continue his education, taking courses in philosophy and theology at the Seminary of Saint Sulpice at Issy, near Paris. In 1912, Rev. Fr. Coholan was recalled to the United States and was ordained on June 29 of that year at St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford, by Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, D. D. After a short period spent in Waterville, Me., he was assigned to St. Brendan's parish, New Haven, remaining there for nine years. He has been assistant pastor at St. Mary's since 1922.

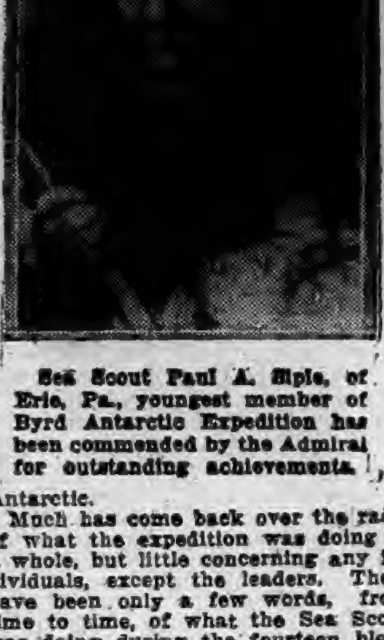
EAGLE SCOUT WAS AIDE TO COMMANDER BYRD

When the ships of the Byrd Antarctic expedition arrive in the United States in June, one of the most interesting members will be Sea Scout Paul A. Siple, of Erie, Pa., youngest of the party, who has won highest commendation, from Admiral Byrd for the work he has done since the expedition left New York nearly two years ago.

Information to this effect was contained in a letter received by Scout Executive Sellman from the National Scout offices in New York.

Sea Scout Siple, who is an Eagle Scout, the highest rank which a Scout may obtain was selected from among thousands of Boy Scouts at the invitation of then Commander Byrd, to be his personal aide. He sailed away from New York on August 25, 1928, the most envied boy in America, with a man-sized job to fill on one of the greatest exploration expeditions of all time. On December 2, 1928, Siple, with the others of the husky group comprising the expedition party said goodbye and left Dunedin, New Zealand, the last port of call en route to Antarctic.

Praised By Chief



Sea Scout Paul A. Siple, of Erie, Pa., youngest member of Byrd Antarctic Expedition has been commended by the Admiral for outstanding achievements.

Much has come back over the radio of what the expedition was doing as a whole, but little concerning any individuals, except the leaders. There have been only a few words, from time to time, of what the Sea Scout was doing during the fourteen bleak months on the ice. Such messages as did come through, however, were all to the effect that Siple had made good splendidly. But it was left for Admiral Byrd to sum up the Sea Scout's accomplishments a few days ago in a radio message to the Boy Scouts of America, as follows:

"Sea Scout Paul A. Siple took up his work in the expedition as a man among men. He stood regular deck watches on shipboard and turned himself into an able seaman on a full-rigged sailing vessel.

"At the base he was given a dog team to drive and soon learned to handle the dogs like a sourdough as soon went out on the trail. Paul was given the young pups to train and turned out a most useful team that answered many calls for odd jobs around camp. As zoologist he has worked diligently in getting specimens of Antarctic bird and animal life spending many hours in cleaning and preserving the skins. He has also done good work in taking depth soundings in the Bay of Whales and has been a keen observer on his many pup team trips on the bay ice of animal life and of ice conditions. Along with the rest he has taken his turn at menial tasks such as shoveling snow, house duties, kitchen police and standing night watches. Paul is now on the whaler "Larsen" on route to Wellington in charge of live penguins that we are making an effort to bring back to the states and will rejoin ship in New Zealand." (Signed) Byrd.

Siple has since returned to Dunedin from Wellington where he had charge of stowing the penguins aboard the whaler "C. A. Larsen" for the trip to the United States. At Dunedin he was royally welcomed by the Dunedin Boy Scouts headed by District Commissioner W. F. Meek.

FOUR COMPANIES FIGHT DANGEROUS BRUSH FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 10—The most serious brush fire that the department has been called upon to combat in several years was that which broke out this evening. So menacing was the blaze that it required the combatting of the fire by four companies a half hour before the burning underbrush was subdued. The fire was discovered at 7:20 and was located on a vast acreage lying in the section between Bayonet and Williams streets. The blaze, fanned by a brisk wind, burned rapidly and an alarm was sent in from Box 151, corner of Bayonet and New streets. One engine company, two hose companies and a hook and ladder company responded. When the firemen reached the blazing grass, a spectacular fire illumined the heavens to such an extent that indications pointed to serious results. The firemen attacked the blazing grass with brooms and chemicals, but it was a half hour and after strenuous fighting that the blaze was subdued. At one stage of the fire, the garage of Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin appeared to be in danger and a company was stationed there to be in readiness should the fire advance to a point where it would be possible for the frame building to become ignited.

Steige, of the Chicago detective bureau, communicated with the New London police stating that Coghill had been arrested upon his return from Crown Point, Ind., where he married Lenneo Lindgreen April 8. Mrs. Coghill No. 1 is visiting her two children at Greenport, L. I.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Veedol Motor Oil

The Graf Zeppelin and the Byrd expedition's choice and use of Veedol motor oil is being prominently featured in a big newspaper and poster advertising campaign inaugurated March 27th by the Tide Water Oil Sales corporation.

The newspaper campaign is running in a large list of both daily and weekly newspapers. Big space is being used and dramatic illustrations and statements by Dr. Eckener and others as to Veedol's performance in the motors of the Graf Zeppelin and the Byrd planes, form the background for the query—"Why pay more than Veedol's price for any motor oil?" A special drive is being made for more frequent crankcase drains through a special price.

Mr. E. L. Shea, in commenting upon the company's program for 1930 said: "Two outstanding events in aviation history occurred in 1929, namely, the circumnavigation of the globe by the Graf Zeppelin and Rear Admiral Byrd's hazardous flight to the south pole.

"The fact that our Veedol motor oil was chosen for both of these performances, after repeated tests by Dr. Eckener and the engineers of the Graf Zeppelin and Rear Admiral Byrd and his associates, we believe is deeply significant.

"In the case of the Graf Zeppelin, the safety of a four million dollar investment, the lives of 60 people and the hopes of the German nation were at stake. In the Antarctic Veedol shouldered an equal responsibility and in both instances, the flawless performance of the Veedol lubricated motors brought success.

"We believe that there has been a tendency on the part of the American car owner to underestimate the importance of proper lubrication. It is a well known fact that too few cars are lubricated in accordance with manufacturer's specifications.

"Some oil companies in the hope of impressing the motorist with the quality of their product have gone too far in recommending infrequent crankcase drains.

"We have placed in the hands of all our service stations and all our dealers, a complete lubrication guide that enables the service station attendant to lubricate an automobile exactly in accordance with the recommendations of the car manufacturer's engineering department.

"By making a special price on Veedol in crankcase lots, we hope to induce more motorists to lubricate and grease their cars when they should. This will effect a tremendous saving in upkeep and repairs. Incidentally, of course, it will increase the dealer's business in complete lubrication service, and bring back some of the oil business that has been lost through the indifference of the public to this important element in successful car operation."

Coincident with the campaign on Veedol, the Tide Water Oil Sales corporation has also inaugurated a similar advertising program on its Hi-test gasoline. "Thrift" is the keynote of this campaign and a trade character, a Scotchman by the name of Sandy MacThrift, lends point to the arguments advanced for patronizing the dealer who sells the—"great, green gas whose qualities of silence, instant starting and power carry no extra price penalty."

SPECIAL HOOTER CLEARS WAY FOR QUEEN MARY

LONDON—(AP)—Queen Mary's motorcar has been equipped with a musical hooter to remind inattentive traffic policemen not to keep her waiting behind a "stop and go" signal.

She already had an indentification disc on the automobile but this has not always been enough to obtain a clear road for her majesty with a consequential delay in keeping some of her appointments.

Special instructions have been issued to all metropolitan police so that they will be able to recognize the peculiar notes of the new hooter, but the tune it plays is a carefully guarded secret from the general public.

TOURISTS REPLACE TRADERS IN REGION OF BLACK HILLS

RAPID CITY, S. D.—(AP)—Tourists have replaced prospectors and fur traders in the trek of the Black Hills.

This new summer playground hopes to entertain 750,000 visitors during the coming season.

Where the redskin shot the bison, his white successors may shoot the birdie on new golf courses. New hotels are relieving the former shortage. There are 40 tourist camps.

The vacation of Calvin Coolidge, then president, in the Black Hills in 1927 stimulated the tourist trade, which had begun seven or eight years before. That year 300,000 travelers came. In 1928 there were 450,000 and last year more than 500,000.

Treated Wood Economical

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Use of chemically treated timber saves railroads $145,000 a day, says C. C. Cook, maintenance engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The life of a treated crosstie frequently is treble that of an untreated one, he says.

Pecan Trees Line Highways

DAWSON, Ga.—(AP)—Terrell county has a pecan highway. By means of donations from civic various organizations more than 15,000 pecan trees have been planted along the highways.

U. S. Motorcycles Popular

WASHINGTON—(AP)—All of the 119 motorcycles registered in Porto Rico during the past years have been American makes.

Lawrence D. Spellman, former Westerly resident, died in Hartford Tuesday following an illness of but two weeks. When residing in Westerly Mr. Spellman was employed for a time as gate-keeper at the Arnold mill of the Westerly Woolen Co., in Stillmanville. TRISTAM D. BABCOCK DIES THURSDAY AT 87

Tristam Dickens Babcock, 87, died shortly before 1 a. m. Thursday at the Anderson hospital where he has been a patient since last November. Commissioner Babcock was the chairman of the water board of which he had been a member since the fall of 1897 when the town of Westerly took over the water works system. Mr. Babcock was prominent in the democratic party of Westerly but with one exception could not be prevailed upon to hold political office in the town. When a coalition slate of republicans, democrats and prohibitionists was presented at the 1905 election for town council Mr. Babcock was nominated and elected to council membership, and for three or four terms he was a member of this town council. He was born Dec. 10, 1842 at Avondale where he resided until 1879. He received his education in the schools of Westerly. As a young man, he was employed by his uncle, Captain James R. Dickens, who ran a packet between Westerly and New York and in this business he continued from his 18th to his 30th year. In 1883 he bought the Paul Babcock farm on the Watch Hill road. He erected large ice houses and entered the ice business at No-bottom Pond. This business in 1918 was taken over by James Jolly. In 1900, the business was incorporated as the Westerly and Watch Hill Ice company when he became its president, and the artificial ice plant was erected near Mr. Babcock's home.

For a number of years he conducted one of the largest dairy farms in Westerly. Years ago he was connected with his brothers in a fishing business. For a number of years he was a member of the state board of agriculture as well as cattle commissioner. He was a charter member of Westerly grange.

Mr. Babcock married Aug. 3, 1868, at Stonington, Conn., Charlotte Irish, daughter of Rev. James Irish of Rockville, R. I., whose grandfather, Paul Babcock, owned the Watch Hill road farm at one time. There was one son, William Tristram, who died at the age of 30, in 1899, leaving a daughter Martha (Mrs. William Owens) who resides on the Cedarhurst farm, Avondale. Mr. Babcock was the son of Oliver Babcock and Martha Dickens. The former died in 1900 and his wife in 1888. Mr. Babcock had two brothers and a sister, Capt. James Oliver Babcock, who now resides at Avondale; Daniel Courtland, deceased, and Nancy Babcock, wife of John Tourjee, who died a year ago last February at her home in East Greenwich, R. I.

Mr. Babcock descended from James Babcock, the first of the Babcock family in New England. He leaves, besides the relatives mentioned a nephew, Louis Austin Babcock of Stamford, Conn., and a niece, Mrs. Lois Babcock Loomis wife of Robert Loomis of Avondale.

STRICKEN SUDDENLY, MRS. E. W. BROWNING DEAD

A former public school teacher Mrs. Harriet Stanton Browning, 72, wife of Elisha Watson Browning of Saunderstown, R. I., died suddenly Wednesday night at Westerly hospital. She had been here to visit her sister, Mrs. W. C. Gavitt of East avenue and was returning home to Saunderstown by automobile with her husband, a nephew and a niece, when she was stricken suddenly ill at Dunn's Corners. She was brought to Westerly hospital where she died soon after her arrival. Mrs. Brown was born at Charlestown, Feb. 12, 1858, the daughter of George A. and Bridget Browning Stanton. She was a member of one of the oldest Washington county families. With her parents she came to Westerly when a child and received her education here. After graduating from high school she went to R. I. Normal school, Providence. After completing her course there she became a teacher and was for many years at the Chestnut street school. In all, she was a teacher for about 50 years, retiring from active service 21 years ago. About seven years ago she was united in marriage with Elisha W. Browning of Saunderstown, who survives her. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. D. H. Champlin and Mrs. W. C. Gavitt, both of Westerly.

THE LIFE OF A MINER DESCRIBED BY JOHN WINTER

John Winter, who has been a miner all his life around the hills of Pittsburgh, pa., has come to Noank to make his home. He is 77 and told his story to a crowd that gathered around the town dock. Mr. Winter has a cousin here, John Commerly.

"When I was a young man," he said, "my father had a large family so I had to leave school and enter the coal mine. I went driving mules. It is called mule shining. I held on to that job for a while. Then I thought I would try the pick and shovel, getting so much a ton on it, and how my back hurt, bending over for 12 to 13 hours a day. I remember one day, as I was going along with the light on my cap and everyone was hustling, when the mine caved in, burying many of my fellow workmen. I crawled for a long distance, trying to find my way out. Talk about groans! Fellows were calling for help—it sure was sad! The men on the outside worked for hours bringing the men out, many of them dead. I got out safe but was hurt where the coal hit me on the back, sending me to the ground with such force that it broke two ribs. Many men were working in that mine—over 100. The life of a miner is hard. You go down in the morning and don't know but you will get carried out at night. You will be walking along and a lump of coal will fall alongside of you. You've got to jump so as not to get hit. It sure is interesting work, but hard; but once a miner is always to be one. That's all a man can do. You get so much a ton and a smart man can make a good day's pay. As you know, I am not bald headed, only gray, and have seen 77 summers with the winters thrown in. I had never ridden on a train or been in an auto, so I thought I would come to Noank where the air is salt. I got in the bus for the first time and was some happy. The seats were easy, like sitting in a barber chair. As the bus rolls along you sleep and wake up in another city. The view along the line is good, everything so green, and farmers planting potatoes that, before the summer is over will bring a few dollars a bushel. When the snow is on the ground, those fellows can laugh at the world and light up their pipes enough to say, we don't have to worry! Let the mean wind blow!"

Winter was asked, "Are you going up in an airplane some day?" Rubbing his white whiskers, he said, "Well, I don't think so! A man might have a weak heart and if he does, that air flop upside down and he is a gone man!"

He also told about a fellow who had the night mare coming in the big blue bus. It was around 3 o'clock in the morning and he dreamed someone said, "Stick them up!" How he was hollering! Everyone came out of a sound sleep and thought it was time to swallow their watches but found out it was only a night mare alarm from the far corner of the bus. That fellow almost got thrown out on his ear. Then everyone had to laugh and said, "Don't let it happen again!" Then back to sleep they went. There was more fun on that trip than taking your mother-in-law to a dollar day sale!

"Gee! I sure think Noank is a great place! You can watch the fishing fleet come in, see a 20-pound lobster or a flying fish. Going up to the store for a pack of Old Golds you see Young Brocky, champion fish packer, who can beat any two salts putting those fish in a barrel. It is great to watch him, for the hand is quicker than the eye. It is like picking up an armful of eels.

"When the sun is hot in the big cities, a breeze always comes up the harbor, they tell me. Well, this Noank is some place and I am going to like the Indian town.

"I have a watch that has not stopped since my dad gave it to me when I was 18. The name is the Miner Special—a heavy watch like a fireman's lantern. I owe that silver watch a good reward. A lump of coal hit me on that watch and sent me to the ground, but it never hurt the watch for the lump hit on the edge. Gee! I sure was saved from a broken hip and in all my days during my long life I've had some narrow escapes! Must have had a rabbit foot in my pocket. After sending in my papers telling them I was through and wanted to go on the miners' pension list, I had charge of the mine. When I left they gave me a chest of silver and a pick and shovel made from the best silver that you can buy. I had to make a speech and sure was some shaky, like a dog after a flea near his tail; but I got away with it! All the miners had tears in their eyes the day when I packed my 2x4 suit case for the fishing village."

The D. A. R. magazine, received by local members, contains many pictures of interest, one of Constitution hall, in the auditorium of which the 39th Continental congress will hold its annual session, beginning Monday next, April 14, and ending Saturday night, April 19. The views show the front of the hall, the stage in the auditorium with four vertical panels painted by a noted artist as mural tapestries, giving a full description. The window overlooking the marble stairway to the library is in honor of Mrs. A. J. Brosseau, former president-general. Other views are of the opening session of the Women's Patriotic Conference for National Defense, held in the hall on Jan. 29, 1930; the front lobby of the auditorium, ladies' rest room, the main lounge (one of the most attractive), the pages' room equipped with every comfort, and the hospital room, containing two beds and equipment. Another article and picture of interest is that of Tennessee's most historic spot, the home of Andrew Jackson, the seventh president of the United States. A new feature is the idea of showing American history depicted in shop windows. This idea originated with Mrs. Flora M. Gillentine, last October. Several large stores in the country have followed out the suggestion in their windows, and five of the most prominent views are shown in the magazine. The house in Brunswick, Maine, in which Harriet Beecher Stowe lived and where she wrote Uncle Tom's Cabin, is shown, also the bronze marker placed in the house by Topsham-Brunswick chapter, D. A. R., in 1928. There is also a list of the burial places of the presidents of the United States. It is expected that Fanny Ledyard chapter will be represented at the meeting next week. The total membership up to Feb. 1, 1930, was 171,276 and Connecticut, with 53 chapters, contributes 6,850 of those members.

Elder Swan Recalled

The April issue of the Connecticut Baptist refers to the convention office receiving a picture of Jabez S. Swan, who for three years, beginning November, 1860, was a missionary of the convention. Mr. Swan was an outstanding evangelist in his day, fearless and forceful in his utterances. The strength of the Baptist hosts in southeastern Connecticut is largely due to his evangelistic work. He served several of the churches in that section as pastor. The picture was presented the convention by Mrs. J. R. Holley of Bristol. It is encased in an antique hand-carved walnut frame. Jabez Swan was born in Stonington, Conn., Feb. 23, 1800. Sunday, Sept. 11, 1843, he gave the hand of fellowship to 216 persons here in Mystic and on the next Sunday, to 78 more. This was the result of a revival held by the two Baptist churches, Second and Third Baptist, then in the village. These two churches were later united and formed the Union Baptist. Elder Swan, as he was called, is remembered by many of the older residents of the village and surrounding country.

HOME GROWN IS IMPORTED

(Written Specially For The Bulletin)

At the last meeting of the Connecticut Dairymen's association Prof. A. R. Merrill of the Connecticut Agricultural college presented a few figures from a survey of herd conditions in ...tford and Windham counties ...h seem not only interesting but ...r suggestive.

...seems that Hartford county ...ymen have raised nearly all their ...e and bought very few. The ...tion arose what effect, if any, did ... divergent practices have on the ...h of the two counties' herds?

...e outstanding fact brought out ...g the investigation was that the ...hten herds of Hartford county ... about 50 per cent worse infected ... such bovine troubles as garget, ...ion and T. And Windham had thus ... able to sell 9 per cent of its ... at the higher prices obtainable ..."milkers," while Hartford county ...sold only 4 per cent that way.

...other words, boiled down to a ...p and held up to the light, Wind-... county home-grown herds were ... about half as likely to show di-... as Hartford county boughten ..., while, at the same time, they ...just about twice as likely to sell ...kers" at good prices as "dis-..." at low prices.

...reover, the facts seemed to show ... this marked immunity of Wind-... county herds was directly due to ...fact that the dairymen of that ...ty preferred, in the main, to raise ... own heifers rather than buy ... cows.

...wasn't so much due to better care ...iser feeding or finer pasturage ...etter breeds, as it was to the ... that the Windham county crit-...were mostly natives while those ...artford county were mostly im-...

...ut I am not going to teach my ...dmother to suck eggs, nor my fel-... farmers of the dairies how to ...ge their herds. This evidence of ...superior value of home-grown ... ever imported stock simply ...borates a general principle.

...at is to say, the principle of ...-production for everything which ... be home-produced.

... is, admittedly, easier to buy ... than to make or raise them,—...u have the money to buy with. ... is it better? For you? For your ...? For your farm? For the fu-...? That's another question. If I ... a young man, starting out on an ...ge New England farm, I should ... my first goal the making that ... self-providing and practically ...pendent.

...course, you can't raise oranges or ...fruit or sweet potatoes or sugar-... or bananas or nutmegs or things ...at sort on any average New Eng-... farm. But you can raise your ... colts and your own calves and ... own lambs and your own pigs ... your own chickens and your own ... and your own potatoes and your own oats and your own hay and your own apples and pears and grapes and berries and your own fence-posts and about eleventy-steen other things. Not only can you raise them but you can get them of better quality than any you're likely to buy.

Can you buy at any market a "pork roast" as sweet and tender and juicy and generally glorious as the "sparerib" from your own home-fattened pig? Can you buy at any fruit-stand an Oregon or Michigan apple as luscious and mellow and palate-tickling as the pippin or spitzenburgh you take from your own tree? Have you ever found any Florida or New Jersey strawberries that came up to those you pick, ripe, red, melting, delicious, from your own patch? Can you get from any fruit and vegetable peddler sweet corn as plump and meaty, cucumbers as crisp, green peas as satisfying as those growable in your own garden?

I'm not saying that an occasional bringing in of new stock may not be of value in some cases to stimulate a good strain or to neutralize a developing fault. But, as a general rule, applicable to other farm products as well as to dairy cattle, the native growth is apt to be the best. Moreover, there's a good deal of plain "guff" about most of the talk regarding the necessity of new blood and new seed, etc. It's quite as apt to be a camouflage for plain laziness as a matter of scientific deduction.

For instance: About 60 years ago, the ruling head of the John Farmer family discovered a potato seedling which suited his taste, took kindly to his soil, generally met his approval. He planted it as long as he lived, it is going to be planted again this spring on the same old farm. It hasn't "run out" or deteriorated in quality or productiveness. The only explanation I can give for its honorable persistence is that some care has been given to selecting and planting the seed, and a little gumption used in arranging the crop rotation.

Some years ago, a corn-grower whom I know found a few stalks in his field of Longfellow corn each having two good, well-filled seed ears on it. He saved them separately, planted them the next spring, and got two full "traces" of double-eared seed. The third year he found enough two-eared stalks to supply all the seed he needed for an entire planting. In only five years he bred up a strain which produced more two-eared than one-eared stalks, which practically doubled his acre-yield of ears, and called for only half the land and half the labor,—and no more manure. What would have happened had he been able to continue his inter-breeding Lord only knows. Ill health put an end to the experiment, and no one of his neighbors seemed to have the combined grit and gumption to carry it on to a logical conclusion. But his five-year trial demonstrated once more thing that could be done on the farm with seed produced on the same farm.

There is a school among farm leaders who urge the value of specialization. It is the characterization of the age, they say, in other matters; why shouldn't it be applied to farming? They have a real argument behind them, too. They are not to be pooh-poohed. If you want a log-chain mended you take it to a blacksmith, not to a watchmaker. If your watch needs cleaning you take it to the watchmaker, not to the blacksmith. You pick a specialist in either case. Why isn't the farmer who specializes likely to do a better job as well as the artisan? Sounds reasonable, anybody must admit.

But the adherents of this school ignore one fundamental fact,—the fact that farming isn't like any other occupation on earth and can't find a perfect analogy in any other. The farm isn't a factory or a shop, though it has some of the features of both. It is more than both; it is also a home. The owner may trade his factory and the mechanic can change his ship if conditions warrant. But a home is not so easily transferable. One can change houses every first of May. But a home is an institution of slower growth, dependent upon past associations and future hopes as much as on present conveniences. It is something which soul and body both want to anchor to. It is more than a working-place; it is also a refuge, "the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

Few farmers are born specialists. Let those that are so born specialize to the limit. We'll all join in wishing them well. But the great majority of us will usually do better with more widely diffused and less concentrated application. We are less likely to carry diversification too far than we are to constrict it too narrowly.

It is still unwise for the most of us to put all our eggs in one basket. Eggs are usually salable at some price or other, once you get them to market. But if the car skids and the eggs are spilled and smashed, that's another story.

Beyond and above all considerations of safety and insurance, stands the fact that home-raised stuff is apt to be of better quality and higher intrinsic value than imported substitutes. Why should we farmers be content with second-best when we can have first quality, if we'll only take the trouble to produce it?

"My mind to me a kingdom is," wrote one of the old poets. To make his farm a kingdom in itself, independent and self-sufficing, is not an unworthy ambition for any farmer. Perhaps it can never be fully accomplished. But some of us still think it's a thing worth trying for.

Not only in dairy herds but in several other phases, as well.

JEWETT CITY

DOOR FOR NEW BANK VAULT ARRIVES; IT WEIGHTS 8 TONS

The big steel door for the vault in the new Jewett City Savings bank was unloaded and drawn to the bank Thursday. Burglar-and-fire proof, its weight is 8 tons. It is fitted with a set of time and combination locks. The steel-lined vault is built into the rear of the business department, and is three feet in thickness, of granite and concrete. Although the weight of the door, and its chilled steel bolts is 16,000 pounds, it will be set to swing at the touch of the hand.

LUMP OF COAL, PAPER, PURSE, BUT FIND PROVED WORSE

One day recently, preparations were being made to hold some sort of extra service in the vestry of the Congregational church. The janitor came in during the preliminaries to make sure that the fire was going properly. Seeing what he supposed was a piece of coal on the floor near the stove, he gave it a scrape with the side of his foot, and it slid across the room under a chair. Next the sweeper, giving a few final tidying touches, swept what she took to be a wad of paper, out from under the chair. Thirdly and finally, as the women began to arrive, one, more observant than the rest, discovered what appeared to be a small purse which someone must have dropped from her bag. She stooped and picked it up. Suffering sailor! it was a bat! Shreiks have been let out before, fits have been thrown on various occasions, and women have developed rare sprinting skill, but witnesses declare that the acrobatic performance they were privileged to witness, laid over any previous effort in local history.

Mrs. Annie Lewis is a soldier's widow living here. At Washington, Tuesday, Congressman John J. Douglass of Boston filed in the house a bill to give to all gold star mothers and the widows of war veterans buried overseas who do not make the overseas pilgrimage which the government has already provided for them, the cash equivalent to the individual cost of such a trip.

The last pier of the new bridge is ready for pouring and when completed will show the contractor as being some weeks ahead of schedule. The big agrameter plant, where the sand, stone and cement have been weighed into batches for mixing has been moved to the upper end of Mechanic street. The steel derrick has been rolled to a point on the temporary bridge wheer the next girders will be raised to the second span.

The ambulance from the Backus hospital, Norwich, came to the borough Thursday afternoon, to take Mrs. William Nofle to that institution for treatment, she having been ill for several months.

Thursday, with temperature up to 62 in the afternoon, was the first day for two weeks when this section has had relief from high winds.

A man from Hartford, who declares he is accustomed to handling big business and who signs himself Andy, has made application for membership on the board of advisory engineers. The directors are expecting to reply favorably for the reason that F. H. Gilbert has asked for leave of absence to do a little shoveling on his own hook.

Pond Water Not Available

The fire department was called out Thursday afternoon for a grass fire in the rear of St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon. An attempt was made to get the pumper near enough to the "Pines" pond to get on a stream of water, but the soft ground would not support the heavy engine. The fire was gotten under control by hand fighting.

ELEVATORS SPEED TRAFFIC IN BAHIA, TWO-LEVEL CITY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Two high speed American elevators have solved the problem of commuters in the Brazilian city of Bahia, according to the department of commerce.

Bahia is a "two level" city, and the task of daily transporting thousands of commuters between the two levels constituted a real problem.

It was solved by installing two huge American elevators with a capacity of 27 persons each and operating at a speed of 700 feet a minute. As a result 4,000 persons an hour can be carried the 195 feet between the two levels of the city.

SEEK BREED OF CATTLE FOR ALASKAN CLIMATE

FAIRBANKS, Alaska —(AP)— Yaks and Galloway cattle are being crossed at the Fairbanks government experimental station in an effort to build a breed of cattle which can withstand the severe winters of Alaska.

The yaks were brought here from Canada and first experiments were sufficiently promising to continue the plan for several years.

SET GOAT ON WEEDS, CITY HEADS AVISED

VALDOSTA, Ga.—(AP)—If weeds get your goat, turn the goat loose on 'em, Valdosta health officials have advised the city government.

They suggested that the city buy a flock of sheep and goats to be turned loose on offending weeds and rank grass.

Valdosta has used similar methods on mosquitos, having stocked surface wells and pools with catfish.

Planes To Fight Forest Fires

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Five flying boats have been ordered by the Canadian government to fight forest fires, says reports to the department of commerce. All metal, they will carry two pilots, a mechanic, and accommodate seven fire fighters.

Ireland Buys Tombs, Tripe

DUBLIN —(AP)— Tombstones and tripe figured prominently among the Irish Free State imports during the last year. Other imports included 13 tons of sawdust, one ton of seaweed, 1,700 wheel-barrows. One wheel-barrow was exported.

EXTENSIVE RAILROADS RUN BY STEEL CORPORATION

NEW YORK —(AP)—Wide ramifications of the business of the United States Steel corporation make it an extensive operator of railroads.

The Duluth, Missabe and Northern of the Missabe iron range in the Lake Superior district is one of the large railroads operated by the corporation, according to its 1929 report. The Duluth is 289 miles long. Other large lines are the Duluth and Iron Range, 260 miles; Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, 211 miles, and the Bessemer and Lake Erie, 206 miles.

Miles of track owned or leased by subsidiary railroad companies total 1,117 miles, and in addition there are 457 miles of second tracks and 331 miles operated under trackage rights.

ELECTRICAL TRICK BRINGS ST. ELMO'S FIRE ASHORE

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Landsmen now may see St. Elmo's fire, the electrical display which sometimes hovers about the spars of ships.

It is one of the circus tricks on regular exhibition by an artificial lightning truck which the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has equipped for use on transmission line development.

When the truck sends a surge of man-made lightning along a miniature transmission line brilliant aureoles of light appear about the wire where excess power is escaping into the air. Burning up a forty foot length of wire is another of the tricks. The truck generates a one million volt lightning stroke.

Texas Has New Vegetable

SAN BENITO, Tex.—(AP)—A new vegetable has been added to the list of crops grown in Texas. Hymisher, a vegetable resembling the turnip and used extensively by Italians, is being raised near here.

Sixty-six million tons of iron ore were shipped from Duluth during 1929.

BOXING MANAGERS SKEPTICAL ABOUT SUCCESS OF THE COLLEGE BOXER

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—Six years ago Allie Wolff, a huskily molded Jewish boy, was a Dick Merriwell from the sidewalks of Brooklyn in interscholastic football and baseball. Last June he was graduated from Penn State with a string of nine varsity letters and three interscholastic boxing championships.

Today this same Allie Wolff is about to become a professional fighter, a middleweight with the jinx of a college education upon him. All of which brings up the ancient cauliflower debate: "Can a college man ever become a really successful professional gladiator?"

The graybeards of the ring, pointing to the records of Sully Montgomery, of Center College, Big Ed Garvey, from Notre Dame, Dr. Ludwig Haymann, with a string of German degrees behind his name, Monte Munn, of Nebraska, Les Marriner of Chicago, and a sprinkling of others, say it can't be done. Wolff is getting ready to show them that it can.

"A college athlete," Wolff grunted between body bends in a stuffy little gym, "should have two strikes on the rest of the fighters starting in if he really likes the game. The college athlete has at least four years of body building training under the finest possible instructors, he learns to obey orders. He develops speed, stamina, and instant coordination of mind and muscles.

"Fundamentally seizing the right instant to make a flying tackle in an open field is no different from grabbing an opening to shoot a right hand punch to the chin. Both take the same kind of thinking and coordination. Perhaps the reason more college athletes aren't successful fighters is because they start so late."

Wolff, 22 years old, is fast, a clever boxer, perfectly conditioned, and a husky puncher. He won 28 successive matches in intercollegiate competition. He might have been a big league third baseman and agreed to terms with the New York Yankees but shortly afterwards he broke his right wrist. The success of Steve Hamas, who recently turned professional after three years with Wolff on the Penn State boxing team, led Allie to quit the amateurs. He doubles as a physical instructor in a Brooklyn high school.

Several of the smartest managers of cauliflowers watched Wolff work today. They thought he was a nice boy, might make a fighter, but:

"No college guys for me," said one. "Gimme the dumb guys, the rough, tough, ignorant guys, the dumber the better."

"Gimme the kids with about enough imagination to try to put out a fire with gasoline. No educated guys for me," said another.

"College birds are too old at the start," commented the third, "they won't mess and sweat at the bottom, in the kindergarten for a couple of years. Ten bucks don't mean the world to them."

Dumb Dan Morgan, the cauliflower philosopher, closed the argument.

"They ain't fighters," he announced sagely.

"Fighters are guys that have a extra layer of bone in their skulls, for in case they fall off roofs."

ALTERATIONS AT PUTNAM CLUB NEARLY COMPLETE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 10—The work of remodeling the club house of the Putnam Country club is nearly finished and the lodge is expected to be ready for occupancy within a few days. J. Dyer Potter an official of the club said this afternoon. Mr. Potter said that he had been advised by carpenters that their part of the work was nearly complete and the professional's quarters are about ready.

Earnest Ramsay newly appointed professional at the country club has arrived in Putnam and has taken over his duties as superintendent of the golf course and will soon begin his work of making golfers out of duffers.

Mrs. Ramsay, wife of the professional, is to have charge of the club cafeteria which will be a new feature for the lodge this season.

The renovating plans of the club house, consisted of elevating the roof, creating new ladies' quarters and installation of new dressing quarters for the men on the lower floor. Several new rooms have been added to the upper floor which will serve as a home for the club professional and wife.

Mr. Potter said this afternoon that everything will be in readiness for the official opening of the season which will take place within a few days, now that favorable weather is at hand.

GIANTS GIVE TWO PLAYERS TO CARDS FOR ROETTGER

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—Bartering in the baseball marts of the National league has gained momentum as the opening of the season approaches. Today the New York Giants gave an infielder and outfielder, Eddie Farrell and George Fisher, to the St. Louis Cardinals for an outfielder, Walter Roettger.

This east-west deal followed the sensational announcement from Pittsburgh that Burleigh Grimes, one of the league's star pitchers, had been transferred from a Pirate to a Brave of Boston.

The exchange of talent between St. Louis and New York, will be regarded as one of the ideal trades that "will help both clubs." Manager McGraw is understood to have been on a search for weeks for an outfielder who hits right handed, while the Cards have been woefully short of reserve infield material.

Roettger was a batting sensation in St. Louis in 1928 until he suffered a broken leg July 4. He had not fully recovered last year but reports from the south this spring had him in shape.

The end may not be in sight in the trading. Suggestions from players—not officers of the Braves—have been that Grimes may not pitch for the Bostons after all, a belief existing that another trade may be in the making.

If Grimes is to be used in another deal, Cincinnati may be his eventual landing place. The Reds need pitchers and have plenty of infielders. Boston has an outfielder playing third base.

Pittsburgh, in getting Percy Jones, has helped remedy a weakness in left-hand pitching to partly offset the loss of a right-handed ace. Jones won seven games and lost 15 games for the Braves last year, but most of his losses were recorded by a margin of only one run.

DO YOU REMEMBER THIS ONE?

(Another of a number of articles recalling local baseball of other years.)

With the 1930 Academy baseball team starting out after a state championship, which would be its third in four years, it might be interesting to recall a Red and White nine of past years that was able to reign supreme over everything in the Nutmeg state. This was the team of 1905, which as champions of the Eastern Division, went down to Yale field on Saturday, June 10, to meet New Haven high and returned with a clean-cut 8 to 1 victory.

The fine twirling of Perkins kept the Elm City boys down at all stages, while Gallivan, at third base, Good at shortstop, Champlin, at first base, and Perkins led the hitting attack. Burke played the best fielding game for Norwich, making four nice catches of flies.

DENIES GIANTS GOT $100,000 FOR ROGERS HORNSBY

NEW YORK, April 10—(AP)—Reports growing out of Boston's latest big deal in the National league player market that the Braves, two years ago, parted with $100,000 in cash for the release of Rogers Hornsby from the Giants prompted an emphatic denial from the New York club today.

"The Giants did not receive a nickel in the Hornsby deal," said Charles A. Stoneham, the club president. "Hornsby went to the Braves in a straight player deal in which we got Frank Hogan, catcher, and Jimmy Welsh, outfielder. That was all there was to it."

GAMMAS LOSE STATE TITLE CLASH

The Gamma club, champions of the local Church league, was practically eliminated in the State Church league tourney when they lost to the Hartford winners, the Central Baptists, by a score of 63 to 16 Thursday evening at the Y gym in the first of a two-game series. The second game will be played in Hartford Saturday and as total points of the two games count in deciding the winer, only the [illegible] will give the Gammas any chance at all.

The Gammas were outclassed from the start, although they managed to keep the score down somewhat in the first half, which ended 23 to 5 in favor of the Hartford entry. Every one of the visitors scored at least four points, height being a great factor in their favor. Vulgares scored eight of the Gammas points.

In the preliminary the Phi Delta Nu team defeated another fast team, Baltic, 27 to 20, in a tight game. Phi Delta held a big lead at the half but Baltic came back strong in the second half. Holden, with 11 points, was the leading scorer.

What a heart-rending sight it is to see some women try to back their cars into a parking space by the curb.

Really it is most pathetic and when I see one of the gentler sex toiling away at it my sympathy goes out to her—for I can't do it myself with the nonchalant precision of some drivers.

But when she is being coached by a foursome of other women, each one giving five different directions at the same time, then I weep for her. Such was the case the other afternoon.

As I was walking down the street the other afternoon my attention was arrested by the wild gesticulations of a group of women. I was too far distant to hear what was being said but my first impression was that there had been an accident or a bridge discussion was under way.

Hurrying on I saw a fifth woman in a car and I was almost sure that something terrible had happened. Traffic was blocked for quite a distance and there was a terrific blowing of horns. But apparently the woman in the car was oblivious to the racket.

Arriving at the scene I found what it was all about—one woman was trying to back her car into a parking place with four other women standing on the curb directing her how to do it. And as might be suspected she was just getting no place at all.

First she'd drive out into the middle of the street, stop her car and look back at the group on the sidewalk. Then she'd start to back. One woman would tell her to turn her wheel to the left and just about as she did it another woman would shout, "No, no, turn it the other way," and the other way it would go.

All the time she was backing and just as she was about to back into another machine a great shout went up, "STOP." This was the only time the quartette seemed to be unanimous. Of course the woman in the car would jam on her brakes and the car would stall.

Then the operations would begin all over again. Every time she started to do one thing one of the women would tell her to do something else and like the good woman she was she'd do it. First, one woman would squint along the mudguards, then another. Then they'd hold a conference to decide what should be done, and of course, there would be no unanimity of opinions.

Meanwhile, the woman was trying to back in and every time she tried the farther away from the curb she'd be. Finally, throwing up both hands in hopeless despair she drove on and parked her car in a restricted area where there was plenty of room.

It was just another case of too many cooks spoil the broth.

KIRK WILCOX TO PLAY WITH ALUMNI SATURDAY

Local fans who thought they saw the last of Kirk Wilcox in a baseball suit when the N. F. A.-Firemen's game ended Wednesday, are to be agreeably surprised for it was announced Thursday evening that no one other but the popular chauffeur will cover right field for the Alumni in Saturday's clash against the Academy. The addition of Kirk just about finishes the graduates' team for their clash with the students as his tremendous slugging stamps him as a constant threat when at the plate. Kirk is contemplating giving up his interest in the Independent Cartridge Co. and devoting more of his time to the national game, it is said.

Lou Green, leading southpaw on the Wildcat squad, last year, will do the pitching Saturday for the Alumni with Jab Burns catching; Gerry Burke on first; Eddie Hamil, on second; Hal Cummings at third; Gil Kampf at short; Anso Tombari, in left, Red Fagan in center and Wilcox in right. This is one of the strongest Alumni aggregations ever assembled and should give the varsity a busy afternoon.

Favored by ideal weather conditions, Coach Brigham put his charges through a long session Thursday afternoon. A practice game was interspersed with batting and an infield practice.

CHICAGO, April 10—(AP)—The Illinois state athletic commission today ordered Sammy Mandell to defend his lightweight title against King Tut, Minneapolis challenger, within a reasonable time or run the risk of losing recognition by the National Boxing association as champion of his class.

The commission's demand was made to the champion after it received Tut's challenge and a forfeit of $2,500 today. A registered letter was sent to Mandell and if he does not bind the match within 30 days, the Illinois ring body will request that the N. B. A. oust him as its recognized champion.

TITTERTON, FORMER 10-MILE CHAMP, SENDS ENTRY FOR NATIONAL RUN HERE

An announcement by Frank Titterton of New York, former national 10 and 15 mile champion, that he would attempt to regain the 10 mile title, notice from the Waterbury Boys club that it would be represented by a team of at least six men and the receipt of nearly 50 communications from the various sections of the country requesting entry blanks were the outstanding developments of the week in connection with the National Championship 10 Mile Run, to be conducted here on Memorial day.

Titterton's decision to stage a comeback is probably the most important bit of news inasmuch as his return [illegible] throughout the country. The New York boy has taken part in runs in the various cities of the United States and his retirement from active competition a year ago was received with disappointment. He writes that he has started active training and hopes to regain his lost crown, now worn by William McDole of the Mellrose Athletic association. Titterton, it will be remembered, ran here in 1927 and had little trouble in winning a large field by a margin of nearly half a mile.

That the title run is creating interest throughout the country is evidenced by the large number of papers in other cities. Practically all of the papers in the state and many of those in the larger cities of other states have touched on the Norwich run during the past ten days. Thursday a request was received here from the office of the Amateur Athlete, a national publication, asking that the paper be kept posted regularly of any new developments on the championship run. Mention of the race was made in the April issue of the paper.

Interest locally in the event is increasing daily. This is evidenced through the many offers of co-operation received by the Duwell A. A. sponsors of the run, from organizations and individuals in Norwich. The members of the general committee, which is composed of prominent interested citizens, are greatly enthused over the event, realizing that it will be one of the largest of its kind ever held in the state. The general committee, which is to assist the Duwell club in the financing of the run, is to meet this afternoon at the chamber of commerce rooms to map out the work that it has agreed to assist with.

LEADER DROPS CAPT. BLAGDEN TO YALE SECOND CREW

NEW HAVEN, April 10—(AP)—Coach Ed Leader played havoc with his varsity crew today, demoting five men, including Captain Gus Blagden, from the first to the second boat and replacing them with second crew men.

When Coach Leader had completed the most drastic changes of the year in his crews, Louis Ladd, number 5; Jim Rogers, number 7, and Woody Tappen, stroke, were the only men who have been rowing with the varsity crew left in the first boat.

Besides Captain Blagden, the other first crew men demoted were Mosle, bow; Manuel, number 2; McCalmont, number 3, and Goodale, number 4. They were replaced by Munson, Esselstyn, Bob Anthony, Garnsey and Sheldon.

Coach Leader said that Captain Blagden and McCalmont were not in condition. They returned to the varsity crew last week after a week's absence, during which they were on an inspection trip with the Sheffield Scientific school. The other changes, he said, were experimental.

LOUGHRAN AND SCHAAF ARE SIGNED FOR RETURN BOUT

PHILADELPHIA, April 10—(AP)—Announcement was made tonight by Peter Tyrell, matchmaker at the Arena, that Tommy Loughran, retired light-heavyweight champion, had signed articles of agreement to meet Ernie Schaaf of Boston in a ten-round bout here Monday night, April 21.

Loughran fought Schaaf in Boston in 1929 and won by a narrow margin after a terrific battle. Schaaf has twice knocked out Jack Gagnon, the Bostonian, who created an upset here last week by stopping Tuffy Griffiths, aspirant for the heavyweight title.

The terms of the agreement were not announced, but Tyrell stated that Loughran would receive the largest guarantee and percentage privilege ever offered for an indoor bout in this city.

MAHAFFEY PITCHES BRILLIANT BALL AGAINST PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, April 10—(AP)—While Lee Roy Mahaffey kept the Phillies eating out of his hand, the Athletics feasted lavishly off two of the National leaguers' pitchers today and took the lead in the home series with an easy 10 to 0 victory.

Mahaffey pitched all nine innings and blanked the heavy-hitting Phils with eight scattered hits. In contrast, Johnny Milligan gave the A's runs with passes and hit batsmen and Collins was walloped solidly, the pair yielding the A's all their runs in the first three innings. Pitcher Harry Smythe entered the game in the fifth and held the A's to two hits. In four times at bat, Mahaffey delivered a single and double and drew a pass. Score:

FANS PLEASED WITH TRADE OF ROETTGER

ST. LOUIS, April 10—(AP)—St. Louis baseball fans tonight awaited the return home of the Cardinals, due tomorrow morning from their Bradenton, Fla., training camp. The Cardinals will open a two-game series with the Browns Saturday.

The trade of Walter Roettger, Cardinal outfielder, to the New York Giants today for Infielder Eddie Farrell and Outfielder George Fisher was much discussed in local baseball circles. Inasmuch as the Cardinals were badly in need of a capable reserve infielder, fans were inclined to believe the Cardinals made a good deal.

YANKS COME FROM BEHIND TO BEAT CHATTANOOGA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 10—(AP)—The New York Yankees came from behind today to bolster the weak pitching by Pipgras and Pennock and defeat Chattanooga of the Southern association, 8 to 6. It was the Yanks' 17th victory in 27 exhibition starts.

Held at bay in the early innings by the fine southpawing of Settlemire, the major leaguers fell on old Joe Marty and young Ed Wineapple in the seventh and eighth innings for seven runs. TWO KINDS OF BRICK ARE USED BY CHINESE

Chinese brickmakers make two kinds of brick for use in residence walls, one an oversized brick, almost as thick as the American brick is wide, and another, that is not much more than an inch thick but of the same length. The latter varies in width, usually being about six inches wide.

They are used in building a type of hollow wall which has long been in vogue in China. The larger bricks are laid on edge. Between each course is laid one of the thinner bricks which extends from the exterior face clear through the interior face and ties the walls solidly.

The resulting wall is not only very strong but is unique and attractive in appearance, and has the virtue of dead air spaces between each course. Chinese bricks are all of the common [illegible] type and are handmade.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Mrs. Quack Explains

Times there are when we must own
We much prefer to be alone.
—Mrs. Quack.

Ordinarily Mrs. Quack is not quick-tempered, but, as she said, almost any one would be quick-tempered if they were stumbled over; and Peter Rabbit had to admit that this was so. He had stumbled over her as she sat on her nest, hidden under a big plant of skunk-cabbage. Mrs. Quack had promptly struck him with her bill and beaten him with her wings; and at the same time given Peter a terrible fright. But when Mrs. Quack found out who it was who had stumbled over her, and Peter Rabbit found out who it was he had stumbled over, there were no longer any hard feelings.

"Where is Mr. Quack?" demanded Peter.

"Oh, I don't know," replied Mrs. Quack carelessly. "Probably he isn't far away. Perhaps he has gone down to the Big River. He goes down there frequently. It is just a nice swim down the Laughing Brook. I don't see much of him these days. But then, I don't want to."

"Why not?" demanded Peter, looking astonished.

"Because," replied Mrs. Quack, "I

"It is no wonder I tumbled over you," said he prefer to be alone. I feel safer then. If Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote should happen to see Mr. Quack hanging around, they would likely to suspect that I was somewhere about and would come looking for me. I hope neither of those stumbles over me the way you did."

Peter grinned. "You certainly did give me a scare, Mrs. Quack," said he. "You see, it hadn't entered my head that you were anywhere about. I thought you went with the rest of the flock when they moved North."

"Didn't I tell you that Mr. Quack and I had decided to stay?" inquired Mrs. Quack.

Peter nodded. "You did," said he, "but when I came over here the next night you were nowhere to be seen. So I thought you had changed your mind and gone with the others. You didn't tell me that you were intending to build your nest here."

Mrs. Quack chuckled. "We are not in the habit of telling secrets like that," said she. "When the rest of the flock started North, we went a little way with them, just to see them well started. Then we swung over to the Big River and spent the remainder of the day there. I guess we hadn't returned to the Smiling Pool when you were here. To be quite truthful, Peter, we hadn't intended to nest here, but when we found such a perfectly lovely place for a nest, we decided that we couldn't do better than to make our home right here. You see, I didn't expect any one to come stumbling over me."

Peter grinned. "You were lucky, Mrs. Quack, that it was I who did it," said he.

Mrs. Quack nodded very emphatically. "Right you are, Peter," said she. "I was lucky-very lucky. Now, if you'll excuse me, I've got to turn these eggs. I've been off them quite long enough."

So Peter stood by while Mrs. Quack turned her eggs and then settled herself on them comfortably. When she was all settled, Peter realized how well hidden she was. "It is no wonder I stumbled over you," said he. "Why I can hardly see you even now. I don't believe anybody else will find you; and I certainly will not tell any one where you are. How long do you expect to have to sit here, Mrs. Quack?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Quack, "I've been sitting here nearly a week now and I expect it will be about three weeks more before these eggs hatch."

EXCAVATIONS YIELD CLUE TO FLAPPER'S LIFE YEARS AGO

ST. ALBANS, England—(AP)—The life of aristocratic flappers of about the year one, A. D., is likely to come to light in exacavation of Verulam, richest of ancient English cities.

Verulam was one of the great tribal capitals of prehistoric England.

When the Romans came, it is believed by archeologists, they made Verulam the only municipality in the province, a distinction that London itself seems never to have attained.

For this reason, it is regarded as the most likely prospecting spot in country, 10,000 acres which the Royal Commission on Historic Monuments reports is probably filled with buildings, many of them dwellings of various sizes.

Roman relics already found in other ancient sites has fired the imaginations of archeologists. On the site of the new bank of England, not far from Verulam, was found a feminine eyebrow and lipstick set more ornamental than those of 1930 fashions.

It was a slender metal painting instrument with a small, beautifully fashioned bottle from which the colors were dipped.

To attain its ancient rank under Roman rule Verulam is believed to have conformed with the highest standards of provincial life of the times. Dr. Wheller of the London Museum says the excavation should provide much new material for elucidation of the early history of London, which was close by.

AERIAL CAMERA "SHOOTS" RUINS OF SOLOMON PALACE

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Megiddo expedition of the University of Chicago Oriental institute has succeeded in sending a peeping camera into the sky to look in upon the ruins of King Solomon's palace and stables at Armageddon.

The pictures obtained, the scientists say, are much better for aerial cartography or for archaeological visualization than are pictures which might be taken from an airplane.

The camera is sent aloft attached to a small ballon, capable of lifting 40 pounds. The ballon is directed by wires leading to the ground and the camera, a self-focusing one, is tripped with a wire.

Uruguay Wants Farm Films

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Uruguay has asked the department of agriculture for 136 farm films, the largest single order ever received from a foreign government for United States agricultural movies.

LEDYARD

Ledyard grange met Friday evening, April 4, with Carl Holdridge, master, in the chair. The lecturer's hour was as follows: Song No. 95, by grange; paper on Gardening by Brother George Garrapye; "Care of the Automobile," Brother Robert Percival. Discussion on plans for beautifying home grounds. Music by Brother Hanks and Sister W. I. Allyn. Solo, Old Man River, by Brother Fred Allyn. Sketch, "A Farmer's Convention," arranged by Sister Grace Main. Those who took part in this play were Sisters Grace Main, Virginia Tubbs, Angeline Maynard, Mabel Smith and Brothers Irving Maynard, Elmer Tubbs, Jr., and Joseph Davidson. A young folks' concert—the singers, Brothers Paul Holdridge, Harry Williams, Eddie Bennett, Elmer Tubbs, Jr., with Sister Bernice Percival at the piano, sang "I'm Following You," and "Happy Days." Brother Fred Allyn sang another solo, "Duna."

Mrs. William I. Allyn has gone to New York to visit friends, accompanying her son Frederick who has returned to Cornell university.

Mrs. Isaac G. Geer and Mrs. Ellie Studding of Gales Ferry were week end visitors with Mrs. Florence Smith in Franklin. Mrs. Ellie Studding observed her birthday with Mrs. Geer on Sunday.

Miss Helen Goodenough of Winchester was a week end guest of her niece, Mrs. Carl Holdridge.

Walter Wigley was leader of the C. E. society meeting Sunday evening at the Congregational church.

At the close of the Sunday school Sunday the election of officers took place. Joseph A. Clark was re-elected superintendent; Paul Holdridge, assistant superintendent; Carl Holdridge re-elected secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Edward P. Kelly, superintendent of the home department; Mrs. Henrietta Finnegan, superintendent of cradle roll; Virginia Hagen, Dorothy Gray, Arthur Kelly and Alfred Clark were chosen librarians. At this time the Edwin Reynolds' prize of $50 for perfect attendance was distributed as follows: First prize, Walter Wigley and Irving Main who attended 52 Sundays; Dorothy Gray who attended 51 Sundays, second prize; Hazel Gray who attended 50 Sundays, third prize; Virginia Hagen, Gilbert Hagen, Alfred Main, Warren Main who attended 49 Sundays, fourth prize.

SIX-ACRE FARM BRINGS MAN SUFFICIENT INCOME

SAN BENITO, Tex.—(AP)—D. S. Stephens claims to make his entire living out of the smallest profitable farm in the southwest—six acres of diversified crops.

Only four and one-half acres are under actual cultiviation. Half an acre is planted to fruit trees and the rest to truck crops.

Meticulous bookkeeping has shown figs to be one of his most reliable sources of income.

Stephens' greatest pride, perhaps, is his reputation for producing the largest eggs in this territory.

By culling English white leghorn hens he has brought the weight of their eggs to 26 to 30 ounces a dozen where as 24 ounces is the standard weight.

STAR HAM

Armour's "double-f" process produces

FIXED* FLAVOR

... a new and finer taste

WHENEVER we spoke of improving Armour's Star Ham, friends said: "Let it alone. It's wonderful as it is." But, nevertheless, we experimented and developed the marvelous new "double-f" process.

"Double-f" means Fixed* Flavor, as changeless as the fixed stars. We have learned positively to control certain factors affecting the cure and the smoke. We have placed the smoking under thermostatic guard — no variation is possible!

This new vigilance gives each plump Star Ham the same woods-like fragrance of smouldering hickory. The Fixed* Flavor never varies, whether in one thin slice or a whole ham. There's a finer texture to Star Ham, now . . . a more ravishing urge to bite into it . . . to have a second or perhaps a third helping.

Buy a whole Star Ham for economy. Be sure to say "Star" to your dealer. Armour and Company, Chicago.

A History Of Connecticut Industry

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Hartford-Empire Company, Hartford

Very few Connecticut people realize when they buy a bottle of milk or some other article sold in glass that the container was probably made on machinery manufactured in Hartford. Not only are the bottles and glass food containers made on this machinery, but many of the drinking tumblers, automobile lenses, electric bulbs and other glass articles which they use daily are manufactured through the use of "Hartford" equipment.

About 30 years ago, in the course of some work for the Beech-Nut Packing company of Canajoharie, N. Y., William H. Honiss and William A. Lorenz, Hartford engineers, found it necessary to develop improved machinery for the glass manufacturers in order to obtain the accuracy required in glass jars or tumblers for the vacuum process of packing Beech-Nut products. The hand methods of feeding glass then in use were inadequate, resulting in the invention of an automatic feeding device by Karl E. Peiler, now chief engineer of the Hartford Empire company. This pioneer invention led to the formation of the Hartford Fairmont company, and has been the nucleus around which a complete line of glass working machinery has been developed.

The Hartford Fairmont company changed its name to the Hartford-Empire company in 1922 upon acquisition of the patents of the Empire Machinery company, a subsidiary of the famous Corning Glass Works, Corning, N. Y.

Not only has the company enjoyed unusual success in the United States, but it has negotiated the sale of its patents and processes in fourteen foreign countries. Thus, "Hartford" glass working equipment has become the acknowledged standard throughout the world. It is typical of New England's leadership in automatic machinery.

The officers of the Hartford-Empire company are: Bartlett Arkell, chairman of the board; F. Goodwin Smith, president; Alexander D. Falck, vice president; Herbert Knox Smith, secretary and treasurer; Theodore L. Chapman, assistant treasurer; W. M. Honiss, assistant secretary.

POETRY

The Law

A little dog barked at the big, round moon
That smiled in the evening sky,
And the neighbors smote him with rocks and shoon—
But still he continued his rageful tune
And he barked till his throat was dry.

The little dog bounced like a rubber ball,
For his anger quite drove him wild;
And he said: "I'm a terror although I am small,
And I dare you, you impudent fellow, to fall!"
But the moon only smiled and smiled

Then the little dog barked at a terrible rate,
But he challenged the moon in vain,
For as calmly and slow as the workings of fate
The moon moved along in a manner sedate
And smiled at the dog in disdain.

But soon 'neath a hill that obstructed the west
The moon sank out of his sight,
And it smiled as it slowly dropped under the crest.
But the little dog said, as he lay down to rest:
"Well! I scared it away, all right!"

The Road To Anywhere

Across the places deep and dim,
And places brown and bare,
It reaches to the planet's rim—
The Road to Anywhere.

Now east is east, and west is west,
But north lies in between,
And he is blest whose feet have pressed
The road that's cool and green.

The road of roads for them that dare
The lightest whim obey,
To follow where the moose or bear
Has brushed his headlong way.

The secrets that these tangles house
Are step by step revealed,
While to the sun the grass and boughs
A store of odors yield.

More sweet these odors in the sun
Than swim in chemists' jars;
And when the fragrant day is done,
Night—and a shoal of stars.

O east is east, and west is west,
But north lies full and fair;
And blest is he who follows free
The Road to Anywhere.

—Bert Leston Taylor.

MAN WHO FOUND OFFICE WANTS GOVERNOR'S PLACE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —(AP)— The man who "discovered" the office of lieutenant governor in Arkansas wants to be the state's chief executive.

He is Thornberry A. Gray of Independence county. One of his opponents will be Governor Harvey Parnell, candidate for re-election, who got the benefit of Gray's discovery by winning the election for lieutenant governor in 1926.

Exploring the state constitution, Gray discovered that Arkansas, which had been running along without a lieutenant governor since 1913, was entitled to one.

So he field notice of intention to run. The secretary of state said "No, there isn't any such office," but the state supreme court said "yes, there is" and Gray ran, but was beaten by Parnell, who later became governor.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

PLOWING IN GREEN MANURE MULTIPLIES SOIL BACTERIA

When a farmer plows under a green manure crop such as clover or any of the legumes he brings about almost unbelievable changes in the world of living things under the soil, according to Nathan R. Smith, bacteriologist of the United States department of agriculture.

Under favorable conditions plowing under a large amount of green material may increase the number of bacteria as much as ten times within two days, says Mr. Smith. In four days there may be fifteen to twenty-five times the original number of bacteria in the decomposing material and adhering soil. After about seven days the bacteria decrease in number almost as rapidly as they increased. No change in the number of bacteria takes place in the soil one-half inch away from the decomposing material.

Bacterial decomposition of green manure gives rise to carbon dioxide and ammonia. The carbon dioxide escapes from the soil into the air; the ammonia is absorbed by the soil and, through the action of bacteria, is first changed to nitrite and then to nitrate. The greater the percentage of nitrogen in the green manure, other conditions being equal, the more nitrate will be formed from its decomposition. When crops low in nitrogen, such as mature rye, are turned under very little benefit will result for the following crop, since the amount of nitrogen bound up by the bacteria in decomposition may be greater than that obtained from the rye. Eventually this nitrogen is changed to nitrate, perhaps too late for the crop.

Decomposition of green manure is greatly influenced by the temperature and moisture of the soil. Most soil bacteria require a temperature of 65 degrees to 70 degrees F., or often higher, for rapid activity. Under favorable conditions succulent green manure is usually decomposed in about seven days.

It has been known for many years that growing a cover crop and plowing it under as a green manure improves the physical character of the soil, increases its capacity to hold water, and helps to prevent erosion. The mere growing of legumes, says Mr. Smith, has a stimulating effect upon the bacteria of the soil, and succeeding crops may be benefitted even though the tops of the legumes are removed.

FORTY LEAVES REQUIRED TO PRODUCE FULL-GROWN APPLE

How many leaves are required to produce food enough to develop a full-grown apple? This is a question that has attracted the attention of horticulturists in the United States department of agriculture for several years because of its relation to the practice of thinning apples and pears. Latest results of experimental work carried on with the Washington Experiment Station, at Wenatchee, Wash., indicate that from 40 to 50 well-formed leaves are necessary to develop the fruit and furnish the necessary amount of food reserve for the growth of the tree.

In the experiments it was found that a smaller number of leaves per fruit would produce a fairly satisfactory crop for the year in question but would not produce enough fruit buds for a full crop the following year. There is a fairly definite correlation between number of leaves per fruit and the size of fruit until the ratio reaches at least 40 to 1. While the size of individual fruits increased with greater leaf surface the increase in fruit volume was not proportional. In other words, thinning the fruit increases size but decreases total weight of fruit per tree.

To increase production, the experiments indicate, it will be necessary first of all to increase the amount of foliage per tree or per acre. To secure regularity of production the quantity of fruit produced per tree must be sufficiently reduced through fruit buds which results only from an accumulation of foods materials after the needs of the fruit have been met. To obtain maximum food development in the leaves a steady supply of moisture must be available throughout the growing season.

The experiments referred to were conducted in irrigated orchards in the Pacific northwest. Where there is a shortage of water through the latter

STARVING CHICKS THEORY DISPROVED

The popular belief that baby chicks should be starved for the first 48 or 72 hours to prevent bowel trouble has finally been disprovevd, according to L. M. Hurd of Cornell university. It is now definitely known that early feeding is not harmful.

However, delayed feeding is not harmful, provided it is not carried too far; 72 hours seems to be about the limit. Results from several experiment stations within the last two years verify this finding. Furthermore, two poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture, Burt W. Haywang and Dr. M. A. Jull, show that early feeding actually tends to stimulate yolk assimilation in the chick.

Under normal conditions it is best to feed the chicks early or before they are 48 hours old; 36 hours is better. If there is any special reason for withholding food for the first two or three days, it can be done without the risk of stunting the chicks. Baby chicks shipped by parcel post or by express should not be fed before being shipped.

ONIONS CALL FOR EARLY PLANTING

You can grow onions from seeds, if you are an experienced gardener and want to take the trouble. But sets are so easy and so sure to succeed that most home gardeners would do well to use them. With sets, about all you have to do is to get them in right side up and early —very early, just as soon as the ground can be worked.

If large, mature bulbs are wanted, space the sets three or four inches apart in the rows. But if you use green onions, set them thicker and pull out every other one for eating young. Spacing one inch apart gives a first thinning for this purpose. That leaves them two inches apart. A second thinning, when they are about an inch in diameter, gives material for pickles or for stewing and leaves them some four inches apart to mature. The sets are covered with earth just barely over the tip. Rows should be far enough apart for cultivation between.

Ebenezer is an especially tasty variety for the home garden. It is mild and sweet and grows well from sets. It is too late when grown from seeds, however, unless the seeds are sown indoors and the seedlings transplanted. If seeds are to be sown in the open, Yellow Globe Danvers variety is better. Once more now, and most particularly whether they are to be grown from seeds or sets, plant onions early.

CLEAN QUARTERS GENERALLY MEAN HEALTHY CHICKS

Cleanliness is next to godliness they say, and it should be the password where young chicks are concerned, for lack of cleanliness on the part of poultrymen is perhaps the greatest source of disease among the flocks of New England.

Added to this are such things as overcrowding, poor ventilation, poor feed and improper feeding practices. Poultrymen find that where these conditions exist troubles are almost sure to develop.

Although poultrymen are forced to combat numerous diseases among their flocks, two of the more common are diarrhea and pullorum disease, according to the department of poultry husbandry at the Massachusetts Agricultural college.

Diarrhea has several causes and appears in several forms, but it is always a belly-ache with discharges of a more or less white appearance. The principal causes are chilling, overheating, filth, poor feed and improper feeding methods. The symptoms are very much alike for all types. They usually include loss of appetite, "pasting up behind," emaciation, drooping of wings and finally death.

The remedy is correction of the bad feeding practices, an abundance of milk and a mild physic. Raw potatoes are good. Epsom salts, an ounce dissolved in water and mixed with mash for 100 chicks, to be fed when they are hungry and followed by light feeding for a few days, and an intestinal antiseptic and astringent such as a 1 per cent solution of iron or copper sulphate in the drinking water, are other reliefs.

Pullorum disease results from an infection of a germ (salmonella pullorum) which some hens harbor in their ovaries and which infects the eggs they lay. Chickens hatched from these eggs are diseased and other chicks coming in intimate contact with them may get the infection.

The disease usually runs epidemic, its heaviest mortality coming when the chicks are five to ten days old. Its symptoms are generally similar to those of diarrhea and, in addition, they chirp as if in pain, and their droppings are often watery white and glazed. Often the abdomen swells, giving the back a shortened appearance.
